GERMANY MAY ASK PEACE

ENEMY FLEES; QUITS LILLE, BURNS DOUAI

British Advance in Flanders and at Cambrai.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 5, 5 p. m.—(By the Associated Press.)—Wide gains of great importance have been made today by the fighting British armies.

In the north the line of the Haute Deule canal has been reached and the Germans are hurriedly evacuating Lille.

The British are on the canal bank from Don in the north to Pont-a-Vendin in the south.

Along the Scheldt canal the British launched an attack this morning which carried them over the waterway from Bantouzelle to a point three miles to the south.

A terrific barrage now is falling over the ground three miles to the east of this point upon the Wallincourt line, which is the last of the Hindenburg system in this locality, and from it the Germans are now fleeing.

Gain at St. Quentin.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Field Marshal Haig reports some progress by British troops around Montbrehain and Beaurevoir in the St. Quentin sector.

His statement tonight adds that the Germans have begun to withdraw from the high ground between Le Catelet and Crevecoeur.

During the night the British appeared to have regained possession of Beaurevoir and of the railway at Ponchaux.

In the Beaurevoir fighting the British have pushed their way through the German forces until the latter have been reinforced with cooks and officers' servants, who have been thrown into the line with rifles.

Weak enemy forces attempted fruitless attacks between Blecourt and Tilloy and the British had no trouble whatever in smashing them.

Likely to Quit Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Information comes from authoritative sources that a German abandonment of the entire Belgian coast is imminent. This gives confirmation to the many reports from Holland of the withdrawal of vast quantities of German war material from that region. The indications lead to the belief that the enemy will go back to what may be termed the "Antwerp line."

One Dutch report says that the evacuation of Rousselaere and Bruges is expected soon.

Extent of Victory Grows.

HAVRE, Oct. 4.—In the operations in Flanders since Sept. 28 the Belgian, British, and French forces have taken [illegible] prisoners, 350 guns, and 600 machine guns, says the official statement of the Belgian war office tonight.

The allied troops gained all of the Flanders ridge and advanced nine miles on a front of twenty-five miles.

Local Gains Great Help.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Local gains, the effects of which while not immediately apparent will soon be seen, were made on the [illegible] front. This is inevitable, [illegible] as the Germans are pushed back [illegible] shortens and effectives are released, which enable them to oppose the advancing allies with stiffened resistance.

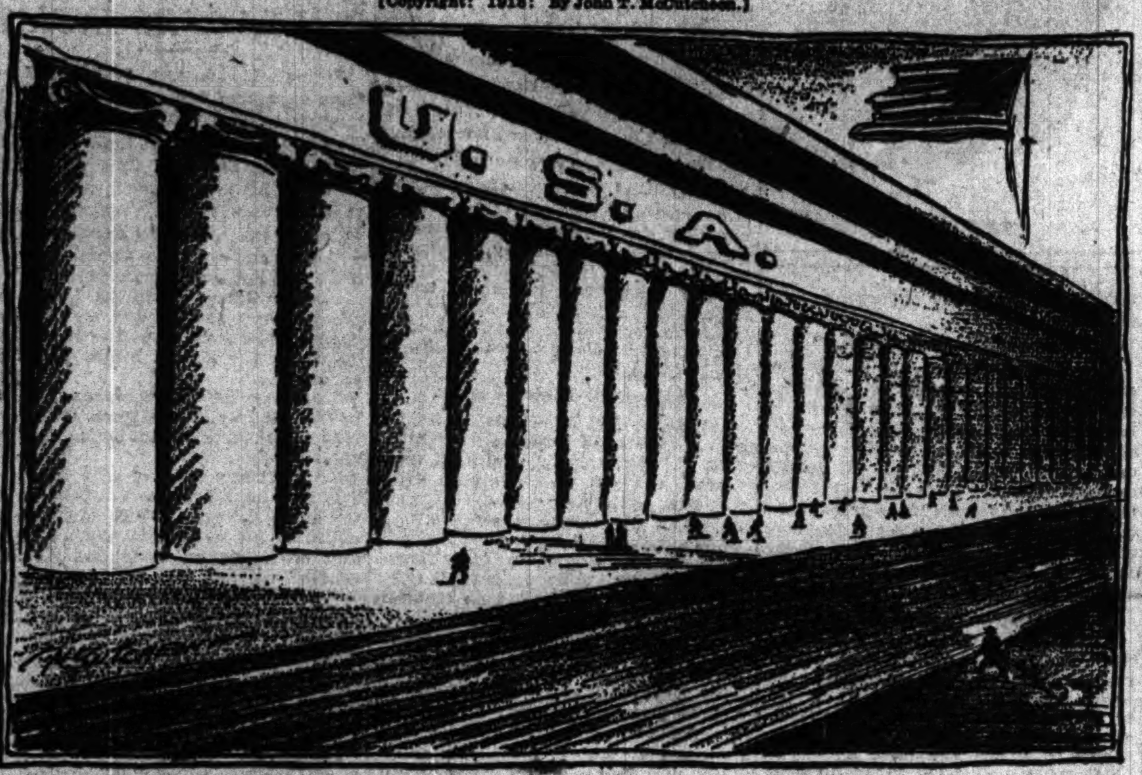
WHY I BUY LIBERTY BONDS

[Copyright: 1918: By John T. McCutcheon.]



1. It is my duty as a loyal American to support my country and the men who are fighting for it.
2. My self-respect demands that I give that support to the limit of my power.
3. If I do not support my country now I cannot expect my country to stand back of me hereafter.
4. I owe everything I have to my country. Now is the time for me to show my gratitude.
5. I feel that a man who buys Liberty bonds becomes a better citizen.
6. He takes a greater interest in the success and welfare of his country.
7. He becomes a partner in the affairs of the nation.
8. No matter how much I do, I feel there are a million men who are doing far more.
9. I should feel ashamed of myself if I withheld or reduced my Liberty bond investment for the sake of investing in other things that paid a higher interest.
10. Investing in Liberty bonds is an antidote for extravagance.
11. It teaches people to invest instead of squander.
12. I want to see the ideals we are fighting for triumphant.
13. Buying bonds stimulates the saving habit.
14. A Liberty bond is a good investment.
15. A Liberty bond at 4¼ per cent is worth more than a bushel of stocks that promise 20 per cent.
16. Four and one-quarter per cent in the hand is worth 20 per cent in the bush.
17. There is no safer security in the world.
18. Victory will put the Liberty bonds at a premium.
19. A 4¼ per cent $100 Liberty bond will some day be worth $120.
20. It doesn't matter how much you invest, providing you invest all you can.
21. You can then look yourself in the face.
22. And you can look the soldiers in the face when they come back.
23. The Liberty bonds already sold have turned the tide of battle.
24. They have made possible our 2,000,000 fighting men in France, and these men have turned the scales against the enemy.
25. The reason the Germans are retreating can be traced to the American men, and supplies, and financial aid given our allies, all of which was made possible by the money Americans have invested in Liberty bonds.
26. Victory is assured.
27. One more bond issue may hasten and clinch that victory.
28. A real victory will bring a real peace to the world.
29. The cancer of military ambition and greed of conquest will be cut out of the side of the world.
30. Every one who has helped to achieve this result can be proud of the help he has given.
31. When the war is won I want to feel that I have had at least a little share in the victory.
32. That is why I buy Liberty bonds to the full extent of my power.

BURGLARS ENTER ROSENWALD HOME BUT GET NOTHING

Burglars last night entered the home of Julius Rosenwald at 4901 Ellis avenue, but were frightened away before they obtained anything of value, it is believed.

Mr. Rosenwald is in France engaged in war work. In his absence his home is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woick, who are acting as caretakers.

They left the house about 11 o'clock last night for a short walk, returning shortly before midnight. They occupy rooms on the third floor. Mrs. Woick was walking through the hall to the bathroom when a man approached her with a flashlight. She screamed. He turned and fled. Her husband ran out in the hall, and they immediately telephoned the Hyde Park police station. A patrol wagon with twelve policemen responded. They made a thorough search of the premises, but could find no trace of the burglars.

Mr. Woick said he believed there were two burglars and that they were surprised and frightened away before they could obtain anything of value. The house contains oriental rugs, draperies, antique furniture and silverware valued at thousands of dollars.

Germany's Proposed Plan for Peace and Internal Reforms

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

THE HAGUE, Oct. 5.—The Times correspondent learns from Berlin that the new German chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, in a speech to the reichstag today, will accept all of President Wilson's fourteen points. The following conditions will be offered by Germany.

Restoration of Belgium and an agreement on reparation.

Autonomy of Alsace-Lorraine.

Referendum on the question of border states and an agreement to a league of nations.

Proposal to make, in accordance with President Wilson's wish, a government appointed by parliament and with the approval of the reichstag.

If President Wilson again rejects this peace proposal, which is according to the peace resolution of July 19, 1917, and of the papal note and all other peace endeavors, then the opposition of the German people will flame up with renewed and strengthened vigor, until Germany's conditions are accepted by force of arms.

Some Other Reforms.

In the Baltic provinces, Lithuania and Poland, the people's representation must be formed on a broad basis as soon as possible.

Countries where civil government is to be introduced at once must regulate their own constitution and officials.

Creation of a universal federal state of Alsace-Lorraine with recognition of complete autonomy and agreement to permit the people representation in Alsace-Lorraine.

Unconditional carrying through of the Prussian franchise where it does not exist.

A uniform imperial government and the right of appeal to members of parliamentary parties on imperial matters, and the following of a uniform imperial policy.

Strict adherence to all constitutional responsibility.

Blow at Military Oligarchy.

Abolition of all military institutions which have the aim of influencing politics.

For the protection of personal freedom, the right of meeting and freedom of the press, laws pertaining to a state of siege shall be changed.

Censorship will be restricted to questions pertaining to relations with foreign governments, war strategy, war tactics, movement of troops and acquiring of war material.

A political control will be established for all measures which are taken in connection with a state of siege.

Program of Majority Parties.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Berlin Tageblatt gives the text of the program of the majority parties in the reichstag which will form the basis of the new German policy.

The first clause provides for adherence to the government's reply to the papal note of Aug. 1, 1917.

The second clause declares readiness to join in a league of nations based on equality and free economic development. (Third clause missing.)

The fourth clause says that peace treaties hitherto concluded must form no hindrance to the conclusion of a general peace. In the Baltic provinces, Lithuania, and Poland popular assemblies are to be created at the earliest possible moment.

Independence for Lorraine.

Clause five provides for the establishment of the independent federal state of Alsace-Lorraine, with full autonomy corresponding to the demand of Alsace-Lorraine for a popular assembly.

Clause six demands the carrying out without delay of electoral reforms in Prussia and reform in those states which are still without it.

Clause seven aims at the coördination of the imperial government and the government representatives from parliament to carry out a uniform imperial policy. Strict observance of all constitutional responsibility is demanded, as well as the abolition of all military institutions that might serve to exercise political influence.

Clocks Go Back at 2 a. m. Oct. 27; Trains to Wait

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Director General McAdoo has issued instructions to railway employés that at 2 a. m. on Sunday, Oct. 27, the last "daylight saving" day of the year, watches must be turned back to 1 a. m.

BULLETIN.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 5, 11 p. m.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Americans again met with desperate resistance all day long and had to resist a series of counter attacks. The machine gun and artillery fire was particularly violent most of the day.

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—Forty villages in Alsace-Lorraine, from Basel to Colmar, have been evacuated by the civilian population, according to the Democrate. The German authorities, the newspaper says, now have ordered the inhabitants of Mulhausen, Altkirch, and other smaller towns to prepare to leave immediately.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The Germans are retreating on a twenty-eight mile front north of Reims, the French war office announced tonight.

The enemy retirement has reached an average depth of three miles and several important villages have been reoccupied.

The city of Reims has been freed from German artillery domination and the deliverance of the martyred city appears to be final tonight.

Fort Brimont and the height on which it stands fell into the hands of the French troops this morning and the heights eastward from the city, including the Teton, Mont Cornillet, Mont Sans Nom, Mont Haut, the Casgne and Mont Blanc are clear of the enemy.

Keep on Heels of Foe.

The retirement was forced by the successes of the Franco-American troops along the Vesle and Champagne fronts. The allies are keeping in close contact with the retreating enemy.

The enemy is abandoning fortified positions which he had held for four years, and his flight has become almost a rout.

The massif of Moronvillers has been taken and the massif of Nogent L'Abbesse encircled.

Extent of French Gain.

The French already have passed the general line of Orainville (seven miles north of Reims), Bourgogne (five miles north of Reims), Cernay-les-Reims (a mile and a half east of Reims), Beine (six miles east of Reims), and Betheniville (thirteen miles east and north of Reims).

French cavalry entering the battle today has reached Beine and Epoye, along the eastern side of the St. Leonard salient, where it has engaged in combat with the enemy, while the infantry has crossed the River Arnes at several points in its march northward.

Foe Reported Ready to Accept Wilson's Terms

(By the Associated Press.)

A powerful movement is apparently under way in Germany for a general armistice and peace. The new German chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, is reported to have proposed or to be on the eve of proposing a general suspension of hostilities, the appointment of plenipotentiaries to meet at a neutral place for the discussion of a league for arbitration and disarmament and the forwarding of a request to the entente allies for their terms. It is furthermore reported that the German chancellor has expressed his willingness to accept President Wilson's fourteen peace conditions.

Austria-Hungary through its minister at Stockholm, is requesting the Swedish government, according to advices from Berne, Switzerland, to transmit to President Wilson a proposal for a general armistice with the entente allies on land and sea and in the air and start without delay negotiations for peace. These negotiations are to be based on the terms set forth by President Wilson. A new peace note to be issued by Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, it is announced, will declare that all of President Wilson's terms have been accepted by the dual monarchy.

And, finally, from Berne comes the announcement that Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey intend simultaneously to approach President Wilson with the object of having him make representations to the other entente allies for a general armistice and negotiations looking to peace.

The above statement by The Associated Press is based upon the subjoined dispatches which were cabled to America last night:

Dispatch No. 1.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The immediate suspension of hostilities has been proposed by the imperial German chancellor, Prince Maximilian, in the reichstag, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Tijd. The entente allies are to be asked to state their terms.

The chancellor's proposal embraced also the dispatch of plenipotentiaries to a neutral place to discuss the question of a league for national arbitration and disarmament.

The plenipotentiaries are further to be empowered to discuss the creation of a federal Austria, the right of self-determination for Russian frontier states, the restoration and indemnification of Belgium, autonomy for Alsace-Lorraine, and the return of the German colonies. The terms of the entente allies will be asked at the same time with the object of forming a basis for the consideration of these important questions.

[The reichstag was scheduled to meet in special session yesterday to hear a statement by the new chancellor.]

Dispatch No. 2.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Other advices say that the chancellor has not yet made the statements credited to him regarding the suspension of hostilities, the appointment of plenipotentiaries and the request for the allies' terms, but that it was understood he would make such proposals.

Dispatch No. 3.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Prince Maximilian of Baden, the new imperial German chancellor, is willing to accept President Wilson's fourteen peace conditions, according to reports received from Berlin by circles closely connected with the foreign office here, even though this for many reasons may not be thoroughly demonstrated in his statement before the reichstag.

Dispatch No. 4.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The allies were invited to state their terms by Prince Max of Baden, new German chancellor, in his address today before the reichstag in Berlin, according to dispatches received from there through neutral sources tonight.

Dispatch No. 5.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Germany, Austria, and Turkey have resolved simultaneously to ask President Wilson to make representations in their interest for a general armistice and a negotiation for peace, according to a Berne dispatch to the Havas agency.

The Austro-Hungarian minister at Stockholm has been charged to request the Swedish government to transmit to President Wilson a proposal to conclude immediately with him and his allies a general armistice and to start without delay negotiations for peace. This announcement is made in a Berne dispatch to the Havas agency.

The text of the proposal follows:

"The Austro-Hungarian monarchy, which has made only defensive warfare and has borne witness several times to its desire to put an end to the bloodshed and conclude an honorable peace, proposes by presentation to President Wilson to conclude immediately with him and his allies a general armistice on land, on sea, and in the air and start without delay negotiations for peace.

"These negotiations will be based on the fourteen points in President Wilson's message of Jan. 8 and the four points of his speech of Feb. 12 (Feb. 11), 1918, and those equally of Sept. 27, 1918."

In transmitting this dispatch, the Berne correspondent of the Havas agency says:

"Germany and Turkey must take the same step as Austria. Meanwhile the semi-official news agency at Berlin withholds the news, evidently awaiting the meeting of the reichstag, which will be held this afternoon.

"The imperial chancellor, Prince Maximilian, certainly will make an important announcement in the reichstag, which has assembled four days in advance of the regular time.

"The action of the Austrian government has been preceded by a number of conferences with representatives of Berlin and Hungary, both civil and military and representatives from the states of the German confederation."

Dispatch No. 6.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—(Reuters.)—The new peace note of Baron Burian, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, will declare that all of President Wilson's terms have been accepted, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Frankfort Zeitung, which is quoted in the Dutch press. The note will be published immediately.

The semi-official Wolff bureau of Berlin has given to the German press the text of President Wilson's recent speech.

Several of the newspapers of western Germany today published long reports of the speech without comment.

Dispatch No. 7.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Prince Maximilian, the new German imperial chancellor, speaking in the reichstag today, stated emphatically that the new government stands firmly for a just peace, regardless of the war situation.

Dispatch No. 8.

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 5.—The chancellor appeared at the opening of the reichstag accompanied by the secretaries of state, so far nominated. Nothing definite has yet been decided concerning the other secretaries of state. According to the Vossische Zeitung, Prince Max of Baden wishes to wait another two weeks before making his decision on those appointments, in view of the importance of questions pertaining to foreign policy. Von Bergh, chief of the kaiser's civilian cabinet, has resigned. According to the Morgenpost, Secretary of State for War Van Waldon also resigned. His successor will be Stegewald, secretary of the Co-operative society, it is said.

NO TRUCE TILL FOE IS ON OWN SOIL, U. S. VIEW

Capital Scents Trick in Latest Move of Berlin.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Germany's long expected peace offensive has arrived.

This was the official view in Washington tonight based on reports from Amsterdam and Sweden that Germany and Austria were about to propose a general armistice and a conference of belligerents to discuss terms of peace.

Unofficial reports from Amsterdam that Prince Maximilian of Baden, the new German chancellor, would propose a conference and immediate cessation of hostilities were followed quickly by news from Stockholm that Sweden had been asked by Austria to propose a general armistice to President Wilson and a peace conference to discuss his fourteen terms of peace.

U. S. Awaits Facts.

The Washington government, it was made plain, would not be stampeded either by the reports nor by the invitation to cease hostilities should the offer come officially from either enemy nation.

From the reports thus far available it appeared that the central powers were trying to obtain a conference to discuss President Wilson's terms of peace, but that they had not accepted them in principle.

The president, it was pointed out had recently said in his reply to Austria's former appeal for a conference, that this government could not confer on terms that already had been made so plain.

No Surprise to U. S.

Secretary Lansing would not discuss the reports. Other high officials declared such a move had been expected for weeks and nothing will be done by this government until an official proposal shall have come from Germany.

It was pointed out that the United States has repeatedly asserted that it could not consider Germany as sincere in offering to negotiate terms of peace as long as her armies held foreign soil.

Demand Action First.

As long as Germany occupies Belgium and France, officials asserted, the United States could not consider any offer to discuss peace. Should Germany evacuate France and Belgium, it was said, the United States might be convinced of the sincerity of purpose on the part of the imperial German government.

Warned of "Peace Drive."

In New York, Sept. 27, the president said, in warning against the expected Teutonic drive for peace:

"'Peace drives' can be effectively neutralized and silenced only by showing that every victory of the nations associated against Germany brings the nations nearer the sort of peace which will bring security and reassurance to all peoples and make the recurrence of another such struggle of pitiless force and bloodshed forever impossible, and that nothing else can. Germany is constantly intimating the 'terms' she will accept; and always finds that the world does not want terms. It wishes the final triumph of justice and fair dealing."

"The American people should not get excited about these new terms of peace purporting to come or about to come from Germany," one official said. "For weeks we have known that the German government was scheming to launch a peace offensive.

"Having failed to dominate the world by force, Germany is seeking to lure the allied nations into peace maneuvers that will let her escape with a whole skin and without punishment for her crimes.

"The reports that Prince Maximilian has been chosen by the kaiser to lead this peace drive seem to indicate that the peace offensive has arrived. The American people have been warned against it and can be assured that the United States is not going to be lured into any peace by a false alarm."

Hands Must Be Clean.

Secretary Lansing has repeatedly let it be known that Germany must come with clean hands to ask for peace.

When it comes to inviting a conference of plenipotentiaries to state terms, officials declared, there must be German terms before there can be any gathering around a peace table. The first demand by the allies, it is insisted, would be that Germany get out of the nations she has devastated and attempted to destroy.

As an evidence that Washington is not excited, officials received the reports with no demonstrations of enthusiasm and said they were only mildly interested in what the terms of Maximilian's proposal might be.

Quote Wilson's Words.

They pointed to President Wilson's recent reply to the Austrian government's proposal for a secret conference to discuss terms for ending the war. This, they said, was conclusive, and they did not believe any new offer coming from the central powers which sought to negotiate peace upon terms proposed by Germany would sway the purpose of this government. President Wilson said to Austria on Sept. 16:

"The government of the United States feels that there is only one reply which it can make to the suggestion of the imperial Austro-Hungarian government. It has repeatedly and with entire candor stated the terms upon which the United States would consider peace, and can and will entertain no proposal for a conference upon a matter concerning which it has made its position and purpose so plain."

See It as Peace Maneuver.

Inasmuch as tonight's reports indicate that Prince Maximilian desires a conference to consider the terms proposed or to be proposed by the United States and other allies, officials said they could see nothing in the new German move but another peace maneuver which could not be entertained.

The answer, they said, would be that the United States "will entertain no proposal for a conference upon a matter concerning which it has made its position and purpose so plain."

GERMANY MUST SHOW GOOD FAITH FIRST—PAINLEVE

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—News of the predicted peace offer reached Paris too late tonight for general comment by French statesmen. It was possible, however, to reach Paul Painléve, the former premier, who said:

"It is out of the question to consider an armistice or stop fighting before certain provisions are assured. As a preliminary there must be the evacuation of Belgium, northern France, Serbia, and Roumania.

"Assurances that we can have absolute faith in must be given concerning Poland.

"There are other provisions that must be antecedent to an armistice, but these I have mentioned are of primary importance. You will clearly understand these are my personal views only."

There is no disposition in political or military circles to stop fighting just for the sake of ending the war and Germany is greatly mistaken if she thinks she can reconcile her latest slogan "to keep what we've got" with peace based on President Wilson's fourteen conditions.

30 DIE AS CARGO CRAFT COLLIDE; OTHER SINKINGS

Key West, Fla., Oct. 5.—Thirty members of the crew of the American cargo steamer Lake City lost their lives in the sinking of the steamer in collision with the tanker James McGee off this port Thursday night. The Lake City carried a crew of thirty-five men.

Mallory Liner Goes Down.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The American cargo steamer San Saba of the Mallory line was sunk yesterday fifteen miles southeast of Barnegat, N. J., the navy department was informed today. It is supposed the ship struck a mine. How many of the crew of 37 were rescued is not known. A steamer proceeding to New York picked up four men and one body. There were no passengers.

Sunk in Collision; All Rescued.

An Atlantic Port, Oct. 5.—News has been received that the United States scout patrol No. 279 has been lost near this port. It carried a complement of fifty-two officers and men. They were picked up by boats in the vicinity and landed here. The patrol was sunk in collision with another naval vessel in Long Island sound.

HERE ARE WILSON'S PEACE TERMS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—President Wilson's fourteen peace terms, which Germany, it is predicted, will accept, follow:

1—Open covenants of peace, openly arrived at, after which there shall be no private international understanding of any kind, but diplomacy shall proceed always frankly and in the public view.

2—Absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants.

3. The removal, so far as possible, of all economic barriers, and the establishment of an equality of trade conditions among all the nations consenting to the peace and associating themselves for its maintenance.

4. Adequate guarantees given and taken that national armaments will be reduced to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety.

5. A free, open minded, and absolutely impartial adjustmen tof all colonial claims based upon a strict observance of the principle that in determining such questions of sovereignty the interests of the population concerned must have equal weight with the equitable claims of the government whose title is to be determined.

6—The evacuation of all Russian territory and such a settlement of all questions affecting Russia as will secure the best and freest co-operation of the other nations of the world in obtaining for her an unhampered and unembarrassed opportunity for the independent determination of her own political development and national policy and assure her of a sincere welcome into the society of free nations under institutions of her own choosing; and, more than a welcome, assistance of every kind that she may need and may herself desire. The treatment accorded Russia by her sister nations in the months to come will be the acid test of their good will, of their comprehension of her needs as distinguished from their own interests, and of their intelligent and unselfish sympathy.

7—Belgium, the whole world will agree, must be evacuated and restored without any attempt to limit the sovereignty which she enjoys in common with all other free nations. No other single act will serve as this will to restore confidence among the nations in the laws which they have themselves set and determined for the government of their relations with one another. Without this healing act the whole structure and validity of international law is forever impaired.

8. All French territory should be freed and the invaded portions restored and the wrong done to France by Prussia in 1871 in the matter of Alsace-Lorraine, which has unsettled the peace of the world for nearly fifty years, should be righted in order that peace may once more be made secure in the interests of all.

9. A readjustment of the frontiers of Italy should be affected along clearly recognizable lines of nationality.

10. The people of Austria-Hungary, whose place among the nations we wish to see safeguarded and assured, should be accorded the freest opportunity of autonomous development.

11. Roumania, Serbia, and Montenegro should be evacuated, occupied territories restored, Serbia accorded free and secure access to the seas, and the relations of the several Balkan states to one another determined by friendly counsel along historically established lines of allegiance and nationality, and international guarantees of the political and economic independence and territorial integrity of the several Balkan states should be entered into.

12—The Turkish portions of the present Ottoman empire should be assured of secure sovereignty, but the other nationalities which are now under Turkish rule should be assured of undoubted security of life and an absolutely unmolested opportunity of autonomous development, and the Dardenelles should be permanently opened as a free passage to the ships and commerce of all nations under international guarantees.

13—An independent Polish state should be erected, which should include all the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish population, which should be assured a free and secure access to the sea, and whose political and economic independence and territorial integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant.

14—A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording neutral guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to the great and small states alike.

The President's Four Great Principles.

On Feb. 11, 1918, President Wilson, in an address before the congress, restated his peace terms in four general principles. They were:

1.—That each part of the final settlement must be based upon the essential justice of that particular cause and upon such adjustments as are most likely to bring a peace that will be permanent.

2—That peoples and provinces are not to be bartered about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were mere chattels and pawns in the game, even the great game, now forever discredited, of the balance of power; but that,

3—Every territorial settlement involved in this war must be made in the interest and for the benefit of the population concerned, and not as a part of any mere adjustment or compromise of claims among rival states; and,

4—That all well defined national aspirations shall be accorded the utmost satisfaction that can be accorded them without introducing new or perpetuating old elements of discord or antagonism that would be likely in time to break the peace of Europe and consequently of the world.

Demands Justice That Plays No Favorites.

In his speech in New York on Sept. 27 at the opening of the fourth Liberty loan, the president further explained America's peace terms as follows:

"First, the impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just and those to whom we do not wish to be just. It must be a justice that plays no favorites and knows no standard but the equal rights of the several peoples concerned.

"Second, no special or separate interest of any single nation or any group of nations can be made the basis of any part of the settlement which is not consistent with the common interests of all.

"Third, there can be no leagues or alliances, or special covenants and understandings, with the general and common family of the league of nations.

"Fourth, and more especially, there can be no special, selfish economic combinations within the league and no employment of any form of economic boycott or exclusion except as the power of economic penalty by exclusion from the markets of the world may be vested in the league of nations itself as a means of discipline and control.

"Fifth, all international agreements and treaties of every kind must be made known in their entirety to the rest of the world."

HOLLAND DENIES ASKING PARLEY OF BELLIGERENTS

THE HAGUE, Oct. 5.—Holland has not invited the belligerents to negotiate for peace, it was declared by the foreign office today. There is not a word of truth in the statement of the Berlin Tageblatt to that effect, the official announcement states.

Solf Now Foreign Secretary.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 5.—Dr. W. S. Solf, German colonial secretary, has been appointed to the German imperial foreign secretaryship, it was officially announced in Berlin today. Mathias Erzberger, the Centrist leader, has been appointed secretary of state without portfolio. Herr Bauer, Socialist member of the reichstag, has been named as secretary of state for the imperial labor office. Dr. Solf will continue during the war to act also as colonial secretary, with Dr. Gleim as undersecretary.

Dr. Eduard David, Socialist leader of the reichstag, has been appointed under secretary for foreign affairs, according to advices received by Dutch papers from Berlin.

Gen. Groener has been appointed to succeed Gen. von Stein, resigned, as Prussian minister of war, the Strassburg Post says. Gen. Groener has been chief of staff in the Ukraine.

Deny Turks Seek Peace.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—Denial that Turkey is about to seek a separate peace is made in a dispatch received here from Vienna, which says that the attitude of Turkey toward the central powers [illegible] that Turkey will follow the course of Bulgaria are incorrect, as the Constantinople government intends to act in full military and political accord with the central powers.

HUSSAREK QUITS; NEW PREMIER MAY BE PACIFIST HEAD

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Baron von Hussarek, the Austrian prime minister, has resigned, according to a dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, to the Exchange Telegraph company.

Baron von Hussarek handed his resignation in the name of the entire cabinet to the emperor on Friday. It will be officially announced, the dispatch says, after a successor to Von Hussarek has been found. The new premier, it is added, possibly will be Prof. Lammasch, with whom negotiations are under way to bring about a great pacifist manifestation.

For Constitutional Reform.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, has declared to the deputies of the German Nationalist group that the internal conditions of Austria demanded a revision of the constitution, according to the Nouvelle Press Libre. The fundamental terms of the revised constitution, he declared, should be an agreement between the various Austrian nationalities. Thus far, the newspaper adds, the Czechs and Jugo-Slavs have refused to collaborate in the proposal to revise the constitution.

The correspondent adds that Count Czernin and representatives of the constitution parties in the upper house also are going to urge the emperor to adopt a similar course of action.

The Budapest correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung reports that Premier Wekerle has requested Count Julius Andrassy to enter his cabinet with Count Albert Apponyi and Count Stephen Tisza. 'TALK PEACE IN BERLIN,' CITY'S ANSWER TO HUN

Thrill at Reported Offer Yields to Demand for Harder Fight.

The first "flash" from across the water that Germany was preparing to talk peace sent a keen thrill over Chicago. For a moment the city cheered.

"The kaiser's licked! The kaiser's licked!"

But just as quickly came the second thought. The hurrahing ceased.

"Not yet!" became the slogan. "Nothing but unconditional surrender!"

Everywhere there was the spirit of skepticism concerning the purpose that actuated the spreading of the peace reports from Berlin headquarters. Clear thinking men looked upon the reports as just another part of the peace offensive of the central empires, another effort to weaken the war spirit of the allies, a bold attempt to blockade the fourth Liberty loan in America.

"Talk Peace in Berlin."

But after that first, uncontrollable cheer at what seemed a sign of victory, Chicago settled back to its purpose with more determination than ever.

At the Glen View Country club an early bulletin was read during the annual harvest home dinner. There was a roar of applause, but before a second breath had been taken, a member leaped and stood on a chair.

"It's time to talk peace when we get to Berlin!" he shouted.

The uproar stilled at his voice and then it broke forth again in hearty approval of his declaration.

Soldiers Scorn Overture.

At Fort Sheridan Col. R. R. McCormick, the commanding officer, was reading bulletins to his men. They cheered and then a murmur started that grew into a loud chant, such as one hears at football games.

"We don't want peace! We don't want peace! We don't want peace!" was the refrain.

Those are but two examples of the way the news was received. Some of the leading men of the city put into interviews their attitude toward the "peace offensive."

Must Put Over Loan Anyway.

Following the receipt of the news of Germany's reported overtures Charles W. Folds, chairman of the Chicago Liberty loan committee, said:

"While this news is of the greatest interest to every American, we must realize that it merely calls for greater effort to put over the fourth Liberty loan. We must not stop to listen to peace talk from the other side.

"Even if peace were here—which it is not—we would have to raise large sums of money to care for our boys who are on the other side and to bring them safely back home.

"We must not slacken our efforts to make the loan a success—not for one moment."

Merely a Trick, Says Merrick.

Interviews with other representative Chicagoans follow:

H. H. Merrick, president National Security league—Any peace move by Germany, as long as she has any troops in either France or Belgium, may safely be taken as merely an attempt to brace up the failing morale of the German people and to deceive the allies. This would be a most inopportune time for us to listen to such talk, for we must not slacken our efforts to raise men and send money for an instant. When our troops are in Germany and on their way to Berlin there will be plenty of time to talk peace terms. Germany is not entitled to the slightest consideration at present. We ought to stand squarely on the declarations of President Wilson. The last thing we ought to do is to let ourselves be deceived.

Sees It a Play for Time.

John W. O'Leary, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce—I believe the new Hun war administration would resort to any tactics that it thinks will impress the world that Germany desires to obtain peace. I think Germany must be tremendously impressed with the surrender of Bulgaria and the threats of Austria to make a separate peace. And I believe the real reason behind any peace move Germany now may make is to gain time to gather herself together. I believe Germany would go so far as to actually enter into an armistice to gain time and that it is important that we pay no heed to any proposal she now makes, but keep on going. What Germany needs now most of all, it seems to me, is a chance to set herself on a new footing, to reassure her people, and we must keep fighting her to the utmost. We must not let her have the opportunity she desires.

"Peace Offers Out of Order."

The Rev. John Timothy Stone—Regarding such conflicting reports emanating ostensibly from Berlin, I have just this to say: We should pay no attention to them, for they are not our present responsibility. We should make it now our business to successfully raise the fourth Liberty loan that is before us and to prepare for continued conflict. I think any peace terms or offers from Germany now are entirely out of order and premature.

Time Now To Buy Bonds.

Raymond E. Durham, federal fuel administrator for Illinois—Now is the time to make our supreme effort. No one must relax his efforts until Germany, Austria, and Turkey accept the same terms as Bulgaria. The opportunity to those who have stayed at home to help give the knockout blow is now to buy double the number of Liberty bonds they had planned to take.

Caution in Giving Out News.

The first bulletins reached THE TRIBUNE early in the evening, but caution was used in making them public. An extra was withheld pending verification from some official source of the rumors. Instead of corroboration came substantial modifications showing the lack of authoritative source for the reports and then the full facts were given to the public by THE TRIBUNE.

Different versions of what the early bulletins contained spread through the city and its suburbs like wildfire. Some of them, passed by word of mouth, became announcements that Germany had sued for peace at almost any price. Some of these misinterpretations were announced publicly and caused premature celebrations.

That was the case at a theater in Evanston. An announcement was read and the audience went wild. Some of those who heard even went so far as to hasten to the loop for the big celebration. But almost before the first outburst subsided the substance of the later cablegrams indicating there was nothing but rumor behind the first bulletins was transmitted to the theater by THE TRIBUNE and quiet was restored.

DECREE OF NEW KING DISBANDS BULGARIAN ARMY

Boris Asks Old Cabinet to Stay; Italians Chase Austrians.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—The first decree signed by King Boris demobilizes the Bulgarian army. The Bulgarian government yesterday offered its resignation to the new king, who expressed his confidence in the cabinet and asked the ministers to retain their portfolios, according to a dispatch from Sofia.

Italians Pursue Austrians.

ROME, Oct. 5.—Italian columns pursuing the retreating Austro-Hungarians in Albania yesterday passed beyond the Lyushna river and reached the Rivers Kavaya and Poloivin.

The Italians are continuing their advance toward Elbasan, thirty miles northeast of Berat, according to an official statement issued by the war office today.

More than 7,000 Bulgarian troops facing the Italian positions on the Monastir-Kechevo road surrendered on Oct. 3. Much booty was captured by the Italians.

Serbs Rout Teuton Forces.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Austro-German troops have been defeated in fighting with the Serbians, who pursued them toward the old Serbo-Turkish frontier, says a Serbian official statement of Friday. The statement reads:

"We have repulsed Austrian and German reinforcements after some fighting and have pursued them toward the old Serbo-Turkish frontier. We captured 100 prisoners."

Rush Huns to Bulgaria.

The Germans and Austrians, the Daily Mail says, are making great efforts to place a new army in Bulgaria in order to hold the railroad to Constantinople.

Men are being drawn from thirty-four German and twelve Austrian divisions in Russia, but the divisions generally are poor in quality and weak in numbers.

Their chief aim, the newspaper adds, is to maintain land communication with Constantinople and prevent the allies from getting in touch with Roumania.

Constantinople is at the mercy of the guns of the battleship Goeben and the forts at the Dardanelles manned by picked Germans.

Allies Face Foe in Serbia.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The allies' forces in Serbia have come into contact with the Austro-Hungarians near Vranje, southern Serbia. Serb forces operating against the Austrians took Prenys on Thursday.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—Emperor William, in his autographed letter accepting the resignation of Count von Hertling as imperial chancellor and conferring upon him the decoration of the Order of the Black Eagle, wrote:

"After accepting today your resignation, I feel constrained once more to express to you my warmest thanks for the self-sacrificing faithfulness with which in grave times you responded to my call and, in the position of responsible leader of the government, rendered to me and the fatherland eminent and successful service.

"As an outward sign of my especial acknowledgment I have conferred upon you the high Order of the Black Eagle. Always your grateful and well disposed, WILHELM, I. R."

NO PEACE TILL FOE SURRENDERS, LEADERS INSIST

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5—[Special.]—"The report of the peace proposal is interesting and welcome news," Gov. Frank O. Lowden said tonight. "I do not believe, however, that we should let down for one moment and assume that the war is over. We in Illinois, although the talk is interesting to us, will continue with the same vigor as if we had not heard the reports."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis expressed the emphatic opinion that unconditional surrender is the only basis on which the United States will talk peace.

"Let there be no concessions, lest we be the victims of the same treachery that has made a victim of Russia," he asserted.

"I reject any form of an armistice," said Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman on the same subject. "With my vote as a United States senator I shall reject any offer but an unconditional surrender."

71,000! THAT IS TOTAL OF TURKS ALLENBY TOOK

British Captured 350 Guns; Arabs Seized 8,000 Moslems.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Seventy-one thousand Turks have been taken prisoner by Gen. Allenby's forces since the commencement of British operations in Palestine and Syria, according to an official statement issued tonight by the war office. This is in addition to 8,000 prisoners claimed by the Arab army. Three hundred and fifty Turkish guns were taken.

10,000 Deserters Fight Turks.

ZURICH, Oct. 5.—Ten thousand deserters from the Turkish army assembled outside Constantinople and demanded the resignations of Talaat Pasha, the Turkish grand vizier, and Enver Pasha, minister of war, according to dispatches from Constantinople. The ministers refused and dispatched government troops to attack the rebels, it was stated. A battle followed, the result of which is unknown.

Russia Calls Off Treaty.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—The Russian note to Turkey published by Vorwaerts concludes, according to a Berlin dispatch:

"The Russian government is obliged to state that, in consequence of the action of the Turkish government, the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which was to have established peaceful relations between Russia and Turkey, is null and void."

It is understood that this applies only to the clauses in the treaty concerning the relations between Russia and Turkey.

Fashionable :: Essential :: Economical

Furs this winter are not only the first requisite of fashion—they are practical, economical and necessary.

These facts are strongly emphasized by the high cost of woolens and other desired apparel.

Hudson Seal is firmly fixed as a style-economy fur second to none. Of this desirable peltry Shayne is showing an elaborate collection of Coats, Coatees, Muffs and Scarves at prices which argue strongly for immediate purchase.

AIRMEN CHEER SHELL BLASTED JERSEY SECTOR

Find Flames Miss T. N. T. —Traffic Resumed in New York.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 5.—The munitions district of New Jersey, looking like a little piece of the Hun devastated Belgium moved overseas to the threshold of New York City, breathed a sigh of relief tonight.

From out of the sky dropped an American airplane. Capt. W. W. Watson and his observer, Maj. Armstrong, stepped out.

The main danger is past, was the word they gave. Unless the wind changes, Maj. Armstrong said, the storage magazines, loaded with 800,000 pounds of T. N. T., would not be exploded. Other munition plants near by, he declared, seemed safe.

Restart Wheels of New York.

Maj. Armstrong and Capt. Watson had just completed an aerial inspection of the T. S. Gillespie shell loading plant, the largest of its kind in the world. With explosion after explosion still roaring amid the ruins, they flew as close as possible to the burning wreckage and studied it. Maj. Armstrong had designed the plant. Thousands upon thousands of shells for the American and allied armies were being made there, when a series of explosions began last night to spread ruin through the great factory and surrounding district.

The word of the aerial observers was flashed to New York City. Terror of impending explosions of tons of T. N. T.—greater blasts than any which through the night and all day today had rocked the skyscraper district, the east side, Brooklyn, and Staten Island—had almost stopped the wheels of the greatest city in America.

By order of Mayor Hylan, traffic through the tubes to New Jersey, to Brooklyn, and Staten Island had been stopped. Traffic, too, had been halted—even foot traffic—over the bridges spanning the East river. Thousands, marooned, waited about the bridges or fought for places on the overcrowded ferries.

Raises Hopes of Refugees.

When the cheering news from the airmen was flashed to New York these outlets from Manhattan island were once more thrown open.

But it was in the neighborhood of Morgan, N. J., once the proud home of the great munitions plant, that the news carried the greatest joy. Hope rose quickly among the thousands, who, weeping, stupefied, ragged, cold, and weary, were fleeing from their homes.

South Amboy, a town of about 10,000 population four miles north of Morgan, was virtually wrecked by the series of blasts. Scarcely a building in it remains habitable. Many were unroofed and the walls of others blown in, while every pane of glass was broken. More than 400 citizens decided to spend the night there, however.

Red Cross Opens Stations.

The Atlantic division of the Red Cross established headquarters at Perth Amboy this afternoon. Fifty ambulances from New York and Newark, with corps of doctors and nurses, arrived to take charge of the situation. Eight central depots were opened in churches, schools, and other public buildings.

Commandeered automobiles and cars driven by members of the women's motor corps from New York and New Jersey were sent out to pick up fleeing refugees and bring them back to the depots for shelter. The Red Cross brought in from New York five motor trucks loaded with six tons of supplies. The city and all the territory around Morgan was under martial law, with the state guard in control under the personal direction of Gov. Edge.

J. W. Faust, assistant director of civilian relief of the Red Cross, estimated that more than 7,000 persons had been made homeless by the hail of shells and the force of the explosions. He believed between 40,000 and [illegible] more had fled from their homes during disaster, and would not return until all danger is over. They present almost as much of a problem as those who are actually homeless.

Many Suffer Shell Shock.

Although South Amboy was hardest hit by the blasts which wrecked the big plant, many farmers even nearer to the scene of the disaster were heavy losers. The homes which had been built before the war began and the shell loading plant was built were demolished.

After an intermittent bombardment lasting nearly twenty-four hours, the people housed here and in other nearby towns settled down tonight to fitful slumber. Many of them had undergone most of the horrors of actual warfare, and their nerves were shattered. Not a few were suffering from a form of shell shock. The day was as much of a nightmare as the night which had preceded it.

Shows Five Units Destroyed.

The aerial observation showed that five of the thirteen units of the plant had been destroyed by the flames which followed the first explosion, but that the 100 plant guards who began fighting the fire with water pumped from Cheesquake creek after the water mains burst had the situation well in hand. It indicated that unless there was a furious wind storm during the night the fire would not extend either to the barges with their dangerous loads or to the T. N. T. storehouse more than a mile away in another direction.

Army officers estimated tonight that the dead would number not more than [illegible] and the injured 150. The property loss probably will approximate between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Gen. Williams Opens Quiz.

Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance of the United States army, arrived here tonight to conduct a rigid investigation into the explosion and fire which demolished the Gillespie plant.

Gen. Williams was accompanied by [illegible] Wilson, also of the ordnance department, and Lieut. De Nullise, a French ordnance expert. Upon their arrival they went into conference with the army officers already here. Gen. Williams declined to make any statement until he had gone more deeply into the circumstances surrounding the disaster.

Because of the manner in which the plant was guarded the belief was expressed that the cause of the disaster was accidental rather than the work of German spies.

Ties Up New York City.

New York, Oct. 5.—Traffic over all bridges and subways between New York and Brooklyn was suspended suddenly at the beginning of the Saturday rush hour this afternoon by order of Mayor Hylan and the public service commission after they had received reports that further explosions, more violent than any which had yet occurred, were expected momentarily at the Gillespie plant at Morgan, N. J. Not even pedestrians were allowed to cross the bridges, and Brooklyn was isolated except for a few inadequate ferries. Hardly had this order gone into effect when the tubes under the Hudson, connecting New York and New Jersey, also were closed.

Occupants of buildings in lower Broadway were ordered by the police to leave immediately and to walk in the middle of the street, lest they be injured by falling glass.

Explosion Fails to Come.

Superintendents of buildings and apartments all over the city were ordered to keep doors and windows open in order to lessen the force of the expected concussion. Ten thousand police reserves were hastily summoned to their respective precincts, and eighty-nine hospital units of 125 persons each were notified to hold themselves in readiness for instant service.

With all set for the terrific blast, the explosion failed to materialize. Meanwhile the subway and elevated terminals were jammed with seething masses of humanity, which wanted to go home and could not understand why they were not allowed to do so. Confusion was turned into chaos by bewildered policemen, who told the crowds besieging the elevated stations that the subways were open, and vice versa, with the result that many persons fruitlessly struggled from one place to another and then went back again. This condition lasted for more than two hours before the embargo was lifted.

Whole City Rocked.

In explanation of the unprecedented action of the authorities it was stated tonight that a report had been received to the effect that 80,000 tons of trinitrotoluol were likely to explode at any moment. This was later reduced to 80,000 pounds and then to 8,000 pounds. Finally information was received that the wind had changed, enabling the fire fighters to begin removal of the explosives. It was also stated that Mayor Hylan had acted on advices from authorities at Washington. The Washington officials, however, denied issuing any such warning. Then it was said that a fire guard in Brooklyn had notified the police that New Jersey officials had told him of the impending disaster.

New York City was again shaken at noon by a series of terrific explosions. The Standard Oil building at 26 Broadway was rocked, and women employés were ordered to leave it.

Will Rebuild Plant.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The work of rebuilding the "T. N. T." plant at Morgan station, N. J., which was wrecked last night and early today by a series of explosions, will be started at once, the war department tonight announced. The cost of reconstruction was placed by the war department at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. The war department announced that the contract for reconstruction had been awarded to the T. A. Gillespie Sons & Co., owners of the original plant. Laborers are being mobilized for the work.

JAMES BALL, MRS. MARY KARP, ROSE KRASK.

"One hundred and seven years young" is the way Mrs. Mary Karp expressed it to relatives who attended her birthday party at 1827 Dayton street yesterday. To show that she was up to date she danced a jig with one of her son-in-laws at 10 o'clock. She did not wear glasses to see that she did not tread on anyone's toes, either. She has never had to wear glasses.

She does her full share of the household work, goes to the grocery herself instead of sending the "younger ones," does her own reading, and retires when she gets good and ready. Eats anything and likes everything.

She has five grandsons overseas in the service of Uncle Sam and wants to be sure to live to see her "boys" return victorious. Mrs. Karp was born in Germany, but has been in the States the last forty years.

She has two living daughters, twenty-seven grandchildren, and ten great-grandchildren. She is living with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Fender.

BOCHE INTERNAL LOAN A FIASCO AS ARMIES DIE

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—In consequence of the rapid development of military and political events, Germany's internal loan is proving a great fiasco. Propaganda for subscriptions is being conducted without interest or conviction.

While for the preceding loans explanatory articles with a mass of propagandist appeals were published saying that victory and peace were near, now the phrases published regarding the loan have the character of resignation and despair. Thus the newspapers publish verses saying that Germany's hour of destiny has arrived and that each person is obliged to take his share in Germany's martyrdom. The argument is that if Germany falls in ruins, the population will also be ruined; so that it is necessary to subscribe to the loan to save the country.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A sensation was created in newspaper and political circles by an announcement circulated this morning by a press association that "Sir Henry Dalziel, baronet, member of parliament, acting for himself and political and business associates, has purchased outright the business of the United Newspapers, Limited, who are proprietors of the Daily Chronicle and Lloyd's Sunday Newspaper, in addition to a number of other important publications.

It was stated today that the price paid by Dalziel was £1,500,000.

In newspaper circles the sale of the Chronicle to Dalziel is regarded as an extension of the newspaper trust, Dalziel already having control of the Pall Mall Gazette, Era, Country World, Reynolds's Newspaper, and the Sunday Evening Telegram.

The career of Dalziel is one of the romances of business journalism. Not so many years ago Sir Henry was a London correspondent.

Italy, Confident, Awaits "Her Hour to Strike"

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Italy faces the future with optimism, Premier Orlando, speaking before the members of parliament and of the senate, declared, according to an official dispatch received today from Rome.

"We have not registered any great actions at our front," said the premier, "but calmly and faithfully Italy is waiting for her hour to strike. The Italian people are calm and full of confidence."

AUSTRALIANS SEE GERMAN TRAGEDY FAR UNDER EARTH

Bits of Bodies Found Revive Fake of Boiling the Dead.

BY PHILIP GIBBS.

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 4.—[Delayed.]—Yesterday I went into the tunnel where the water of the Scheldt canal goes under the hill. This tunnel is five miles long, but I walked only a little way through. It was pitch dark without the tiniest glimmer of light so that its blackness was like velvet on one's eyes. By a pocket torch I could see a yard ahead, and I flashed it over the black water of the canal where there were many big old wooden barges. Here many Germans were hidden until they were routed out.

After that when a party of Australians advanced with torches and hand grenades and fixed bayonets they saw ahead of them a glint of light and shouted:

"Who goes there?"

They waited and presently very slowly toward them came not Germans, but two old bush rangers with a stump of candle between them.

"Don't be Scared.

"Well, boys," they said, "don't be scared. We were only exploring a bit on our own hook."

They had got into the tunnel higher up and were on a prowl for Germans or souvenirs. There were only dead Germans in the tunnel and the dead were in such a way that sight of them revived that gruesome story of a German corpse factory which some time ago deceived the credulous.

The wild rumor spread among the English and Australian troops that here they had discovered the ghoulish work of boiling down German bodies for their grease. Because it is likely to spread to tradition I must tell the truth of it.

The Truth of It.

In a cavern off the main tunnel were two boilers and around about Thursday I saw the bodies of German soldiers, and inside the boilers were bits of bodies. What more was wanted as evidence of the foul practice?

To men of easy belief in the worst horrors of humanity such evidence would be good enough. But I prefer the mentality of an Australian boy whose face I could not see, but who as he stumbled along by my side said:

"I want to get at the truth of this tale, because I do not think any men in the world would be vile enough to do such things."

And the truth is that by some explosion from within or without these German cooks and soldiers had been killed and were blown to bits as they stood round their stew pans and parts of their bodies had fallen into the boiling grease.

I saw a gun carriage in the tunnel close to this cookhouse, suggesting there had been a premature burst of shell inside of the tunnel, and in the roof of the cookhouse itself was a small hole through which a fragment of shell had come. But whatever happened to kill the men, it is obvious that they had all met a sudden death.

900,000 British Killed in War, Says Y. M. C. A.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Sir Arthur Yapp, head of the British Y. M. C. A., and the originator of the "Red Triangle" now worn by all members of the organization, has arrived in New York to aid the cause of the united war work agencies and the efforts of all organizations which contribute to the welfare and morale of the allied armies.

"To understand the conditions under which we are working it is necessary to know something of the great sacrifices made by England," said Sir Arthur.

"More than 900,000 of our men have been killed in the war, 270,000 maimed for life, and there are 187,000 widows in England."

YANKEE AIRMEN IN CLOUD AMBUSH TRAP WILY HUNS

4 Fokkers of 12 Who Jump on 3 of Ours Downed.

BY FRED S. FERGUSON.
[UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY, Oct. 5.—Perfect weather has resulted in unusual aerial activity. American aviators hold the supremacy on the Verdun front despite enemy reinforcements. A dozen boche planes and several balloons have been brought down since Thursday night.

The importance the Germans attach to this region is demonstrated in the air as well as on the ground. The number of airplanes has greatly increased, and enemy aviators are taking desperate chances in their endeavor to prevent the Americans overrunning the front at will. Our observers and photographers are able to do highly important work under guard of chaser planes despite the boches.

Down Three Fokkers.

Lieuts. Rickenbacker, Coolidge, and Curtis brought down three Fokkers and one balloon in the usual mêlée last night.

Three balloon strafers were sent out in expectation that boche planes would be waiting. This proved to be the case, the Germans having sent up two additional dummy balloons.

As a dozen Fokkers attacked the three strafers, fourteen other Americans, who had followed the trio into the clouds, surprised the enemy by dropping on them. Four boches were sent to the ground spouting flames.

The American airmen backed up our infantry in a daring fashion. Our airmen were unremitting in attempts to bomb transport and attack infantry on the roads. In consequence of German anti-aircraft fire they paid for their daring in a large number of casualties. The air was the scene of most spectacular combats, all fought at a height of less than 5,000 feet.

Bombing squadrons continually are dropping tons of bombs on Grandpre, Vouziers, and other towns.

Just before nightfall eight American pursuit planes encountered more than twenty-five enemy machines beyond the lines after having been on a balloon shooting expedition. A fight followed which lasted more than fifteen minutes, but when it was concluded five of the enemy planes were downed and all but one of the American squadron were on their way home safe.

French Destroy Nineteen Planes.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 4.—In aerial operations today nineteen enemy machines were destroyed and three captive balloons set on fire. French bombing aviators were active in the area behind the German lines.

BRITISH AID

What John Bull Is Doing to Take Sons of Uncle Sam to Battlefields.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Of the more than 1,800,000 American soldiers transported to Europe to the end of September, nearly 1,000,000 were carried in British or British controlled ships. American vessels carried 786,000 and the remainder were brought across the Atlantic on French and Italian ships.

To insure the safety of this enormous fleet has entailed a tremendous amount of work for the allied fleet. The British navy has done 70 per cent of the convoying; the American fleet, 27 per cent, and the French fleet, 3 per cent.

During September 311,219 American troops, 4,000 United States bluejackets, and 5,000 Canadian troops were brought across the Atlantic. American vessels brought 121,547, or 39 per cent, of the total of American troops. British and British controlled ships were responsible for 57 per cent, or 175,721, while French vessels transported 13,951, or 4 per cent of the total.

Of the 311,219 American troops reaching Europe in September, 153,246 landed in France. The remainder came to England.

July was a big month, with 317,000 arrivals, but September runs it a close second and actually overtops it when the Canadians and the American bluejackets are taken into account. The largest single convoy reaching France from the United States last month numbered 31,108.

CHICAGO BOYS IN RAIL ARTILLERY, BIG GUN CORPS

Out near St. Winfield Scott, Cal., a regiment of middle western boys quietly and determinedly is preparing for the last big smash that finally will pave the way for the advance of the Yanks across the "vaterland" into Berlin.

This regiment is to be known as the Fortieth C. A. C.—coast artillery converted into what is to be known as railroad artillery. The type of guns to be used by the regiment will outrange, army men declare, the best guns used by the Hun—guns that will be the most powerful in the world. Col. Henry G. Mathewson, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, is in command.

Among the well known Chicago boys serving with the regiment are the Turnblum brothers, Oscar and Carl, and Jack A. Drella, former semi-professional baseball players on the northwest side, and John J. Hrubec Jr., son of the alderman of the Twenty-ninth ward.

CAPTURE OF LENS COAL FIELDS JOY TO CHILLED PARIS

Short of $60 a Ton Coal for Last Two Winters in the Capital.

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The recapture of Lens and its many coal mines has given the highest hopes here that we may be much better off for coal this winter than last. The past two winters will remain as a nightmare for many years to come in the recollection of thousands of Parisians.

Coal at more than one period during those two winters was absolutely unprocurable at any price. It always brought a minimum of $60 a ton.

Lens Big Supply Base.

From this point of view the capture of no place has been more eagerly looked forward to than that of Lens. Practically the whole French coal supply other than that received from the Briey basin, which is still tightly shut behind the German lines facing the American front in Lorraine comes from Lens and the adjacent Bethune district.

Simultaneously with the work of destruction carried on by the boche, the French have been constructing and reconstructing. Exactly what this meant M. Basly declined to say, but experts here support the idea that throughout the long German occupation of Lens the engineers in charge of the adjoining Bethune field have been ceaselessly busy driving through underground connections with the Lens coal beds.

Enemy Wrecks Coal Mines.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—[Havas.]—British troops on entering Lens found that the coal mines in the city had been entirely destroyed. The church could scarcely be found amid the ruins. The city hall, monuments, and houses also were destroyed.

FRENCH PURSUE FOE'S RETREAT; REIMS IS SAVED

Germans Give Up Forts They Had Held Since 1914.

gonne massif is now firmly surrounded on three sides to the depth of ten kilometers (six and a quarter miles).

As the French and American advances east and west of the wooded plateau are consolidated, German withdrawal is inevitable in the face of this unceasing pressure.

German Fight in Vain.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 5.—7 p. m.—(By the Associated Press)—Fighting with all the ferocity of the early days of the war the Germans did their utmost today to bring to a halt the American offensive.

Early this morning and in the forenoon the Americans pushed forward through a blanket of fog a yard at a time, and later in the day, when the mists lifted, they drove forward a further distance against the German line.

Almost no change has been made on the right near the Meuse, but on the left the operations of the French west of the Argonne forest and the Americans on the east defined more clearly the salient in which the enemy still has a considerable force opposing the Americans, who have been steadily clearing the forest of machine gun nests.

Again the Germans concentrated their greatest efforts on the center in an effort to prevent the swinging upward of their line to a point which would endanger yet further that part of the army left in the Argonne woods.

Airmen a Big Factor.

Although the artillery action of the Germans today was terrific, the volume was greater than yesterday—there was a notable reduction of aerial effort. Only occasionally did the German aviators accept the challenge of the Americans today, and even a bombing expedition to Landres-et-St. Georges, where more than two tons of bombs were dropped, did not develop resistance.

The American planes were an active factor until late tonight. Before the fog actually had lifted they were over the German lines, machine gunning the men in the trenches and harassing the transports and artillery. Time and again the roads behind the lines were choked by fliers, who with their machine guns dropped the horses dragging guns and transports.

This choking of the roads was accomplished without the loss of a single plane. Of the few enemy planes that did fly over the American lines one was brought down by an anti-tank gun captured a few hours before.

American Tanks Victors.

Tanks were used again by the Americans, but somewhat less extensively than on the first day. It was a day of artillery action more than anything else. Each side sent hundreds of thousands of shells, both high explosive, shrapnel, and gas, into the other's territory.

Repeatedly the Germans gathered in force to launch counter attacks, but always with negative result. The Americans, most of whom have now had experience on battlefields, stood like veterans here and there, changing their defense to offensive and gathering in another tiny bit of ground between them and the Kriemhilde positions.

OFFICIAL REPORTS ON ALL WAR FRONTS

FRENCH REPORT.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The official report issued by the ministry of war tonight said:

Victorious attacks in the last several days by the American forces coöperating with our troops on the Vesle and Champagne fronts have forced the enemy to make a general withdrawal toward the Suippe and Arnes rivers.

The enemy is abandoning hastily the redoutable positions fortified for the last four years and defended with more bitterness than ever, and is retreating on a front of forty-five kilometers.

Reims is actually disengaged. Brimont fort (five miles north of Reims) and Moronvillers grove are in our hands. Nogent-l'Abbesse grove (four miles east of Reims) is totally encircled. Our outposts are keeping in close contact with the enemy rear guards.

Further east we border the Arnes all along the stream. We have crossed the Suippe at Orainville and also the Arnes at several points.

EARLIER REPORT.

The text of the earlier report was as follows:

North of St. Quentin the fighting continues with violence. The French have driven back the enemy who opposed them foot by foot from the height southeast of Chardon-Vert, and the wood near by. We have taken additional prisoners.

Northwest of Reims we have resumed our vigorous pressure against the enemy along the whole front of the Aisne canal, which we crossed at several points. Our troops have progressed to the outskirts of Bermericourt. The number of prisoners counted during the last five days is more than 2,500. Thirty-one cannon fell into the hands of the French, including twenty of large caliber, of which five were 210s.

In Champagne the French and Americans continued their attacks and, realizing an advance yesterday in the direction of the Arnes, compelled the enemy who was endangered to retire on his left flank and withdraw hurriedly from part of the territory east of the region of the Monts. French troops on the sector west of the Suippe, pursuing the enemy rear guards, reached at night the height 800 meters (about half a mile) southeast of Moronvilliers.

South of Monthois the French broke up German counter attacks against the Croix des Soudans, and maintained their gains. The enemy with heavy reenforcements, disputed the terrain on the front between Orfeuil and Monthois with extreme stubbornness.

BRITISH REPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The official report issued by the war office tonight was as follows:

Operations of a minor character were continued successfully by us north of St. Quentin. Australian and English troops accompanied by tanks made progress in the neighborhood of the villages of Montbrehain and Beaurevoir and on the spur northwest of the latter village. A number of prisoners have been taken.

As a result of our continued pressure along the whole front the enemy has begun to withdraw from the high ground known as La Terriere plateau in the bend of the Scheldt canal between Le Catelet and Crevecœur.

On the whole front between these two villages our troops now are east of the canal. Driving in the German covering detachments they have gained possession of La Terriere and a section of the Hindenburg system in this neighborhood.

The enemy is burning Douai.

EARLIER REPORT.

The earlier report issued today said:

In successful minor operations yesterday north of St. Quentin we made substantial progress southeast of Beaurevoir and north of Gouy and Le Catelet, capturing 800 prisoners.

At night our lines again were advanced slightly northwest of Le Catelet.

GERMAN REPORT.

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (via London).—The official statement from general headquarters today says:

In Flanders renewed attacks of the enemy against Hoogledge and Roulers were repulsed.

Against our new lines east of Armentieres the enemy followed by way of the Bois Grenier, Fournes, Wingles, and across the railway east of Lens. Before Cambrai the artillery fire at times revived.

The English continue their strong attacks on both sides of Le Catelet; they have taken Le Catelet. The heights north and east of the town are held by us.

The enemy, having forced his way into Beaurevoir, was thrown out again by a counter attack.

North of St. Quentin French attacks between Sequehart and Morcourt gained a footing in Lesdin and Morcourt, but Lesdin was again taken by us.

On the rest of the front and south of St. Quentin the enemy's attacks collapsed before our lines. The French and Italians attacked anew with partial thrusts and carried out a united attack against our positions on the ridge and declivities of the Chemin des Dames between the Ailette and the Aisne. The attacks collapsed.

On the Aisne canal front very great reconnoitering activity was displayed.

East of Reims during Thursday night we evacuated our foremost positions between Prunay and St. Marie-A-Py, unobserved by the enemy and took possession of the lines in the rear. The enemy followed yesterday by way of Prunay, Dontrien, and St. Souplet.

On the battlefield of Champagne we retook in a counter attack part of the ridge northwest of Somme-Py still remaining in possession of the enemy. After a strong preparatory fire the enemy attacked on a broad front on both sides of the road leading from Somme-Py toward the north. His attacks collapsed.

On both sides of the Aisne there was an artillery battle without infantry action.

Between the Argonne and the Meuse, the Americans attacked yesterday without success. In the Argonne forest and on the eastern border Wurtemberg troops beat back manifold assaults. East of the Aisne the enemy advanced to the heights of Exermont.

On both sides of Gesnes our troops repelled every attack before their positions. Especially heavy were the American attacks, which were directed on both sides of the road from Montfaucon and Bantheville against the wooded territory south of Cunel.

Where the enemy for a time forced his way into our lines, counter thrusts immediately threw him out again. On the extreme left wing of the field of attack, Bavarian reserve regiments fully maintained their positions.

The bringing in of forces by the Americans in their attacks yesterday in the shape of tanks, infantry, and artillery was exceedingly great. Their losses were very high.

In the last two days sixty-five airplanes were brought down.

BELGIAN REPORT

HAVRE, Oct. 4.—Delayed.—An official report issued by the Belgian war office today said:

The attack begun on Sept. 28 by the Belgian army and the British second army in coöperation with French forces resulted in the first forty hours in the capture of the entire Flanders ridge.

The advance was continued in a series of detailed operations in which we passed beyond the Flanders ridge and gained further terrain.

In the operations we were able to advance fourteen kilometers on a front of forty kilometers. Ypres and Dixmude were freed completely and we gained the river Lys from Armentieres to Wervicq.

We took 10,500 prisoners, 350 guns, 200 trench mortars, and 600 machine guns.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN REPORT

ROME, Oct. 5.—The official report issued by the war office tonight said:

In the Tonale region, southeast of Ponte Di Ercaville, our detachments surprised and destroyed an enemy post, capturing the few survivors.

At Dosso Casina an enemy assault patrol was driven back. On the Asiago plateau British detachments broke into the enemy's lines, devastated his works, and dispersed the garrison. We captured 150 prisoners.

North of Monte Grappa the enemy attacked our front from the head of the Stizzon valley to Monte Solarolo. He was repulsed everywhere except at Malga Valpez, where he gained a footing.

YANKS 18 MILES FROM CHIEF HUN SUPPLY ARTERY

Menace Germans' Most Vulnerable Point, Gen. March Says.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The American advance northwest of Verdun threatens the greatest single line of communication between Germany and the west front, Gen. March said today, and Gen. Pershing's forces have now reached a point within eighteen miles of this great Belgian artery.

The progress of Gen. Pershing's forces caused the German general staff to throw into this sector many divisions of reinforcements, the chief of staff said, but despite this the Americans not only have maintained the positions won but have pushed forward until they now face the German Kriemhild line of defense.

The British drive on Cambrai and St. Quentin, which was aided by the Twenty-seventh (New York troops) and Thirtieth (Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, and District of Columbia troops), American divisions, developed into a battle for the entire Hindenburg line.

Referring to the Balkan situation, Gen. March said the Italian advance in Albania is closely following the Austrian army, retiring along the coast. He added that the recent naval attack upon Durazzo, behind the Austrian front, was extremely important in connection with the allied strategy.

Despite the epidemic of Spanish influenza embarkation of American troops is being continued at the rate of more than 250,000 a month, Gen. March announced today, the total embarked to date now having passed the 1,850,000 mark. The September shipments exceeded 250,000, although cases of influenza in camps at home exceeded 100,000.

American troops at Archangel are commanded by Col. George E. Stewart and include the Three Hundred and Thirty-ninth infantry, part of the Three Hundred and Tenth ingineers (both Michigan and east Wisconsin).

Secretary Lane Stricken But Continues Speech

Richmond, Va., Oct. 5—Secretary of the Interior Lane collapsed while making an address here tonight in the interest of the liberty loan. Physicians rose to attend him, but after five minutes Mr. Lane struggled to his feet, interrupting an announcement by the chairman to the effect that his speech would not be concluded, and insisted upon resuming.

Acute indigestion was given as the cause of the secretary's illness. He was able to return tonight to Washington.

YANK RAIL MEN AMAZE FRENCH BY U. S. METHODS

Car Records, "Humps," and "Flying Switching" Uncanny Abroad.

This is the last installment of a story of the great railway system built by American railroad men and engineers in France since the United States entered the war a year ago last April.

BY CHARLES N. WHEELER.
[Special Correspondent of The Tribune.]

WITH THE YANK RAILROADERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 16.—One of the things the French didn't understand was how you could operate two independent railroad systems over the same railroad lines. This was what the Americans explained to them as "trackage rights." It was all a Chinese puzzle—until they beheld American trains running regularly over their lines and not in the least interfering with the French traffic.

Of course, we began to build new lines, new bridges, to cause the valleys and the vineyards to be transformed over night into great depots, railroad yards, and switching tracks. About 1,000 miles of American tracks have been laid.

The Lost 75s.

Then, another thing the French didn't understand was the car record system. On the French roads, which are operated by the state, a brand new car will start on its maiden journey. That car may not be located for a year or more, or may never be heard from again at the source of original departure. Presumably, since the state owns all the equipment, it was not necessary in peace times to bother about where it was, as the presumption was it was being used somewhere.

But in war times this would not do. If that car happened to be loaded with "75s," it wouldn't do for it to be lost somewhere in transit.

So the Americans inaugurated the car record system.

It's Very Uncanny.

A French officer was in the car record office of the American transportation headquarters when a clerk picked up the telephone and called up a station about 150 miles away.

"You have car (such and such a number) in (such a place) which we need," said the clerk. "Please send it back immediately."

The Frenchman thought it was uncanny. It was superstitious.

When an American train leaves a depot on a trip there is a record in triplicate of every car, its number, and what it contains. When this car is dropped the lieutenant makes a record of the dropping thereof, together with the number, and why it was dropped. At the end of the journey a new record is made up, in triplicate, of what has happened to that entire train, and this record goes back to the central records office. Five minutes after it reaches the office the staff knows where every freight car is. The French are adopting it.

Hitting the "Humps."

Another "innovation" that caused a lot of excitement and some amusement was the "gravity" switching, or the "humps," as the Yanks term them. This is merely the building of a big hump in a yard and backing a train up on the edge of the hump and then turning loose the cars on the other side that move by gravity, and with some speed at times, down the incline. The Yank switchmen are at their posts, and they shunt each car to its proper track. When they first started it the French switchmen ran for their lives and shooed all the civilians out of the neighborhood. They had visions of a grand smashup in the big yards. But there wasn't one.

Then when they began the "flying switching," by which half a dozen freight cars would come down the incline with a roar just a few feet from each other, the Frenchmen tore their hair and ducked. The big smash could not be avoided now. But the Yanks, throwing the switches this way and that, managed to send the cars on their proper tracks, with no smash-ups.

Yards that took the French three days to clear up the Yanks cleared up in six hours! The American method has multiplied the French man power in the switching yards four and one-half times.

25 Unloading Ports.

In July, 1917, plans were drawn for making one big port in France handle the American importations. We are operating in eleven French ports today and in a comparatively short time will have twenty-five great unloading ports in France.

The establishing of the car ferry system between England and France has worked wonderfully well. For instance, a car loaded with coal in Wales is landed at an eastern British port, is brought across to France with as little concern, apparently, as transporting a ferry load from Jersey City to Manhattan island, and is then run off on the proper track and hitched on to the train for its final destination, which may be a great many miles inland in France. The point is that that coal is handled only twice—when loaded in the west of England and when unloaded somewhere in France.

$33 a Month.

There are men, in khaki of course, running trains in France for $33 a month who used to drive the locomotives that pulled the finest trains in the United States.

Master engineers of the senior grade, who used to pull down $5,000 and $6,000 a year back home, got the high salaries here—$96 a month!

The higher officials, of course, get a little better pay, being paid the same that all army officers get for the respective rank.

Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, at the head of the operating system here, is vice president of the Pennsylvania system. When it was decided some time ago to put in service a fast passenger train across France for the exclusive use of American officers the Pullman car porters, who used to make up beds on the de luxe trains back home, christened it the "Atterbury special."

Here Is the Personnel.

Col. Wilgus and Capt. Jenny are still the "system" sharks who reduce everything to percentages.

Col. McCrea of the Long Island system is the general manager of the operating system.

Col. M. C. Kennedy, former president of the Cumberland Valley road back home, is deputy director general for England.

Col. H. H. Maxfield, superintendent of motive power for the Pennsylvania system, has the same job here.

Col. C. M. Buntin, comptroller of the Pennsylvania system at home, is business manager here.

Lieut. Col. H. M. Waite, city manager of Dayton, O., is chief engineer here. His salary is $4,000. Back home he dragged down $12,000 a year.

Lieut. Col. H. H. Adams, president of the Kansas City Terminal railways, is representative of the transportation system at the general staff.

Among the division superintendents:

Lieut. H. J. Slifer, general manager of the Chicago Great Western.

Maj. F. G. Robbins, general superintendent of the Erie system.

Lieut. Col. G. T. Slade, vice president of the Northern Pacific.

Maj. C. L. Hinkle, general superintendent of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western.

Some Others "Over There."

Some of the well known railroaders in other branches "over there" are:

Maj. R. K. Rochester, division superintendent of the Pennsylvania, is manager of the regulating station.

Maj. F. W. Green, general manager of the Louisiana and Arkansas, port superintendent.

Maj. E. B. Cushing, general superintendent of the Southern Pacific and chief engineer of the Sunset Central, port superintendent.

Maj. T. A. Dooley Jr., assistant district engineer the American Car and Foundry company, division superintendent.

Maj. Thomas R. Ryan, general manager of the Brazilian Railway system of Brazil, division superintendent.

Maj. John S. Douglas, superintendent of machinery of the Standard Steel Car company, division superintendent.

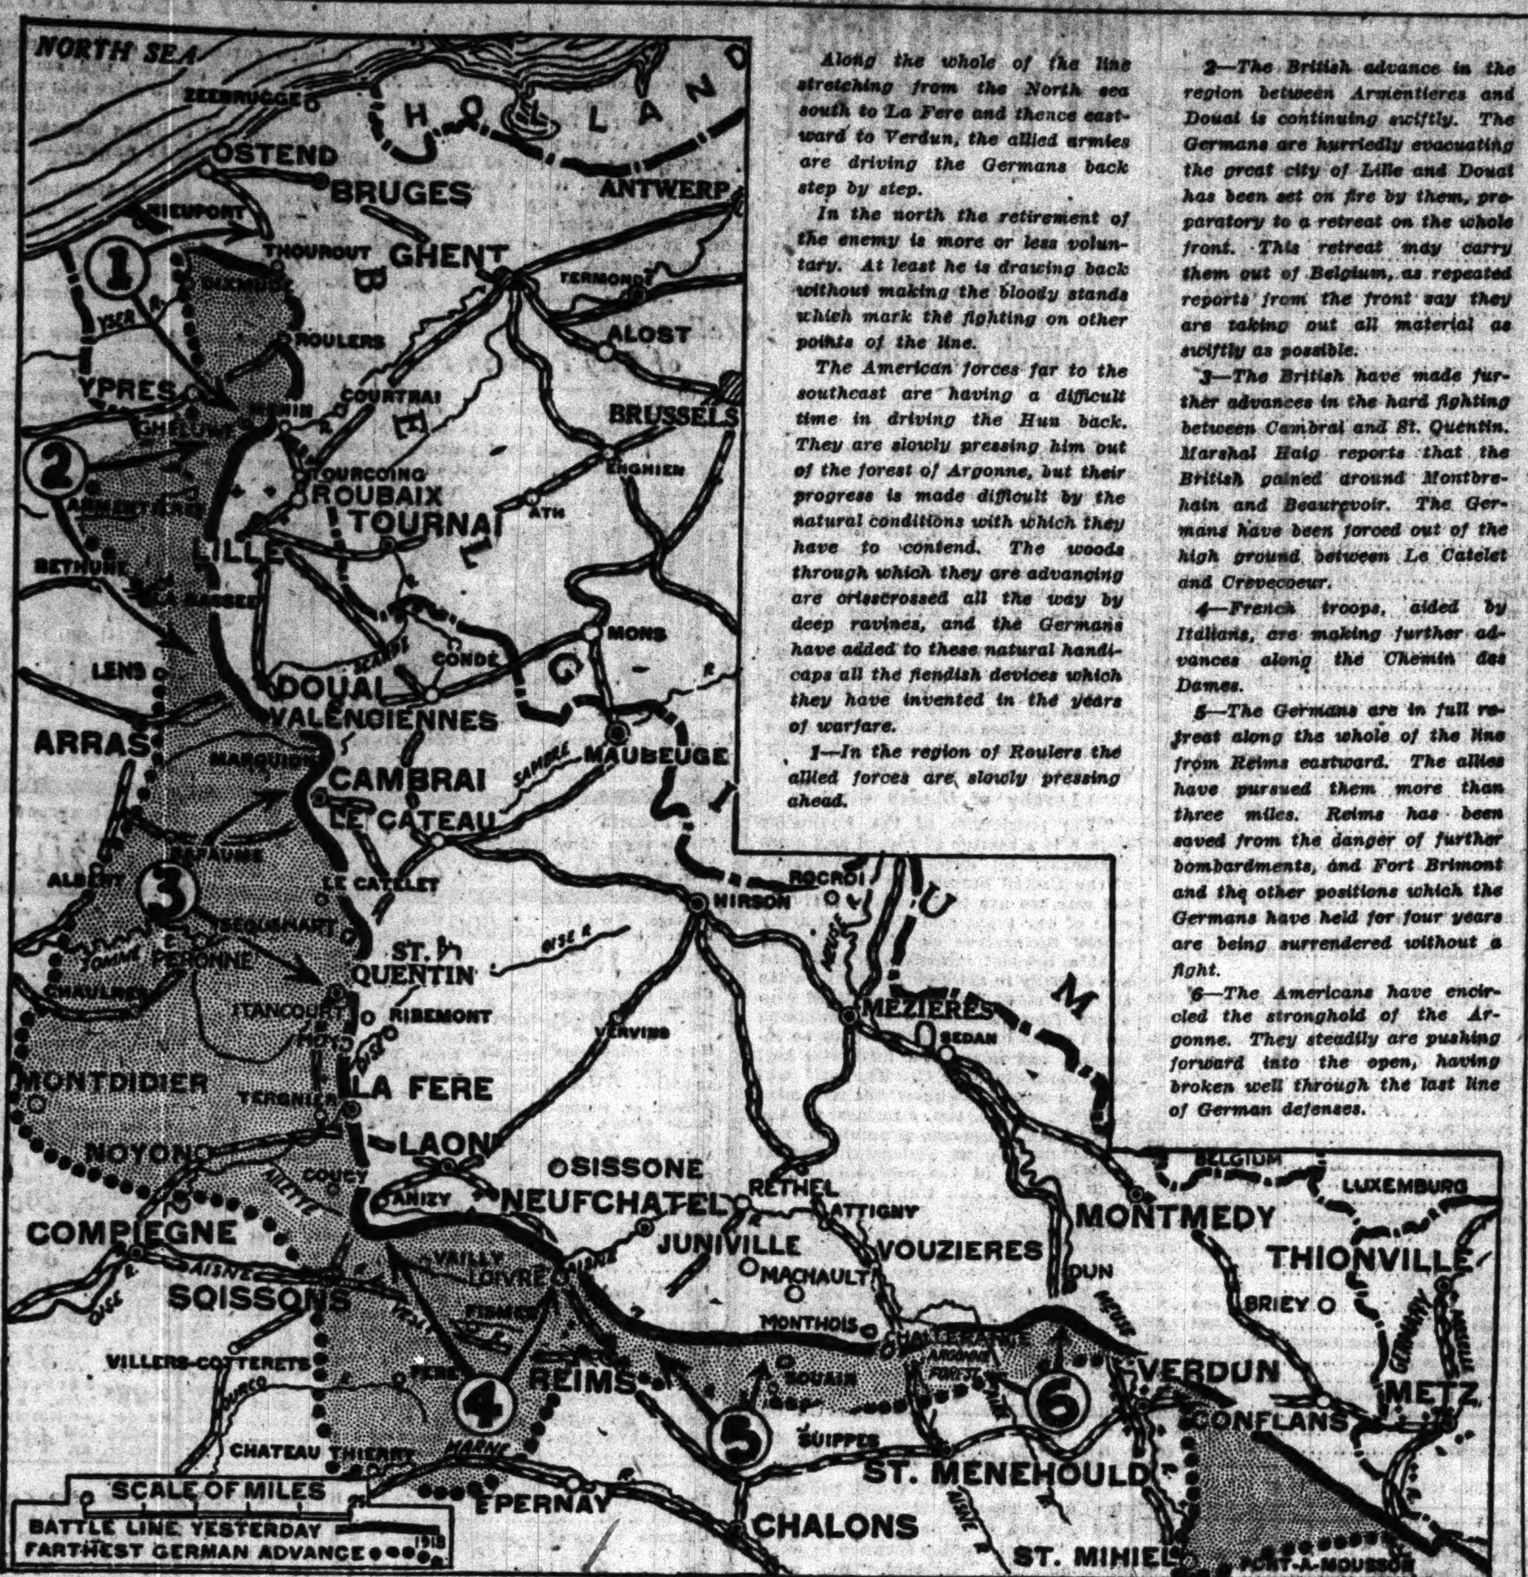
LONDON, Oct. 5.—Norway lost eight vessels from war causes during the month of September, the Norwegian legation here announced today. The aggregate tonnage of these vessels was 11,943. Six sailors lost their lives.

DRIVING THE INVADER FROM FRANCE



Along the whole of the line stretching from the North sea south to La Fere and thence eastward to Verdun, the allied armies are driving the Germans back step by step.

In the north the retirement of the enemy is more or less voluntary. At least he is drawing back without making the bloody stands which mark the fighting on other points of the line.

The American forces far to the southeast are having a difficult time in driving the Hun back. They are slowly pressing him out of the forest of Argonne, but their progress is made difficult by the natural conditions with which they have to contend. The woods through which they are advancing are crisscrossed all the way by deep ravines, and the Germans have added to these natural handicaps all the fiendish devices which they have invented in the years of warfare.

2—The British advance in the region between Armentieres and Douai is continuing swiftly. The Germans are hurriedly evacuating the great city of Lille and Douai has been set on fire by them, preparatory to a retreat on the whole front. This retreat may carry them out of Belgium, as repeated reports from the front say they are taking out all material as swiftly as possible.

3—The British have made further advances in the hard fighting between Cambrai and St. Quentin. Marshal Haig reports that the British gained around Montbrehain and Beaurevoir. The Germans have been forced out of the high ground between Le Catelet and Crevecoeur.

4—French troops, aided by Italians, are making further advances along the Chemin des Dames.

5—The Germans are in full retreat along the whole of the line from Reims eastward. The allies have pursued them more than three miles. Reims has been saved from the danger of further bombardments, and Fort Brimont and the other positions which the Germans have held for four years are being surrendered without a fight.

6—The Americans have encircled the stronghold of the Argonne. They steadily are pushing forward into the open, having broken well through the last line of German defenses.

DYING GERMAN GIVES PRAISE TO FRENCH ARMIES

Feats of Heroism Are Constant in Big Battle.

BY WALTER DURANTY.
Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1918.]

WITH GEN. GOURAUD'S ARMY, Oct. 5.—No higher tribute could be paid to the fighting qualities of the French army than the speech of a dying Prussian captain who asked his captors if he might be allowed to speak to one of their officers.

A lieutenant belonging to a famous colonial division came up, and the wounded man, propping himself painfully on his elbow, gasped in good French:

"I know we are enemies, but, as a professional soldier, I want to tell you I have never seen anything finer than the conduct of your men. Unfortunately for us, you will be in Germany before Christmas; but just the same I want to congratulate you. Will you shake hands with me before I die?"

Overcome All Obstacles.

Words cannot depict the amazing bravery and military skill of Gen. Gourauds' army in the assault on some of the strongest positions in France, held by picked troops and fortified to the utmost by a flood of fire, high explosives, gas, and barbed wire scores of yards deep.

In the second battle position, where the fighting now is in progress, there are few organized trenches, but concrete "pill boxes" defend every vantage point and deep belts of wire bar the advance up the hillsides. Each cluster of trees contains a nest of machine guns, and, wherever possible, notably southwest of Montose and southeast of Challerange, artificial inundations have been created to prevent the use of tanks.

Tank batteries had a superhuman task throughout yesterday's battle and their crews have sacrificed themselves most willingly to help on the infantry advance.

One Man Captures Battery.

Amongst a thousand instances of the bravery of infantry, there are two stories which equal anything in the whole war. The first was the capture by a lone chasseur of a battery of 77s which were pouring a galling fire on the flank of the local attack. The soldier volunteered to tackle them, and the lieutenant commanding the unit replied:

"It is impossible. But we are checked here, and if you want to try it, I won't stop you."

The poilu crept forward under a rain of machine gun bullets, and reached a clump of bushes on a little hill, whence he could sweep the battery with a rifle mitrailleuse. His fire put one gun after another out of action and going on alone he took the useless pieces with their dead and wounded servants lying around them where they had fallen.

Win Trench with Bluff.

At another point Lieut. Le Pouff, with Sergt. Granger and one private, came upon a strongly held boche trench. Le Pouff sent Granger to the western end with a rifle mitrailleuse and ordered him to begin an enfilading fire. When the rata-a-tat showed that he was in position, the lieutenant sent the private round behind the trench to fire his rifle as rapidly as possible and to shout as if encouraging his comrades to the assault.

Then he himself went to the eastern end of the trench and ordered the enemy to surrender. The bluff worked, and one by one 105 boches filed out, placing their weapons in a heap at the feet of the daring Frenchman.

The spirit of the gunners equals that of the tanks and the infantry. One battery of 75s had been unable to move forward, owing to the difficulty of bringing up munitions. Last night the men were eating dinner when the commander received a telephone message that a move was at last possible.

"En avant, mes enfants," he cried; and immediately the men dropped their food tins and rushed cheering to the gun limbers. Ten minutes later the battery was on its way.

GOSSARD CORSETS
The Original Front-Lacing Corsets,

are and always will be indispensable.

New world conditions, demanding the unusual of all patriotic women, have emphasized the superiority of the genuine Gossards. They have become a part of the patriotic war uniform for women.

Only in a Gossard can every woman attain the ideal proportions of her type, an inimitable style and a hygienic support that safeguards her health and assures a priceless all-day comfort.

The perfect Gossard back, with its delightfully flat lines that never have been and never will be attained by those attempting imitations, perfectly supports the spine and back muscles in every position.

The perfect Gossard front eliminates all appearance of fat or thickness and gives a hygienically correct abdominal support that means perfect comfort standing, sitting or bending.

The perfect corset, the orignal front-lacing corset and the only correct expression of front-lacing principles, minimizes fatigue, assures added efficiency and the economy of a wearing service that alone is worth the price you pay, whether it be $2.00, $2.50, $2.75, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.50 or more.

The name Gossard on the inside of the corset is your guarantee of the genuine. Insist upon it. Avoid imitations.

There is at least one store—and without exception the best stores—in every city selling the genuine Gossard Corsets. You can identify them by the Gossard signs displayed in their windows and by their advertising of Gossards.

GERMANS FLEE, DESERTING LILLE, BURNING DOUAI

British Advance in Flanders and at Cambrai.

lied right, where Gen. Gouraud, with his French and American forces having assured command of the Grand Pre gap, has turned his attention toward the plateau east of Reims. Acting in close coöperation with the Fifth army operating north of that city, he has forced the Germans into a pocket, which he now is pinching out. There are signs that the Germans already are making preparations to move back and it will not be long before Reims is freed from the menace of German guns.

On the center the armies of Generals Rawlinson and Debeney continue to force the enemy back toward Bohain, which is on the great Paris-St. Quentin-Maubeuge-Liege railroad, and is one of Gen. Ludendorff's main arteries.

On the left the allies are within four miles of Lille and there are signs that the Germans are preparing to evacuate the seacoast, since their whole northern wing is seriously threatened and the pressure is growing daily more serious. Such an event would be a mortal blow to the German morale, equal to the loss of the Bagdad line, for the pan-Germans always regarded Ostend and Zeebrugge as essential to Germany's world power.

Under the pressure of French and American attacks in Champagne the Germans have retired on their left flank and given up territory east of the heights, according to the war office announcement.

Germans Burning Towns.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Great tongues of flame were shooting up today from the city of Douai and more fires have been started in Cambrai. The Germans also have applied the torch to many villages in the Cambrai area.

As the flames and smoke rolled up from the ruined places they were accompanied by explosions, in which the Germans blew up the stores they were unable to save and which they did not wish to leave behind, fearing they would be used by the British to hasten the German retreat.

It is evident that the Germans were prompted solely by rage in applying the torch to many of the places to which they set fire. They are destroying things of no military value to any one and the destruction of which simply adds to the general devastation of the country.

Destroys Whole District.

Village after village in all the country east and southeast of Cambrai and Douai is ablaze. The German is realizing that he must get out of this country and seems determined to lay it low in his spiteful fury. He has even set fire to the wreckage of ruined houses, while the homes of the peasant poor, in which they might have lived again, have gone up in flames as the Germans retreat.

Everywhere the British were continuing today to make advances, so that the movement is general, even if the push ahead at any particular place is slight. The positions at the breach in the Hindenburg system at Beaurevoir have been further improved, and nearly a thousand prisoners have been taken in this area.

Banks 'Unsafe,' So Dips Get Anthony's $1,000

A couple of weeks ago some of the friends of Anthony Krys of 1424 Augusta street told him banks are most unreliable places in which to keep money. Anthony had $1,000 in one, which he had laid up as result of his labors in a leather goods factory in West Hammond, receiving for said labor the war-time remuneration of $5.70 a day and meals.

Anthony took his thousand from the bank, wrapped it in a handkerchief, and carried it in his left hip pocket. That is, he carried it there until last night. He was alighting from a street car at Sixty-third street and South Park avenue when two men jostled him, apologized profusely, and passed on.

And a little later Anthony told the Grand Crossing police hip pockets are not so mighty reliable either.

HUN WAR MONEY LIKE 'VILLA CASH'

Edwin T. Meyer, manager of the Stratford hotel, has got a German 5 mark bill and doesn't know how to spend it. It just came in, from France, from Bert Talbot, "his soldier" over there. Talbot took it out of a German prisoner's boot.

Talbot also writes to Mr. Meyer on captured German stationery, the official stuff given out to Teuton soldiers at the front, apparently using it in some glee. Speaking of the inclosure, he writes:

"Dear Eddie: Here's 5 marks for you. If you know any one who is talking pro-German just buy something for him and pay in Deutscher geld. Then see of he wouldn't, after all, prefer a good Yankee dollar."

The money looks like pretty poor stuff, cheaper in appearance than the familiar Mexican revolutionary currency, badly printed, and on poor paper.

NOMINATE SOLDIER IN FRANCE.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 5.—The Republican executive committee of the Fourth congressional district of Missouri has filed the name of Col. John D. McNeely of St. Joseph as the party's nominee for representative in congress. Col. McNeely is now attached to the staff of the Second army corps in France

ONLY ONE-SIXTH OF LOAN RAISED IN 7 OF 19 DAYS

Will Have to Go at Rate of $416,000,000 a Day from Now On.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Official reports of Liberty loan subscriptions gathered by banks up to the close of business last night and compiled late today by the treasury showed a total of $1,097,611,650.

"While the actual sales through all agencies probably is somewhat in excess of this figure," the headquarters review said, "the results obtained in the drive thus far are not highly encouraging. The campaign now has gone through seven working days, and only twelve more working days remain. Approximately $5,000,000,000 in subscriptions still must be raised if the total amount asked by Secretary McAdoo is obtained. The daily average which must be achieved between now and Oct. 19, in order to put the loan over the top, is about $416,000,000."

Only Two Districts Keep Pace.

Latest official reports show that only two districts, St. Louis and Boston, are maintaining the pace that must be set if the loan is to be subscribed. Following are the reports by districts:

District—	Subscription.	Pct. of quota.
St. Louis	$123,219,700	47.3
Boston	167,747,750	33.5
Minneapolis	65,977,950	31.4
San Francisco	93,385,600	23.2
Chicago	178,297,750	20.4
Dallas	19,074,050	15.1
New York	266,098,000	14.7
Richmond	40,532,100	14.4
Cleveland	76,326,700	12.7
Philadelphia	57,408,600	11.4
Atlanta	9,543,450	05.0
Kansas City	No report

Churches to Appeal Today.

Tomorrow is Liberty loan Sunday, and at virtually every church service throughout the United States congregations will be urged to buy bonds as a duty toward civilization. In many communities where churches have been closed on account of Spanish influenza outdoor meetings will be held.

New York Still Lags.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The first week of the fourth Liberty loan campaign closed today with the New York district totaling subscriptions of approximately $261,000,000. This figure is illustrative of the lagging rate at which the new bonds are selling, and the campaigners are putting on additional steam to provide a rousing week-end wind-up.

During the remaining two weeks of the drive the New York district must average daily subscriptions of nearly $120,000,000 if New York's contribution to the nation's war chest reaches the $1,800,000,000 quota allotted here.

The gain today was almost $39,000,000, with a subscription of $6,000,000 from the John Hancock Life Insurance company heading the list. There were items of $1,000,000 each from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal company and the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales company. Other subscriptions included many for $50,000, $100,000, and $500,000.

BUY WAR BONDS, MINISTERS URGE AT CONFERENCE

Plans for Memorial to Heroes of the Methodist Church Announced.

Boost the Liberty loan! was the demand yesterday of the Rock river conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session at Sheridan Road church, Sunnyside and Hazel avenues.

"The ministers of Rock river conference urgently call upon all of our people to buy the fourth Liberty bonds to the utmost of their ability," said the resolution, which was passed enthusiastically.

"As a conference we will offer our services to the state bureau for patriotic addresses and we dedicate anew our pulpits to God and our country in these days of stress and strain.

Loyalty of Church Cited.

"The patriotism of the Methodist church is a matter of record and commendation by successive presidents of the United States, and in the present war we are informed that 17 per cent of our great and victorious army record themselves as Methodists."

At a request ministers whose sons are actually in the fighting ranks arise eighteen stood. The names of all who enlist from Methodist congregations in all parts of the world are to be inscribed and kept in a memorial hall in Washington, D. C. The hall will be in a new building which will soon be built under the auspices of the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, as general Methodist headquarters at the national capital. The memorial hall will be one of the features.

The conference went into executive session in the morning to consider the centenary movement for the raising of $80,000,000 for home and foreign missions. After a lengthy discussion the motion to approve was carried with only one dissenting vote. One feature was the decision for Rock River conference to raise $150,000 towards a total of $500,000 to be raised in the four conferences of the state.

Reconstruction and War Speech.

The Rev. Harry F. Ward, professor in Union Theological seminary, New York, spoke on reconstruction and the war. "The first step forward in world reconstruction," he said, "was when the United States entered the war with unselfish motives. It will not be concluded until every nation, in concluding peace, shall be ready to give its strength for the good of all the nations."

The appointment of the Rev. A. M. White as acting chaplain of the state penitentiary at Joliet was announced. The regular chaplain, the Rev. A. J. Patrick, has been granted a year's leave of absence. Dr. White was regular chaplain of the penitentiary when Gov. Fifer was governor of Illinois.

The conference, it is expected, will adjourn tomorrow evening with the reading of the assignments of the ministers. It will meet next year with the St. James church. Bishop Quayle will speak today at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m.

CHICAGO GETS $70,000,000 FOR LOAN IN WEEK

Chicago rolled its Liberty loan total up to $70,000,000 yesterday at the close of the first week of the drive. Subscriptions officially reported for the day were $10,000,000, and again they came from the smaller investor.

The official stack-up for the first week shows the Seventh federal reserve district has raised more than one-half its allotment of $870,000,000. In Chicago, 36 per cent of the time has elapsed, and about 28 per cent of the quota has been raised. It's been great work, so far, but to go over shipshape, the next two weeks must see no slackening of effort. In cold figures, Chicago still has the task of raising $182,000,000, which means $91,000,000 a week for the next two weeks.

Figures for District.

The figures on the Seventh reserve district now stand:

	Subscribed.	Pctge. of quota.
Chicago and Cook county	$ 70,000,000	27.8
Illinois [57 downstate counties]	40,000,000	35.1
Iowa	150,000,000	101.3
Indiana	84,000,000	*77.2
Michigan	98,000,000	66.2
Wisconsin	41,000,000	41.0
Total	$483,000,000	55.5

$70,000,000 Actual Sales.

Chicago's official total of $70,000,000 for the first week represents actual subscriptions reported in through the clearing house. The unofficial estimate of the amount so far raised is considerably more, as many organizations to which allotments have been made are waiting to finish up before sending in reports. The big subscribers are still holding off, waiting until the last days of the drive in order to save interest, and the loan officials yesterday again hammered away on the need for them to send in their subscriptions without delay.

All told 225,000 subscribers are represented in the $70,000,000, which means an average subscription of about $310.

The news from France of the deeds of the Blackhawk division on the fighting front stimulated sales yesterday.

Exceed Third Loan Record.

"Lend your money to the limit and be able to look the boys in the face when they come back," was the cry raised by the loan officials and the 30,000 salesmen. Alvin Kramer, secretary of the Chicago committee, reviewed the week's drive as follows:

"The Chicago clearing house has a total of 225,000 subscriptions amounting to about $70,000,000. For the same period in the third loan the clearing house reports showed approximately 27,000 subscriptions for about $16,500,000.

"In the third loan at the end of the first week Chicago had three weeks ahead in which to raise about $110,000,000.

"At the present moment Chicago has two weeks ahead in which to raise $182,000,000.

"It can readily be seen that the city has a tremendous task ahead and must arouse itself as it has never been aroused before. A great many people are undoubtedly holding back to see what the other fellow is going to do, and I want to say right now that unless every one does his full duty this loan will not be a success."

Largest Subscription of Loan.

The largest subscription Chicago has entered so far came yesterday from Sears, Roebuck & Co. and employés. It was for $3,361,750. Of this amount $1,111,750 was subscribed by the employés, $1,250,000 by the company, and $1,000,000 was cabled by Julius Rosenwald from France.

The wholesale and retail clothing merchants' division has gone over. Its quota is $2,260,000 and it has raised $2,261,000. Hart, Schaffner & Marx yesterday increased their subscription from $700,000 to $750,000.

Sales of $25,000 and More.

Other subscriptions of $25,000 and over were reported as follows:

$200,000.

Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co.

$65,000.

John M. Smyth & Co. and employés.

$60,000.

Melville Clark Piano Co.
Alexander H. Revell & Co. and employés.

$54,000.

Acme Steel Goods.

$50,000.

Lyon & Healy.
Central Bag Mfg. Co. [additional].
A. C. Bartlett.

$40,000.

Fred S. James & Co. employés.

$35,000.

Johnson Chair Co. employés.

$30,000.

Henry Bosch & Co.
Studebaker Corporation.
Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.

$25,450.

Simonds Manufacturing Co.

$25,000.

Western Shade Manufacturing Co.
Packard Motor Co.
B. F. Goodrich Co.
Morris, Mann & Reilly and employés.
Joslyn Manufacturing Co.
Walker Vehicle Co.

Churches of all denominations will aid in the drive today, which is Liberty bond Sunday. Congregations of more than 3,000 churches will be warned not to let the great news from the fighting front lead to any diminishing of effort back home.

Iowa Still Going Ahead.

All five states in the Seventh district are well on their way. Iowa, the first state over the top, is still rolling up the subscriptions.

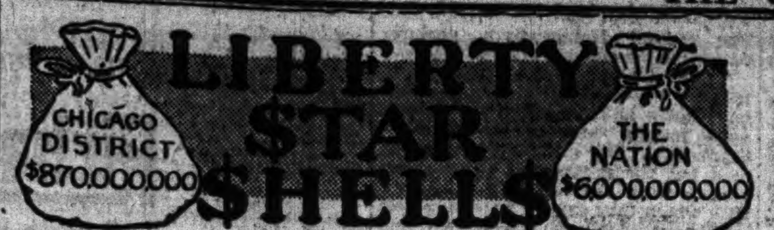
Illinois counties outside of Cook have reported subscriptions in excess of $40,000,000, with favorable advices from most counties.

Indiana outside of Indianapolis has bought 85 per cent of its allotment. Fifteen Indiana counties have gone over and in some there is a big oversubscription.

Detroit has raised more than half its quota, the total to date being $30,000,000 as reported at district headquarters here. Berrien and Sheboygan counties have greatly exceeded their quotas and Michigan, outside of Detroit, has taken 80 per cent of its allotment.

Milwaukee Passes Half Mark.

Milwaukee is making excellent headway, total subscriptions so far aggregating $17,900,000, or about 55 per cent of the city's quota. In the state of Wisconsin eight counties still have the loan campaign ahead of them. With reports in from thirty-seven counties, the total for the state is $41,000,000, or 41 per cent of the quota.



Five locals of the Polish branch of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' and Butcher Workmen's union have subscribed for $20,000.

A. A. Whiting, captain of the Forty-eighth precinct of the Sixth ward, reports that yesterday morning he had 405 subscriptions, totaling $70,950, or 140 per cent of the quota for the precinct.

Prof. Abraham Yohannan, professor of oriental, Hindu, and Uranian languages at Columbia university, and probably the leading Assyrian in America, will speak this afternoon at Nestorian chapel in North State street and this evening at Carter Memorial chapel, 56 West Huron street. He has been appointed racial advisor for Assyrians and Persians in America.

Sergt. Daniel P. McCartney of the One Hundred and Forty-ninth field artillery, who is the youngest old soldier in his regiment, brought a message to Chicago yesterday. He enlisted when he was 68 years old and he will be 70 his next birthday. He served on the Lorraine and Luneville sectors in France until June, when he was gassed and wounded and invalided home. He has three sons in the army and he wants to go back to France himself, but he will be discharged shortly as disabled for service. Here is his word: "The people here don't want to think for a minute the war is over. They must lend their money to the limit until Germany is forced to swallow the same bitter medicine she forced down the throats of other people."

The largest subscription at the board of trade yesterday came from the Illinois Cold Storage company, $25,000.

Subscriptions reported by the lumber and forest products division included J. C. Pennoyer company, $35,000; T. Johnson company, $25,000; G. C. Hixon, $20,000; C. L. Willey & Co., $20,000; J. H. Winterbotham & Sons, $20,000; James D. Lacey & Co., $10,000; Watkins Creosoting company, $10,000; C. W. Goodyear Lumber company, $10,000; John Elzner, $10,000.

Liberty bond sales reported by the board of education are $135,000. Direct results of the children's campaign have aggregated $396,000. This was announced by Mrs. Irving L. Stern, a vice chairman of the Chicago committee, yesterday.

Trade team No. 34 has sold $365,000, of which S. Silverman & Sons subscribed $100,000; Becker Bros., $50,000; H. Mountner, $50,000; A. B. Schubert, $25,000; Bach Fur company, $10,000, and G. W. Paullin, $5,000.

The following are some large subscriptions taken in district No. 58: Thomas Kane, $50,000; S. M. Meyers, $5,000; Close Bros. & Co., $10,000; Dr. Frank E. Simpson, 10,000; J. L. Kraft & Bros. Co. employés, $11,900; American college surgeons, $10,000.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Casualty association has subscribed $50,000 to the fourth Liberty loan. All investments of the Casualty association are now in Liberty loans.

'TRUST NO PARTY EXCEPT ONE OF AMERICA FIRST'

Col. Roosevelt Says Non-Partisan Is Ally of Foe.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 5.—America cannot afford to accept the lead of any party nor of any organization which is not first and foremost American, and nothing but American, declared Col. Theodore Roosevelt here tonight in an address in which he outlined various phases of the war and its sidelights.

"There are real and grave causes for complaint among the farmers in the northwest," the former president continued, as he read from a paper figures which purported to show discrepancies in connection with the prices paid for wheat and in freight rates, but he asserted that "many of the remedies proposed are not only false, but mischievous, and very grave harm may be caused by the character of the agitation conducted by some of the men who profess to be seeking these remedies.

State Socialism Menace.

"To introduce state socialism as a relief for these conditions would result in nothing but widespread damage. Some of the conditions complained of can be met by state action. There should be federal control of elevators and flour mills with established terminal elevators at convenient points.

"But I emphatically disbelieve in any party, and especially if that party calls itself a nonpartisan party, which organizes a single class against other classes. I object just as strongly whether such a political organization claims to be in the interest of townspeople, or country people, of merchants, lawyers, farmers, or wage earners.

Aid and Comfort Enemy.

"When the Nonpartisan league first appeared I was inclined to welcome it and it was with real reluctance that I was obliged to believe that the leadership that controlled it was of such a character as to threaten this country with evils analogous to those which came from Bolshevism abroad and from I. W. W.-ism at home.

"Finally, the meeting of the league at Minneapolis about a year ago was turned into a ghost dance of the Huns-within-our-gates, and it became evident to me that in so far as they dared the most prominent leaders of the league were playing the game of sedition and disloyalty, and that they were seeking to acquire power by pandering to and influencing the base spirit of greed and envy and ignorance and class hatred. They were trying to do what Lenine and Trotzky have done to Russia.

"The I. W. W. leaders have been convicted of disloyalty and yet it was to the head of this organization, W. D. Haywood, that the secretary of the Nonpartisan league wrote on April 5, 1917, a letter in which he spoke of 'this damned war business.'

"There isn't a German abroad, or a pro-German at home who does not wish success to the Nonpartisan league as at present controlled and to the I. W. W."

Only Two Issues Now.

Col. Roosevelt asserted that the two great issues at this time were to put through the war successfully and insist on thoroughgoing Americanism.

In connection with Germany's proposal to enter a league of nations, Mr. Roosevelt vehemently declared that until Germany has been "beaten to her knees and just so long as Germany is under her present government, to allow her to join such a league would be like asking outlaws, train robbers, and gunmen to join a sheriff's posse as guardians of the peace."

CONVICT MINNESOTA SLAYER.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 5.—F. R. Stevenson, slayer of Elmer Mead last May 21, was found guilty last night of manslaughter of the first degree. The verdict carries an indeterminate sentence from five to twenty years. Stevenson shot and killed Mead and attempted to kill his own wife. He pleaded "temporarily insane" during the trial.

OPENING ANNOUNCEMENT
A Woman's Apparel Store in Every Sense —Conceived, Planned and Supervised by Women

HARVEY & CO.
135-137 STATE STREET

This is essentially a woman's era, and it has remained for Harvey & Co. to recognize this tendency of the times in the conduct of its business, purely as a measure of increased efficiency. This is the policy, the innovation that greets Chicago women with the opening of this high class, ready-to-wear establishment.

Each and every department head is chosen for her particular aptitude in the line she represents. And when you select a suit, coat, or dress, a gown, a fur piece, hat or blouse, you do so with the comforting assurance that it interprets the mode of the moment—that it visualizes all that is refined, correct and stylish in the domain of fashion.

Through the active and harmonious co-operation of these high class designers and specialists the new Harvey & Co. apparel store is peculiarly equipped to predict a sound, substantial success from the start.

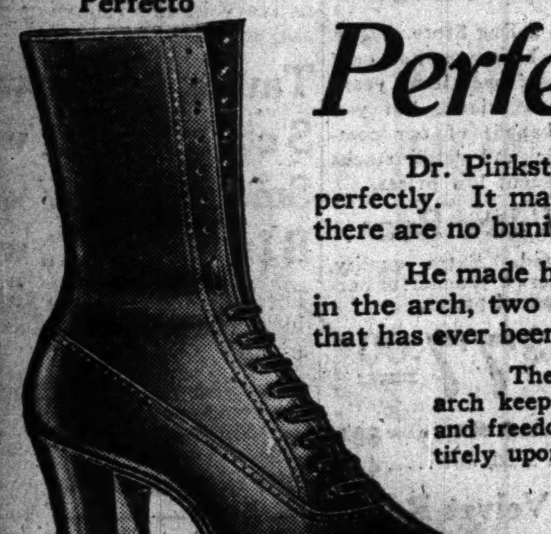
Perfecto



Perfect Shoe Comfort

Dr. Pinkston calls his special shoe the Perfecto because it fits all feet perfectly. It matters not whether your bunions are large or small or whether there are no bunions at all.

He made his shoe two widths narrower in the heel, one width narrower in the arch, two widths wider through the ball of the foot than any other shoe that has ever been made.

The narrow heel prevents the shoe from slipping up and down. The narrow arch keeps the foot from sliding forward. The broad ball gives perfect comfort and freedom to the toes. The entire comfort and grace of walking depends entirely upon the proper articulation of the ball of the foot.

Most people have the mistaken idea that to have the feet comfortably dressed it requires an unsightly shoe. The Perfecto is truly a stylish shoe and not an anatomic shoe, nor has it a stiff, heavy, clumsy broad toe and flat heel, such as is recommended for foot comfort.

Dr. Pinkston has solved the foot problem. He can relieve you of all your foot troubles and cure nine-tenths, regardless of the nature or condition of the ailment. He was forced to originate and design a comfortable, dressy shoe for ladies. His motto is not only to cure foot troubles but to prevent them and to keep the feet well after they have been cured, and that is just what the Perfecto does. Dr. Pinkston has absolutely the most scientific method in the world of making and fitting shoes in connection with his foot specialty work. COME IN TODAY.

FALSE PROMISES CROWD HISTORY OF THE KAISERS

Old Hohenzollern Traits Told by Schurz Are Now Shown by Wilhelm.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Carl Schurz was, perhaps, the greatest American of German blood. Twenty years ago he wrote his reminiscences. They were published in McClure's Magazine, and later in book form. At that time the present war was only an evil and secret dream of German autocracy.

Yet in his book Schurz speaks now from the grave in words of solemn warning, not only to the people of the allies but to the Germans themselves. What he writes applies exactly to the present situation in Europe. No one can read his thrilling story of the double betrayal of the German people without being startled by the parallel between what happened then and what is happening now in the central empires.

The message of Carl Schurz is that the Hohenzollern princes of Germany come of a perjured strain, which is also tainted with egoistic insanity. He adds to the warning of the psalmist—"Put not your trust in princes"—the repeated testimony of German history.

Danger Past, Promises Broken.

In times of peril to the dynasty—as Schurz points out—the forefathers of the present kaiser have always been quick to rally the people by bribing them with promises of popular government and the abolition of arbitrary rule. When the danger is past they are equally quick to refuse any reforms and to suppress popular uprisings with Prussian bayonets.

Schurz tells how the present kaiser's great-grandfather, Frederick William IV., thus lied to his people, and how that monarch's father, Frederick William III., set him an earlier example of the same kind. The readers of Schurz may judge how much confidence is to be put in the present similar promises and frightened pleadings of Kaiser William II.

"In 1813," writes Schurz, "King William III. of Prussia issued from the town of Kalisch his famous manifesto, in which he called the German people to arms, promising at the same time a new national union and participation of the people in the business of government under constitutional forms.

National Empire a Dream.

"The new birth of a united German, national empire, the abolition of arbitrary government by the introduction of free political institutions—that was the solemn promise of the Prussian king as the people understood it—that was the hope which inspired the people in the struggle against Napoleonic rule with enthusiastic heroism and a self-sacrifice without limit, and ended in a final victory."

But out of the peace "issued nothing for the German nation . . . but the famous 'Deutsche Bund,' the organ of which was to be the bundestag, composed of representatives of the various German kings and princes, without any vestige of representation of the people. There was no mention of any guarantee of civic rights, of a popular vote, of a free press, of the freedom of assembly, of a trial by jury. . . . The mere reminder on the part of the people of his own promises made in 1813 was resented by him as an arrogant self-assertion of subjects. The outcome was a period of . . . cruel persecutions of patriotic men, of barbarous press gagging, of brutal police excesses.

"The pledges made to the German nation by the German princes in 1813 were shamefully violated. It was a time of deepest humiliation. Even the Frenchmen, who had felt the edge of the German sword, derided, not without reason, the pitiable degradation of the victor."

William II. Repeats Promise.

Listen now to Kaiser Wilhelm II., the present ruler of Germany. In his telegram of Oct. 1 to the fatherland party he calls upon "the whole German people in these most serious times to resolutely gather around me and give their blood and wealth until the last breath in defense of the fatherland." And in his telegram to Chancellor von Hertling the kaiser adds the traditional promises of popular government in return for popular support.

In 1840 the perjured king, Frederick William III., died, and his son, the fourth of that name, came to the Prussian throne. Frederick William IV. seems to have been very like his great-grandson, the present kaiser.

"He was possessed," writes Schurz, "of a mystical faith in the absolute power of kings, by the grace of God. He indulged himself in romantic imaginings about the political and social institutions of the Middle Ages. He was full of sudden whims. He possessed the ambition to do something great and thus to engrave his name upon the history of the world."

Fails to Deceive His People.

The German people appealed to him to make good the promises made by his father. "He thought he could satisfy the people with an appearance of participation in the government, without, however, in the least limiting the omnipotence of the crown. But the experiment of appearing to give and of really withholding everything was bound to fail."

King Frederick William IV. created an assembly "which was to have the look of a parliament and yet not to be one." He yielded to the popular clamor in so doing and then he declared that he, the king, "would never have called this assembly had he ever suspected in the slightest degree that its members would try to play the part of so-called representatives of the people."

All through the '40s the political ferment continued in Germany. In 1848, following the establishment of the French republic, all Germany flamed into popular demands for reform. Frederick William IV. was flooded with petitions which "he at first received with sullen silence."

Uprising in Berlin.

Revolts broke out in various parts of Germany. Finally the people of Berlin rose against the king. The Prussian army was not able to subdue them, though many were killed on both sides. The terrified Frederick William IV. ordered the troops to withdraw. Then the people, carrying the bodies of their dead and with arms still in hand, invaded the interior court of the imperial palace and summoned the king to appear before them.

When, with the weeping queen beside him, he stepped out upon an upper balcony, a deep voice cried, "Off with your hat!" The king obeyed, uncovered, and stood powerless in the presence of his betrayed people.

At the same time the prince who was to become Kaiser William I., grandfather of the present kaiser, fled from Germany and took refuge in England. He was charged with having ordered the troops to fire on the people of Berlin and was called the "Grapeshot Prince."

Two days later Frederick William IV. raised a tri-color flag over the royal palace and, wearing the colors of the revolution on his arm, rode out on horseback and promised the people of Berlin all and more than they had asked for.

It was announced that a "new and responsible ministry had been appointed, composed of members of the liberal opposition; that a constituent assembly to be elected by the Prussian people should be convoked to frame a constitution for the kingdom of Prussia and a national parliament to be elected by the people of all the German states for the purpose of uniting all Germany under a constitutional government."

For a little while the king seemed to remain favorable to democratic reform. He even declared that "all the concessions made by him had been made of his own free will, and according to his own convictions and that nobody should dare to question this."

But the army, the court nobility and the junkers gradually got the king's ear. He ordered the national assembly to adjourn. He sent Prussian soldiers to seize all the machinery of government. The people were called to arms. There were revolutionary uprisings in many parts of the country, which were put down ruthlessly. There were many executions and Schurz, with hundreds of other patriots, fled from Germany. The second Hohenzollern perjurer completed his conquest of the people.

"The German revolutionists of 1848," wrote Schurz, "fought for German unity and free government and were mainly defeated by Prussian bayonets. They committed many errors, but the greatest of these errors sprang from the childlike confidence with which they expected the complete fulfillment of all the promises which the kings and princes, especially the king of Prussia, had made under stress of circumstances.

"Frederick William IV., who more than any man of his time had cherished a mystic belief in the special divine inspiration of kings—Frederick William IV. fell insane and had to drop the reins of government."

Was Carl Schurz, quite unintentionally, a prophet?

10 BODIES NAME VICE COMMITTEE; WORK WITH U. S.

Organizations Told How Chicago Is to Be Made Model City.

Chicago is to be made a 1918 standard, war department model, clean town. The city administration is to have the privilege of performing this little job for Uncle Sam—first chance at it, anyway.

If the city officials do not make the city "very, very clean," putting through "certain new ordinances" and remedying "certain existing conditions," the state will be given a chance. But behind it all is the government assurance that this job will be done.

This was what a group of civic workers and social reformers were told at the City club conference yesterday by Capt. George J. Anderson, the war department expert on vice cleanups.

Asks Only Coöperation.

Capt. Anderson made no threats. He made it plain that he expects coöperation from the officials of Chicago and that he will take this attitude in a meeting which he will hold with them next Tuesday.

And back of him, in this social revolution that is coming to Chicago, will stand as one united force all the various organizations that have been fighting vice for so many years in this city with indifferent and varying results.

More than fifty men and women, leaders in ten different social work organizations, decided after Capt. Anderson's talk to organize into one body for the purpose of this campaign.

Prof. Mead Chairman.

Prof. George H. Mead of the University of Chicago was made chairman of the organization committee. All other strong organizations of the city are to be invited to join this new, driving wedge on the forces of evil.

Capt. Anderson spoke of the whole situation as a battle, a fight in which he has become familiar with conditions in more than 200 cities in this country.

"When I go into a town," he said, "I could almost dictate bulletins for the chief of police and the mayor. The chief's would run like this:

"'The lid is on tighter than ever in this city. I have instructed every patrolman to do his duty. The city is cleaner than ever in its history.'

"And the mayor's:

"'I have repeatedly instructed the chief of police to do his duty. I refer you to my letters of June 3, June 17, July 10, etc., etc.'"

Override if Necessary.

"We must work with the constituted authorities," he said. "We want to work through and with these people, but we do not hesitate to go over them with a steam roller if we have to.

"We recognize that the officials in every town must be regarded as willing to coöperate. They must be given the benefit of the doubt. Here and there you will find a black sheep who thinks he can profit by corralling the anti-war and anti-reform forces against us. But as a rule even officials elected by the worst elements are ready to turn the city over to us.

"It is useless for me to tell you, I suppose, that certain people here could be converted to certain policies. We hope to have a little revival meeting soon and expound the gospel of Baker and Daniels. And we are great little converters. It may be hard for the leopard to change his spots, but lots of them are doing it.

New Ordinances Needed.

"I am going to ask certain things of the authorities here. Certain ordinances are needed. Certain conditions exist that must be remedeid. There are other things that will be hard to do, even if the officials do their duty.

"The city is not a clean 1918 standard war department model until it is very, very clean. We can never be satisfied until sources of infection have been removed."

Capt. Anderson and Lieut. E. R. Beckwith, his aid, told of the nationwide campaign against vice, and showed by charts its good effect on the army.

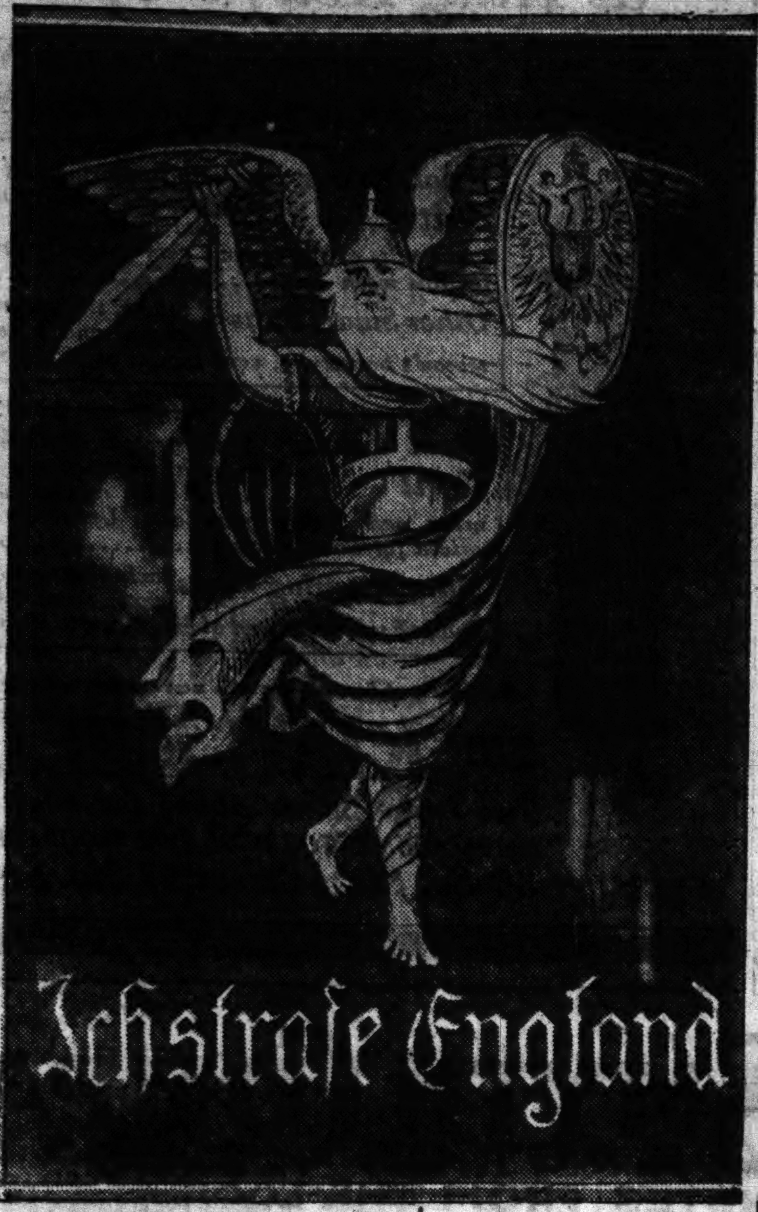
Tuesday's conference of city, county, state, and federal officials will be held in the office of United States Attorney Clyne in the federal building.

Capt. Anderson, with his aids, Capt. J. H. Robinson and Lieut. Beckwith, held an hour's conference with Acting Chief of Police Alcock and also with Dr. John Dill Robertson, city health commissioner, yesterday.

Dr. Robertson submitted a report to the army officers which had been made to Mayor Thompson on social diseases and told of the passage of the first ordinance bearing on the subject.

VON GOTT ON THE JOB

Germans Vent Hate of England on Window Plates, Chinaware, Desk Articles, Clocks, Women's Handbags and Pocket Books.



The above photograph was taken of a red plate window glass in Germany. It was shown at the exhibition of war curiosities which took place at the Hague on July 17 to 30 of this year.

The Von Gott strafing picture stood at the back of the "Gott Strafe England" table at the exhibition. This table was devoted entirely to various articles, such as desk accessories, glass and china ware, and women's handbags and pocket books. All of these bore the inscription of hatred for the Briton, "Gott Strafe England." A picture of a clock also bore the message of hate, in the center of which a serpent, with its fangs protruding, helped along the gentle thought.

The reader will notice in the above reproduction that Gott is protected by the Prussian shield and waves the good German sword. A minute study of the photograph reveals that Gott's toes are spread apart, as if they, too, were itching to claw at the sons of Britain.

Another feature of the exhibition was the photograph of a German poster showing the kaiser seated in front of a table surrounded by his high military advisers, including Von Hindenburg and Von Tirpitz, father of the submarine warfare. The caption below this picture reads: "Aus grosser Zeit," which liberally translated means, "Great Times."

Still another exhibit in the collection shows a picture of the kaiser modestly designated as "a man with God."

FLYING POSTMAN OF NAVY BRINGS WAR LOAN BOOST

Sailors' Message Opens Great Lakes-Chicago Air Mail Service.

Fifty thousand bluejackets at Great Lakes sent Chicago a message yesterday by airplane. It was to the effect that if Chicago will come across with its share of the dough to float the fourth Liberty loan the navy will float 2,000,000 more doughboys across the water to float the flag the other side of the Rhine.

The appeal from Capt. Moffett and the bluejackets was brought by a hydroplane driven by Lee Hammond of the Great Lakes flying corps. It marked the establishment of a regular aerial mail service between Chicago and the station. Accompanying him were Leroy Hennessey and H. F. Reutlinger of the flying forces.

They were met at Grant park by Charles W. Folds, chairman of the Liberty loan committee; Charles H. Schweppe, director seventh federal reserve district; Capt. Evers, Samuel T. Gerson, and F. H. Russ. The throng at the landing place cheered as the messages were read.

Capt. Moffett's Message.

Capt. Moffett's appeal said:

To our neighbors of Chicago and vicinity: Fifty thousand bluejackets who have dedicated themselves to the undying principles of liberty, democracy, and justice urge you to back them to the absolute limit. This you can do by putting Chicago over the top in the Liberty loan drive. They know what you expect of them. I want you to know what they expect of you.

"Buy Liberty Bonds."

The bluejackets' message follows:

To Chicago, from the bluejackets of Great Lakes Naval Training station:

This inaugural flight of the Great Lakes-Chicago aerial mail service establishes a new and closer bond, a "Liberty bond," between Chicago and Great Lakes. The word we are sending to you, borne by one of our own number, from 45,000 sailors in training, from 100,000 who have gone to sea, and from their commandant, Capt. William A. Moffett, is this:

Buy Liberty bonds.

If Chicago's 2,500,000 patriots will come across with their share of the dough to float the fourth Liberty loan, we'll put across the water 2,000,000 more doughboys, or as many more as may be needed, to float the banner of liberty "over there" and keep it afloat.

4 CHICAGO MEN IN SERVICE DIE OF PNEUMONIA

Thirteen of City's Heroes on Day's Casualty Reports.

Thirteen Chicagoans were named in the official casualties yesterday, six in the day list and seven at night. Several not yet officially announced were reported by relatives to THE TRIBUNE.

Among these was Corporal Richard H. Le Gros, died of pneumonia, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Le Gros of 1430 North Artesian avenue. He was in the ordnance corps and was stationed at the Edgewood arsenal, Maryland. He was formerly a bookkeeper with the Illinois Trust and Savings bank. The body will arrive here today and funeral services will be held probably Tuesday, with burial in the Bohemian national cemetery.

Other Pneumonia Deaths.

Three other deaths from pneumonia were reported as follows: Capt. F. B. Laramie, construction department engineer corps, Camp Humphrey, Washington, D. C.; Michael Angarola, a student at the United States naval auxiliary reserve school at municipal pier, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Angarola, live at 4932 Winthrop avenue, and Seaman Harry T. Reipschneider of the naval hospital corps at Newport, R. I., residence 2232 Wesley avenue, Evanston.

Relatives have received word that Private Willard Mann, Company G, One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry, was killed in action. His home is at 4131 North Lawndale avenue.

Detective Sergt. John Connell of the state's attorney's office has been notified of the wounding in action of his nephew, Private John J. Lilley of the Eighteenth field artillery.

Named in Official Lists.

In the official casualties Private Peter J. Klopp, killed in action, was with Company C, One Hundred and Fourth infantry. His father, F. Klopp, lives at 1129 Felton court.

Of the wounded severely Private Richard Haffner is with the Three Hundred and Forty-fourth infantry and lives at 3123 Oakley avenue; Private Martin M. Simons, Company G, Forty-seventh infantry, lives at 1216 South Homan avenue, and Private Alfred Bychowski, Company M, One Hundred and Twenty-eighth infantry, lives at 2208 West North avenue.

Notification has been received of the wounding in action of Lieut. Frank Allbright, Company H, One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry. His home is at 652 Orange street, Elgin.

Names of all Chicagoans officially announced will be found in the lists.

ASKS FUNDS FOR FRENCH CENTER

An appeal for funds for the proposed Maison Francaise at the University of Chicago has been made by the French consul, A. Barthélemy. He has applied to a number of Chicagoans who have displayed unusual interest in France.

President Harry Pratt Judson of the university has given the project his entire approval. "It can be done if friends of French teaching are able to provide funds, which are not available in the university budget for such purpose," he wrote to Mr. Barthélemy. "I am sure the organization of a Maison Francaise will give a decided impetus to the interest in France and in the literary achievements of France which already is so considerable and is growing rapidly in the university."

A Maison Francaise has been established at New York and at the University of Wisconsin. The Poles of Chicago are contributing to the project here "as a token of admiration and real friendship for glorious France," and the Bohemians are preparing to do the same.

Grocer Held as Fake Liberty Bond Salesman

Frank Novotony, 4300 North Lawndale avenue, a grocer, was arrested by federal agents yesterday for representing himself as a government operative and with having taken subscriptions from customers for Liberty bonds, later failing to deliver the bonds. It is also charged that he collected money for coal, telling customers he was authorized to sell fuel by the government.

HER 9 BROTHERS, HUSBAND, IN WAR, SHE DOES HER BIT

At a large commercial school in Chicago, studying office work so as to do her part in the war, is a Frenchwoman who has nine brothers and a husband in the fighting forces of the allies.

She is Mrs. Alice Carter, whose husband, W. J. Carter, although considerably over the draft age and a veteran of the Boer war, is now in the United States aviation service in Texas. He is an expert machinist and was formerly in the automobile repair business in Chicago.

Carter, who is of English birth, married Alice Latour in Paris eight years ago and then came to America, where he was naturalized. He also has three brothers fighting on the western front.

"Unless one of my brothers is killed I will know nothing about them except indirectly," said Mrs. Carter. "Wounds are so—what do you say?—the common thing that we do not fuss over them any more. When a French soldier is wounded it is merely part of the day's work and he only mentions it casually."

Chicago Woman Directing Art Work of the Red Cross

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Miss Grace Heron of Chicago, who has been at the head of the art division of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, has arrived in Washington to take charge of the work of organizing and directing from the national headquarters the pictorial publicity of all the chapters. WOMAN 'DOCTOR' TAKEN AS QUACK BY STATE BOARD

Charge Bertha C. Day Raymond Operates Without License.

From the foreign district back of the yards, where they have been gunning assiduously for quack doctors for weeks past, state authorities yesterday jumped into the south shore residence district and raided the offices of "Dr." Bertha C. Day Raymond of 2675 East Seventy-fourth street. She is charged with practicing medicine without a license.

The arrest of Dr. Day Raymond—records of Indiana identify her as Bertha Day of Fort Wayne patent medicine mail order fame—was the culmination of a protracted effort by inspectors from the office of Dr. Francis Shepardson, head of the Illinois department of education and registration, to obtain evidence against her.

Has No Illinois License.

"Dr." Day Raymond has never had a license in Illinois. Her applications have been twice refused. Her name appears in the Chicago telephone directory with an "M. D." after it, however, and on the brick porch of the Raymond home, only three or four doors from the lake shore, appears a large brass plate bearing the "doctor's" name with the "M. D." attachment. Records seized by the state authorities indicated the "doctor" has done a thriving business in the south shore district. She is alleged to have been engaged in active practice there for several years.

State authorities had been unable to obtain for themselves direct evidence against her. Yesterday, however, she accepted as a patient James W. Brown of the Planters hotel. She diagnosed his case as nervous indigestion, gave him medicine, collected $3, and said that if he did not improve in two weeks she would give him other treatment. She remarked that he might be afflicted with "gastric ulcer."

Takes Arrest Calmly.

Later Patient Brown returned, wearing a state inspector's star and accompanied by two detectives from the Grand Crossing police station. "Dr." Day-Raymond was placed under arrest and later was released under bonds of $400. Her arrest failed to disturb her. She smiled and chatted with the detectives while her husband was being summoned from the basement to be told that his wife was under arrest.

"Dr." Bertha Day Raymond, as Dr. Bertha Day, first applied for a license in Illinois on Jan. 27, 1913, through reciprocity with Indiana, where she had been practicing. It was refused when Dr. Gott, then secretary of the Indiana state board, refused to recommend her for a license because she had "employed questionable methods in connection with a mail order concern at Fort Wayne, Ind., known as the Bertha C. Day company."

Evanston "Doctor" Accused.

"Dr." William F. Frisk, a "drugless healer," who has had an office in Evanston and has been living in Wilmetter, was another of the fraternity to be charged yesterday with practicing without a license. "Dr." Frisk, the state authorities say, has no license of any kind.

ROSALIE WACKER NOW BRIDE OF MAJ. ZIMMERMAN

Army Officers Lend Color to Military Wedding at Fourth Church.

The Fourth Presbyterian church was simply but impressively decorated with the allied flags for the wedding of Miss Rosalie Wacker and Maj. Earle J. Zimmerman, which took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Charles H. Wacker, wore an ivory white satin gown, made in a quaint style with flowing sleeves and trimmed with exquisite old point lace, a family heirloom that belonged to her mother. The long satin train was caught at the bottom with silver ribbon and a spray of orange blossoms. Her net veil was fastened to her head with a wreath of silver leaves and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Frederick Glade Wacker, matron of honor, and Miss Louise Hessert, maid of honor, wore electric blue charmeuse gowns, gracefully draped, and large black hats.

Bridesmaids in Gray Frocks.

The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Adsit, Miss Elizabeth Grey, Miss Janet Pauling, Miss Katharine Pierce, Miss Elisabeth Ware, and Mrs. Seymour Morris Jr., wore frocks of silver gray charmeuse with touches of electric blue, and black hats. They carried bouquets of Ophelia roses, cornflowers, and gypsaphelia.

The Rev. Timothy E. Stone, pastor of the church, read the service, assisted by the Rev. W. R. Dobyns of St. Joe, Mo. Maj. Zimmerman's best man was Brig. Gen. A. D. Kniskern, and the ushers were Maj. C. H. Canby Jr., Maj. George F. Mayer, Capt. Seymour Morris Jr., Capt. C. E. Roach, Lieut. E. Colmore Rogers, Lieut. Dwight Smith, Lieut. Paul D. Webster, and Lieut. Col. George F. Unmacht.

The wedding was one of the most beautiful and dignified military weddings that has taken place in Chicago. Leading the bridal party as they entered the church were three soldiers of the United States army, the one in the center being the standard bearer.

Reception at Wacker Residence.

A reception at the residence of the bride's father at 1431 North State parkway followed the ceremony. The house was decorated in flags and roses. Maj. Zimmerman is in the quartermaster's corps, United States army, and is stationed in Chicago.

Among the friends who attended the wedding are:

Miss Mary Rend, Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin, Miss Margaret Conover, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, Miss Marion Strobel, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Miss Elizabeth Chase, Mrs. Ira Couch Wood, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, Mrs. George Blossom, Miss Catherine Blossom, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Butler, Mrs. Austin H. Niblack, Mrs. Leander J. McCormick, Mrs. Vaughan Spalding, Mrs. Lowell M. Chapin, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Magnus, Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon, Mrs. Henry A. Blair, Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. Jacob Bauer, Miss Josephine Palmer, Miss Harriet McLaughlin, Mrs. William C. Pullman, Miss Margaret Pullman, Miss Helen Hoyne, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Mark Walton, Miss Edith Rosenfield, Walter H. Wilson, and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins.

NEW CITY NORMAL SCHOOL PLANNED

Superintendent of Schools Peter A. Mortenson announced yesterday that a new normal school may be opened in Chicago this year. The Chicago Normal college, Stewart avenue and Sixty-eighth street, is not sufficiently accessible to the north, northwest, and west sides, and for this reason, according to Supt. Mortenson, is failing to draw students.

"No definite plan has been formulated yet," he said yesterday, "but we will probably consider soon the establishment of either a new school or a branch of the present one for the north or west side of the city. This fall only 170 students enrolled at the Chicago Normal school. Obviously the number of young people entering the teaching profession is decreasing and the shortage of teachers may make itself felt next year."

Automobile Kills Boy; Driver Held by Police

Joseph Carda, 5 years old, 735 East Ninety-second place, was struck by an automobile yesterday at Cottage Grove and Burnside avenues. He died at the Burnside hospital. Michael Danek, 3257 South Leavitt street, owner and driver of the car, is being held.

BOY KILLED BY MILK WAGON.

Peter Schneid, 10 years old, 1260 West Thirty-first street, was killed yesterday when he was run over by a milk wagon driven by his uncle, Oscar Past of 6431 South Hoyne avenue. The boy fell from the wagon step when the horse bolted at West Sixty-fourth street and South Talman avenue.

U. S. OPERATIVES TAKE UP HUNT FOR KELLEHER SLAYER

Plot to Burn Stockyards Rumored in Murder of War Policeman.

Federal operatives and city detectives both took up the hunt yesterday for the slayers of Policeman John Kelleher, whose body was found in Bubbly creek on Friday. At the coroner's inquest yesterday Mrs. Kelleher hysterically cried:

"John was murdered. I know he was."

It was shown at the inquest that his watch had stopped at 8:37 o'clock. A switchman was found who had passed him and spoken to him at 8:20 o'clock the night he disappeared. Patrol Sergeant John Duffy testified he had seen him at 8:05.

Lungs Indicate Murder.

Physicians examining the body said the wounds on his head might have been caused by the body bumping against piling along the side of the river. However, the fact that blood was found in Kelleher's lungs by the surgeons who made the post-mortem examination added to the belief he had been slain and thrown into the river.

Kelleher was a wartime guard and his beat was a distance of 100 feet in front of the Wilson Co. plant. He had told his wife at various times of persons trying to force their way past him and into the plant, she said.

Plot to Fire Yards Hinted.

There were rumors also that the government was working on information leading them to believe Kelleher was killed as a part of an enemy plot to set fire to stockyards plants. A camp of Mexicans was searched for evidence in the belief that some Mexican, possibly because of some fancied wrong, had killed the policeman.

Mrs. Kelleher said her husband had told her of Mexicans causing him trouble by trying to get into the plant against the rules of the company and against orders given to him. The inquest was continued to Oct. 18 to give time for investigation.

Barber Romancer Is Free, but His Romance Is Dead

George Victor Cuttle, barber, is free, but his romance with Miss Ethel Lang, cashier for Klee Bros., Milwaukee and Ashland avenues, is dead. The "tonsorial artist," who impersonated a "munitions inspector," was questioned by federal operatives yesterday after a night in a cell. Cuttle, who is employed in a barber shop at 2312 Milwaukee avenue, is said to have told Miss Lang that he must be married within a month in order to obtain an $8,000 legacy. She says he represented himself to be a government officer, adopting the vocation of a barber so he might "carry on important work unsuspected."

ANTI-TRACTION MEETING CALLED

A meeting called by Mayor Thompson to protest against the new traction ordinance is to be held tomorrow afternoon in the city council chamber. The mayor will preside at the meeting.

Invitations were sent to several organizations known to be against the ordinance to have representatives present. The Cook County Real Estate board and the Greater Chicago federation led the opposition to the measure.

State's Attorney Hoyne, who also is opposed to the measure, may have one of his representatives on hand.

'WAR NOT OVER, HIT FOE HARD,' DANIELS SAYS

Navy Chief Pays Tribute to Douglas at State Centennial.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5.—"The war is not yet over. We must hit Potsdam a knockout blow now and end the rule of autocracy for all time."

"This was the substance of an address made here tonight before several hundred members of the Midday Luncheon club of this city by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. Present at the meeting were Senators James Hamilton Lewis and Lawrence Y. Sherman and other prominent men gathered in Springfield to attend the centennial celebration in this city.

Honor Lincoln and Douglas.

Illinois paid tribute this afternoon to the memory of Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas, opponents in the famous slavery debates which sent one to the United States senate and the other to the White House.

Statues of the men erected on the statehouse grounds were dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The Lincoln statue by Andrew O'Connor of Worcester, Mass., was unveiled following an oration by Lord Charnwood, an English peer, who has written a notable biography of the great emancipator.

Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, was the orator at the dedication of the Douglas statue, which was designed by Gilbert P. Riswold of Chicago.

Today's exercises in connection with the Illinois centennial celebration were especially commemorative of the convening, exactly 100 years ago, of the state's first general assembly.

Present "Masque of Illinois."

The present ceremonies began last night with the presentation of "the masque of Illinois," by a cast of 1,000 in the Coliseum at the fair grounds. It will be repeated tonight. Religious services are planned for tomorrow, a hundred years since the inauguration of Illinois' first governor, Shadrach Bond.

"Mr. Douglas walked into the town of Winchester, Scott county, Ill., in the spring of 1833, with his coat on his arm and 37 cents in his pocket, all his earthly possessions," said Secretary Daniels. "Within ten years he had been admitted to the bar, commanding a large practice, been a member of the Illinois legislature, prosecuting attorney, register of the land office, judge of the state Supreme court, and congressman-elect.

"The succeeding eighteen years of his life he served as representative and senator, defeated Abraham Lincoln for the senate, was defeated by Lincoln for president, and died with the love and confidence of the people of Illinois of all parties and creeds.

Partisan Leader of Patriots.

"When a people are at war, partisanship, if it be based upon love of country burgeons into patriotism Mr. Douglas had been a partisan of partisans, but in the moment of peril to the Union Mr. Douglas forget everything but the supreme fact that the united republic he loved was threatened with separation and all which that involved to American greatness.

"In that hour he made full dedication of himself and his powers and rallied the forces of defense of a united republic. Let us here and now 'highly resolve' to win this war through the power of absolutely united effort on the part of every citizen of this country."

IN CHICAGO THIS WEEK.

The Illinois centennial celebration in Chicago is to open Tuesday evening with a rally at the Auditorium theater. Patriotic programs are scheduled for every day and evening of the week. Liberty loan leaders hailed the announcement of the celebration's opening as a providential aid in spurring Chicago to speed up its bond buying.

Gov. Lowden will speak at the dedication of the Illinois centennial monument at Logan square a week from today. The monument, which will be unveiled at 3 o'clock, is one of those erected under the Ferguson fund and will be presented by Charles L. Hutchinson, representing the fund trustees. It will be formally accepted by John F. Smulski on behalf of the city and of the west park commissioners. Groups from the Pulaski, Eckhart, and Holstein High schools will present four pageant scenes from Illinois history. The all-American chorus and the Chicago band will furnish the music.

Thomas J. Masaryk, the Czecho-Slovak leader in America, will be the principal speaker at the opening rally at the Auditorium. Dr. Hinkovitch, Jugo-Slav representative in this country, will also speak. Samuel Insull is to preside. There will be a special chorus of 300 voices.

Secretary and Mrs. Daniels in Chicago Again Today

Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, and Mrs. Daniels are expected in Chicago today for the third time in three days. The secretary and his wife, after visiting Springfield and Great Lakes will stop in Chicago only a few hours before starting back to Washington.

MORE GUNS

We Need Tremendous Quantities, Says Brig. Gen. McRoberts, Returned from France.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Samuel McRoberts, head of the procurement division, who has just returned from an inspection tour in England, declared today that ordnance demands upon the United States are going to be very great.

Although refraining for obvious reasons from discussing the quantities or types of ordnance material which the United States will be called upon to produce in the future, Gen. McRoberts said that he had brought back with him the knowledge that "the needs along this line will be tremendous."

During the time he was abroad he visited the ordnance factories in England and, after inspecting the French and American fronts in France, he went over the lines of communication back from the American front to the ports of debarkation.

Asked concerning his observations of ordnance material captured from the Germans in recent months, Gen. McRoberts said:

"We were particularly interested to find out whether this captured material showed any improvements or changes in type. As far as we could learn the trench mortars, machine guns, and artillery taken from the enemy in recent operations show nothing in the way of new ideas or striking improvements, nor any particular superiority over the allies' arms. On the other hand, it was interesting to note by examination of the captured pieces that the enemy, wherever possible, is using substitutes for the metals other than steel, notably, for brass and copper. Where it is essential to use these metals he uses them, but the use of the substitutes elsewhere indicates the necessity he is under of conserving carefuly his supply of copper and brass."

MEET TOMORROW TO RENEW PLEA FOR MEMORIAL

Ald. Joseph O. Kostner, chairman of the citizens' commiteee, which planned the erection of a soldiers and sailors' memorial in Grant park, has not abandoned hope that the war industries board at Washington will reconsider its decision against permitting the erection of the monument at this time. He has called a meeting of the committee for tomorrow afternoon.

"We will probably appeal to the war industries board to reconsider," Ald. Kostner said. "We feel the erection of the memorial will be such effective war propaganda as to more than offset the money, labor, and material put into it. As a matter of fact, the cost of labor and material would be only $15,000."

The war industries board refused the permit on the ground that the labor and material were needed for more urgent purposes, and that to grant Chicago a permit would be to set a precedent for other cities.

THREE AVIATORS DIE; ONE INJURED

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 5.—Three aviation lieutenants were killed and a fourth injured about noon today when two planes collided near Keller. The dead are:

Theodore Marrs of Washington, D. C.
Roy J. McNaught of Oneida, Ill.
Frank H. Smith of Besley, S. C.

Killed by Falling Machine.

Dayton, O., Oct. 5.—Lieut. Phil Farren of Rochester, N. Y., a government airplane tester, was killed near the Dayton-Wright Airplane company plant this afternoon, when a machine fell while maneuvering over the field.

CHASE GETS FIVE YEARS.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 5.—W. J. Chase Jr., alias J. J. Worthington, convicted of promoting wholesale fraudulent charity schemes, was sentenced here today by Federal Judge Dooling to five years at McNeill's Island. He is alleged to have operated in Chicago at one time.

GET SHOE CARD

Every Retail Dealer Should Communicate with War Industries Board.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—B. M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board, declared today that every store in the United States selling shoes at retail is expected to go under the retailer's pledge to observe rules and regulations for selling standard shoes.

Plans of standardization, with price ranges from $3 to $5.50, $6 to $8.50, $8.50 to $12, and a conservation program, were announced several days ago.

"The regulations apply with equal force to the country general merchandise dealer as to the city department store and the city merchant who specializes in boots and shoes," Mr. Baruch said. "Every one who sells shoes at retail should write immediately to the boot and shoe section of the war industries board, Washington, D. C., and ask for a form pledge. A receipt will be given and the retailer will be supplied with a window card.

"The boot and shoe section of the war industries board is getting from all organizations in the boot and shoe industry names and addresses of the members who sell shoes at retail. This census will not be complete, however, as many retailers, especially country merchants, are not members of any trade organization. Every retailer should coöperate with the war industries board."

British to Erect Memorial to Yanks Killed in War

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A permanent memorial to the members of the American forces who have given their lives in the war will be erected in the Winchester cathedral, according to an announcement made today by the ministry of information. A suitable temporary memorial will soon be placed where the permanent structure is to be erected after the war.

ONLY 1 PACKAGE TO EACH SOLDIER FOR CHRISTMAS

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—American soldiers in France can receive but one Christmas package each this year and each package must weigh not more than three pounds, according to regulations announced today by the war department. Boxes for men in the navy, however, may weigh twenty pounds.

The regulations governing Christmas packages for soldiers have just been completed after conferences between the war and postoffice departments and the American Red Cross.

"Relatives and friends," says the war department's announcement, "who are planning to make Christmas for the soldiers in the war zones as merry as conditions will permit, should bear in mind that each soldier is entitled to but one of these packages. The war department will not accept more than one parcel for each man. It is expected that approximately 2,000,000 of these packages will be sent abroad, and the amount of shipping space provided for their transportation will not permit of any deviation from the 'one parcel a man rule.'

Guard Against Duplicates.

"The men themselves will decide who is to send these parcels. They are now receiving Christmas parcel labels with instructions to mail these labels to the person in this country from whom they wish to receive the holiday box. To avoid any chance of duplication, each soldier gets but one of these labels. Packages that do not bear these labels will not be accepted. In the event of this label being lost it cannot be replaced.

"No Christmas parcels will be accepted for shipment after Nov. 20. The cardboard boxes or cartons to be provided for these parcels are 3 inches by 4 inches by 9 inches in size. When packed, wrapped, and ready for mailing these boxes must not weigh more than three pounds."

How to Send Presents.

The American Red Cross has agreed to provide these cardboard boxes and to supervise their distribution to relatives of the soldiers who present the proper Christmas parcel label credentials. The following is an outline of the procedure to be followed by persons planning to send one of these parcels abroad:

On receiving one of these Christmas parcel labels it should be presented at the nearest chapter, branch, or auxiliary headquarters of the Red Cross, where the holder will receive a carton. These labels are not expected to reach this country before Nov. 1, but by that time each Red Cross branch will have its allotment of boxes, based on the number of soldiers in service overseas from that community.

Articles Prohibited.

These boxes may be filled with any combination of prohibited articles, except those on the list barred by the postal officials. The articles prohibited are all intoxicating liquors, all inflammable material, including friction matches, and any composition likely to ignite or explode (cigaret lighters come under this classification), liquids and fragile articles improperly packed. Under the regulations no note or message or written matter of any kind will be permitted to remain in the boxes.

In addition to the foregoing list of prohibited articles, relatives and friends are urged to bear these facts in mind:

Do not put anything in the package which will not keep fresh until Christmas.

Pack dried fruits and other food products in small tin or wooden boxes.

Gifts should be wrapped in khaki colored handkerchiefs, twenty-seven inches square.

Take Package to Red Cross.

When the package has been packed it should be taken, unwrapped and unsealed, together with the label and sufficient stamps, to the nearest collection center designated by the Red Cross. After the package has passed the inspection of the Red Cross representatives the Christmas label bearing the address of the man for whom it is intended is placed on it. The person sending the package, in the presence of the Red Cross worker, is required to affix stamps sufficient to carry it to Hoboken, N. J.

In the navy department instructions for Christmas packages to sailors in home waters and abroad, it is provided that all boxes are limited to twenty pounds in weight and are forwarded in care of supply officer, fleet supply base, Twenty-ninth street and Third avenue, South Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shipment of Christmas packages for naval vessels abroad should be made so as to reach New York not later than Nov. 15.

DIES OF CAR INJURIES.

John Dodena, 5736 Iowa street, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital yesterday afternoon of injuries suffered Sept. 27, when struck by a Western avenue car.

GUARDING WOMEN WORKERS

Secretary Wilson Discusses with Union Representatives Reforms of National Scope.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Maintenance of established labor standards and direct federal control of night work for women were recommended by Secretary of Labor Wilson in his address before the conference of trade union women which closed here today.

How to assure equal pay for equal work, the employment of women in industries with health hazards, sanitary regulations, and various other problems, especially in view of the war conditions, were subjects laid before the conference by Secretary Wilson and Miss Mary Van Kleeck, director of women in industry service of the department of labor. It was the first conference of trade union women ever held under government auspices.

The secretary, after pointing to the efforts of some employers to take advantage of the war emergency and a degree of hysteria on the part of the public to accomplish purely selfish ends, said with reference to the increasing demand for night work of women, that in only seven states are there laws on this subject. He asked indorsement of a program whereby the federal government will stipulate in war contracts that no women shall be employed on night work except where the war department shall declare an emergency in particular plants.

Among the delegates from Chicago are Miss Florence Christman of the International Glove Workers' union, Miss Agnes Johnson of Boot and Shoe Workers' union, Miss Marie Kurowski, and Miss Emma Steghagen.

SUE TO RECOVER ILLEGAL SCHOOL SALARIES, REPORT

Angus Roy Shannon, attorney for the school board ousted by the Thompson clique, refused last night to discuss reports that he is about to start suits to recover the salaries paid those officials appointed by the Thompson board. Under the recent Supreme court decision he claims the Thompson faction in effect lost title to the jobs.

"The first thing is to throw them out," said Mr. Shannon. "They haven't got a leg to stand on, not a ghost of a title to the places they hold. They are sticking to their places in open defiance of law and order.

"It will take a little while, not long, to put them out. They know they are defying the law; know that they are beaten; know they haven't got any title in the world to the positions they are illegally holding. All they are fighting for is time, delay, and a chance to bluff a little more."

The three officials who, it was reported, might be made defendants in suits, are Attorney Charles R. Francis, Secretary Albert H. Miller, and Percy B. Coffin.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson last night continued to refuse to admit defeat.

HA, THAT VOICE! OWNER AND COPS FIND LOST PIG

Frank Pinkus, 9020 Greenwood avenue, went to the Burnside police station Friday and asked the police to help him find a red pig. Lieut. Ben Downey and Policemen Cullen and Mooney started in search. Man hunting tactics failed during the afternoon and night. Pinkus was back at the station yesterday.

"Don't give up the ship," he pleaded. "He's the finest pig in Chicago. I'll help you find him."

Alleys were combed and barns searched, and finally Lieut. Downey thought he heard a grunt. Another grunt and Pinkus exclaimed, "That's him; I'd know his voice anywhere."

Cracker Jack
America's Famous Food Confection

Mothers do not have to deny the children's inherent longing for sweets in order to be patriotic. They encourage the eating of more Cracker Jack. This ideal war-time confection contains less sugar than most confections, yet satisfies the candy appetite.

Made from selected pop-corn, choice roasted peanuts and delicious molasses candy, Cracker Jack is surprisingly good. At the same time it is a wholesome, well-balanced food.

Everyone likes Cracker Jack! It is particularly good for growing children. It's the confection that puts the sweet in Home Sweet Home. Just try serving it at breakfast with milk or cream—no sugar.

FEWER NAMES ON POLL BOOKS ON FIRST DAY

Decrease in Number of Qualified Voters Is Indicated.

Chicago's first day of registration for the November election was light. A total of 296,442 names went on the books. Of the voters enrolling 219,462 were men and 76,980 were wom

The total registration was only 63 per cent of that on the first day in October, 1916. The largest slump was in the women's enrollment. This was only 50 per cent of its total two years ago.

The figures, however, when compared with those of 1914, which was another "off year," with a senatorship campaign in progress, show a slight gain. By dint of much hard work on the second day of enrollment, Oct. 15, the workers in both parties are hopeful of pulling up the registry to a better mark.

Comparison of Figures.

Comparative figures of first day enrollments at the biennial registrations of the last four years are as follows:

	Men.	Women.	Total.
Yesterday	219,462	76,980	296,442
Oct. 7, 1916	315,639	154,695	470,334
Oct. 2, 1914	216,841	68,838	285,679

Democrats Have Advantage.

In the Democratic wards the registration appears to have been somewhat heavier than in the Republican strongholds. The heaviest wards were the Twentieth, home of D. J. Egan, chief clerk of the election board, where the totals came up to about 90 per cent of 1916 first day's figures; the Fifth, where it was almost 80 per cent, and the Tenth—County Judge Scully's territory—where it was about 80 per cent. The Thirty-third, which has more city hall patronage than any ward in the city, rolled up about 70 per cent. The Thirty-fourth, too, hit a 70 per cent clip. The Twenty-fifth, one of the Republican banner wards, hit a 62 per cent mark on the basis of the 1916 figures, and the Hyde Park wards were around the 60 per cent figure.

Under Old Law.

The old poll books, which have gone to the junk pile under the law requiring an absolutely new registration for every general election, contained a total of 779,900 voters, of whom 493,130 were men and 286,770 women.

City Hall Organ Makes Attack Upon M'Cormick

The city hall house organ, the Republican, came out yesterday in an attack upon Medill McCormick, Republican nominee for United States senator. Sticking to the old lullaby with which the hall sought to sing Mayor Thompson and the "anti-war" record he made at the primaries, it called the nominee "an apologist for war profiteers."

Petitions for a recount in behalf of the candidates on the city hall slate who were defeated in the primary were filed in Judge Scully's court. The petitioners are Andrew Metzger for county clerk; Morris Eller for Criminal court clerk; George E. Nye for probate court clerk; W. H. Wesbey for Municipal court clerk; George W. Ellis for municipal judge, and Alex N. Todd for sanitary trustee. The hearing was set for Wednesday morning.

Four Men Held for Theft of Tobacco Worth $1,500

[illegible] Lewis, 1450 East One Hundred Ninth place, was arrested yesterday on a charge of larceny. Lewis is said to have stolen more than $1,500 worth of leaf tobacco from the J. L. [illegible] company, 304 West Lake street, where he was employed as shipping clerk.

[illegible] Calvera, 1743 Warren avenue, and Emmanuel Aderhult, 1931 West Madison street, cigar manufacturer, and Harry Holmes, 1627 West [illegible] avenue, an expressman, were [illegible] charged with receiving the stolen property.

HIT BY CAR NEAR SPOT WHERE HE KILLED ANOTHER

Within a hundred feet of where he recently shot and killed Stephen Helgart and wounded Henry Helgart, Stephen's brother, Joseph Cascino, an expressman, was struck by a street car yesterday. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital in a critical condition. Mamie Carscello, 9 years old, Cascino's niece, was killed.

The street car crashed into a motor truck Cascino was driving and demolished it. The little girl's body was thrown under the car and wedged there so tight the car had to be jacked up before it could be moved. She died on the way to a hospital.

Cascino was only recently released from jail under $15,000 bond. He shot the Helgart brothers in an alley at the rear of 411 Blackhawk street. The accident yesterday occurred just around the corner on Sedgwick street.

ARREST FIVE IN SLEUTH SHOOTING

Five suspects are under arrest as a result of the shooting of Detective Sergeant James Carlin, who lies in serious condition in Mercy hospital. The men were arrested by Lieut. James McMahon and Detective Sergeant Hugh McNally.

McNally, who was working with Carlin when he was shot, was also slightly wounded. After his wound was dressed, however, he buckled on a gun and went out to avenge the attack.

Squads of policemen most of the night patroled the south side within a radius of two miles of 2118 Indiana avenue, where the shooting occurred. Carlin and McNally were out looking for automobile bandits. When they halted four young men answering the description of the bandits they were fired on.

The five young suspects were locked up at the South Clark street station, out of which Carlin and McNally worked.

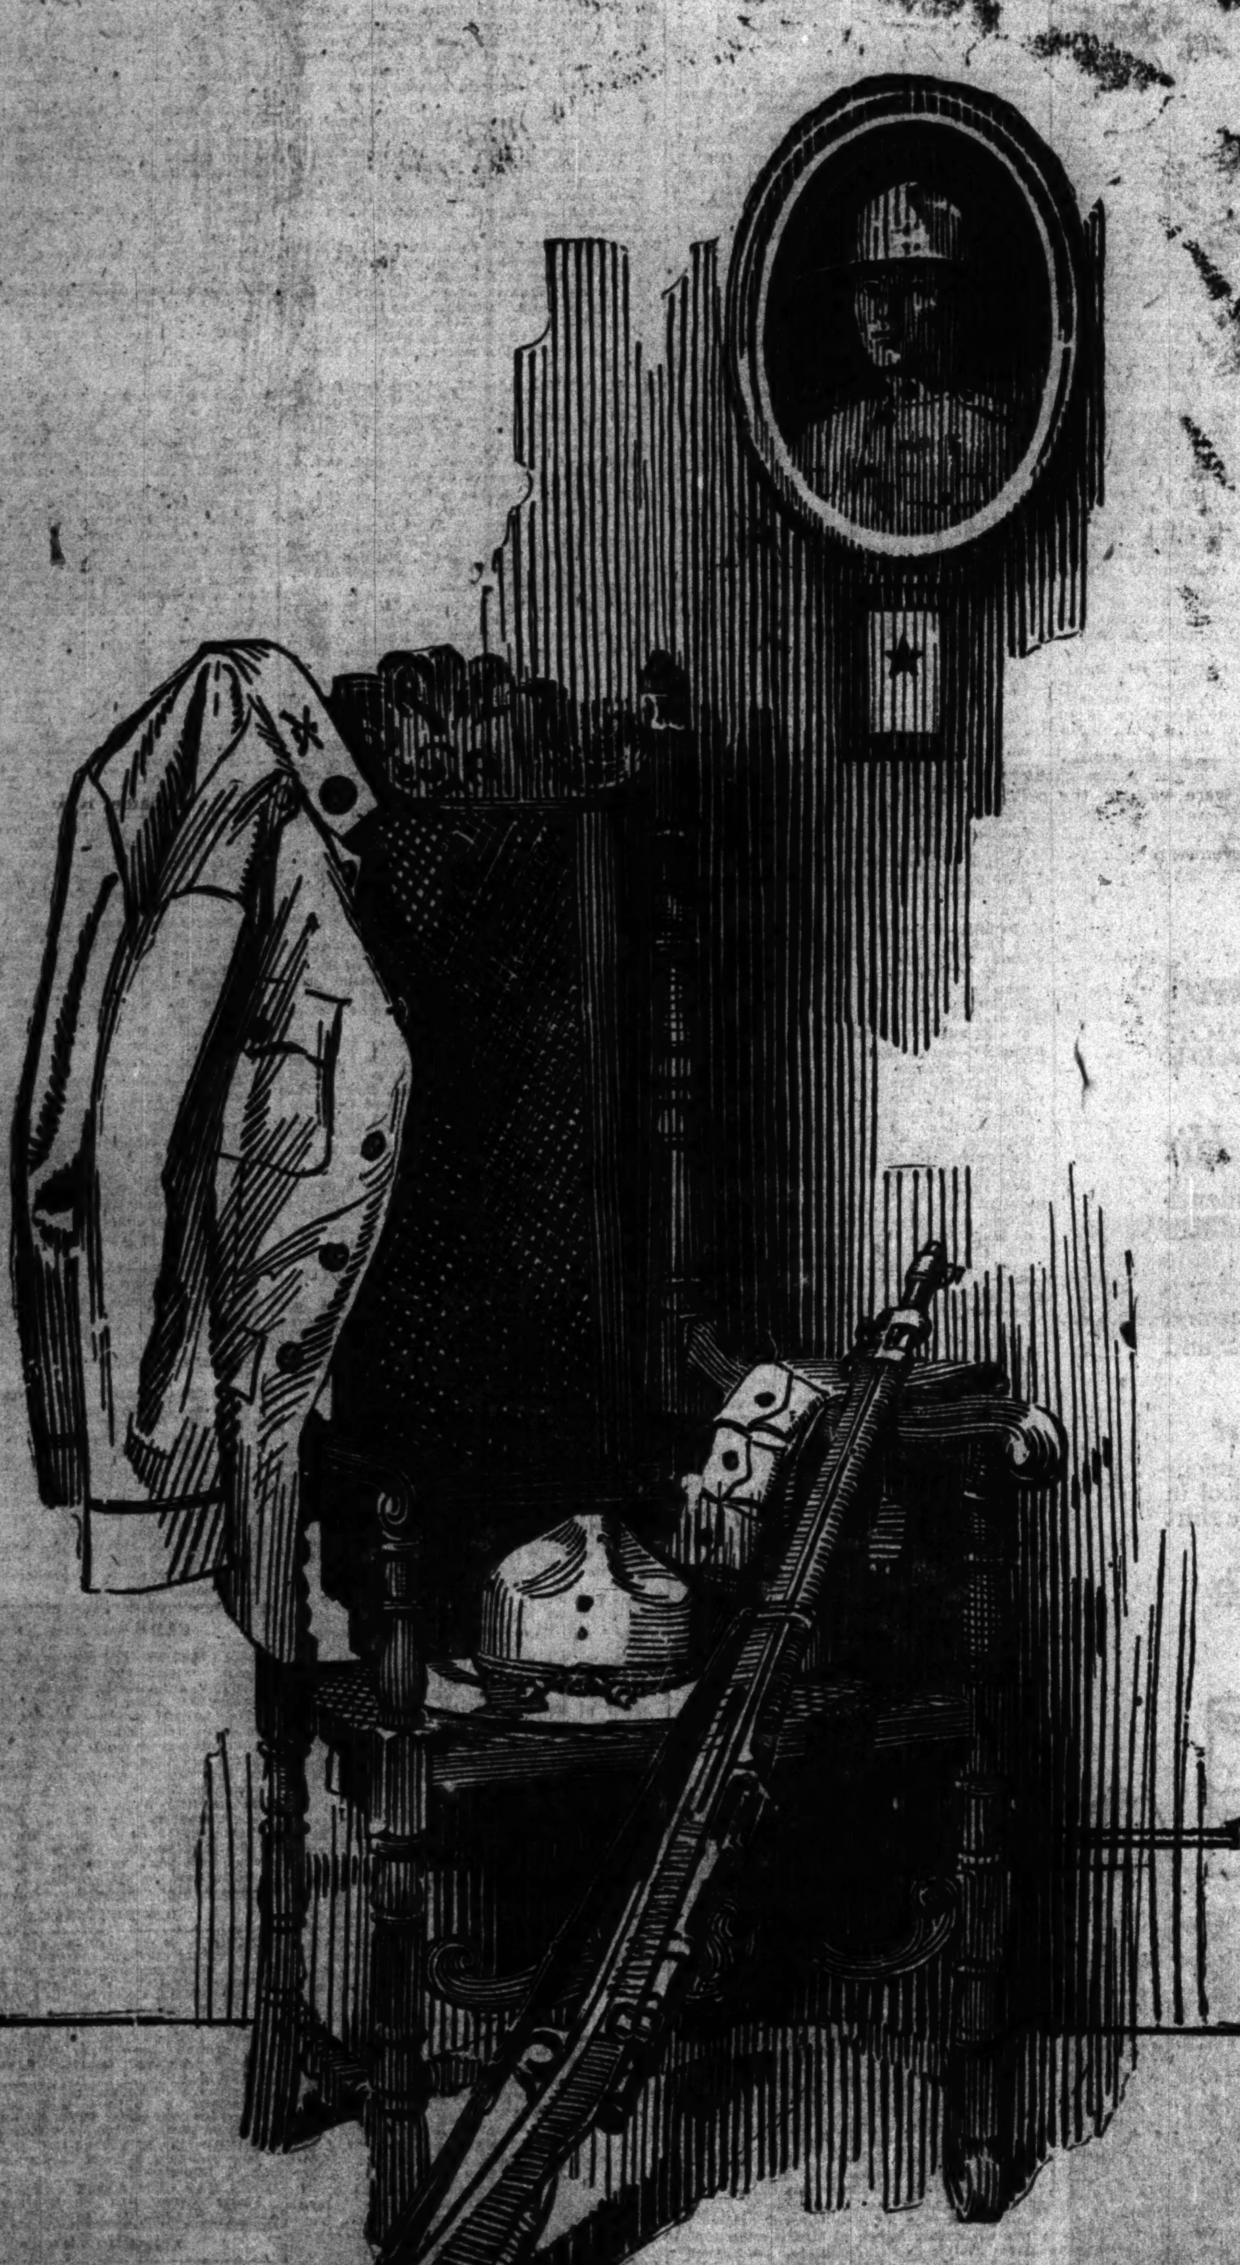
Our Boy Came Back Today



Wounded—our boy came back today—matured by the world's greatest horror; developed by Time's mightiest struggle; inspired by Right's imperishable cause; strengthened by a wondrous Faith that will take him back again. But, let him tell it in his own words:

"We know you are with us. As we hear of ship-load upon ship-load of our comrades disembarking 'somewhere in France' we know that those we leave behind are likewise in action. As we witness the arrival of new equipment and supplies we know that the hearts and pocket-books of America are nobly pouring out their best for Humanity. As we go into action and over the top we know that back of us is another mighty army at home, fighting as valiantly as we—every mother, sister, father and brother a militant soldier, backing the man behind the gun to get the hun—and, God, how it all helps!"

And this my great reward—that it is my glorious privilege to be in action over here. How insignificant seem the dollars I loan that Liberty may live! How rejoiced am I that my name appears on every Liberty muster roll! It has not been easy to do my rightful part in these grim days. The call has come not only once, but often. I hear it again. And, giving, I must give quickly. But the boys are over there and my money must go where I can not. ☆ ☆ ☆ Only when this ghastly wrong has been righted will our lads return for good. But now, a great joy is mine—there is a star in my heart—our boy came back today.

'FLU' CAUSES AND CURES ANALYZED BY DR. W. A. EVANS

Fresh Air Best Preventive for Malady, He Advises.

BY DR. W. A. EVANS.

The present influenza is nothing but grip. Now known as Spanish influenza, it was called Russian influenza in 1891.

It seems reasonably certain that it is caused by Pfeiffer's bacillus, the cause of the grip epidemic of 1891.

The average person stands an even chance of escaping the disease. A person can improve his chance of escape materially by—

Keeping away from people with colds.
Keeping out of crowds.
Avoiding illy ventilated places.
Keeping warm.
Changing from wet socks, shoes, or clothes promptly.
Avoiding undue fatigue.

By following the above rules the average person should increase his chance of escape from 1 to 1 to at least 2 to 1.

Don't Become Frightened.

If a person contracts the disease, he need not become panicky.

If he has a mild case the chance is about 200 to 1 that he will not die from it. A disease that kills less than 1-200th of those it attacks is not one to get in a funk about.

The greatest immediate danger is pneumonia. The danger of pneumonia is not past until the temperature has been normal for three days. While pneumonia is the greatest immediate danger the disease is hard on the old and those with crippled hearts, crippled kidneys, or other crippled organs. The experience of 1891 indicates that people in this group will not be out of the woods until spring at the earliest.

Such persons, if they are in a position to go south or to California or Arizona for the winter, should do so. If they are going away it is better to go now rather than to wait until the usual going time.

Precautions to Take.

The person who finds himself taking cold had better proceed on the theory that he is "taking influenza." There is no way of telling by clinical or laboratory examination whether a cold is an ordinary cold or a mild influenza. The wise plan for such a person to follow is—

Keep warm.
Send for a physician.
If no physician is available keep aches within bounds by salicylates or aspirin.
Use hot foot baths.
Use hot general baths.
Do not permit constipation to continue.
The less medicine taken the better.
Do not take Dover's powders or strong nose douches unless advised to do so by a physician.
When sneezing or coughing cover the face with a face mask or a handkerchief. Soiled masks and handkerchiefs should be sterilized by boiling.

Will Sweep Country.

Influenza will sweep over the country as it did in 1891 and as it has always done. We cannot escape it, but we can spread the cases over several weeks instead of having them all lump together as they usually come when the epidemic atacks men in barracks. If the epidemic can be spread out to a moderate extent our hospitals, nurses, and physicians can handle the situation. If the public will heed the above rules the disease will spread slowly.

The United States Public Health Service has issued a pamphlet entitled "Spanish Influenza," "Three-Day Fever," "The Flu." This may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Surgen General, United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C. I quote some extracts therefrom:

"How can 'Spanish influenza' be recognized?

"In most cases a person taken sick with influenza feels sick rather suddenly. He feels weak, has pains in the eyes, ears, head, or back, and may be sore all over. Many patients feel dizzy, some vomit. Most of the patients complain of feeling chilly, and with this comes a fever in which the temperature rises to 100 to 104. In most cases the pulse remains relatively slow.

"In appearance one is struck by the fact that the patient looks sick. His eyes and the inner side of his eyelids may be slightly 'bloodshot' or 'congested,' as the doctors say. There may be a running from the nose or there may be some cough. These signs of a cold may not be marked, nevertheless the patient looks and feels very sick.

"What is the cause of the disease? Do people die of it?

"Ordinarily, the fever lasts from three to four days and the patient recovers. But while the proportion of deaths in the present epidemic has generally been low, in some places the outbreak has been severe and deaths have been numerous. When death occurs it is usually the result of a complication."

Some Other Precautions.

The following are some other suggestions not covered in the above:

"It is highly desirable that no one be allowed to sleep in the same room with the patient. In fact, no one but the nurse should be allowed in the room.

"If there is cough and sputum or running of the eyes and nose, care should be taken that all such discharges are collected on bits of gauze or rags or paper napkins and burned.

"If the patient complains of fever and headache, he should be given water to drink, a cold compress to the forehead, and a light sponge.

"If the patient is so situated that he can be attended only by some one who must also look after others in the family, it is advisable that such attendant wear a wrapper, apron, or gown over the ordinary house clothes while in the sickroom and slip this off when leaving to look after the others. Nurse and attendant will do well to guard against breathing in dangerous disease germs by wearing a simple fold of gauze, or mask, while near the patient.

Fresh Air Invaluable.

"The value of fresh air through open windows cannot be overemphasized.

"When crowding is unavoidable, as in street cars, care should be taken to keep the face so turned as not to inhale directly the air breathed out by another person."

Should any specific, cure, or preventive be discovered, I will try to learn of it promptly and bring it to the attention of the public.

EPIDEMIC GROWS IN ARMY CAMPS THROUGHOUT U. S.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Spanish influenza increased more rapidly during the twenty-four hours ending today noon than in any similar period since the disease became epidemic. Reports to the office of the surgeon general of the army showed 17,333 new cases in army camps.

The new cases represented an increase of 4,408 in comparison with the number reported for the preceding twenty-four hour period. A total of 2,141 new pneumonia cases were reported, an increase of 287. Deaths at camps totaled 653, an increase of 390.

Hope in New York.

New York, Oct. 5.—Notwithstanding development of 2,070 new cases of Spanish influenza and 283 of pneumonia within the last twenty-four hours, the health department announced today that the epidemic has not reached an alarming stage, and churches, theaters, and other places of public assembly will remain open under restrictions.

Increase in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—There is no abatement in the epidemic of influenza in this city. At noon the report for the preceding twenty-four hours showed 245 deaths and 1,480 new cases, an increase of 742 over yesterday's report.

Chicagoan Dies at Custer; Col. E. E. Irons Becomes Ill

Camp Custer, Mich., Oct. 5.—Private James Volene of Chicago died here today of pneumonia. Lieut. Col. Ernest E. Irons of Chicago, a Rush Medical college man, who is in charge of the base hospital, has been stricken with Spanish influenza. There were 5,500 cases of influenza in the camp today.

19 Dead of Influenza on Coming Spanish Liner

HAVANA, Oct. 5.—The Spanish liner Alfonso XII., bound from Spain for a port in the West Indies with 1,232 passengers on board, reported by wireless today that nineteen persons had died on the steamer from Spanish influenza and that many others were ill.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Every American woman capable of assisting in a sickroom is urged by the war department to offer her services to her country in the present emergency.

INFLUENZA CASES HERE ESTIMATED 40,000 TO 60,000

Majority Declared Light Attacks; No Cause for Alarm.

Estimates of the extent of the influenza epidemic in Chicago at the end of the first week of its course yesterday placed the total number of cases between 40,000 and 60,000.

Most of that number are light attacks and the situation was not considered by any of the numerous medical authorities to have grown alarming. They said the progress of the disease was less rapid than might have been expected after the nationally accepted prediction that between 40 and 60 per cent of the population of the affected areas would be hit.

Anxious to avoid unduly alarming the public, the officials hesitate to make the big figures known generally, but they did so in order to impress upon every individual the necessity of his protecting himself against infection. As a whole the public is said to have heeded the warnings issued, but thousands of Chicagoans, it was said, are still exposing themselves carelessly.

Dr. Drake Reports Improvement.

Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, director of the state department of public health, telegraphed to Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States public health service a statement of the situation, as follows:

"Influenza situation communities adjacent to naval station continues to improve. From Camp Grant disease extends to Rockford and prevails there in epidemic proportions. Has appeared in student army at several points. Important that students shall not be quartered in close contact in barracks and mess halls. Forwarded such recommendation to surgeon general army last Tuesday.

"Waukegan, Highland Park, Danville, Champaign, Rockford, Chicago hardest hit. In six days ended Friday midnight Chicago reported 400 deaths influenza and pneumonia. If estimated death rate of 1 per cent is right, appears Chicago must have had as many as 40,000 cases as early as four days ago. Present estimate 50,000 to 60,000. Situation not regarded alarming by local authorities."

Robertson Scouts Estimate.

Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson said that—even counting the lightest sort of attacks, unsuspected even by the victims—he did not believe the number of cases in Chicago would approach 40,000.

"I believe the doctors are reporting their cases now," he said, "and the reports do not indicate any such figure."

Dr. Drake again laid emphasis upon the primary importance of individual protection.

"It is absolutely up to the individual," he said, "whether he wants to avoid influenza, and even more so it is up to the individual whether he has pneumonia. If he neglects his influenza the chances are that he will develop pneumonia.

"Only 25 per cent of the work of checking the epidemic can be done by health officials. The individual alone can accomplish the other 75 per cent.

"Therefore it is the duty of every citizen to observe in the strictest sense the sensible precautionary measures advised by public health officials and, above all else, if he has a cold or a fever, to go home, go to bed, get a doctor, receive careful treatment, and stay in bed until all symptoms have disappeared and the temperature has been normal for at least three days."

1,323 Cases in 24 Hours.

The city health department records showed a total of 1,323 new cases—1,053 of influenza and 270 of pneumonia—during the preceding twenty-four hours. In the same period there were 101 deaths—sixty-four from pneumonia and thirty-seven from influenza. The increase in death reports was ascribed partly to the "hurry up" of undertakers from the desire to avoid funerals on gasless Sunday.

Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson received reports from his school inspection which caused him to get Edwin S. Davis, president of the school board, on the telephone at once and arrange to have the principals and engineers of eighteen schools brought before him at the Hotel Morrison at 2:30 this afternoon. The ventilation in five of the schools had been reported as "poor" and dry sweeping, prohibited by regulations, was discovered in the other thirteen.

Absences Little Above Normal.

Reports were received on 105 public and parochial schools. Their combined attendance normally is 69,306. Their combined absences on Friday were 7,173—not much more than 10 per cent above normal—and forty-two of the schools reported their attendance as normal. The ventilation and the heating in the big majority were satisfactory.

Dr. Robertson did not disclose what he would say to the principals and engineers who come before him, but there was an intimation that he might close the schools for a time and recommend that the responsible employés be suspended without pay for that period. Superintendent of Schools Mortenson was invited to attend the meeting.

There has been no change in the attitude of the Chicago and Illinois authorities opposing the closing of the schools. Director Drake of the state department telegraphed Surgeon General Blue about an interview in which he was quoted as favoring closing all schools, theaters, and similar places and asking an exact statement of his views on this question.

Enforce Anti-Spitting Order.

A new means of emphasizing the drastic nature of the order for the enforcement of the anti-spitting ordinance was decided upon by Acting Chief of Police Alcock. As soon as they can be put in place warning cards will be put up in street cars, elevated stations, theaters, public buildings, and similar places. They will bear in large red letters merely these words:

SPITTING
ARRESTED AND PROSECUTED!

Director Drake's reports from outside Chicago indicated that influenza is becoming epidemic in several communities hitherto only lightly affected. That was true of Danville. Mattoon reported 100 cases. There were 40 new cases at Wheaton, 28 at Peoria, 19 at Elgin, 10 at Bensonville, 32 at Zion City, and 11 at Joliet.

House to House Canvass.

Dr. Drake also announced that house to house canvasses are being made in Lake Forest and Wilmette under the direction of supervising nurses of the state department. In Lake Forest the work is being done by twenty-four women volunteers and in Wilmette by the home guard. Waukegan reported to him an attendance of approximately 100 per cent with the reopening of the schools there. Winnetka is estimated to have 246 cases, Glencoe 38, Wilmette 192, and Evanston 100. Placards are being put up and literature is being distributed through all these suburbs by the state department.

Clubs as Hospitals.

Two more country clubs were called into use last night as emergency hospitals for the north shore suburbs. The Ouilmette Country club was fitted up sufficiently to house twelve cases from Wilmette and Kenilworth and the Indian Hill club was being transformed into a hospital for victims from Winnetka and Hubbard Woods.

Miss Esther Warner of the state department, who has had charge of the work in this vicinity, made a canvass of Gross Point and in ninety homes found forty-nine cases.

At Camp Grant sixty patients died between midnight Friday night and yesterday afternoon, bringing the total number of deaths there up to 343. Medical officers said the mortality rate in the camp now is being held to 3 per cent.

TOLL OF EPIDEMIC.

Harold Nelson Willard, son of President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, died of penumonia yesterday at Salisbury, Conn., after a brief illness. He was 28 years old.

Estella Kathlyn Ramsay, 15 years old, daughter of Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Ramsay, died of pneumonia yesterday at the family residence, 4616 North Hermitage avenue. She was a student of the Lake View High school.

Capt. S. B. Laramie, former editor of the Pythian Leader, who died at Camp Humphreys, Va., last Wednesday, will be buried tomorrow. Masonic services will be held at the chapel of the Chicago Casket company, Randolph street and Michigan avenue, at 2 p. m., and the Knights of Pythias will have charge of the services at Elmwood cemetery.

The fire which partly destroyed a nurses' home Friday at 741 Diversey parkway was in the rear of the German-American hospital, not the Grant hospital, formerly the German hospital, as reported. The Grant hospital is at 551 Grant place.

The name of the German hospital was changed after the United States entered the war. At the German-American hospital last night it was said the present name would be retained. The confusion of names resulted through an error in reporting by the City News Bureau.

Hunt Policeman Who Got Girl's Lost Purse

The police are looking for a policeman. Miss Jennie Pfeiffer reported yesterday that she dropped her purse with $6 in it near Seventy-fifth street and Drexel avenue. She went back looking for it. Two persons told her they saw a man pick it up and hand it to a policeman. No purse has been turned in. Now the police are trying to find the policeman who got it.

$5,000 HOLDUP IS FOILED BY POLICE IN GUN BATTLE

Three Suspects in a Stolen Auto Taken After Fight.

Three young men, believed to be members of a bandit gang, armed with pistols, and riding in a stolen automobile, were arrested last night on the south side after a gun battle with the police. They were waiting, the police say, for employés of the Livingstone Baking company, Forty-second street and Wabash avenue, to bring out $5,000 that was being prepared for the bank.

Calls Police Aid.

Julius Livingston, president of the baking company, at about 8 o'clock last night telephoned to Lieut. George Grady of the Fiftieth street police station that he was preparing to take about $5,000 to a bank and that three suspicious men were hanging around the place.

Two of them, a little earlier, he said, had come into the office of the baking house and asked for employment.

He suspected they might be trying to get the "lay of the ground" for a robbery and watched them. Outside they joined a third man in an automobile and remained near at hand. Lieut. Grady at once acted, throwing a cordon of detectives about the block.

Fill Grip with Paper.

Then he telephoned for Mr. Livingston and his employé, who usually carried the money, to come out just as they always did with the usual grip—but to have it filled with paper.

Evidently the men became suspicious, for the two lurking near made a break for the automobile in which the third was waiting. Two police autos were a little way off. They dashed up and "pocketed" the suspected holdup car at the curb.

Ordered to surrender, Foley, the police say, fired several shots point blank at Lieut. Grady and Detective Sergeant Ward and started off on foot at full speed. They returned the fire and followed him. Foley ran to Michigan avenue and then to Fortieth street and east across Grand boulevard. He was finally captured, exhausted, at Thirty-ninth street and Rhodes avenue.

Army Officer's Auto.

The three were just being brought into the Fiftieth street police station when Lieut. Elmer Holden, United States army, 4621 Indiana avenue, entered to report the theft of his automobile.

"Look at that one outside," said Lieut. Grady.

"That's mine," announced Lieut. Holden, "stolen not an hour ago."

The three are being held in the belief they are members of a bandit gang other members of which are at large. They are also held as suspects in the shooting of Detective Sergeants James Carlin and Hugh McNally, shot Friday night when they tried to stop four suspects on Indiana avenue.

Row Over Parking Space Leads Steel Men to Court

C. V. Luin, district manager of the Ludlum Steel company, was arrested last night on a warrant charging disorderly conduct. The warrant is the result of an argument between Luin and Louis J. Bregman, vice president of the Price Iron and Steel company, over automobile parking space in front of the Peoples Gas building, where both have their offices. Bregman claims Luin struck him.

14-COUNT 'EM-14

All Sons and Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Finn, and Dad Says the More the Merrier.

HOW'D you like to buy a pair of shoes about once every two months at present prices for Francis, Leo, Edward, Ignatius, Mary, Loretta, Regis, Sarah, Aloysius, Ambrose, Carmelita, Mercedes, Madeline, and Eugene? And think of the bill for eats!

Mrs. Mary Finn, 2228 Bissell street, fond mother of them all, says it's great. Also James W. Finn, father of Francis, Leo, Edward, and so forth, declares that the bigger a family the happier a father is.

"How do you kiss 'em all good night?" asked a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, who dropped in on the merry family.

"O, they all help me," smiled Mrs. Finn. "We all help here. That's why we get along so well."

The ages of the young Finns are 20, 19, twins 16, 15, 13, 12, 10, 9, 7, 6, 4, 2, and 1 year old. Francis and Leo, the ages show, are in the next draft. All the rest of the youngsters declare they are just dying to get into the war—barring, of course, the babies — Mrs. Finn declares.

Mr. and Mrs. Finn were married twenty-three years ago on Sept. 11. Father Finn is an employé of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN QUARRY ON NORTH SIDE

Firemen with ropes recovered the body of a woman found last night in a pond in the bottom of a quarry 150 feet below the street level at Grand avenue and North Rockwell street. Police who were first on the scene could find no way of getting down.

Nothing was found in the woman's clothes by which to identify her.

The body was in a decomposed condition. The police said it was evidently of a woman 25 to 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weight about 110 pounds, with dark hair. She wore a red underskirt, clothing of cheap texture, and No. 4 lace shoes.

Capt. Thomas Meagher detailed detectives to investigate the case last night. The police are trying to determine whether she was murdered and thrown into the quarry, long abandoned, whether she jumped in to commit suicide, or whether she might have stumbled in by accident.

DEATH IS HAVEN FOR BOY EJECTED BY 2 HOSPITALS

Lawrence Lester, 17 years old, the victim of infantile paralysis, who was forced to leave two hospitals, died yesterday at his home, 940 Custer avenue, Evanston.

Lester was taken to the Evanston hospital Aug. 17. After he had been there twelve days it was claimed his bill was not paid, and he was sent to the Cook county hospital. Later he was sent away from the county hospital in order, it was explained, "to make room."

After he had been taken back home the house was quarantined, as his mother and sister developed influenza. At home Lester developed pneumonia.

Sauer, Soldiers' Bootmaker, Is Free from Bridewell

William L. Sauer, who some ten months ago had an idea that the army officers couldn't fight this war without his boots, and who as a result of this idea failed to register for the draft, is once more enjoying the freedom of the streets. You see, he has spent the last ten months in the bridewell, all on account of that idea.

TRIANGLE LANDS SAILOR-SOLDIER IN DEEP WATERS

Mann Act Charge by Wife; Jump to Army Interests U. S.

This story sounds like the description of a weather map. It's about a man named Frost, who comes from the warm southland and is chilly toward his wife, but torrid in his affections elsewhere. At least so says his wife. Mr. Frost, it appears, is also as fickle as the weather.

For instance: When first revealed "our hero" wears a sailor's uniform. Next act: Here is "Sailor" Frost all dolled up in a national army uniform. He's deserted the bounding main for the trenches at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Mrs. Frost has asked the federal authorities to prosecute her husband on charges of violating the Mann act. The other angle, she says, is Mrs. Mae B. Klusman, present whereabouts unknown.

Case Interests Secret Service.

Meanwhile, department of justice operatives are trying to discover what connection, if any, George Lewis of the Lawrence-Lewis Aeroplane company, with offices in the Peoples Gas building, had with "Sailor" Frost's sudden transformation into a soldier of the national army. Mr. Lewis is an operative for the American Protective league. He was asked to investigate, in his A. P. L. capacity, Frost's appearance in a sailor's uniform. Mr. Lewis is, just incidentally, a friend of Frost. "Sailor" Frost became Soldier Frost and Mr. Lewis is said to have had something to do with it.

As Soldier Frost, our "hero" cannot be prosecuted for failure to support his wife and children. It does not, however, relieve him of responsibility under the Mann act.

Milward Frost is the son of wealthy parents living at Lexington, Ky. His wife, Mrs. Bessie Mae Brock Frost, also came from there, but she is now living at 1211 East Fifty-second street. They have been married eleven years and have two children, the oldest child a little girl 3½ years old.

Domestic Warmth Lacking.

Frost's chilliness toward his wife led to a stormy domestic career, in which phone calls from other women had anything but a pacific influence. The young wife borrowed her aunt's diamonds and fine clothes in an effort to win back his love, but his heart remained congealed where she was concerned.

Mrs. Frost, aided by Detective Sergt. Herman Otten, discovered a reason in Mrs. Mae Klusman of 4805 Calumet avenue. In a warrant sworn to in the Court of Domestic Relations Mrs. Klusman is charged by Mrs. Frost with committing a serious offense in complicity with Mr. Frost. To the federal authorities Mrs. Frost has told of alleged trips to Detroit and Janesville, Wis., in which Mrs. Klusman had the company of Frost.

When Frost had to register he melted in his attitude toward his wife and gained exemption on the plea that he was paying her $1,800 a year. "Where is it?" Mrs. Frost asked William Scott Bond of local board No. 6, and Mr. Bond reclassified the melting Frost.

Operative Lewis "Passes Buck."

Mrs. Klusman appeared at a south side hotel. She had as a frequent visitor a sailor who was of gigantic height. Mr. Frost, by the way, measures 6 feet 5½ inches. Mr. Lewis, A. P. L. operative, was assigned to discover whether or not the sailor was real. Immediately afterward Milward Frost appeared before his local board and was inducted into service.

Operative Lewis spent most of yesterday answering questions of department of justice agents regarding another A. P. L. operative who, he says, investigated "Sailor" Frost for him. Mr. Lewis has forgotten the other operative's name.

BARGAIN DAYS TWICE WEEKLY IN 'SPIRITLAND'

Wednesdays and Fridays the Seances Are "Two Bits" Wholesale.

Chicago mediums are not overlooking any chances to make an honest quarter as a result of the wartime boom in the spirit business.

Having raked in the dollars by "private readings by appointment" during the other days of the week, madame on Wednesdays and Fridays comes down to the two bit class and welcomes the shop girl and the widow to her "circle."

On these days the spirit guides do business in a rather casual fashion, almost wholesale, as it were. Admission is usually 25 cents, with the "privilege of two questions." True, the information given is often highly important. The spirit does not object to taking a little trip to France to see what has become of some loved one. But the spirit will not go into details as it will for a dollar. Satisfactory, reliable information is guaranteed and the "circle" beats the circumlocution office at Washington all hollow.

The Gentle Matilda Ryan.

The most popular circles on the north side are those presided over by the gentle Matilda Morgan Ryan, 1914 North Clark street. Madame Ryan not only has these little affairs in her home but once a week goes to a neighboring hall and rakes in a few more dollars. Admission to the seances in the hall is only 10 cents, but madame explains this is because the hall is a "dirty place."

Sister Ann and THE TRIBUNE reporter on the trail of the mediums had the pleasure of attending one of Madame Ryan's circles. Ann did not expect much for she had had a private reading from madame the day before and had learned that a brother that never existed was wounded in a French hospital. Ann had adopted this brother for the purpose of testing the mediums. Before she got through she was almost persuaded that he lived somewhere after all, such vivid visions were given of him.

CASE NO. 6.

Madame Ryan in black silk welcomed Ann and the reporter. The house was all lighted up and four rows of chairs, the kind the undertaker furnishes, were arranged in a room opening off the parlor. Seven girls, three old women, and a middle aged widow occupied the chairs. The girls whispered and giggled. The old women sat as if they were in church, waiting for the doxology.

A young man sat on the side lines. He was draped carelessly in a large chair, and as he waited for the circle to open he closed his eyes and rubbed his forehead and seemed to be in pain or trouble. He was a sad young man. It was learned later that his name was Mr. Dumont.

The front parlor was occupied by a parrot, who chuckled and laughed and seemed to be enjoying some huge joke.

Madame Ryan wafted between the street door, the parrot's cage, and the audience.

"Have I collected from you?" she asked each one in turn.

The Vacant Chair Again.

At 8:30 o'clock the winding of a music box indicated that the ceremonies had begun. From the invisible cabinet floated a sad song about a vacant chair. The machine scratched a little, otherwise this might have been spirit voices. As the last strains died away Madame appeared before the curtains and stood by a little table where she had placed her handkerchief and a glass of water. The girls stopped whispering.

"Mr. Dumont, I guess you'll have to work tonight," said Madame, turning to the young man on the side lines.

"I will not," said Mr. Dumont. Madame smiled.

"Well, take a seat in front, anyway," she said. Madame then distributed her cards.

"Have you any cards, Mr. Dumont?" she asked.

"I have not," said the young man peevishly. "I have all the business I can attend to. I never advertise."

"Well, you are lucky," said madame.

Then She Prayed.

Then she stood in front of the circle and said that she would pray. And she prayed, her voice of melody and honey sweetness phrasing a wide appeal for help to the "Father that seeth all."

The parrot, for a wonder, was quiet during the prayer, but began squawking and yelling "Good-by, good-by," when madame began to collect the questions which each one had written.

"Perhaps," said madame sweetly, "you would like to conduct this reading, Polly."

"Ha-ha-ho-ho-he," said Polly.

Madame ignored the bird. Her face lost its smile and became serious and thoughtful as she took the questions.

"Some people," said Madame, "think this is fortune telling, but it is not. It is a religion, as wide and deep as the universe. We are proud of our privilege of being with the spirits and having them guide us. I teach the pure Bible philosophy of the spirit. I have doctors and lawyers among my students, and I am proud of them. It is something you can take with you anywhere."

Madame placed the questions on the table and began the real business of the evening. To a pretty girl with black hair and brown eyes she said:

"Have you any one dear to you in the army? I get him."

Madame's eyes were closed and her fingers strayed over her brow.

"Has he crossed? No. I see water all around. He will be crossing soon.

Maybe he will not have to go. The spirit does not know."

The black haired girl leaned forward.

"I feel he won't get into battle at all," continued madame. "He loves you. Ah, he certainly does. It is a grand and beautiful thing. Has he a commission? I see two commissions for him."

The black haired girl was delighted. A faint rumbling came from somewhere in the house. Ann shivered.

"I think it is Ryan, the bald headed bird with the lavender shirt, moving furniture upstairs," said the reporter.

"No, it is the spirits coming, crowding in here," said Ann.

"Good-by, good-by, ha-ha!" yelled Polly.

"Keep still, you naughty bird," said Madame, passing to another message.

"Let me see. I get a man who has left you."

The girl addressed gazed in intense interest.

"He has changed his mind," said the medium. "You will see him again, but it will not do you any good. There is another man, a dark man, who is coming into your life and you will be very happy. Take this man."

To another girl who appeared to be in terror:

"No, do not worry. You will be safe on the street. Discard that thought. You will live for many years. I see success for you."

The Widow's Case.

To a middle aged woman in widow's weeds:

"Your husband is here. He is stroking your cheek—so."

Madame stroked her own pink and white cheeks. The widow's eyes filled with tears.

"He says to you, "I am with you and will help you."

"You have pains in your chest? I thought so. He says to tell you to take treatment and you will be all right.

The widow cried.

Another visitor came in.

"Have I collected?" said madame, releasing her spirit guides for a moment.

"Good-by, good-by," shouted the bird.

"Keep still, Polly."

To an old German woman who has kept a rooming house for years:

"I get something from your son tonight, Mrs. L. He is ill?"

"He has not been well," said the old lady.

"I knew it. He will be all right. I get a financial trouble about him. Has he lost his job?"

"No, it was something else," said the old lady.

"Tell him to be careful," said the medium. "The change you are making now will be a worry, but you will come out all right."

The Baby in Peril.

"Give me your question," she said to the next woman, a blonde who looked as if she had had trouble. The medium took the piece of paper and held it to her closed eyes. She was silent. Then she said:

"I see a baby. Is there a new baby coming anywhere?"

No one answered.

"Well, there will be. Have you had a baby?" she asked of the blonde girl.

"No, but a friend had one two months ago," was the reply.

"That's it. That is near enough. I see an angel standing near that baby waiting to take the little soul. The baby may pass on unless a doctor is called soon. Take this message to the mother."

To an old woman in black, very stern and silent, white tufts of hair on chin and upper lip:

"I see you want to cry. There is money trouble and a lawyer. I see conditions that mean an attorney for you unless you are careful."

Courses at $5 Per.

They went next door, where a sign in the window said that Elizabeth Carter was a psychologist and business adviser.

Mrs. Carter explained that she was not a fortune teller, but that she gave courses in mental subjects at $5 a course.

"I don't know anything about your brother," she said to Ann. "Women keep running in here, sometimes late at night, wanting to know about their relatives. They think I can tell them. It's nonsense."

"That was refreshing," said Ann as she left the house. "We will go down on the south side tomorrow and see if the mediums there can tell me anything real."

[Note—The adventures of Sister Ann on the south side will appear in "The Tribune" in a later issue.]

DAVIES TO QUIT WITH TRAEGER; CHARGES PLOT

Says Hoyne Tried for Five Years to "Get" Him.

Jailer Will T. Davies of the Cook county jail yesterday announced he expects to retire with Sheriff John E. Traeger six weeks hence. Mr. Davies made this statement in answer to reports that he had tendered his resignation to the sheriff. At the same time he intimated that he will not seek reappointment from Traeger's successor.

The jailer's statement came as the result of perjury charges brought against him before the grand jury by State's Attorney Hoyne—charges on which the grand jury refused, after hearing Davies' story, to indict him. The statement included a stinging denunciation of State's Attorney Hoyne and the assertion that he has had a "standing resignation" filed with Sheriff Traeger for the last four years.

Always Ready to Resign.

"At least once a month since Sheriff Traeger has been in office I have told him that at any time my being in the position of jailer interfered with his best interests I was ready to resign," Mr. Davies said. "I have not repeated this offer, however, since Hoyne brought these charges against me.

"I would't think of leaving the sheriff now when so small a part of his term remains. But when Traeger leaves office Hoyne and his crowd need not worry about me any more, for I'll not bother them again.

"Oh, they've been trying to 'get' me for five years. More than twenty prisoners whom I've taken to Joliet have told me that and warned me against the state's attorney.

"'Look out, Mr. Davies,' they said to me. 'They're trying to frame on you in the state's attorney's office.'

Says Desk Was Ransacked.

"They told me they had seen photographs of personal notations that had been stolen from my desk and taken to the state's attorney. They told me a lot of other things—too many to mention. It started five years ago and it has kept getting worse, until I am almost beside myself. I'm really surprised that I am not in an insane asylum instead of being county jailer.

"It was all because I would not let them run the county jail for their own purposes. So soon as they found that out they started to bring pressure to bear to have me removed. Individuals and delegations went to the sheriffs under whom I have served asking that I be removed. When the sheriffs refused I became the target for their attacks.

Could Have Made It Easy.

"Had I allowed them to use the jail for their own purposes I would have had a bed of roses here. But I couldn't do it.

"I have tried to run the jail honestly and efficiently. I am satisfied that both the Democratic and Republican sheriffs under whom I have served will frankly say that is true."

State's Attorney Hoyne, when told of the jailer's charges last night, refused to comment upon them.

"I have no animus against anyone," he said. "I believe I have fully stated my position. I intend to clean out the county jail if that is possible. That's all there is to it."

Two Railroad Men Held for Wreck That Killed Five

Following the coroner's inquest yesterday into the deaths of five persons Sept. 14 in a collision between a street car and a train on the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and South Michigan avenue, two men were held to the grand jury on charges of involuntary manslaughter without bond. The men are Charles Wise, 4753 Calumet avenue, a towerman, and Edward Hunt, 7841 Sangamon street, conductor of a switch engine.

SHRAPNEL

A meeting of the auxiliary of the One Hundred and Twenty-second field artillery will be held today in the ballroom of the Hotel La Salle at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be open for all friends and relatives of the men in the regiment, and is called for the purpose of finding out what can be done for the comfort of the men. Mrs. Harold P. Goodnow is acting chairman and Miss Agnes Foreman is honorary chairman.

Col. A. H. Carter, commandant of Camp Zachary Taylor, has ordered all accepted applicants of field artillery school to telegraph immediately their serial number and designation, with street address of their local board. The provost marshal general will temporarily induct new men without order number. This new procedure enables those waiting their order number to obtain immediate action.

A service flag in honor of the men in service from district No. 24 is to be unfurled this afternoon in Throop street, between West Eighteenth and West Nineteenth streets. Parents, brothers, and sisters of the drafted men will take part in a parade to start at 1 o'clock.

Twelve Polish congregations will unite in a parade and rally in Dexter Park pavilion for the continuation of all war activities and for the support of the American and Polish armies fighting in France.

To celebrate the recent victories of the allies the Sixty-eighth exemption district neighborhood committee of the State Council of Defense has called a meeting at the Harper school, Sixty-fifth and Wood streets, for Wednesday evening.

Commissioner David Lamb, international secretary of the Salvation Army of England, will speak on "What I Saw in the Trenches" at the Citadel, 1512 West Madison street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock and at 1020 Roscoe street at 8 o'clock. Commissioner Lamb has just completed an exhaustive inspection of hut work among the American forces in France.

ALL CHICAGO TO HONOR CHIEF OF CZECHO-SLOVAKS

Union League Club Will Be Host to Prof. Masaryk.

A welcome befitting the dignity of the responsible executive of a great state that is fighting side by side with America, France, and England against the central powers will be given Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk, president of the Czecho-Slovak nation and commander in chief of the Czecho-Slovak armies, by the Union League club when it entertains him at dinner next Wednesday evening.

Gov. Lowden has been invited to represent the state of Illinois at the gathering. Chicago leaders of thought, of industry, and of finance will attend. There will be diplomatic and military representation, and a score or more of the men who represent the national aspirations not only of the Czecho-Slovaks but of the Poles, Jugo-Slavs, Roumanians, and other nationalities who look to the allied armies to bring them freedom will be present.

Women Also Invited.

Invitations also have been sent to leaders among Chicago women who have taken an active interest in furthering the war work of the United States and have devoted their lives to the betterment of the welfare of others.

President Masaryk's visit will be the first he has made to Chicago since his nation was formally recognized as independent by America, England, France and Italy. He comes as the actual head of a country with a population greater than that of Belgium and Serbia combined, and which, when peace comes, will exist as one of the important barrier states necessary to keep Germany within bounds and bar the pan-German idea of world conquest.

Until victory is achieved President Masaryk, like King Albert of Belgium, and King Peter of Serbia, must remain an exile in a foreign land. Like these two rulers, however, he has active armies in the field which will not cease fighting, even though their native land is in the hands of the enemy. His achievement in placing these armies in the field is even more notable than those of the rulers of Belgium and Serbia in maintaining theirs.

Creates Nation and Armies.

Both Serbia and Belgium had fully equipped armies when the war began. When overwhelmed by the German hordes they were able to retreat, with their armies intact, into friendly countries and to continue fighting with their allies. Czecho-Slovakia, however, did not exist. It had no armies, and its manhood were drafted into the armies of Austria. They deserted by tens of thousands to the Russians and Serbians. These are the armies now facing the Germans in Siberia and Russia, while Czechs and Slovaks who were in foreign lands hastened to form military units of their own to fight with the allies in Italy and France.

President Masaryk will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Alice Masaryk, who, like her father, is under sentence of death in Austria and must remain an exile. The distinguished visitor will be the only speaker of the evening, and his thrilling story of the creation of a nation under the very noses of great powers who sought to keep it in subjection is expected to arouse deep interest in the settlement to be made on the eastern front.

CUT YOUR COAL BILLS 25% TO 40%

The Burnall System of Fuel Economy is of Life-Time construction and is quickly installed in connection with any kind of heating plant or hot water heater. By increasing combustion, it saves 25% to 40% of your coal bill. The test is made on your own heating plant. You pay nothing until you are satisfied that Burnall actually does save at least 25%.

BURNALL

gives you even heat, less ash, less clinkers and less smoke. Your heat will hold more evenly throughout the night with banked fires, and will come to normal quickly in the morning. Remember, you pay nothing until a saving of 25% or more has been demonstrated on your own heating plant.

IOWA ELEVEN TRIUMPHS OVER OLD RIVAL, NEBRASKA, 12-0

FORWARD PASSES HELP HAWKEYES TO GAIN VICTORY

Cornhuskers Start with Rush, but Crumble in Third Quarter.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Iowa triumphed over Nebraska today on the football field, winning by a score of 12 to 0. The Hawkeyes showed their superiority in practically every style of play, their forward passing being especially strong. Only in the first period did Nebraska show strength.

The Cornhusker play was crude in spots, showing lack of training. The first quarter developed scant difference in the strength of the two teams and the ball was kept well in the center of the field. Toward the close of the quarter Nebraska struck its stride, and with Hubka and McMahon doing the attacking, carried the ball to Iowa's ten yard line, but failed to go over.

Iowa Stronger in Second.

Iowa strengthened in the second quarter and was plainly master in attack and defense. Lohman and Scott were powers of strength, but their interference was not the best, and the punch was lacking when scoring seemed possible. For the last six minutes of the period the gains for either side scarcely exceeded twenty yards.

The third quarter saw the break right from the Nebraska kickoff. Iowa started a march toward the Cornhusker goal and was never headed, two forward passes contributing largely to the advance. Five minutes of play allowed Reed to go over for a touchdown when he received a forward pass from Lohman, Hawkeye full back, and downed the ball behind the goal. Four minutes later the trick was repeated, putting the ball close to the goal, where Sykes and Lohman plunged through until the latter went over. Greenwood missed goal kick on both occasions.

Hawkeyes Threaten Again.

In the fourth quarter the ball most of the time was in Nebraska territory. Iowa started another march toward the Nebraska goal line and it looked as if the Hawkeyes would score again. By several line plunges the Iowa team rushed forward, but time was called and the game ended with the ball in Iowa's possession on the Nebraska five yard line. Lineup:

ILLINI REGISTER AERIAL VICTORY OVER FLYERS, 3-0

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Bob Zuppke's green Illini youngsters won from the Chanute field aviators today by a score of 3 to 0. Leitsch, Illini left guard, place kicked a goal from the thirty-eight yard line in the third quarter.

The Illini had the ball most of the time, but lacked the necessary punch when opportunities to score were given.

The embryo flyers, headed by Weston, the old Michigan pilot, fought hard and pluckily, but were unable to gain consistently.

Beyond a few forward passes thrown neatly by Sabo, the Illini play was unsensational. Leitsch essayed three other field goals, but the ball went wild.

Chanute had a strong defensive eleven, with aggressive ends in the persons of Lewis and Bryant, who had a great deal to do with halting the Illini backs. Eleven planes from Chanute flew over the game, which was witnessed by 2,500, considered an excellent opening crowd. Lineup:

GOPHERS IN TIE WITH ALL-STARS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Playing its first real football game of the season, the Minnesota S. A. T. C. eleven was held to a scoreless tie by a team of all-stars. There were no features to speak of, no brilliant playing of any kind, and the game was more or less of a stiff scrimmage for Dr. Williams' men, who showed little, if any, ability. Lineup:

Courtney, Ohio Football Star, Dies of Pneumonia

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Word was received in Columbus today that Harold J. "Hap" Courtney, captain and star tackle of Ohio State champion eleven in 1917, had died of pneumonia at sea on Sept. 12. Capt. Courtney was an ensign.

LAYOLA FOOTBALL VETERANS

Scored All Points for North Side Prep Eleven.

BOB KULLMAN, Center. JACK WHITE, Right Half.

For the second straight week Center Bob Kullman and Capt. Jack White, quarter back, scored all the points in a narrow triumph by the Loyola academy football team. Yesterday White saved the day in the last two minutes by getting away from a thirty-five yard run from quarter back position. He made the score at a difficult angle, but Kullman booted the goal kick, and Loyola beat Riverside High of Milwaukee, 14 to 13. In the third quarter White had scored and Kulman had kicked goal. The previous Saturday Loyola beat Senn High, 7 to 6, on a similar quarter back run by White and Kullman's goal after touchdown from a difficult angle.

YOST ELEVEN SHOWS OLD HURRY UP SPEED; DEFEATS CASE, 33-0

Ann Arbor, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Case proved an easy opponent for Michigan's opening football game, the Ohio team going down to a 33 to 0 defeat in a game featured by few thrills.

Cohn, Steckette, Dunne, and Perrin were the stars of the day for the Wolverines, McCune and Hale doing the best work for Case. Abe Cohn at right half made several runs down the field of over thirty yards, picking McCune's second kickoff while in the air and carrying the ball fifty yards before he could be stopped.

Dunne in Thriller.

Dunne at right end contributed the real thriller of the day when he caught McCune's forward pass as it left the passer's hands on the fifteen yard line and crossed the goal line with the field behind him.

Goetz messed up things several times for the boys from Cleveland by interrupting plays several yards behind the line. Michigan was able to make first downs at will, while Case could do this but once or twice. After the game was well salted, Yost started trying out the second string men and replaced all but one or two of the team before the end of the game.

Case Man Carried Off.

Doig was seriously hurt while tackling Cohn and was carried from the field unconscious after pulling a beautiful flying tackle which he missed by inches. He was replaced by Butler, who was suffering with a dislocated shoulder.

OHIO STATE TEAM TRIMS WESLEYAN

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The Ohio State wartime football team ran over Ohio Wesleyan on Ohio field today, scoring six touchdowns and a total of forty-one points, while holding the Methodists far from the Buckeye goal at all times. Playing on Ohio team were stars of last year's freshman team, present freshmen, and a few upper class men. Rise, former Pennsylvania star half; Ripley, Columbus High school tackle last year, and Davies and Meyers of last year's freshman squad, were shining stars of the game, and McDonald, who has been detailed here from the navy to finish his college course, acted as captain in "Chick" Harley's place.

Two Soccer Matches Today Scheduled by State Body

The feature match of the double bill carded by the Illinois State Soccer association at Forty-second and Chicago avenues this afternoon will be the meeting of the British-Americans and Scandinavian-Americans at 3 o'clock. The first match between the Czecho-Slovaks and American Hungarians at 1:30 will bring out a strong following of both teams. Anton Cermak will kick off. Ald. Sheldon Govier of the Ninth ward, for several years a star of the Pullman team, will kick off in the second match.

Sweitzer Cup Finalists Commence Series Today

The first game of the series of three for the semi-pro championship of Cook county and ownership of the Sweitzer cup will be played this afternoon at Kimball and Wilson avenues, between Albany Parks and Aristos. It is the seventh annual competition for the cup donated by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer.

LOYOLA S. A. T. C. PLAYS TIE WITH ST. IGNATIUS, 6-6

With no football practice whatsoever, the student army training corps team of Loyola university took the field and played the lighter but better schooled eleven of St. Ignatius academy to a 6 to 6 tie. Mahoney of the academy carried the ball for a touchdown in the first three minutes of the game, running thirty yards after St. Ignatius recovered a fumble.

The college camp team showed its lack of practice, but had individual bright lights in the Fitzgeralds and Dillon, line men.

The superior weight told in the third quarter, when Loyola pushed a touchdown over on straight bucks. Score:

KENTUCKY STATE TAKES WALLOP AT INDIANA, 24 TO 7

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Indiana S. A. T. C. team lost to Kentucky State, 24 to 7, here this afternoon in the game that rung the curtain up on this season. All scores until the final period were made via the forward pass route. Both teams used straight football tactics until near the end of the second quarter, when the southerners opened up with their aerial plays, the second one resulted in the first touchdown for their team.

Indiana's lone marker came in the final quarter, when Kyle threw a perfect pass to Dean, who raced over the Corncracker goal line for the score. Indiana's interference was poor and Coach Stiehm's men twice lacked the punch to put the ball over from the four yard line. Lineup:

Dan O'Leary, the veteran pedestrian, will set the pace for five other walkers on a hike to Joliet today. Those who will start with O'Leary from Halsted and Madison streets at 6 o'clock this morning are James Templeton, John McCarthy, George McFadden, Charles Denine, and Patrick White.

ALL-STARS TO PLAY GIANTS.

Charley Leary's All-Stars, who gave the American Giants a setback last Sunday, will tackle the colored champions again this afternoon at Schorling's park.

SEMIPROS ADOPT THRIFT STAMPS ADMISSION PLAN

'Tribune' Suggestion Appeals to Nash Motors and Logan Squares.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Initial test of the plan recently proposed by THE TRIBUNE to use thrift stamps in place of tickets to a baseball game and pay off in those stamps instead of currency will be made next Sunday at Logan Square park at a game between the Nash Motors of Kenosha and the Logan Squares.

Manager Niesen of the home team, in a letter which is appended, welcomed the suggestion in behalf of President Callahan and the players of the Logan Square team and expressed the belief the idea would make a hit with the fan public.

Real Attraction for Rooters.

In selecting next Sunday for the test Manager Niesen is offering an attraction which will give the plan a big sendoff, for the Nash Motors and Logan Squares are a couple of the best semipro outfits in this section and contain noted players who are favorites with local rooters.

No effort will be made, therefore, to boost the attendance for a mediocre game by appealing to the loyalty of the public through the thrift stamp scheme. The patrons will be given a real ball game for their money at regular prices, the only innovation being that the fans' money will go to the government to help win the war and the players, promoters, and attachés will accept stamps in place of the coin.

No Soliciting at Park.

There will be no soliciting for additional contributions from the fans, it is announced by Manager Niesen, whose letter follows:

Chicago, Oct. 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Reading your article of Sept. 28 headed "Why Not Make W. S. S. Pay Way Into Ball Game?" it struck me as a great idea and I am satisfied the multitude of fans now patronizing the semipro baseball games would take to this idea in great style.

This plan has also struck my partner, John J. Callahan, president of the Logan Square club, favorably, and I know the players, the visiting ball club, the ushers, ticket sellers, umpires, score boys, concession men, and ourselves would be glad to take their pay in thrift stamps. What better way could there be to help the government and add to our personal savings?

Jim Vaughn vs. Benz.

Your idea is a grand one and I want to put a game before the public to further this cause on Sunday, Oct. 13, at Logan Square park, Milwaukee and Sawyer avenues, at which time the visiting team will be the Nash Motors of Kenosha, Wis., of which Jim Vaughn, who almost southpawed the Cubs into a world's championship, will be the star pitcher of the occasion. They will be opposed by Joe Benz, pitcher, and Ray Schalk, catcher, both of the Chicago White Sox.

WILLIAM C. NIESSEN,
Manager Logan Squares.

NO PLAYER PAY AFTER SEPT. 2

In a decision made public yesterday the national commission thwarted the hopes of a few major league ball players of being able to collect their salaries in full this year in spite of the curtailment of the season by Secretary of War Baker.

Jake Daubert, veteran of the Brooklyn club, was the first to file a claim for salary from Sept. 2 to Oct. 14 and the claim was summarily dismissed.

Daubert asserted his contract was for five years, 1914-1918 inclusive, and called for a salary of $9,000 a year, "beginning on or about the 14th of April and ending on or about the 14th of October." He also asserted the ten days' notice of release was eliminated from his contract and that it contained a provision whereby he could not be released or transferred without his consent. The amount paid him up to Sept. 2 was $6,850 and the player claimed the difference, $2,150.

In dismissing the claim the national commission declares that "In view of the orders of the United States government with reference to baseball it became necessary to suspend operation of the game on and after Sept. 2.

"The Brooklyn club was unable to finish the season because of the impossibility of retaining its players in view of the government work or fight order and for that reason the club was within its rights in giving notice of the termination of all of its contracts with its players."

COOTS.

No, the coot is not a cootie's grandfather, but is none other than our old friend, the mudhen. When father was a boy better waterfowl were so plentiful that the coot was looked upon as a "no 'count" bird, and if they were shot at all it was to drive them out of the decoys or because of the duck feed they destroyed. In those days folks who would eat mudhen were looked upon as "queer," the same as the misinformed now look upon those of us who eat muskrats.

Some years ago W. T. Hornaday, the noted conservationist, sadly predicted that the attention of hunters would turn to the coot when other waterfowl became scarcer. This prophecy has more than come true so far as the middle west is concerned—the lowly coot is now recognized by law and by the majority of hunters as a game bird. Mudhen shooting never can compare with duck hunting, but many hunters find the coot a good second best.

The coot has blue-black plumage, with a sprinkling of white in the wings and tail, bright green feet, and ivory white bill. Altogether he is an uncommon looking, unhandsome bird. He breeds throughout temperate America, the majority going up into Canada on the spring flight. Mrs. Coot makes her nest in marshy places and lays from eight to fifteen eggs, most of which hatch. The youngsters are husky and quick growing, and soon learn to fend for themselves until fall, when they gather in immense flocks for the flight south. A few start southward with the first hint of cold weather, but the main flight does not strike Illinois and neighboring states until the middle of October or later.

One of the remarkable features of the coot is his extra large feet, the toes being wide and strong and of great assistance to the bird in his swimming and diving. He also uses them as "starters," kicking the water vigorously as he makes his getaway.

Coots feed on minute, crablike animals, tender grasses, buds, wild rice, and wild celery, and a flock of them will tear up acres of weeds, much to the disgust of late season anglers. Where they are much shot at the flocks raft in deep water during the day and come into the weed beds at night. They are not extra good fliers, and when the hunters lay down a barrage they become flustered and fall easy prey to the good shots. The man used to shooting ducks is inclined to overestimate their speed and lead them too much. Shooting at ordinary distances with a good full choke gun, holding right on the tips of their beaks will usually tumble 'em.

Properly cooked, the mudhen is good to eat. They should be skinned, not plucked, and the carcass soaked in salt water. To cook put them in fresh water with an onion and allow them to simmer. Then either continue the boiling and make a stew with a brown gravy or remove from the water and broil, roast, or fry with some bacon or ham "drippings." Down on the Illinois river a favorite method of cooking them is to parboil with an onion; wipe dry, dip in a batter such as is used in cooking eggplant, and fry in hot grease. Cooked in this way it has our approval.

To clean a mudhen use a hatchet and a sharp knife. With the former chop off the hen's feet, head, and wings. Then with the knife make a cut through the skin straight across the back. Hold the bird with the left hand and insert the fingers of the right hand under the skin at the cut in the back and pull toward the head. This will remove the upper half of the skin, and another pull toward the rear will complete the skinning.

Cut off the breast and saddles and throw the rest of the carcass away. An old river man would have had one cleaned in the time you have taken to read these directions.

ENGLEWOOD WINS SOCCER CONTEST FROM LANE, 2 TO 0

Englewood defeated Lane, 2 to 0, in the opening game in the heavyweight division of the Chicago High School Soccer league at Lincoln park. The south siders scored in the first half, Goldberg getting the goal. In the second period Brignall counted from a penalty. Lane was outplayed in the first half, but came back strong in the second. Geise was the best half back on the field. Wurm, Brignall, and Goldberg were the best of the forward line.

Owing to the defection of Harrison in the Chicago High School league Schurz had an open date and played Oak Park of the Suburban league at Oak Park, each team getting one goal. Houk scored for Oak Park in the first period. In the second half Bentlich scored for Schurz on a penalty kick which came from a foul by Gilman. Brown of Oak Park fell and broke a wrist. Two five minute extra periods were played.

GADKE LEADS IN GLEN OAK CLUB'S ANNUAL ROUNDUP

Westward Ho Golfer with 82 Score Is First in Field of 70.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Thomas L. Gadke of Westward Ho led a field of over seventy starters in the annual Round-up tournament at the Glen Oak Country club. His score was 82, Tom McGill of Olympia Fields being second with 84, and E. Schultz of Maywood third with 86.

The big prize is the Round-up trophy for the low gross score at 54 holes, the other two rounds being set for today, when eight flights will compete for the flights prizes.

Consolation for Losers.

The losers in the first round this morning will compete in an eighteen hole consolation event in the afternoon. Pairings for the flights are as follows:

First flight—J. H. Wayman and C. M. Coats; W. Brikerhoff and T. McGill; E. Schulz and A. L. Utermark; H. A. Clemons and T. L. Gadke.

Second flight—J. Riley and D. James; R. E. Doonan and E. Middleton; J. Hicks and L. Vastine; R. R. Lewis and G. Vastine.

Third flight—W. S. Krohn and F. C. Lowrie; W. H. Brewer and J. Fitzsimmons; J. H. Musson and G. Priest; T. J. Morris and B. C. McKay.

Fourth flight—A. E. Barrett and A. F. Gasnick; A. M. Saxe and B. E. Kearns; J. T. Barlow and J. T. Leavitt; Dr. Montieth and G. Zuttermeister.

Fifth flight—J. Brendeneen and A. T. Cavey; G. Hedrick and F. S. Hancock; G. T. Wheeler and F. P. Lavin; J. W. Martin and B. F. Budinger.

Sixth flight—R. C. Kearsely and F. T. Liddy; J. Byrnes and A. B. Mayer; G. Garneau and W. H. Keelin; G. F. Brown and F. C. Evans.

Seventh flight—F. Harmon and L. Rittenhaus; W. Eaton and G. P. Bird; D. McGill and C. F. Prilip; E. Murphy and W. Waterbury.

Eighth flight—C. Cavenaugh and P. E. Barry; G. A. Costello and T. J. Hermann; J. H. Coates and W. H. Hodge; F. Strech and G. W. Bayliss.

MIDLOTHIAN.

Midlothian members contributed $200 to the permanent blind relief war fund as a result of the handicap staged there yesterday. F. F. Fisher and Charles W. Booth tied for low gross with cards of 87, the low net prize going to D. W. Heath, 88—16—72. Other low scores were as follows: F. F. Fisher, 87—14—73; H. B. McFarland, 89—26—73; J. Kinmont, 100—25—75; F. W. Porter, 99—22—77; B. F. Neil, 109—32—77; W. H. Eagle, 92—15—77.

EDGEWOOD.

W. A. Hastings won the finals of the class A tournament at Edgewood, defeating A. V. Peterson. In class B, R. Edward Coulter defeated P. S. Eustis, one of the pioneers of the game around La Grange, 1 up, 19 holes. The final in class C was postponed.

NORTH SHORE.

O. G. Corns played an O. K. game in the semi-finals of the third flight championship at North Shore, defeating F. C. Irwin, 1 up. In the other match T. J. Rockwell defeated A. L. McDougal, 2 and 1. Winners in the blind bogey event were: C. E. Hastings, 95—8—87; A. J. Taylor, 96—18—88; W. N. Cornell, 89—sc.—89.

WESTWARD HO.

Results in the first round for the President's cup at Westward Ho were as follows: T. Cusack won from J. H. Rubel by default; J. L. Gallaher defeated W. S. Hofford, 4 and 2; N. B. Flitcraft won from C. Richards by default; H. F. Spelman defeated G. L. Johnson, 2 and 1. The following qualified for the Gale cup: J. P. Norton, J. L. Gallaher, E. Loomis, L. Terrio, J. R. McGregor, H. Sayers, J. B. Sardy, C. Harper. Winners in the class event were W. Kettlestrings, L. Terrio, T. Cusack, and J. P. Norton.

WESTMORELAND.

G. F. Davis, S. O. Dunn, J. J. Roberts, and F. G. Burns made up the foursome that captured the team event at Westmoreland with a net score of 327. J. W. Archer, J. M. Welter, F. Burnaby, and J. B. Bush were runners-up, with 329. Dunn won the ball sweepstakes with 94—16—78. Archer, 84—5—79, had low gross score for the afternoon and was second.

In the blind bogey event J. C. Reynolds, 88—2—86, and J. W. Douglass, 99—13—86, tied.

CALUMET.

Finishing 2 up, H. L. Dixon, C. H. Herrmann and J. T. Morrison, deadlocked in the handicap against bogey at Calumet. William Hough won the blind bogey event with 96—12—84.

FLOSSMOOR.

Warren K. Wood, former western amateur champion, won the Flossmoor championship by defeating Raymond J. Daly, 3 and 2, in the deciding contest. Daly, however, found solace by winning the handicap against bogey, finishing 5 up. The finals for the sports and pastimes trophy developed the longest contest of the year, W. J. Evans Jr. going to the thirty-sixth green before he could register a victory over Dr. T. J. Watkins.

GLEN VIEW.

J. E. Wilson's name neutralized any insidious workings, and he won the thirteenth annual harvest cup competition, the ball sweepstakes and the class B medal play handicap with a card of 82—15—67. In order to secure permanent possession of the big trophy a player must win the harvest event three times. Thus far thirteen different contestants have one leg each on the emblem and a gold medal commemorating the victory.

In the class A handicap Peter Berkey, 78—4—74; C. K. Peck, 83—9—74, and J. E. Nyman, 82—8—74, tied. The tie microbe also invaded class C, where F. P. Eyman, F. J. Llewellyn, A. J. Pardridge, and E. H. Adams emerged with 78s.

EDGEWATER.

Checking out 4 down at Edgewater, H. T. Dillon won the handicap against par [72]. Dillon's rounds of 39 and 44 gave him a gross of 83, which, minus his handicap of 7, netted 76. E. R. Moore won the class A sweepstakes with 83—3—80. A. W. Curran was successful in the second division with 96—20—76.

MAYWOOD.

Dewey Weber won the Maywood championship by defeating Harry Rautenbush, 2 and 1. In the second flight A. A. Luttrell defeated J. E. Bradley, 5 and 4, in the deciding contest. Third flight honors went to W. D. Andrews, who finished 6 up and 5 to play over O. G. Adams.

RIDGEMOOR.

With net scores of 81, C. S. O'Leary and F. B. Woltz tied in the blind bogey competition at Ridgemoor. E. A. Thornton defeated G. M. Quinlan in the finals for the class A medal, A. D. Birdsall defeated F. J. L. Kolb in class B, while F. X. Busch defeated F. C. Blake in class C. G. W. Robb won the W. Hagemann trophy by defeating R. E. Williams.

SOUTH SHORE.

C. H. Morris won the match play handicap against bogey by a margin of 5 up. F. T. Hamlin was second, 3 up. B. F. Rollo and A. R. Camp tied for third, 2 up.

RIDGE.

The annual harvest home dinner at Ridge was held at the clubhouse, 200 members being present. Charles H. Burras presided as toastmaster. The prizes won during the season were awarded. Nearly every trophy, aside from the championship and flights, was in the form of Liberty bonds or War Savings stamps. The club will probably close the year with a fair cash balance on hand and a sinking fund of $4,000 toward the purchase of the grounds, most of this being invested in Liberty bonds, the most recent purchase being a $1,000 bond of the fourth Liberty loan.

J. K. Lamb and H. A. Mix won the Duffer's trophy from J. F. Stewart and P. M. McGann, 7 and 6. F. May won the consolation event from R. L. Blount, 1 up. Low gross for the day went to M. Le Bosquet, 87, E. L. Baker having low net of 74.

BOB O'LINK.

C. S. Williams had low gross score in the event at Bob O'Link with 83, H. W. Redman getting 83. R. J. Douglas Jr. had low net, 103—30—73, J. H. Bullen, 99—20—79, being second. In play for the consolation cup H. W. Redman defeated G. S. Wood, 1 up; J. H. Bullen defeated C. P. Mertens, 2 and 1; T. M. Johnson defeated L. M. Williams, 3 and 2; M. M. Townley defeated C. C. McKinney, 3 and 2.

INDIAN HILL.

F. J. Bersbach won the Indian Hill championship, defeating A. D. Edwards, 7 and 6, in the thirty-six hole final. In the final for the Autumn cup George H. Leslie, the former Skokie veteran, defeated A. M. Belfield, 3 and 2, at thirty-six holes.

OAK PARK.

The following qualified for the Seabury cup at Oak Park: W. H. Davies, C. S. Cutting, B. R. Benjamin, J. Mortensen, G. S. Adams, J. M. Dall, C. B. Ford, Z. C. Green, A. G. Evans, E. A. Kettlewell, H. B. Eigelberner, E. L. Hertig, H. L. Simmons, E. E. Roberts, F. S. Apt, Dr. L. Thexton, E. L. Hartig won the Thrift stamp event with a total of 81.

MARQUETTE PARK.

Lloyd Gullickson of the Great Lakes station, city champion, and Ben Buffham of Garfield Park, Cook county open champion, will play a match at Marquette Park this afternoon. Harry Rautenbush and Gunnar Nelson will play in the foursome.

EVANSTON.

W. R. Thomas won the first flight finals in the Members' event at Evanston, defeating R. H. Purcell, 2 and 1. Dr. Davis and C. M. McLeod postponed their match in the second class. In the third class H. S. Camp defeated H. M. Allison, 2 and 1. Four players tied in the blind bogey event, D. W. Ellyson, 81—sc—81; W. R. Thomas, 84—3—81; R. H. Purcell, 91—10—81; E. K. Phillips, 103—22—81. Winners in the Thrift Stamp sweepstakes were:

Class A—D. W. Ellyson, 81; W. R. Thomas, 84—11—73.

OLYMPIA FIELDS.

J. Stevenson won the Olympia Fields championship, defeating R. T. Larrabee, 5 and 4, in the thirty-six hole final. S. J. Chadwick won the second flight from J. S. Townsend, 3 and 2.

For PLAYERS of WHIST by A. R. METCALFE

How many players try to fathom the motive behind an unexpected play? Both in whist and bridge this is the most important of all strategy. It is equivalent to learning the plan of the opposing general.

Put yourself in the place of the other player and try to imagine under what circumstances you would do the same. A little practice will make this easier than it sounds. It is a waste of gray matter to search for the motive of a novice or a stupid player. As a rule they have none.

The following deal from the north shore of Chicago illustrates the difference between deep thinking and conventional play:

West secured 11 tricks.

At first glance the declarer seemed to have an easy proposition, but a little study revealed difficulties.

What assets did south possess besides a lot of small spades to warrant him in supporting his partner so strenuously? No high cards were missing except the king of diamonds, and south therefore must have expected to trump the heart suit. If south expected to trump clubs, then north was short in the heart suit and west would be unable to extract the trumps.

West therefore decided to play for his much inferior diamond suit, which there was a good prospect of making if the adversaries led them. In the meantime the trumps in dummy would protect him against a spade assault.

The play of north was not inspired. That player should have asked himself why the declarer did not try to draw the trumps and bring in the splendid suit of clubs in dummy. Had north tried to study the motives governing the unusual line of play by west, he must have concluded that the declarer was short of spades. North therefore should have continued the spade suit, as it could not do much harm to force the high trumps in dummy. But to north the obvious play was to put his partner in with diamonds and ruff another club, which would defeat the contract.

East should have bid three clubs on the first round and the deal should have been played at clubs. In that case east and west would have scored a grand slam without any difficulty.

ANSWER TO QUERY.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—The dealer bid one no-trump, south passed, west bid two diamonds, and I, being north, bid two hearts. I held these cards: Spades, 10, 6, 3, 2; hearts, ace, 10, 9, 5, 4, 2; clubs, ace; diamonds, 5, 3. The dealer bid three diamonds and my partner three hearts; dealer bid four diamond and my partner four hearts; dealer went to five diamonds and I doubled. I led the ace of clubs. Dummy put down four clubs with king, queen, jack; four diamonds with ace, king; four clubs with ace, king, and the singleton jack of hearts. What was my play at trick two?

M. C. M.

Answer—Would have led a small heart, hoping that partner could win with the king and ruff your hand with a club. This would seem to be the only chance of defeating west.

INQUISITIVE FANS

CHICAGO.—[To the Editor.]—1. Batter hits liner to pitcher. Pitcher misses ball, which bounces over to the first base line. Ball is about five feet in front of the runner. To avoid a collision pitcher kicks the ball to the baseman ahead of the runner, instead of throwing it. Is runner out? 2. In an indoor game is the pitcher allowed to wind up and complete his motion of throwing the ball to the batter, then turn around and pick a man off a base? Is this a balk and is the runner entitled to a base or is a ball called on the batter, or is the runner out if tagged?

F. O. R.

Answer—1. Runner is out. 2. It is a balk and the runner is entitled to advance one base without liability to be put out.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill.—[To the Editor.]—Please give me the official record of the runs and hits made by the following players in the world's series of 1918: Hollocher, Merkle, McInnis, Shean, Hooper.

G. W. COX.

Answer.—Runs, Hollocher, two; Merkle, one; McInnis, two; Shean, two; Hooper, none. Hits, Hollocher, four; Merkle, five; McInnis, five; Shean, four; Hooper, seven.

RIFLE, NOT CUE, DRAWS SKILL OF CHARLEY ELLIS

Former Champion Qualifies as Expert After a Few Days on Range.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Hitting the edge of a billiard ball at a distance of ten feet is a different proposition from hitting a twenty inch target at 500 or 600 yards, but it takes a good eye to do both.

Charley Ellis, former three cushion champion, who enlisted in the marines at Pittsburgh about two months ago, writing from Paris Island, S. C., to Charley Morin of this city, tells of his success on the rifle range as follows:

"I had a wonderful surprise this week and it will be one for you. Eighteen days ago I went to the range and pulled the trigger on my rifle for the first time in my life and finished yesterday with an expert rifleman's medal, and maybe I'm not proud of it, more so than anything I ever did with a cue.

Gets Medal for Record.

"Imagine making 93 out of a possible 100 at 500 and 600 yards on a twenty inch bull's-eye. Three weeks ago I would have thought it impossible as far as I was concerned, but now it is all over you cannot know how tickled I am over it.

"Tomorrow morning I get my medal, sign the pay roll, get a $5 increase by virtue of the record, and will be assigned to my duties for the period of the war. My score qualifies me for the machine gun school at Utica, N. Y., or as an instructor at the rifle range."

Postpone Balkline Tourney.

War conditions have led to the postponement of the professional balkline tournament which was to have started at the City club, Boston, Nov. 1. No date has been set. Meanwhile Welker Cochran, who expects shortly to enter the navy, has challenged Willie Hoppe for a championship match, and this appears to be the only big thing in the professional balkline world in sight.

In the three cushion world the meeting of Augie Kieckhefer and Charley McCourt at the Elks club here the latter part of this month is the next big match in sight. Chairman Louis Brunswick of the Elks' committee is planning the seating arrangements and expects to accommodate 400.

RED CROSS FINAL NET PLAY TODAY AT LAWCHESTER

W. S. Miller's stiff game forced Western Tennis Champion Walter Hayes to play his best to land in the final bracket of the city-wide tournament for the benefit of the American Red Cross on clay at Lawchester club yesterday.

This afternoon Hayes will confront Edward Oelsner, city closed singles champion at 2 o'clock, in a clash that will have the latter after Hayes' tennis scalp, following unsuccessful efforts to overcome the lanky local champion on various former occasions.

The doubles final also will bring together two well matched pairs, Oelsner and R. F. Woods, Sherwood, meeting Don F. Wiley, the Evanston player, and Miller. Wiley and Miller play a steady game which will pounce on any weakness of their opponents. Against them Oelsner and Woods are two dashing players, who take chances in slamming the ball. Summaries:

SINGLES.

Semi-final round—Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, defeated W. S. Miller, Chicago, 6—3, 6—4, 10—8; Edward Oelsner, Chicago, won by default from R. F. Woods, Sherwood.

DOUBLES.

Third round—L. B. Walton and L. B. Gallison, Sherwood, won by default from George J. O'Connell and Harold Forster, South Park.

Semi-final round—W. S. Miller and Don F. Wiley, Chicago, defeated L. B. Walton and L. B. Gallison, Sherwood, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3; Edward Oelsner, Chicago, and R. F. Woods, Sherwood, defeated Walter T. Hayes and Edward H. Fabrice, Chicago, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3.

SPORT TO EQUIP CAMP GRANT GYM

In response to the appeal of Capt. Louis Omer for funds to equip a gymnasium at Camp Grant, Harry [illegible], president of the International Gymnastic union, has called a meeting for Tuesday night at the Logan Square Athletic club, Kedzie and Milwaukee avenue.

Representatives of many branches of sport have been invited to attend. President Charles Comiskey, President Charles Weeghman, and the owners of other local parks have agreed to donate their grounds for any events in aid of the fund.

Joe Coffey will enlist the services of the wrestlers, and President Peel of the United States Football association has agreed to arrange an intercity match with Cleveland or Detroit. Delegates will be present from many branches of indoor sport.

Travers and Marston Win in Red Cross Golf Match

Mount Hope, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Jerome Travers and Max Marston defeated Oswald Kirkby and John G. Anderson in a Red Cross exhibition match over the St. Andrews course here today by 5 up and 4 to play. The winners had a best ball of 69, while the opposing side took 74. About $1,000 was raised.

START ROQUE GAMES AT GARFIELD.

Results of play in the championship tournament of the Garfield Park Roque club yesterday were as follows:

First division—F. A. Holbrook, 10; G. E. Burdick, 18; Burdick, 30; W. O. Smith, [illegible]; Burdick, 32; B. E. Buchner, 14; Burdick, [illegible]; W. B. Parmalee, 20.

Second division—E. J. H. Blanchard, [illegible]; R. B. Halley, 18; Dr. McDermott, 13; Halley, 10; B. G. Blanchard, 28; W. Davis, 10; W. Davis, 32; E. J. Blanchard, 15; McDermott, 26; E. J. H. Blanchard, 20.

CURLERS MUST PLAY OUTDOORS.

Owing to war conditions local curlers will have to play outdoors this winter if they wish to pursue their sport. An understanding has been reached by the Chicago Curling club with the south park commissioners, and the covered rink which has been [illegible] in Washington park for the last twelve [illegible] will not be built.

SENN AND LANE SCHOOL ELEVENS BATTLE TO 6 TO 6 TIE

FOOTBALL SHOWN ABOVE AVERAGE FOR PREP TEAMS

Tech Attack Baffles, but Fumble After Failure to Punt Proves Costly.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Playing better than the average brand of preparatory school football and fighting with all the physical energy in their makeups until the final whistle blew, Nicholas Senn and Lane heavyweight football teams struggled to a 6 to 6 tie yesterday at De Paul field. In the opening game Senn lightweights defeated Lane, 19 to 0.

Both games were featured by hard, aggressive football at times, while at other periods the players let down until forced to defend their own goal with the ball in the shadows of the posts. There was clean tackling in the majority of cases and poor judgment used in others.

Lane First to Score.

The heavyweight contest was an interesting struggle from start to finish, although it looked as if Lane would win by a comfortable margin shortly after the first kickoff. Senn kicked off to Lane and the latter started a pretty attack which resulted in a touchdown.

With Anderson, 193 pound fullback, carrying the ball on line plunges and off tackle drive, Lane made its distance gradually. The team employed a series of shift plays in which the halfbacks, Nelson and Schultz, received the ball on direct passes from the center and then either drove off the tackles or circled the ends.

Attack Baffles Senn Players.

This attack bewildered the Senn players, who were powerless to stop it. The trio of Lane backs was used alternately until the ball rested on Senn's one yard line. On the following play, Gallagher, 126 pound Lane quarterback, dived between his center's legs for the first score of the game. Anderson missed the goal and time for the period was called.

Neither team threatened to score in the second period, the play being mostly between the two twenty yard lines. Senn started with a rush at the opening of the third quarter. Lane kicked off and on the first scrimmage play, Lifvendahl, Senn's star halfback, broke through left tackle and ran fifty yards before he was stopped. By line plunges and cross bucks, Senn carried the oval to Lane's three yard line, where it was lost on downs.

Failure to Punt Costly.

Instead of punting Lane made the same mistake of trying to carry the ball. On the first play Schultz, Lane's half back, fumbled and Senn recovered on its opponent's five yard line. Rushes by the Senn backs resulted in Mueller going through center for the tying score. McMillan missed an easy goal and the score was knotted.

In the last period each team threatened to score, but the defending elevens always put up the necessary stubborn defense when its shoulders were against the wall. Lifvendahl and Anderson both missed field goals, while both teams successfully executed long forward passes. The ball was in Lane's possession on Senn's twenty yard line when time was called.

Stewart Stars for Lights.

Superior team play, combined with stellar playing of Prichard Stewart, gave the Senn lightweights their victory over Lane, 19 to 0. In the second quarter Kahn and Dollahan were put out of the game for slugging. A crowd of 1,000 saw the games. Lineups:

NEW TRIER, 42; AUSTIN, 14.

Although influenza forced the suburban team to use a quartet of subbacks, New Trier heavyweights outplayed Austin of the Chicago High School league, 42 to 14, at [illegible] park. Austin scored first when [illegible] grabbed a fumble ten yards in front of his goal and raced ninety yards for a touchdown. Austin's passes were its only means of gaining, and led to another score in the second period. The rest of the game was all New Trier, with bucks, end runs, and [illegible] proving ground gainers. SENN SCORING AGAINST LANE

Mueller Breaks Through Center in the Third Period for Points Which Tie Score.

LOYOLA BOYS BEAT MILWAUKEE ELEVEN BY GOAL KICK, 14-13

BY PREP.

With two minutes of play left Quarter Back Jack White, captain of the Loyola team, electrified the 2,000 rooters watching that academy's game against Riverside High of Milwaukee by breaking through the field for a thirty-five yard run to the tying touchdown. Bob Kullman, Loyola center, did the rest with his reliable toe, booting the goal kick after Gamber had heeled the kickout from a bad angle and the game was Loyola's, 14 to 13.

Riverside had Loyola almost clinging to the ropes in the first half. The Badger state schoolboys rushed the ball to the one yard line, but Loyola held for downs. In the second period and after Loyola held for three downs inside its two yard zone, the visitors rolled the defense behind the line for the first score, Ebeling going over. He also kicked goal.

The break of the game aided Loyola in the third period, for White recovered a punt by Kullman and bumped and sidestepped his way for fifty yards to a touchdown. Kullman's sure toe made the score a tie. Riverside seemed to have the game sewed up when it beat down Loyola's defense by straight football for another score in the fourth period, even though the goal kick was fluked, but White's feat and Kullman's kick in the closing minutes made it a celebration for the locals instead. LA GRANGE TWICE VICTOR.

La Grange heavies beat Wheaton High, 39 to 8, and the lights beat Lake View of the Chicago league, 6 to 0, at La Grange. The home team showed its superiority early in the major game. Hey scored on a fifty yard run and R. Applegate ran from a kickoff for sixty-five yards. Quarter Back Gross of La Grange decided the lightweight game in the first five minutes, when he made a fifty-five yard run. Lineups:

THORNTON, 7; EVANSTON, 0.

Both Thornton township and Evanston High heavies played ragged football, but the punchless Evanstonians had no offense worth mentioning and succumbed, 7 to 0, on Northwestern field. The game was marked by many fumbles, as both elevens were made up of players who are just breaking into the game.

Anderson of Thornton took advantage of one of Evanston's numerous fumbles and ran thirty yards for a touchdown in the third period. Patrick of Evanston twice ran the ball to the shadow of the goal, where it was lost on fumbles, in the second half. Lineup:

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

THE EPISTLES OF EDNA.

Chicago, October 4.

My dear Mr. Hayes:—

I suppose you will be surprised to receive a letter from a "strange" young lady and you will probably think I am a little f——l for writing you this letter. Well, Mr. Hayes, I am just an impulsive little girl who does things on the spur of the moment and when I want to do things I just do them "that's all" and never think of the consequences.

Perhaps you are curious to know how I came to be writing you this letter. Well, Mr. Hayes, I was "among those present" at the "Great Lakes Revue" Wednesday night and I didn't like the show very much at first, but I liked it O. K. after a certain person came on the stage. Can you guess who that person was? Well, when this "person" came on the stage I looked at my programme and looked for his name and found it was Wilfred Hayes and I said to myself what a nice name, and then I looked up at the stage again at the owner of the name and thought: "And he looks like a perfectly nice man, too" and after that something inside me said: "Wouldn't it be nice to know that nice man?" Well, Mr. Hayes, I would better not go on this way or you will think I am a crazy little "it" and probably tear up this letter in "disgust." So I will try and be more sensible.

Well, Mr. Hayes, I am "just a girl" and cannot fight for my country and help "can the Kaiser," but how I do envy you men and I would give anything if I was a man and could really do something! It would be the Navy Forever for "little Edna" if I was a man, but unfortunately I am just a silly little girl, or perhaps not so silly after all, but just young, but I am afraid you will think I am silly for writing you this letter. Do you think they would let me in the Navy if I was a man? Maybe they would let me in the Army, but would a lot rather be in the Navy, as "somehow or other" I like the "boys in blue" better than the "boys in khaki" though I have no real "friend" in either one.

Well, Mr. Hayes, I don't know if you ever get homesick or not, but just thought perhaps you would like to get a letter from a girl in Chi, but probably you already have plenty of members of the "fair sex" to correspond with. I bet you have. How about it, Mr. Hayes? "Nothing but the truth," you know.

Well, I won't "bore" you any farther as I don't know if you will receive this letter or not as I am addressing it in care of the Great Lakes Revue so don't know if you will receive it or not. But I just wanted to tell you I thought you were simply great in the "show" and thought perhaps you would like to get a letter from a girl in Chi and if you care to answer it O. K. and if not I will "grin and bear it," but I would love to hear from you and I hope you won't think me a little f——l for saying so and for writing you this letter.

Hopefully (?)

GOAL KICK WINS FOR CULVER TEAM

Culver, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy won a terrific football struggle from Notre Dame freshmen today by a score of 7 to 6, Notre Dame excelling in defense and the cadets in speed. Both teams owed their scores to forward passes, Guaraniere of Notre Dame sending a beautiful pass to Kuhn back of the line in the second quarter for a touchdown. In the third quarter Packer of Culver followed suit with a long pass to Howell, who crossed the line before he was downed. The cadets kicked goal and won the game. Lineup:

EAST AURORA WINS TWO.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 5.—East Aurora High school won both games from Freeport today with ease, the lightweights by a score of 14 to 0 and the heavyweights by a score of 25 to 0. Penalizing was frequent for both sides in the main game.

PALMER'S BUCKS DOWN TECH TEAM IN FIERCE GAME

Englewood Captain Scores 3 Touchdowns Against Harrison.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Catapultic bucks by Capt. Charles (Chuck) Palmer of Englewood High alone intervened between defeat and victory for his team against Harrison Tech at Normal ball park yesterday and made the game a 21 to 7 triumph for Englewood heavyweights. In the curtain raiser, Parker High lightweights beat the Lawndale Techs, 20 to 0.

The first half of the Englewood-Harrison combat ended 7 to 7, with Harrison going strong. In the second half, Palmer, although buffeted and bruised, carried the ball more than all the other Englewood players together and was a consistent gainer. He scored in the third period and again in the fourth, after his ripping onslaughts crumbled Harrison's defense.

Here's the Casualty List.

Palmer ended the game badly battered and his back field mate, Atkinson, also was helped off the field after the game. Morstadt, Englewood tackle, had the middle finger of his right hand broken, and Carroll, the other tackle, cut his lip. The injuries indicate the rough and tumble competition, for the beaten team was almost as badly bruised.

Fumbles were frequent, several occurring at critical periods. Each team lost by the loose handling. In the second quarter Palmer was clear behind Harrison's goal for an apparent touchdown when he fumbled and the ball went out to the twenty yard line as Harrison's ball on a touchback. Further fumbles were costly to Harrison, for they occurred in midfield, giving Englewood the ball and starting Palmer on two of his marches to goal.

Harrison Holds Near Goal.

The first quarter ended 0—0, although Harrison twice was forced to hold in its ten yard zone. The ball was in the Purple territory only once, when Pertl grabbed an Englewood fumble near the quarter's close, but a Harrison fumble put that team in bad again, the period ending with Englewood's ball on Harrison's twelve yard mark.

In the second quarter, End Hejl and Half Back Center played alertly for Harrison, Center capturing Palmer's fumble behind the techs' goal, which temporarily averted a score. Palmer scored when the Englewood machine got marching, and the half ended with a pretty pass of twenty-five yards from Fois to Palmer.

Dolezal Sprints for Touchdown.

Harrison could not force the ball over on four downs within Englewood's five yard zone in the third period. Palmer punted, but Dolezal of the techs returned the punt for a spectacular eel-like run of fifty yards through the broken field for a touchdown. The same player kicked goal. Harrison could not advance against Englewood's stiff line, and tried passes, but these did not work steadily, and several were intercepted.

The remainder of the game was chiefly concerned with Harrison's weakening effort to hold Palmer, Coach Baradell's star scoring in the third quarter and again in the fourth.

Threw Calcium on These.

Smith, a slight Negro player in his first game, figured in almost every mixup for Englewood at left end, and Carroll, left tackle, was another bearcat in the line. Harrison's best players were in the back field except for Hejl. Vacik of Harrison was ousted for slugging. Lineup:

Englewood [21].	Harrison [7].

Touchdowns—Palmer [3], Dolezal. Goals from touchdowns—Palmer [3], Dolezal.

PARKER, 20; HARRISON, 0.

Wellwood Holmes, half back and captain for Parker lightweights, was the scoring star in that team's 20 to 0 victory over Harrison midgets. Harrison was outplayed, making only two first downs, and never getting nearer Parker's goal than forty yards. Lineup:

Parker [20].	Harrison [0].

PROVISO, 21; KANKAKEE, 6.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 5.—Proviso township of the Chicago High School Suburban league won from the local high school, 21 to 6, in a sparkling wide open game. Kankakee was in the visitors' three yard zone at the start, but could not score. Gonder of Proviso then tore off an eighty yard run and advance by Ziebell and Bullard scored. In the second quarter Maywood scored again, Ziebell running thirty-five yards. A twenty-five yard pass to Smith gave Kankakee a touchdown in the third quarter. Bullard broke through the line for the final score for Proviso and this classy little player made all goal kicks. Lineup:

HYDE PARK RUNS OFF WITH 26 TO 0 VICTORY OVER WAUKEGAN HIGH

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Hyde Park High school's football team easily defeated Waukegan High here today, 26 to 0. The visitors, who were the Cook county champions last year, outweighed the local eleven ten pounds to the man and were given a hard fight during the early part of the game. Schwimmer scored Hyde Park's first touchdown in the second quarter on a short end run. Simmons made another touchdown in the third period and Schwimmer crossed the Waukegan goal line twice in the final quarter. Adler missed two goals. Lineup:

OAK PARK WINS PAIR.

Even Full Back Moffatt Elton of the University of Chicago could not add enough strength to the Oak Park alumni eleven to beat the school heavyweight team, and the latter beat the stars of former years, 14 to 13. There was a lot of good football in the game. In the other half of yesterday's double bill at Oak Park the home school lightweights fooled Crane Tech of the Chicago league by spread formations, winning by 47 to 0. Lineups:

Football League Teams Play Exhibitions Today

The Chicago Football league will open its season today with three exhibition games. Thorns, one of the 1917 finalists, will clash with Silent A. C. at One Hundred and Eleventh street and Indiana avenue, this contest marking the beginning of the Pullman team's twelfth gridiron campaign. Chris O'Brien will pilot his Racine Cardinals against Gary Tech on the latter field, and Andy Sheahan's All Stars will engage Hammond in the other games.

FLU STOPS CINCINNATI GAME.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 5.—The Denison-University of Cincinnati game was called off by Denison because of influenza.

MUNICIPAL PIER SAILOR ELEVEN BEATS KNOX, 21-0

Experienced Collegians on Navy Team Are Too Strong for Rivals.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Jackies from municipal pier, Chicago, this afternoon defeated Knox college, 21 to 0, in a fast and clean exhibition of football. The naval forces outweighed the collegians many pounds and had the advantage of experienced university stars, while the Knox contingent had light and inexperienced players.

The first quarter brought a touchdown by Johnson after an exchange of punts and several line plunges. The third quarter was a duplicate of the first, and the fourth was an opening of end runs and passes by both teams. Only in the second quarter did Knox outplay its opponents.

Hart, Fromke, Bentz, and Johnson starred for the jackies, while Bridgeford and Welch were stellar performers for Knox. Lineup:

Kieckhefer Beats Morin in Three Cushion Match

Scoring 50 points in the final block to 43 by Charley Morin, Champion Augie Kieckhefer won the three cushion handicap match which finished last night at Mussey's Monroe street room, 200 to 166, Morin having to play 150. The final block produced only mediocre billiards, the game going 77 innings, Kieckhefer getting high run of 4 and Morin a 3. Scores at each tenth inning were:

KIECKHEFER — 5 8 10 25 33 40 47 50—Innings, 77.
MORIN — 10 16 20 29 30 36 42 46—Innings, 76.

The annual meeting of the Chicago Billiard league will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Columbus Memorial building.

AKRON GAME CALLED OFF.

KOSTICH ENTERS FOR CHESS TITLE

Boris Kostich, entered from the Chicago Press club, who won the western chess championship last week, last night mailed his entrance notice as a contestant in the national championship which begins at New York Oct. 15.

Twenty chess playing friends of the new western champion at a dinner given in his honor adopted resolutions congratulating Kostich on his victory and deprecating insinuations of a run of luck as sufficiently answered by his score of seven victories, three draws, and no defeats.

A veteran's smoking advice

If you listen sharply you can generally learn something from an American soldier. For example, "That the Americans take off their hats to the French—but not to French cigars. There's nothing like a dependable smoke from the U. S. A."

So think how fortunate you are that the nearest cigar store will sell you the dependably fragrant Owl and White Owl Cigars. Always dependable because their dependability is guaranteed by a great store of ever-curing leaf. Always nearly $2,000,000 worth.

CORN RISES AND FALLS ON NEWS OF WEST FRONT

Break in Market Follows One in Hindenburg Line.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

War news was a factor in the grain market yesterday. There was a great deal of week end evening up on both sides and considerable nervousness displayed. At the close corn was ⅝@1¼c lower, with November leading, and oats strong and ¼@½c higher, the latter on October in Chicago. Southwestern corn markets were weak and closed unchanged to 1½c lower, Kansas City November leading, while oats were ⅛@⅜c higher, with St. Louis in the lead. The Minneapolis oat market closed ⅛@⅜c higher and rye unchanged to ⅛c higher, while Winnipeg was off ½@⅝c on oats.

Lard and ribs closed 12½c higher, while pork lost 5c for the day.

Fluctuations in grains for the week covered the widest range in a long time, the close recording losses of 9¼c on corn and 1¼@1⅜c on oats. Pork was off $3.30@3.45 a barrel, and short ribs 15@30c per 100 lbs lower, while lard gained 17½@32½c.

Corn Reacts After Bulge.

Corn traders suffered numerous changes of heart, their views on the market fluctuating in sympathy with the reports from the battle lines in France. Early there was a fair bulge on short covering, but later the press cables indicating that the Hindenburg line had been broken led to general selling and a break of 2½@3¼c from the top. There was a little evening up toward the last, and final trades were on a rally, with October at $1.30, November at $1.29⅝, and December at $1.28⅝.

Ordinary influences count for little during the world's greatest battle. Local traders were somewhat disposed to even up for the week, not caring to take a chance over Sunday, as some new influence of a startling character might develop.

Indications are that receipts of cash grain will remain fairly heavy for some time, as country consignment notices and requests for permits are heavy. Receipts were 193 cars, with sample values steady. For the week receipts were 2,340,000 bu and shipments 1,157,000 bu. Last year receipts were 922,000 bu and shipments 522,000 bu.

Cereal Interests Buy Oats.

Oats showed a very strong undertone, and, despite the easier turn in corn, toward the last, finished higher, after a range of 1@1¼c. October and November closed at 70⅝c and December at 71c. There was a good class of commission house buying, part of which was removing hedges against cash sales. Cereal interests bought 350,000 bu standards in store, and domestic sales were 75,000 bu in addition.

Export bids were somewhat out of line, and little was heard of government demand. Country offerings and consignments were light, the interior showing a decided tendency to hold oats and ship corn. Receipts, 102 cars, with sample values 1@2c higher. Premiums were slightly easier, with No. 3 whites mainly 1@1¼c over November. For the week local arrivals were 1,661,000 bu, against 2,357,000 bu last year. Shipments were 1,622,000 bu, against 2,182,000 bu last year.

There is little pressure of offerings in the barley market, and it had a strong undertone, although spot prices were little changed with sales at 92c@$1.05. Receipts, 17 cars. Milwaukee was 1c higher and Minneapolis unchanged to 1c higher. The northwest had 139 cars.

Rye was slightly easier, with spot ½c lower at $1.62½ for No. 2. Futures, [illegible]@½c lower on active futures. Receipts, [illegible] cars. Milwaukee advanced 2c and Minneapolis ½c. The northwest had 104 cars.

Shorts Buy Provisions.

Light offerings of provisions and a covering movement by recent sellers strengthened values and, although there was a good advance, it failed to hold, but the finish was at fair net gains. Confirmation of the reports of large sales for export, combined with large shipments, were factors of strength. Hogs lower, but had no effect. Packing here since March 1 aggregates 3,874,000 hogs, or 768,000 more than last year. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

"The desire of the food administration is that there should be a normal volume of speculative trading in the coarse grain futures," said John J. Stream, who was here after a week's rest at his farm in Michigan. He expects to leave for Washington this morning. "The speculators should confine their operations to the deferred futures and leave trading in a current future to those who desire to take a delivery, or who are in a position to make deliveries on their sales. There should be deliveries on all sales of current futures, and by having the trade in the current month confined to practically a cash basis the markets will be kept in good shape. There should be no wild advances or declines in values."

The grain trade last night was in about the same condition as it was at the close Friday. Operators evened up on both sides, not being disposed to have open commitments over the week end. While a few have pronounced convictions, they are disposed to trade more on the current news from abroad than on any other factor. A report that the Americans had broken through the entire Hindenburg line yesterday was followed by liberal selling and a break, which failed to hold. Bids were most popular in corn and oats last night at the close and sold at a wide discount from the final prices.

A great many traders are friendly to the buying side of oats, due to small receipts and continued active absorption of the offerings both in the sample market and in store by the industries and the government. There have been liberal purchases of standard oats in store the last few days, and ¼c over October was paid for 25,000 bu yesterday. October oats, which were ¼c discount from November at the finish Friday, closed the same as November yesterday, being only ¼c discount from December, against ½c Friday. Corn is being given preference to oats by country shippers, and movement is below the average. Primary receipts are about an average, but the arrivals at Chicago last week of 1,661,000 bu were the lightest at this time in over four years. There are plenty of oats in the country, however.

A big improvement has been made in the condition of railroad terminals at the leading markets, the number of loaded grain cars on track having been cut down about 50 per cent since Sept. 26. Yesterday Chicago had 2,650 cars all told, of which 1,144 cars were ordered to the elevator and 1,506 cars were held on track. Milwaukee had 861 cars all told, with 293 at the elevators. Minneapolis had 3,256 cars, Duluth 1,356 cars, Kansas only 254 cars. Omha and Council Bluffs are the only points showing congestion, with 557 cars.

It took two years after the war started to get corn up to $1.11, that price being reached in August, 1916. When the war started, in 1914, corn was around 74c for cash in the Chicago market, wheat and corn values being remarkably close together at that time. The top price on corn, $2.36, the highest on record, was reached in August, 1917. It has taken nearly a year to get the price down around 80c from the extreme top. Futures have dropped 38c from the recent high point. Before the war 80c corn and 8@10c hogs were considered fancy prices.

Joe Wild, the Wagner statistician, figures that the 18@20c hog price due to insistent demand has formerly potentially affected corn prices, and with wheat around $2.38 No. 2 corn might represent $1.35. With hogs at 13@14c at the 13 to 1 ratio the corn pro rata value should be around $1.20 for No. 4.

Michigan October crop report, as wired by C. A. King & Co. of Toledo, showed a reduction of 3 per cent in winter wheat acreage as compared with that seeded last year. Yield per acre from the last crop was 14.2 bu, against 17.4 bu last year. Corn yield 20.9 bu, against 22.7 bu last year, and oats 39.5 bu, against 35.9 bu last year. Farmers marketed 263,000 bu wheat in September, against 250,000 bu last year.

Primary receipts of wheat for the season to date aggregate 207,261,000 bu, corn 278,485,000 bu, and oats 88,239,000 bu. Last year wheat receipts were 63,657,000 bu, corn 221,749,000 bu, and oats 83,570,000 bu.

Flour stocks at the principal distributing centers east of the Rockies, outside of Minneapolis, aggregate 606,000 brls, an increase of 164,000 brls in September, and compare with 437,000 brls last year. Philadelphia has 145,000 brls, against 33,000 brls last year.

Grain receivers call the attention of country shippers to the fact that in order to secure permits they must make application for them. Nothing can be done at this end.

Commencing Monday, Oct. 7, western railroads will report daily the number of cars of each kind of grain loaded on their lines to the grain control committee at Chicago. This will give the committee a complete record of the cars of grain running to leading markets. Whenever there is more grain headed for any market than it can take care of, the issuance of permits and the movement will be shut off. The new plan will give the control committee a better insight in the issuance of permits.

On Saturdays hereafter the minute of prayer on the Chicago Board of Trade will be at 11:50 a. m. Charles A. Heath, a member of the board, has dedicated a poem entitled "Just a Minute," to the short period during which trading is suspended. The change which comes over the pits and the cash market when the bell sounds for prayer is remarkable.

Temperatures above normal are predicted this week, with only a few showers.

There are a large number of Board of Trade men laid up with influenza, the condition of several being very low.

C. A. Johnson and William Hoard have applied for membership on the Board of Trade.

S. W. McKinnon, who recently joined the food administration, is now in charge of the rice division.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Cash wheat markets were dull, with small receipts at the leading western points. Local arrivals were 99 cars. Bulk of the business of late has been at the basic figures, but the southwestern markets yesterday in some instances showed an advance of ½c.

Demand for cash corn was fairly good, and while receipts were rather heavy, prices showed little change. St. Louis was unchanged to 5c higher, Kansas City unchanged to 2c lower, Omaha 2@7c higher, Milwaukee 2c higher, and Peoria unchanged to 6c higher.

Cash oats advanced 1@2c at Chicago, ½c at St. Louis, 1c at Kansas City, 1¼@1¾c at Omaha, ¼c at Peoria, and 2c at Milwaukee. Cash grain prices in leading markets follow:

Cotton Exchange Reduces Limit Upon Fluctuations

New York, Oct. 5.—A new rule adopted today by the board of governors of the New York cotton exchange reduced the maximum limit upon daily fluctuations from 300 to 200 points. The higher limit had never been reached, but on several occasions there have been fluctuations of 250 points.

The modified regulation applies to a movement of 200 points from either the high or low prices of the day itself, or as compared with the closing bid of the previous day.

Action by the exchange authorities followed conferences with members of the committee on distribution recently appointed by the war industries board. The new rule takes effect at once.

PRODUCE TRADE

Centralized standards in the butter market were off 1½@2c and whole milk 1c yesterday. Price on 92 scores was 55c. Trade was slow, with buyers indifferent. Consumption has been curtailed by high prices. Stocks in common storage here Oct. 4 were 41,758 tubs, and in cold storage 16,440,296 lbs, against 16,518,164 lbs a week ago. Supplies in the leading markets Oct. 3 were 49,251,284 lbs, against 50,014,015 lbs on Sept. 28.

The cheese trade was active, with the market strong. The movement last week was larger than the previous week and last year, receipts here being 4,988,000 lbs and shipments 1,516,000 lbs.

A fair trade was on in eggs, with no change in prices. Receipts for the week were 45,055 cases, against 44,491 cases the previous week and 41,160 cases last year. The top on northern firsts was 48c.

Spring chickens and small hens advanced ½c, the latter being 22½c and the former 26c. Ducks were 1c lower at 21@23c for dark and white.

A moderate trade was on in potatoes, with receipts for the week 670 cars, or 40 cars more than the previous week, and compared with 865 cars last year. Most of the run is coming from Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Dakotas. Supplies on track were 343 cars. Bulk stock was $1.50@1.75 per 100 lbs.

COTTON TRADE NEWS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Prices in the cotton market declined farther today under renewed southern spot selling and liquidation.

The favorable weather in the south seemed to inspire a more optimistic view of crop prospects and part of the liquidation was supposed to be by the people who had bought on the favorable war news earlier in the week.

Reports from the goods trade indicated a further reduction in mill output during the week, owing to the epidemic of Spanish influenza. Manchester cables reported encouraging war news was leading to procrastination among buyers of goods, but that prices were firmly held. Futures:

PACKERS DIFFER WITH U. S. ON PRICE OF HOGS

Think $18.00 Average Minimum Instead of $18.50.

Packer representatives who attended a meeting with the food administration in Washington for the purpose of coming to some agreement on a price of hogs at Chicago for October interpret the minimum average as about $18.00 for good hogs, while the food administration in a wire to the local office of the bureau of markets said: "Food administration advises that the agreement on hog prices for October is to maintain a minimum average of about $18.50 per cwt. There is no absolute minimum fixed below which hogs may sell. The agreement only pledges to hold the minimum average about $18.50."

Hog Prices Decline.

Packers had 5,800 of the 10,000 hogs received, and for that reason were not urgent competitors for those on sale, forcing a decline of 10@20c in prices from Friday, which carried values back to the lowest level since last July. Top at $19.25 was 85c lower than a week ago. Several droves of heavy packers cost $18.00@18.20.

Quality of cattle and lambs fell off considerably, causing a wider spread in prices between the common and best arrivals. Cattle run at 77,400 was around 26,000 smaller than the previous week, while sheep supply of 184,000 proved the largest in practically four years.

Estimates of Receipts.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 28,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs, and 40,000 sheep, against 38,504 cattle, 21,314 hogs, and 34,353 sheep the corresponding Monday a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $18.50, against $18.65 Friday, $19.30 the previous Saturday, $18.80 a year ago, $9.63 two years ago, and $8.35 three years ago.

Estimated average weight of hogs at Chicago last week at 232 lbs was 10 lbs lighter than the previous week and the lightest since June, being 12 lbs. heavier than a year ago. Week's receipts in numbers were largest since July.

PRIME STEERS AT $19.60.

Best steers held steady with a week ago, equaling the record of $19.60. Those between $15.00 and $18.00 were mainly 50c lower, while cheaper grades were largely 50c higher. Butcher stock and canners gained 75c to $1.00. Bulls were up 50c and calves ruled strong to 25c higher, best vealers making $18.75. Stockers and feeders were steady to 25c higher.

HOG PRICES ARE OFF.

Hogs averaged 15c lower and closed steady at the decline, with pens well cleared. Top was $19.25 for butchers. Offerings were 60c to $1.35 lower than a week ago, the light grades showing the most decline. Pigs were unevenly lower than Friday and mostly $1.25 off from a week ago. Eleven markets had 38,000, or 6,000 more than a week ago and 14,000 more than a year ago.

Bulk of sales	$18.00@19.00
Heavy butchers	18.90@19.25
Light butchers	18.85@19.25
Medium weights	18.30@18.80

Rough heavy packing	17.40@17.70
Poor to best pigs	15.00@17.50
Stags	17.25@18.00

SHEEP FINISH LOWER.

Closing sheep prices were 25c lower, while native lambs were little changed from a week ago, although rangers declined 50c to $1.00. Feeding and breeding sheep were steady to unevenly lower and feeding lambs declined 75c to $1.00. Lambs topped at $17.00 on early days, but $16.50 bought the best late. Ewes closed below $11.00 and wethers around $12.00.

As indicated elsewhere, apartment property made a poor showing in the week's market, both in respect to the volume of business as well as the character of the properties involved.

An important transaction was the sale by Daniel Goldberg of the Blackstone hotel and others to John A. Lundstrom of the twenty-four two room apartment building on a lot 50x150 feet at 5036-38 Kenmore avenue for a reported consideration of $70,500, subject to incumbrances aggregating $47,500.

The building has a gross annual rental of $10,170, and in part payment the purchaser conveyed a tract of fifty lots at Forest Park, valued at $12,000; the vacant business property at the northwest corner of Crawford and Nelson avenues, 58x125 feet, valued at $4,000; the three two flat buildings at 3127-31 Elston avenue, valued at $6,000, subject to $4,250, and an Elston avenue lot, valued at $1,000. Mark Levy & Bro., with L. R. Cerf associated, represented Mr. Goldberg, and E. S. Stults of E. R. Haase & Co. represented Mr. Lundstrom, and will have charge of the building.

Transfer on Sunnyside.

The apartment property in Sunnyside avenue, 141 feet west of Clarendon avenue, lot 46x127 feet, north front, has been sold by Herman Emerman to Jennie M. Frisbie for an indicated consideration of $50,000, subject to an incumbrance of $30,000. The building contains eighteen apartments of two and three roms, some with sun parlors, and the seller took a Michigan farm in part payment.

The flat property in Glenwood avenue, fifty feet south of Albion avenue, lot 50x122 feet, east front, has been conveyed by Ray B. Tennes to George M. Murray for an indicated $31,000, subject to $17,000.

Fannie Brownstein has conveyed to Dusan Augusting the flat property at the southeast corner of Humboldt boulevard and Edgewood avenue, lot 50x124 feet, for an indicated $34,750, subject to $24,750.

Michigan Avenue Sale.

Record was made of the sale by Emil Rosenthal to Ella S. Kingham of the six apartment building, lot 54x160 feet, east front, in Michigan avenue, 488 feet north of Garfield boulevard, for an indicated consideration of $30,500, subject to an incumbrance of $22,000. Thomas Conran & Co. were the brokers. A 354 acre Michigan farm was given in part payment.

The same brokers have sold for James Johnson to Joseph R. Trenton the six flat building at 6040-42 Harper avenue of six and seven rooms, lot 54x178 feet, for a reported consideration of $24,000, subject to $14,000. Trenton later conveyed to David Goodman for the same consideration, subject to $15,000, taking in part payment a residence at 705 Marinette avenue, Milwaukee, at $12,500, subject to $5,000. Trenton then conveyed the Milwaukee residence to Jacob Biehn as part payment for the six flat on 50x125 feet at 1319-21 East Sixty-sixth street, subject to $14,000.

Carmen Avenue Deal.

Fred Kreuder has sold to Joseph Klapka the eight flat building of seven and eight rooms at 1451-57 Carmen avenue for a reported consideration of $26,000, subject to $16,000. The building is on a lot 100x170 feet, and the seller took in part payment thirty vacant thirty-five foot lots in North Edgewater, subject to $4,500. E. E. Stults of E. R. Haase & Co. was the broker.

Outlying Property Figures in Deals of the Week

Christian C. H. Becker has conveyed to Alfred C. Hoy the property in Halsted street at the northeast corner of Englewood avenue, lot 28¼x124 feet, with store and flat improvements, consideration nominal, subject to $25,000, there being 50 cents' worth of stamps on the deed.

Joseph F. Forbrich has conveyed to Maurice E. Wolfsohn the property at the northwest corner of Ashland avenue and Seventy-ninth street, lot 50x117 feet, with store and flat improvements, consideration nominal, with $18 worth of stamps, and no incumbrance showing.

Record was made of the transfer by Mary P. B. McDougal to Bertha B. Turck of the property at the northwest corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Forty-fourth street, 118½x107.7 feet, also the 50x125 feet, east front, in Maryland avenue, forty-eight feet north of Sixty-seventh street, and 48x125 feet at the northwest corner of Ingleside avenue and Sixty-seventh street, and other property, consideration nominal, with $29 worth of stamps on the deed, no incumbrance showing.

WAR NEWS AIDS UNDERTONE OF REALTY MARKET

Brokers Work for Liberty Loan to Neglect of Own Business.

The week's real estate market was of a rather uneventful character, although the volume of business was fairly good, as indicated by the figures of the recorder's office, and included several noteworthy transactions. The more important features included several leases of building space and two sales of north side residence property.

Apartment property was represented by two fairly large transactions, although the movement of this property fell considerably short of that of the previous week.

Considering the strenuous campaign which the leading real estate brokers are making in behalf of the fourth Liberty loan, to the marked prejudice of their own business, the showing can hardly be said to have been disappointing. An especially interesting feature of the situation, heard here and there, is that the extremely favorable war news of the week is being reflected in a marked improvement in the undertone of the market, based on the growing belief the end of the war is not far off, and that it is going to be followed by an extremely active market.

Important Leases Negotiated.

Leases of building space undoubtedly were the most prominent feature of the week's market, the showing being a particularly good one, including both downtown as well as outside properties.

In the most important of the downtown transactions E. F. Keebler & Co. leased for Stanley R. Pierce, administrator of the estate of G. W. Pierce, to William C. Scott the five story and basement building at 154-58 North State street for fifteen years from May 1 next, at a term rental of $240,000.

The property, which is 28x40 feet adjoining the northwest corner of Randolph street, after extensive improvements, will be occupied entirely by Mr. Scott with a grocery, market, butter and egg store. It is interesting to note that the Pierce estate own an unexpired lease of this property, for which it pays an annual ground rental of only $1,500. In former years Mr. Pierce occupied the ground floor as a retail shoe store.

Another important downtown transaction was the lease by Willis & Frankenstein for Jacob L. Kesner to the Bryant & Stratton Business college, of the fourth, fifth, and sixth floors in the Lake View building, at 116 South Michigan avenue, for a term of years from May 1, 1919, at an aggregate rental of $170,000. The premises leased will be extensively remodeled to meet the requirements of the college, which has been located for the last ten years at 80 East Randolph street.

Shipping Board Makes Lease.

The United States shipping board of the Emergency Fleet corporation has just closed the lease of the property at 1455-63 West Thirty-eighth street, in the central manufacturing district, at an annual rental of $20,000. The lot is 220x325 feet, the improvements including a one story steel and concrete building 100x250 feet, and another building of the same character 75x200 feet. The buildings will be used as an assembling plant for small parts of vessels.

This is in a sense a misnomer as the small parts are so large that a twelve ton traveling crane is required to handle them. Much of the freight comes in less than car lots and will be assembled here and shipped in car lots to ship yards. The property formerly was the J. M. Taft machinery warehouse. The government is now moving in. The lease was negotiated by the Hool Realty company. C. M. Nichols being associated in the deal.

Reuter Company Obtains Mill.

A big transaction in property just outside the down town district was the lease by the Chicago Dock and Canal company to the G. A. Reuter company, manufacturers of peanut butter and peanut and chocolate confections, now located at 411 Rush street, of the modern six story and basement mill sprinkled building on 170x71 feet of ground at 337-51 East Illinois street, containing 85,000 square feet of floor space.

The lease, which is for a term of twenty years from May 1, 1919, provides for a term rental of approximately $230,000, net, to the owners, who were represented by Ogden, Sheldon & Co., while J. J. Harrington & Co. represented Reuter & Co. The property is served by the Chicago and Northwestern road at grade, and has dock facilities. The building has daylight on three sides, also high pressure plant and two large freight elevators.

Outside Leases.

Willis & Frankenstein have leased for Robert Glendenning to Israel Lippa the northwest corner of West Forty-eighth street and Artesian avenue, together with a one story building to be erected, covering the lot, for a term from Oct. 1, at an aggregate rental of $25,000. Hart & Whetson represented Mr. Glendenning.

Willis & Frankenstein also have leased for the Clinton Realty company to the Rockwell-Barnes company, for paper warehouse, 17,000 square feet of space in the Western Electric building, at the northwest corner of Clinton and Congress streets, for a term rental of $20,000.

Clara F. Bass has leased the store at 19 East Jackson boulevard to the Max Stern Wine company for a term beginning Oct. 1, at a rental of $6,200. The lease was negotiated by Willis & Frankenstein. This is one of a series of stores controlled by the company which obtained the lease.

COFFEE PRICES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With all other months selling at full maximum prices, the only fluctuations in the market for coffee futures today were in September.

Closing bids: October, 8.50c; December, 8.80c; January, 8.95c; March, 9.25c; May, 9.55c; July, 9.85c; September, 10.07c.

Spot coffee was firm; Rio 7s, 10c; Santos 4s, 13¼c. Government purchases during the last few days are estimated at 25,000 bags of Santos and mild coffees. The official cables reported Santos [illegible] 75 to 150 reis higher. Brazilian [illegible] 56,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, [illegible].

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Cotton goods and yarns today were firm, the markets being a little more active. Owing to the spread of influenza wholesale houses will shorten the business day next week to 4:15 p. m. Burlap markets were excited by reports of government control. Silks were quiet.

FINE DWELLINGS FIGURE IN WEEK OF REALTY TRADE

Transactions in high class residence property were a conspicuous feature of the week's market, the Hyde Park district contributing one and the north shore two.

The Hyde Park transaction covers the property at the southeast corner of Hyde Park boulevard and Fifty-fourth street, which was sold by Albert S. Tyler, president of the Tyler and Hippach company, to Emil O. Langer, the stamps on the deed indicating a consideration of $40,000 cash.

House a Handsome One.

The house is an exceedingly attractive one, being three stories high with an exterior of white tile and containing sixteen rooms. It is on a lot 80x150 feet. John A. Carroll & Brother represented the purchaser in the transaction and Koester & Zander represented Mr. Tyler.

A notable sale of high grade Evanston residence property was the sale by the estate of Euphemia S. Primley to Mrs. Hazel B. Kleinhaus of the property at the southeast corner of Greenwood and Forest avenues, the stamps on the deed indicating a consideration of $60,000. The house, one of the residential landmarks of Evanston, is a handsome three story stone structure containing about seventeen rooms with four or five baths, and is on a lot with frontage of 137 in Greenwood and 250 feet in Forest avenue. It was erected about twenty years ago.

Glencoe Dwelling Sold.

Another important transaction in north shore residence property was the sale by Louis F. Hopkins to Henry H. Brigham of the property in Greenleaf avenue, Glencoe, about 300 feet south of Hazel avenue, for an indicated consideration of $36,000, subject to an incumbrance of $10,000. The house is a fourteen room brick with garage in the rear, on a lot 193x350 feet, east front. Murray & Terry were the brokers.

Lumber Company Acquires Elston Avenue Property

A purchase by the Columbia Hardwood Lumber company comprised property in Fullerton avenue, seventy-three feet west of Elston avenue, south front, 482x201x272x349x103 feet, which was acquired for yard purposes from Amanda S. Lister. A nominal consideration is named in the deed, but the $75 worth of revenue stamps on the deed indicate a consideration of $75,000. In connection with the purchase the company has given a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company securing a loan of $64,000, ten years at 5½ per cent. The property is vacant except for some old sheds. The company, which is now located on Dominick street, north of Webster avenue, will probably improve the property just acquired with a building for office purposes.

TAKE STEPS TO IMPROVE LOWER STATE STREET

Association Members Act on Several Proposals at Meeting.

The South State Street Improvement association at a well attended meeting in the Union League club Thursday took another step toward improving conditions south of Van Buren street.

A committee was appointed to confer with the city officials relative to bringing the incline from the newly widened Twelfth street into State street.

The proceedings for the widening of Polk street were disapproved because of being planned on too narrow a scope, the present plan being to widen Polk street only between State and Clark streets.

Wants Longer Street.

The association favors widening the street from Michigan avenue to Halsted street to provide adequate facilities for the large amount of traffic in this section.

Approval was voted on the plan to pave State street with asphalt and to put lighting standards on the curb forty feet apart.

The question of occupancy aroused a great deal of interest, one owner of a large frontage going so far as to state openly that at the expiration of his present leases he is willing to keep his building vacant until the kind of tenants can be secured that will be a credit and an improvement to the street.

Old Order Has Passed.

He stated that the old order has passed and that there is no longer any room on State street for the type of tenants which have occupied so much of the property in the past.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, made a brief talk on the attitude of the city being favorable to the object that the owners wish to accomplish.

Hotel La Salle Garage Property Leases Filed

There was filed for record the [illegible] leases by James W. Stevens, president of the Illinois Life Insurance company, covering the premises 209-217 West Washington street, 120 feet west of Wells street, which he leased from Helen M. Chapman and Clara F. [illegible] respectively, at an aggregate graded annual rental of $12,000 to $18,000. The combined frontage is 80¼x180 feet. Later in the week Mr. Stevens assigned the leases to the Hotel La Salle company, he having improved the properties with a garage building costing about $300,000, for the use of the hotel.

CHICAGO RESERVE BANK SHOWS BIG LOAN EXPANSION

Total Addition to Credits During the Week Is $26,600,000.

In its weekly statement the Chicago Federal Reserve bank showed a considerable expansion in loans to member banks, and also in loans to individuals through the purchase of paper.

The bills discounted for member banks increased $12,888,767 and now stand at the high mark of $254,550,217. Bills bought in the open market increased $13,774,799, compared with the previous week, a total credit expansion, in the matter of bills discounted, for the week of over $26,600,000.

Federal reserve notes in actual circulation increased $10,781,053, bringing that item up to a new high record at $369,596,-988. The continued expansion is a little noteworthy, but has not reached proportions calling for criticism.

Comparative Figures.

The government increased its deposits with the bank by $13,592,603. The comparative figures follow:

New York Loan Expansion.

The New York bank statement had an unusual change in the matter of loan expansion, there being an increase of $130,500,000. This is the largest change noted in this item in months. It, however, occasioned no special comment in the financial district. It was assumed it represented operations made necessary by government financing.

Demand deposits fell away $12,538,000. There was a loss in cash which resulted in a decrease of $10,121,720 in the excess reserve, making that item $36,704,010.

The treasury department increased its deposits with the banks by $63,580,000. Barring the large increase in loans, the figures, as a whole, presented no abnormal changes.

Steel War Business Fall.

Wall street observers who disagree with the notion that the steel stocks should be classified with war stocks are pointing that the United States Steel corporation's output of strictly war products is only a fraction of its total finished capacity, which latter is roundly 16,-000,000 tons annually. The corporation is building gun plants, but there will be no loss on this account, since the government is furnishing the funds to be used in connection with the corporation's munitions undertakings.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

The local unlisted securities market has shown a fair amount of activity with a general advance in prices. The Motor group has been in very good demand. Paige-Detroit advanced to sales at 17¼, and closed at 17 bid—offered at 17¼. Reo Motor Car advanced two points with sales at 16½, closing at 16¼, offered at 16¾. Continental Motor was wanted at 5⅞, with small lots offered at 6. Hupp Motor was in good demand at 8¼, with stock offered at 8¾. Emerson-Brantingham preferred was traded in at 74 and closed 73 bid, offered at 74, while the common was wanted at 16—with stock offered at 18. Moline Plow preferred sold between 80¼ and 80½, and the common at 88. Avery common was wanted at 83, with no stock offered around current quotations. The [illegible] stocks were without special feature. [illegible] Tire and Rubber common sold at 155 and closed at 153 bid, offered at 156. [illegible] Tire and Rubber was in good demand at [illegible], with small lot offerings at 62. Butler Bros changed hands at 168@169. Some little inquiry was in evidence for Kellogg Switchboard and Supply at 160. Great Lakes Dredge and Dock was neglected at 57@59. LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE DOES NOT DISTURB SALES

Bond Business as Usual During the Fourth Campaign.

BY GLENN GRISWOLD.

The Liberty loan campaign, in its first week, has left more counter bond business than any previous campaign and bankers are inclined to the belief that each succeeding flotation will be taken in shorter time than its predecessor, will disturb business less and be easier placed.

During the first campaign not a wheel turned in a bond house; it was considered a sin to permit business to be done. In the second counter business was permitted, but little was offered. In the third a part of the sales force was left on the road and a pretended attempt was made to keep sales machinery intact. In this campaign the atmosphere of a bond department is almost normal; there is little short of the usual counter business and an encouraging demand for long term bonds. Indications are that had not this Liberty sale intervened a bouyant victory market in bonds had been seen this month.

McAdoo Furnishes Data.

Mr. McAdoo has prepared for the information of banks and Liberty bond salesmen some interesting data on the wealth and debts of the nations, which might be valuable propaganda for the lay bond buyer. They are intended to indicate that present stages of war finance should be looked upon as but a beginning of what the nation is capable of doing.

It is shown that with an estimated national wealth of $250,000,000,000 and a national debt of $12,500,000,000, indebtedness is only 5 per cent of wealth. But one major nation, Japan, is as favorably situated. In contrast, Great Britain owes 40.7 per cent of the wealth of the empire, France 35.4 per cent, Russia 63.5 per cent, Italy 28 per cent, Austria 80 per cent, and Germany 38.7 per cent.

German Figures Deceive.

Germany is not so favorably situated as the figures indicate, because a huge amount of her war purchases have been paid for with fiat money, instead of bonds. When the fourth loan has been placed the debt per capita of the United States will be about $160. That of Great Britain is $600, while France shows $678.

War Taxes Will Weaken Corporations.

Almost half of the $8,000,000,000 which the pending war revenue bill is expected to produce will come from the treasuries of corporations and the financial strength of many companies is likely to be impaired seriously thereby. The tax is levied on the theory that profits have increased during the war and most of the increase ought to be taken by the government; further that some corporations make too much profit anyway.

The fact is that a considerable part of the big "war profits" is simply a paper gain which, in the natural course of things, would be offset later by a corresponding paper loss. However, if the paper profit is all confiscated the loss will not be "paper," but real.

To make this clear, consider the case of a company that in normal times carried raw materials and partly finished goods to the value of 50 per cent of its capital. In the last three years prices have doubled and now the inventory, though having no more goods, represents a value equal to 100 per cent of the capital. The books evidently will show a profit of 50 per cent from this source. After the war, no doubt, prices will decline and the inventory will shrink in value to the old figure.

Suppose that instead of simply continuing its old business, the company has taken war contracts also. Profits on these will not all be real because of the large preliminary outlay for machinery and facilities which must be charged off.

Some exceptional companies may be so situated that they can give up nearly all their wartime profits without injury to themselves, but it would be well for owners of industrial stocks to study the reports of their corporations and see what effect a big decline in inventory values is likely to have on them. Probably the decline will be gradual, but as long as it continues it will cause a steady loss.

Thompson's Malted Food.

G. B.—Thompson's Malted Food company has made public annual balance sheets but not income accounts. In the two years from Jan. 1, 1916, to Dec. 31, 1917, it sold $129,930 par value of stock. As you paid $1.50 a share for yours in 1915, it is presumed that all this stock was sold at a premium of at least 50 per cent. If that is correct the company should have received $194,895, less selling commission. In the same two years the net tangible assets were increased by only $135,643. On the basis of these figures the company operated at a loss. As of Dec. 31 last it had 46 cents of net tangible assets for each dollar of stock liability. Company does not reply to requests for data.

Texas Light and Power.

E. M. A.—The Texas Power and Light company two year 6 per cent notes, due Sept. 1, 1919, are secured by deposit of 139 per cent of first mortgage bonds. At last accounts $900,000 of the notes were outstanding. As both gross and net earnings have been increasing steadily and total interest charges are covered twice, notes and bonds are a conservative investment. The bonds maturing in 1937 are quoted at 82, which is a 6⅝ per cent basis. The notes are offered at 98½, making the yield about 7¾ per cent.

Brief Answers.

F. L. R.—The Buck Run Oil company is capitalized at $500,000. It reports that it has sold $50,000 of stock to clients and is paying 5 per cent a month on the $50,000 from the production of six wells. Presumably the promoters hold the other $450,000, and gross earnings figure out at about 6 per cent a year on all the stock.

E. J. W.—The Texana Oil and Refining company is a new undertaking capitalized at $1,000,000. It reported recently production worth $6,000 a month. Until it can show more production the stock evidently is a mere speculation. The stock has been manipulated in the market.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

In the local market Sears-Roebuck common, while but moderately active, displayed strength in the size of the lots purchased. While the price advanced 1 point at the opening, the gain was lost at the close.

Union Carbide held steady, as did Stewart-Warner. Swift & Co. shares were fractionally lower and rather dull. Peoples Gas sold off in both New York and Chicago.

There was further buying of Chicago City and Connecting Railways 5s, which were quoted at 55½, a gain of ¼.

J. R. Ginley, chairman of the board of the Pneumatic Tool company, says: "Although the effect of the plant enlargements, now on the way, has not as yet been realized, production with existing facilities has been increased about 30 per cent. By Jan. 1 the output of the Detroit and Cleveland plants will have been doubled, with a 50 per cent further increase at Detroit by March 1."

INSURANCE NEWS IN ALL BRANCHES EAST AND WEST

No Settlement Reached on Liability Refund Requested.

BY THOMAS R. WEDDELL.

No settlement has yet been made of the misunderstanding between several government departments and the leading liability companies over the price which should be charged for compensation and liability insurance on certain government work already done or to be done. Certain government departments asked the liability companies to refund considerable of the premiums paid on large jobs, such as the erection of cantonments and aviation fields, where the losses had been light and the insurance companies had made large profits. One company immediately acceded to this request and others asked for some information, but did not get it.

Most of the companies would be willing to make such an arrangement as the government departments desire provided it were to date from a definite time, but they would object very strongly to having the arrangement retroactive when they have already paid income and excess profits taxes on the premiums which they have collected.

GRAIN ELEVATOR INSURANCE.

The Underwriters' Grain association has issued a bordereau showing the amount of business in force when it took over the terminal elevators which was assumed by the association. The total liability on buildings and grain amounts to $39,669,754, with an unearned premium of $307,824. It has been found that two houses taken over at the start are not strictly terminal elevators, but do a certain amount of manufacturing, and it has been thought advisable to drop them from the list. These are the Cragin A and B elevators in Chicago and the Devereaux feed mill at Minneapolis.

FIRE INSURANCE CLUB.

The Fire Insurance club of Chicago will open its lecture course for the winter with a meeting Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Insurance Exchange. It will be a patriotic night, with an address by Maj. Gordon Sanford of the British Royal Field artillery. The Insurance Reserves of Illinois Volunteer Reserve militia will be present, and, in addition to a vaudeville program, there will be patriotic chorus singing, assisted by the Insurance Field orchestra.

TEXAS AGENTS' COMMISSIONS.

At a meeting of fire insurance companies it was decided to put Texas fire insurance agents on a graded commission basis. While the agents in almost every other state have been paid 15, 20, and 25 per cent, the Texas business has been restricted to 15 per cent, partly because of the laws of the state and also because of its persistent high loss ratio. The change is made in recognition of the services rendered the companies by their agents, the better conditions in the state, and the high cost of living.

INSURANCE NOTES.

The Pacific Mutual Life has reorganized its home office staff, following the sudden death of Vice President Gail Borden Johnson. His work has been divided between the other officers, Vice President Danforth M. Baker being superintendent of agencies, and Secretary C. I. D. Moore, assistant superintendent of agencies. Dr. W. W. Beckett has been elected a vice president and will continue in charge of the medical department.

The Metropolitan Life is distributing its subscriptions to the fourth Liberty loan throughout the country by authorizing each of its thousands of branch offices to subscribe through the local banks. Each office is to buy bonds to the amount of 150 per cent of the weekly income in the town.

Henry Evans, president of the Continental, Fidelity-Phenix, and American Eagle, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the national board of fire underwriters. He succeeds A. D. Baker, who represented the Michigan Commercial, which has retired from the field.

M. O. Rowland, secretary of the Detroit National Fire, has been appointed chief accountant for the Atlas of London at the New York office.

—MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALERS

As an element to reduce uncertainty of payment for goods sold, a prominent Banker says of Acceptances:

"It is in the general interest that money paid out for wages and material returns as fast as it can to the producer when his goods are sold. Pending the return of the money due to him he must rely on bank credit, which naturally is limited, and consequently he has to adjust the scope of his operations to the speed with which his turnover can be completed. The trade acceptance plays a most important part in this respect.

By securing trade acceptances, even though he may hold them to maturity, the Manufacturer can figure with greater exactness what are his obligations and his available cash assets, and, by removing elements of uncertainty he is enabled to carry on a larger business and do it in greater safety."

Where Trade Acceptances cannot be secured; or if their application to your business has limitations, the same ends may be gained, and all uncertainty removed, by selling open Accounts to us at time of shipment—and yet your customers need not be disturbed.

A Position Is Wanted

for a man. We don't know what the position is. We do know the man.

He is a successful salesman of 20 years' experience who built up a manufacturing business of his own from which he took as his share of the net profits an average of $20,000 annually for many years. He has an extensive club and business acquaintance, commands the confidence of many prominent Chicagoans, is big enough to present the biggest proposition to big men, but not too big to consider a small proposition with large possibilities.

This man is capable of earning a large income in the right connection. But money-making interests him less than finding congenial work. A meeting may prove to your advantage and can be arranged by addressing, by letter only

ON THE HEELS OF THE HUN—Refugees confidently returning to their homes in Chateau-Thierry immediately after the Germans were driven out. The picturesque little town has contributed many stirring chapters to history since the fifteenth century, but none more glorious than when American marines helped turn the kaiser's drive toward Paris into what may be his final retreat.

from Glorious Pasadena this Woman Wrote

SHE had lived in many Western towns. Her husband, a busy civil engineer, had moved from one post to another for something like ten years. She began using CREME ELCAYA about that long ago. Ever since, wherever she has been, women friends have wondered—and finally asked the reason of her soft, fresh skin. She told them CREME ELCAYA. And they, too, began its use.

Once in a while her enthusiasm runs over and she writes us a letter. In one that came recently she says:

> Dear Sirs: Pasadena, California.
> If it gave you pleasure to send me the charming little traveling toilet case, I assure you it likewise gave me pleasure to receive it. I thank you.
>
> If I am a staunch friend of Elcaya, it is because Elcaya deserves it, and that you appreciate such friends is evident from your last letter. It seems to me that I have always used Elcaya, and I know that I would never do without it. With best wishes,
> Sincerely, (Mrs.) W.—J.—K.

You see, in that dry Western air she needed a non-greasy, disappearing toilet cream that she could put on day and evening as a foundation for her face powder—one that would protect her skin and keep it soft and clear.

CREME ELCAYA, put on always before your face powder, gives the skin a velvety look; with it powder never "shows." Then, before you've used it very long, you'll find that your skin has acquired an exquisite texture that improves your whole appearance. Knowing this, even your eyes will take on new sparkle. And your friends will wonder and enjoy.

You see, I know from many, many such letters as the above that CREME ELCAYA does just that. There is no beauty secret about it.

Begin today to make your skin beautiful by this formula:

A little CREME ELCAYA rubbed gently into the skin; then if you need color, a little good Rouge spread carefully over the cheeks before the cream is quite dry; and after that the film of face powder over all.

It will give you such a sense of personal daintiness as would make any woman more charming.

We want you to learn the easy way to have a skin like velvet. Send 10c in a letter marked Department "K" to the address below and obtain a trial package of CREME ELCAYA—the non-greasy, skin-refining toilet cream—and a miniature box of ELCAYA COMPLEXION POWDER. If you need color, send an additional 10c for a sample of ELCAYA ROUGE and use it with CREME ELCAYA. There's nothing better.

America's New Army Men

When You're Called Will You Be Fit?

Will you be ready to pass the tests that every red-blooded, patriotic American wants to pass? Will YOU be ready to do your share to fight and win? Will you be mentally and physically alert? The man who goes to camp physically ready has a big start over the weakling. The man whose brain and brawn work at 100% efficiency every hour of the day is the man who makes the fearless fighter, the tireless leader, the brilliant officer.

Let Me Make You Vigorous, Healthy, Robust Before You Go

Let me put your whole body, your muscles, brain and nerves in first-class fighting shape. In a few short weeks I can give you the power, stamina and endurance you now lack. My system of Physical Training will send you away with an abundance of pep and punch, vitality and endurance, snap and vigor—the fighting spirit that comes from a healthy, active, well-trained body.

I trained Ex-President Roosevelt and his fighting sons. I trained other heroes of this war—and now I want to train more men like them. Will you let me train you? My system of physical training is the best and most reasonably priced in Chicago. It includes everything necessary to make a fighting man of you. My work is individual—personal—three trainers on the floor all the time—come as often as you like.

Start Today to Train for Uncle Sam's Army

I mean every word from the top of this ad to the bottom—but I don't want you to take my word for it. Come in and convince yourself. It won't cost you a cent to find out—it's up to me to prove it. But start now—you don't know how soon your country will need the best that's in you! My training quarters are perfectly equipped for turning out fighters in war or business. Complete bath departments, including Turkish.

A Wise Word to Wise Business Men Business is polite fighting and the same training that will make fighters of your sons and employes will make a good business fighter of you. Think it over hard — NOW — and then come over and see me—and make me make good.

Mother Earth Contributes Her Choicest Food-Flavors

All skillfully combined by Mr. George Mason into this matchless

MASON'S UNIVERSAL SAUCE

For Meats, Fish, Fowl and Game—Sea Foods, Salads, Soups and Rarebits

For over half a century Mr. George Mason of London, Eng., has made rare sauces for Kings and Queens and for the Connoisseurs of the old world and the new. And now in his 84th year, Mr. Mason offers you his greatest sauce delight—Mason's Universal Sauce.

Now Enjoy this Sauce at Home

FOR years Mason's Universal Sauce has been the choice in famous dining places. In restaurants, hotels and dining cars. They bought all that Mr. Mason made.

But discriminating diners demanded this sauce for their homes too; thus Mr. Mason was persuaded to make his Mason's Universal Sauce in a larger way. Good stores everywhere are offering it for sale. Use it in your home now. Let all the family enjoy its delights.

Foods and Spices from Far Lands

CHOICE nuts, costly spices, rare flavors and tropical fruits gathered from far lands are blended with America's flavory vegetables to make this delectable sauce. The secret of its ingredients, their blending and cooking are all closely guarded; but two men know them. Hence the distinctive flavor of Mason's Universal Sauce is never matched.

Know the Unusual Flavor in this Original Sauce

ONCE you know the flavor of Mason's Universal Sauce you need never fear substitutes. To taste other sauces is to expose them. The label on this bottle is scarcely needed. But to save you from even a momentary inconvenience should another sauce, thoughtlessly be offered you—on every bottle of Mason's Universal Sauce appears, this —his signature George Mason

Sold by good stores in your home town—guaranteed by Mason's Sauce Kitchens. Burlington, Iowa—Chicago, Illinois, U. S. A.

Skin Blemishes

How to get rid of them

Skin specialists are tracing fewer and fewer troubles to the blood—more to bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores with dust, soot and grime.

Clear your skin of any blemishes caused by this enemy by using this effective treatment. Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap and then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully with clear, hot water; then with cold. This will make your skin so firm and active that it will resist the frequent cause of blemishes and keep your complexion free from them.

You will find a 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment and for general cleansing use for this time. Woodbury's is for sale at drug stores and toilet goods counters everywhere throughout the United States and Canada.

Write today for a week's size cake

For 6c we will send you a trial size cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap large enough to last for a week of this Woodbury treatment, together with the booklet, "A Skin You Love to Touch," which gives the proper treatments for all of the commoner skin troubles.

For 12c we will send you the treatment booklet and samples of Woodbury's Facial Soap and Facial Powder. Send today to The Andrew Jergens Co., 26 Spring Grove Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

La-may Face Powder Stays On Better Than Any Other

Now you can use a pure face powder that beautifies your complexion wonderfully and is guaranteed not to injure the most delicate baby skin. And it really stays on better than any other face powder. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder (Poudre de Riz) to make it stick. White lead poisons the skin and rice powder turns into a gluey paste that encourages enlarged pores, blackheads and unsightly complexions. Five thousand dollars is offered any chemist who analyzes it and finds it contains any white lead or rice powder. The specialist who makes this improved powder uses a medicinal ingredient that doctors use to heal the skin. In fact, this new powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores and irritations. It is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crows' feet and wrinkles. Because it is pure and because it stays on so well this La-may powder (French, Poudre L'Ame) is now used by over a million American women. And it is sold by prominent dealers everywhere. The large size is only fifty cents and the trial size twenty-five cents. Remember, La-may is guaranteed. If you do not find La-may much better than any you have ever used, your dealer is authorized to return your money without question. Refuse substitutes. Your common sense will tell you that when you are offered a substitute it is sure to be a demonstrator trying to sell an inferior powder that pays a big commission. When you use this absolutely pure La-may and see how splendidly it beautifies your complexion, you will understand why it so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in New York.

The Amazing Experience of Victor Jones

How in One Evening I Discovered the Secret of a Good Memory and in Six Months Increased My Business One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

As I look back on it today, I can hardly believe that it is only six short months since I first met David M. Roth, the famous memory expert, and learned from his course—in one evening—how to make my memory do wonderful things, which I never dreamed were possible.

That first meeting, which has meant so much to me since, was at a luncheon of the Rotary Club in New York where Mr. Roth gave one of his remarkable memory demonstrations. I can best describe it by quoting the Seattle Post Intelligencer's account of a similar exhibition:

> "Of the 150 members of the Seattle Rotary Club at a luncheon yesterday not one left with the slightest doubt that Mr. Roth could do all claimed for him. Rotarians at the meeting had to pinch themselves to see whether they were awake or not.
> "Mr. Roth started his exhibition by asking sixty of those present to introduce themselves by name to him. Then he waved them aside and requested a member at the blackboard to write down the names of firms, sentences and mottoes on numbered squares, meanwhile sitting with his back to the writer and only learning the positions by oral report. After this he was asked by different Rotarians to tell what was written down in various specific squares, and gave the entire list without a mistake.
> "After finishing with this, Mr. Roth singled out and called by name the sixty men to whom he had been introduced earlier, who in the meantime had changed seats and had mixed with others present."

It was just such a meeting that I attended at the Hotel McAlpin, when Mr. Roth started me on the "Road to Better Memory."

My own progress in memory building since that time seems like one of those pleasant dreams about picking up basketfuls of money. You know the kind—when you lie still and try to stay asleep so you can keep on dreaming (and picking up money). But it is reality all right for I have the proof. I can now go into a room with from 30 to 50 people, and one hour after being introduced to them—or a week after or a month—call their names instantly, almost without a single mistake on meeting them again, wherever it may be or however unexpectedly I may run into them.

But I find I am not the only one who has had this strange and quite unbelievable experience.

Only yesterday I was sitting at the desk of Mr. Roth's publisher, the president of the Independent Corporation, when we were interrupted by the ring of his telephone. I had come to discuss some of the finer points in Mr. Roth's code for linking up numbers with names and business facts. When the Publisher hung up the receiver he said, "That was Terence J. McManus speaking, of the law firm of Olcott, Bonynge, McManus and Ernst. You have heard of him of course—a striking figure in many famous criminal trials in New York City, and a hard man to beat when it comes to a test of wits or memory.

"He says he regards our service in giving this Roth Memory Course to the world as a 'public benefaction.' The wonderful simplicity of the method and the ease with which its principles may be acquired appeal to him tremendously. He says he has already had occasion to test out the effectiveness of the first two lessons in preparing for trial an important action in which he is about to engage. (You see I am pretty good myself at reporting telephone calls—thanks to Mr. Roth!)

"But that is an everyday occurrence now. We have just received this letter from E. B. Craft, Assistant Chief Engineer of the Western Electric Company. He says:

> 'At one sitting I succeeded in learning the list of 100 words in Mr. Roth's first lesson forward and backward, and to say that I am delighted with the method outlined is putting it very mildly. I feel already that I am more than repaid in the real value and enjoyment I have gotten from the first lesson.'

"The gratifying, and inspiring, part of it is," continued the Publisher, "that they all say substantially the same thing. Here is a basket of 1,000 letters from Roth enthusiasts received by us in the past 30 days—selected at random from the many thousands who have written in ordering the course. One man says, 'It can't be true!' and returns the course. The other 999 tell in glowing terms what the Roth method is doing for them, in many ways, and how quickly and delightfully they have mastered the big idea.

"A good composite of the general type of these letters is furnished by this letter received several months ago from C. Louis Allen, who at 32 became the President of a million dollar corporation, the Pyrene Manufacturing Company, makers of the famous fire extinguisher. You know the letter but read it again. He says:

> 'Now that the Roth Memory Course is finished, I want to tell you how much I have enjoyed the study of this most fascinating subject. Usually these courses involve a great deal of drudgery, but this has been nothing but pure pleasure all the way through. I have derived much benefit from taking the course of instructions and feel that I shall continue to strengthen my memory. That is the best part of it. I shall be glad of an opportunity to recommend your work to my friends.'

"I tell you, Mr. Jones, it is a great experience to read these letters that pour in every day from every corner of the land—especially when I think how simple this method is and how few people among those who need it so badly have imagined before that such a thing could exist."

All this was no surprise to me. In fact it seemed rather "tame" compared to my own experience with the Roth Course—which was as follows:

It sent me ahead in my business like a twin-six "on high" and to a degree that I would not have believed possible. And all in six months!

I know it was the Roth Course that did it. I will take my oath on it. Because I cannot account for the change in my whole business life in any other way.

I had suspected that the letter I saw from "Multigraph" Smith (H. Q. Smith, Manager Multigraph Sales Company of Montreal) was over enthusiastic. But I know now from my own actual experience—that he didn't put it a bit too strong when he wrote:

> "Here is the whole thing in a nutshell: Mr. Roth has a most remarkable Memory Course. It is simple, and easy as falling off a log. Yet with one hour a day of practice, anyone—I don't care who he is—can improve his memory 100% in a week and 1,000% in six months."

The cold fact is that my new grip on business came in the six short months from the time I took up the Roth Memory Course.

In that brief period—and my cashier will vouch for this—I increased my sales by $100,000—and that in war time, mind you, with anything but a "war bride," and with German drives sending cold shivers down the public spine and submarines knocking holes in business confidence and buying habits.

The reason stands out as brightly as a star bomb. Mr Roth has given me a firmer mental grasp of business tendencies and a better balanced judgment, a keener foresight and the ability to act swiftly and surely that I never possessed before.

His lessons have taught me to see clearly ahead; and how to visualize conditions in more exact perspective; and how to remember the things I need to remember at the instant I need them most in business transactions.

In consequence I have been able to seize many golden opportunities that before would have slipped by and been out of reach by the time I woke up.

You see the Roth Course has done vastly more for me than teaching me how to remember names and faces and telephone numbers. It has done more than make me a more interesting talker. It has done more than give me confidence on my feet.

It has given me a greater power in all the conduct of my business.

Mr. Roth's course has endowed me with a new business perspective. It has made me a keener observer. It has given me a new sense of proportion and values. It has given me visualization—which after all is the true basis of business success.

Now, dear reader, do you not think you can use this Roth Memory Course in your business. It doesn't cost a penny to try it out. I am willing to lay a large wager—right now—that if you will send for the course and spend one evening on that fascinating first lesson, they won't be able to get it back from you with a team of horses. And you will vote that $5 (which I know you will send eventually) the best investment you ever made.

VICTOR JONES.

Send No Money

So confident is the Independent Corporation, the publisher of the Roth Memory Course, that once you have an opportunity to see in your own home how easy it is to double, yes, triple your memory power in a few short hours, that they are willing to send the course on free examination.

That's a real coat!

BOTH are Patricks—one a Mackinaw style, the other a handsome Great Coat—both made from our famous Patrick cloth, the wool of the "sheep that thrive in the snow."

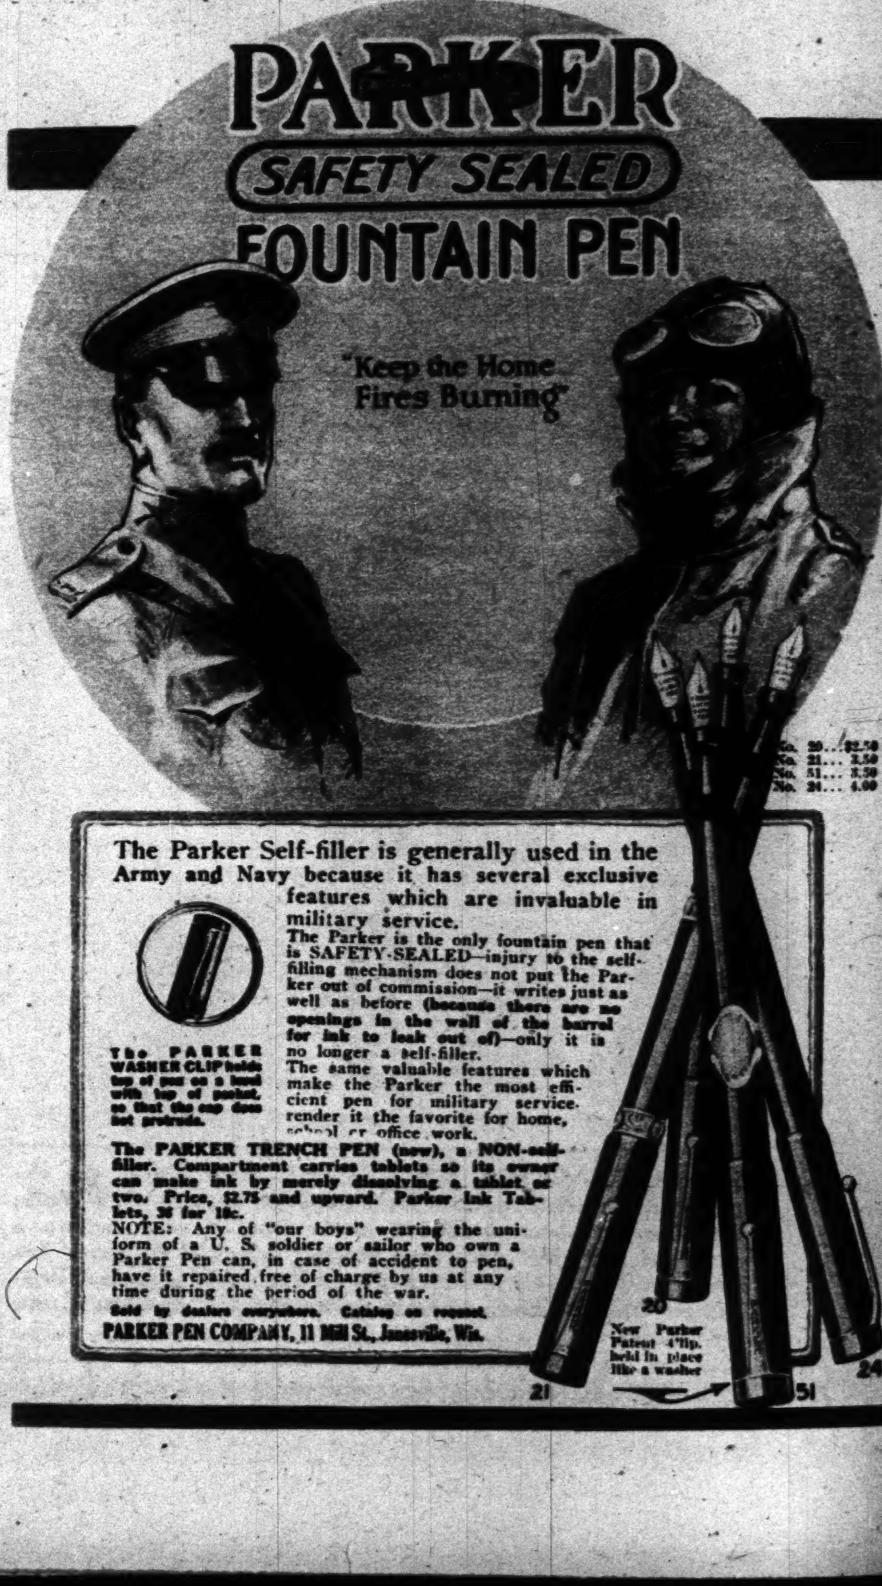
Patrick garments come in many patterns, colors and a wide range of styles, but only one quality—all wool—"Bigger than Weather."

While we are producing a large supply of goods for the Government, we have been permitted to manufacture a limited quantity for dealers. This supply is all in the dealers' hands now.

This Patrick Label on Mackinaw, Great Coat, Sweater, Cap, Stocking, Robe or Blanket, means all pure wool. Write for the new catalog. We will direct you to some high-grade dealer.

Patrick-Duluth Woolen Mills

1122 Pine Street Duluth, Minn.



The Parker Self-filler is generally used in the Army and Navy because it has several exclusive features which are invaluable in military service.

The PARKER WASHER CLIP holds top of pen on a level with top of pocket, so that the cap does not protrude.

The Parker is the only fountain pen that is SAFETY-SEALED—injury to the self-filling mechanism does not put the Parker out of commission—it writes just as well as before (because there are no openings in the wall of the barrel for ink to leak out of)—only it is no longer a self-filler.

The same valuable features which make the Parker the most efficient pen for military service render it the favorite for home, school or office work.

The PARKER TRENCH PEN (new), a NON-self-filler. Compartment carries tablets so its owner can make ink by merely dissolving a tablet or two. Price, $2.75 and upward. Parker Ink Tablets, 36 for 10c.

NOTE: Any of "our boys" wearing the uniform of a U. S. soldier or sailor who own a Parker Pen can, in case of accident to pen, have it repaired free of charge by us at any time during the period of the war.

Sold by dealers everywhere. Catalog on request.

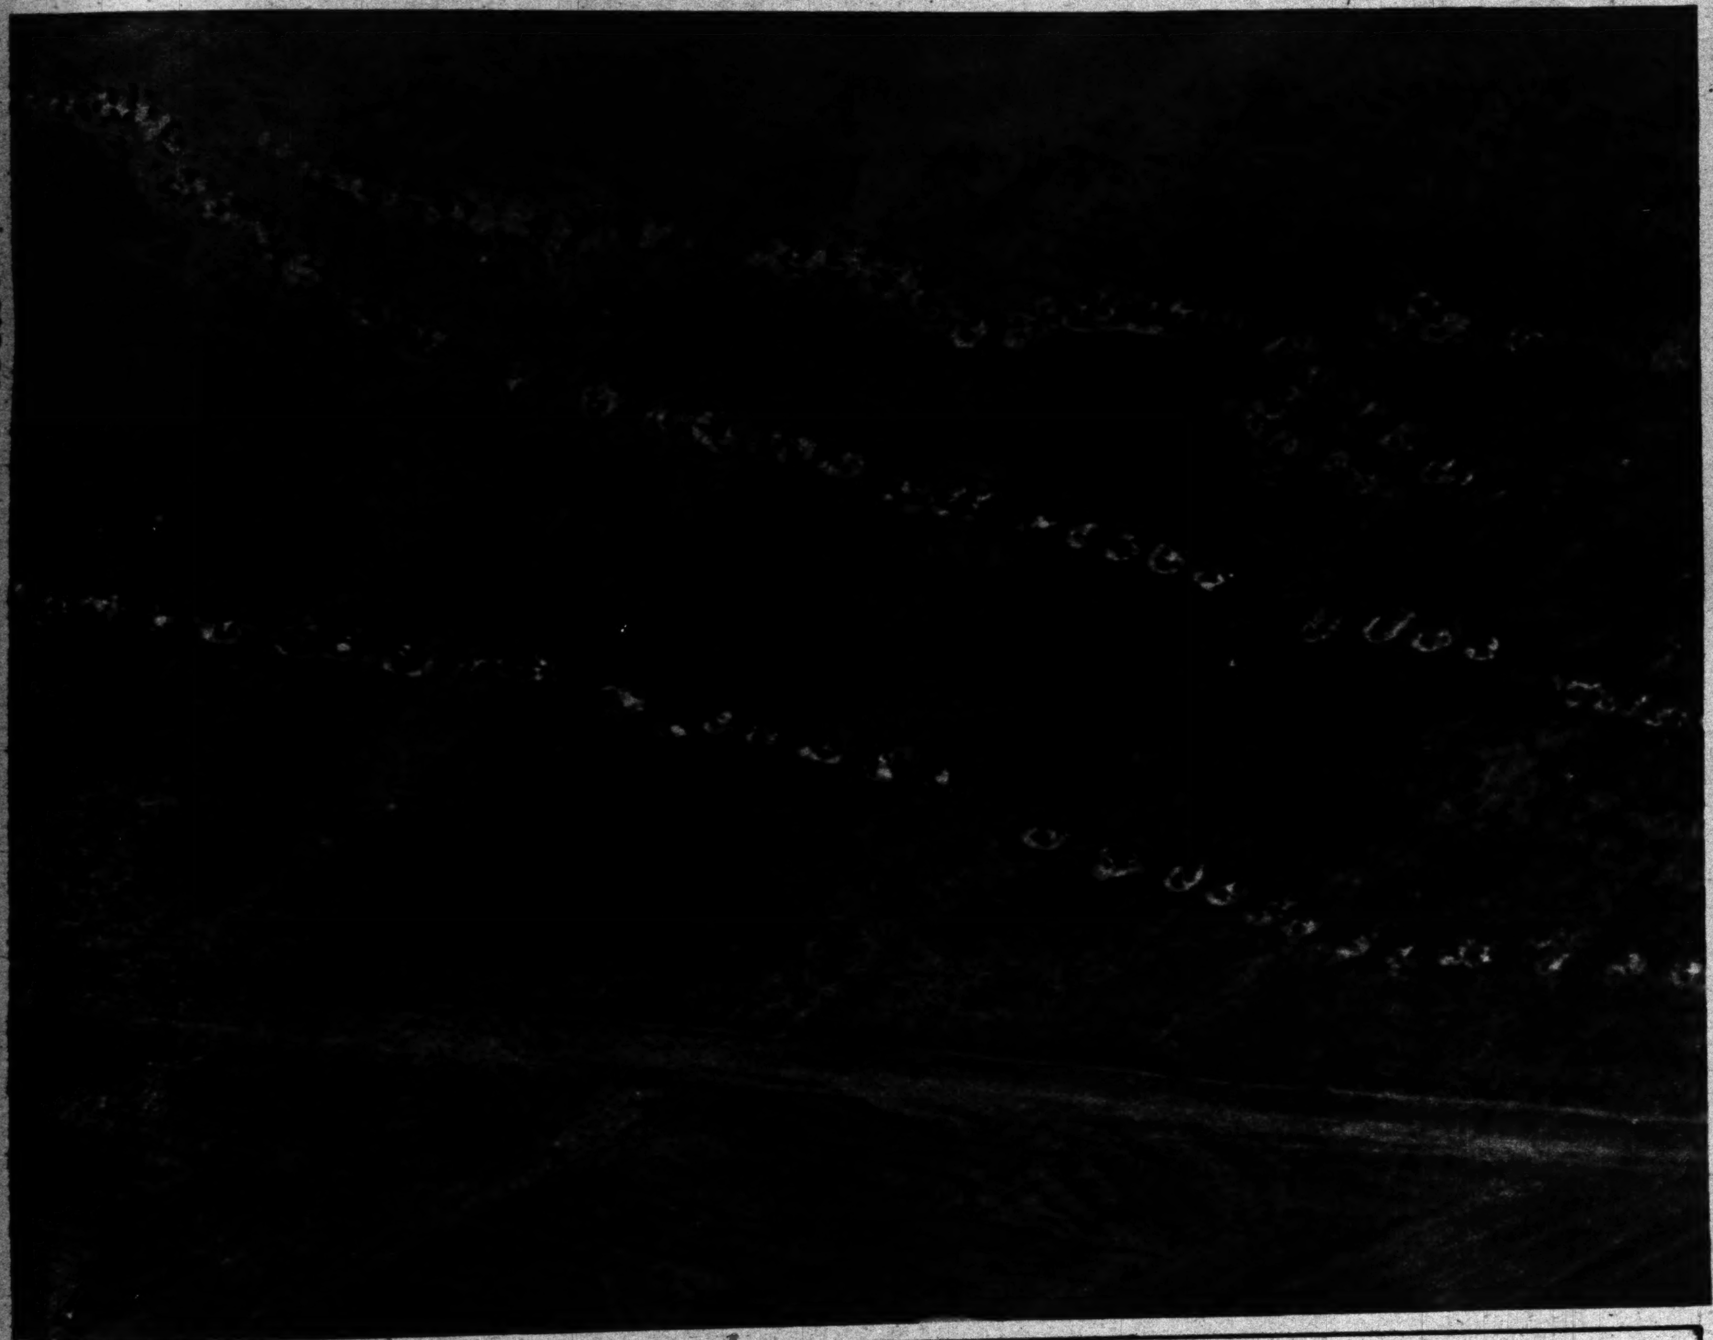
THE DREAM OF THE GERMANS BEFORE THE RUDE AWAKENING—This picture appeared in the German newspaper "Illustrierte Zeitung," with the caption, "Wilhelm II before Soissons, placing his finger upon the map at the point where his generals will wipe out the French army." Shown seated at the table with the kaiser are Hindenburg and Ludendorff, while to the extreme right is the crown prince.



FRENCH INFANTRYMEN WHO HAVE DUG THEMSELVES IN—This photograph, taken from an aeroplane flying at a low altitude, shows a phase of a French advance against the German line. The soldiers have crossed No Man's Land and have dug themselves individual holes from which to fire. The holes are shallow, merely deep enough to conceal the bodies of the men against rifle and machine gun fire.

CAPTAIN GEORGES GUYNEMER Reproduction of a painting by —Rene Lelong—

By ELEANOR JEWETT.

HIGH in the clouds, above the roar of battle, there met the Spirit of France and the Angel of Death. Into Death's keeping France gave the body of her son. Upon his brow she pressed her warm lips in a long embrace.

"Deal gently with him, Death," she said; "this is my heart, my honor, and my glory that I give you."

Death waited in her calm loveliness, cradling the man in the strength of her arms. Behind them the blue of the sky was filmed with the white of clouds and crossed with the red spears of the morning sun. France took from her shoulders her cloak of the same colors and laid it about her son.

"You are mine," she whispered fiercely. "While France endures you shall not die." Then she turned to wing her flight to earth, and Death smiled alone softly and carried her charge to the footstool of God.

Probably never has a more beautiful presentation of the passing of a hero been given us than in this painting of the death of Captain Georges Guynemer by Rene Lelong.

BETWEEN the LINES by Jack Lait

Love Makes Men Take Long Chances.

FROM the firing step, over the rim of the Yankee trench, as the first fingers of dawn were beginning to worry through the murk of a dark night in France, Capt. John Moreland, U. S. A., looked out over No Man's Land.

Beyond were the trenches of the Hun, the miserable, dirty Hun, who had fallen back and back, snarling and verdamming, befouling the air that was foul already with the smoke of cannon fire and the after odor of his venomous gases with his profane imprecations upon the heads of the overseas nation which had double-crossed the kaiser by walloping back instead of turning the other cheek.

But Capt. John Moreland, U. S. A., at that moment was not thinking of the Hun. With all the wreck and carnage and débris and destruction and salvage of battle about him, with the enemy only a few rods off before him, he was oblivious to it all, for he was thinking of Claribel—his Claribel. His! For a few brief hours before he had sailed, for scarcely more than a first embrace, his bride, his beloved, watching now at home the fearful black prints, hoping and praying for him.

He wondered what she was doing just then. It was Sunday morning in France. What was it in God's own country, what was it in the little suburban retreat where his Claribel had hung her service star?

He hadn't slept well. A hardened campaigner now, he hadn't had his rest that night because—because he was homesick; he was lonesome. Hemmed in by the whirlwind of a tremendous war's central vortex, surrounded by millions of men fighting other millions not only for their own lives but for the survival of humanity, this stalwart soldier, this efficient officer, was yet homesick and lovesick, and stood mooning and palming his forehead like a college swain an hour after he has danced "Home, Sweet Home," with the only co-ed, the one in fluffy white.

And, in this strange mood, this incongruous humor, as his eyes blankly scanned the shell-scarred interim between the forward outposts of the victorious and the temporary rear guard of the whipped, his eyes fell upon something out of all keeping with its whereabout, weirdly in keeping with what was in his heart and mind.

Out there, where shrapnel had gouged great craters, where shot had rent irregular furrows, where broken bits of battle's disorderly house were flung and scattered, stood, waving gently in the cooling breeze of the embryo morn, a single daisy. That it had escaped was almost miraculous. But there it blew, alone, the one touch of sweetness in that metal-mowed strip of turf which was the deadline for the day between mankind and its wounded beast of prey.

A daisy!

Claribel loved daisies.

Over the top went Capt. John Moreland, U. S. A., on his hands and knees, and then down on his stomach after he had reached the flat, crawling toward that daisy. Down as low as he could bring himself and yet keep moving, he navigated, for, even before the sun had assumed its full height the snipers of the enemy were watching like vultures for a mark.

Foot by foot he crawled. He dared not raise his head, but wriggled on in the direction in which he had set himself, toward that daisy.

He thought he must about have reached it. Suddenly his skull bumped with a shock against a resisting object. Curving his neck, yet still keeping his body down upon the sward, Capt. Moreland raised his eyes above the line of his chin.

At the same moment Capt. Donald MacDowell of the Dunoon Highlanders raised his. It had been Capt. MacDowell's head that the head of Capt. Moreland had met in collision.

For a second, as they lay there, these two allies looked wonderingly into the eyes of one another.

"I beg pardon," said Capt. Moreland.

"It's I who beg yours," said Capt. MacDowell.

"I—I was coming out here after a—a——"

"A daisy," said Capt. MacDowell. "So was I."

"How strange," said Capt. Moreland.

"Here it is," said Capt. MacDowell, and there, a few inches off, within plucking distance, wavered the lone flower between them and scarcely a foot beyond.

"I—my wife loves daisies, so I——"

"So does mine. They grow in my country," said MacDowell.

"They grow in mine—in here," said Moreland.

"I was looking out over the trench and I saw it. It came to me that I hadn't sent my bonnie anything for a long time. What is there to send?"

"Not much, I'm sure. So, when I saw this little flower, it struck me that a daisy from No Man's Land, a daisy I'd risked my poor life to get for her, might serve to show her that I think of her——"

"And what you think of her. In Scotland the daisy is the flower we love. We have a poor country compared to yours—we haven't what you might call tropical vegetation in Scotland. We think a lot of daisies there, and we grow them in tiny gardens—we haven't much space for gardens, we haven't enough as it is for vegetables."

"Daisies aren't of much account in the United States, but I guess one from where this one is, at a time like this, would be a welcome token. My wife loves them, besides—prefers them to American beauties; they're big roses, you know, the long-stemmed sort."

"Some of our rich and the nobility have pretty fine roses in Scotland, too. But roses don't live well up there—climate too severe. Of course, now, in summer—O, we have right mellow summers in Dunoon, and Scotland's a glorious place right now, I'm thinking—right now in September, ah, it's grand there in September, it is. My missus must be enjoying it now, she loves the outdoors so. If I were home now——"

"O, you'll be getting home. You chaps are in luck, close enough to run back every so often for a visit. It's a bit of a jaunt for a Yank, you see. Of course, a chap can be just as—well, lonesome—when he's near as when he's far, if he's away. Don't you find it so?"

"I wouldn't admit it to a soul except yourself, but I guess you and I, out here on our chests and thighs between the lines, crawling out like a couple of seals after a fish on the ice for a wee daisy, oughtn't to have any secrets between them. Yes, I'm longing mighty hard for my butt and ben, my wife, my own chair, and a day or two away from the noise and the scuffling, the routine and the—the dashed dignity. I'm an officer now, and I have to be stern with my boys and stiffly respectful with my superiors. The only person on earth right now that I could be entirely natural with—outside yourself—would be my wife. Yes, I'd love a day or two at home, I would."

"I hope you'll get it—soon. A man who loves his wife like that——"

"Yourself, for instance, captain——"

"Deserves a holiday."

"O, no, no thought of that right now. But if I pull through for another couple of months or so, I may slip across for a week, maybe."

"Good luck with you, captain."

"She wrote me something that I got a few days ago. She said—she told me—well, you're a married man, captain. You know what the big news is from home. My, I'd like to be back there for the—the grand event. We were married last February. I've been in the game now for three years. I married her on my last leave. I've seen her since—base hospital in Paris; only a skin wound, though, no blighty. She didn't want to tell me while I was sick, you see. Haven't seen her now for—let me see—for almost five months, I guess. How long have you been married?"

"Two days—that is, I mean four months. My girl wrote me that she had a great secret for me, too—said I should guess. Well, I guess I can guess."

"Great!" said Capt. MacDowell, and he cautiously slid his arm about until his hand found the hand of Capt. Moreland, and the two hands met and the palms slapped together and remained there for a long, warm clasp.

Two sighs were breathed out there, together.

"I—I think you'd better take the daisy," said Capt. Moreland.

"Wouldn't hear of it," protested Capt. MacDowell. "It's yours—I think you saw it first."

"No, no. It would reach your wife almost fresh. It's a long way across the Atlantic, and the mails are a bit uncertain now, too."

"O, I couldn't. You see, I've seen my wife since I went away, and you haven't seen yours. No, the daisy belongs to you—I'm convinced of that."

"Not at all. You've fought out here for years and I'm new. You wear a wounded stripe—the highest insignia of nobility these days. I couldn't deprive you of the daisy after you took the risks you did, coming out here this way after it——"

"Tut, tut. How about yourself? You Americans are brave devils, bless you. We owe you a lot—more than you'll ever know—more than anybody may admit right now. But, after it's all over, history will give you yours, and a proud page that will be, too."

"Thanks, but you take the daisy, captain."

"No. Have it on me."

"She's your daisy—to apply that corking little song of your national idol, Harry Lauder."

"And who made him what he is? The Americans. Take it," and the Scot drew Moreland's hand over toward the flimsy flower, where it bobbed.

"We mustn't stay out here all morning arguing over this," said Moreland. "See? The sun is almost full up. We'd better scurry back in our holes. Those Heinies will be taking a little study in still life out of us if we don't get out of this."

"Surely. So you take the daisy and we'll both go home."

"Home!"

"Righto. Come, now—pluck."

The distance-muffled report of a rifle piffed, and a slug of lead struck the sod between the two upturned faces, missing their noses by a scant inch or two. Both recoiled from the dirt as it flew up into their faces.

Down, flatter than ever, they squirmed.

Then they very closely and carefully lifted their heads again until eye met eye.

"Close," said MacDowell.

"God! When I got my breath and knew I hadn't been popped I thought maybe it had——"

"It didn't. It hit right there. You see—right——"

"Geewhillikens!" gasped Moreland. "It's gone!"

"Gone!" echoed MacDowell.

"Too—too bad," sighed Moreland.

"What a pity," grieved MacDowell.

The two right hands, neither an inch above the level of the earth, met again in a passionate grip.

"Good-by—and God be with you," breathed MacDowell. "And with your wife at home, old boy."

"So long—and may it be a boy, a braw, manly lad like his father," vociferated Moreland. "And may you be there—and may it all turn out bully."

And they slowly, with supreme carefulness, veered their heads about, and Capt. John Moreland, U. S. A., started back toward the American lines, while Capt. Donald MacDowell of the Highlanders made his way like a khakied, kilted caterpillar, for his own.

"I wanted to send you a daisy," wrote Capt. Moreland to his Claribel. "But they're hard to get out here. The shooting plows them all up. But if I see one I'll get it for you. I saw a valiant Highlander within an inch of death this morning, going after one for his wife. God love you, dear."

"I hope the daisies are blooming about my lassie," wrote Capt. MacDowell. "They're very scarce here. They're so scarce that a brave Yankee captain was almost killed this morning trying to get one for his wife. Love makes men take long chances. Heaven keep you, darling."

WITH HIS HEAD UP by ONEY FRED SWEET

That Was the Way She Remembered Him Last.

IT may have been the passing of a handsomely gowned woman in a limousine; it may have been an account in the paper concerning an old friend who had risen in the world; it may have been a strain of music from a neighboring phonograph. Whatever it was, it caused Bess McLaren, home from work on a summer night, to answer her husband's questions absent mindedly.

Bess was sitting on her own rented porch. Her husband sat on the porch step, smoking a pipe. The neighboring porches were filled with wrappered women and coatless men. It was the hour between fried suppers and fitful sleep.

"We might go down to Haley's place, Bess," finally ventured the man on the porch step. "I'm tired of all the comedy films, and we ain't been down to Haley's for quite a while."

"I don't know what we ever saw there, Ed—dancing around in that hot place to that jazz music. You've had enough to drink already today, anyhow."

"O, all right, if that's the way you feel," puffed Ed. "I thought you acted a little as if you was in the dumps."

Bess looked thoughtfully toward Ed when his face was turned again toward the street. He had slumped during the four years that they had been married. That was the word, "slumped." He hadn't been mean to her, he hadn't neglected her, he would perhaps have provided for her after a fashion even if she had not gone out to work herself. But somehow, somewhere along the way, he had lost his pride and pep. She could not exactly put her finger on the stage of the game when Ed had reconciled himself to the belief that his future must remain commonplace, but some such a moment had come and gone. It had been years since Ed had even expressed discontent. She watched him now as he contentedly puffed his pipe. He had carelessly fixed his necktie. He needed a shave.

And as Bess McLaren studied her husband she wondered why she had married him. There was so little about him now that would thrill a girl. The answer came. The night came back—the starlit night when he had walked home with her and he had put his arms around her and told her how he loved her and how he wanted her for his own through life. And with his arms about her she had looked up at the stars and her heart had sung. It had been a wonderful moment. She knew that, with all her soul, she loved the man who had her in his arms, and through tear dimmed eyes she had kept her gaze on the high stars and answered "yes."

Perhaps that happy moment was supposed to be the proper climax for all love stories. Perhaps she should have been satisfied with it and been content thereafter to let life drift humdrum.

Life had drifted humdrum. She had kept at her work because Ed's salary had kept on remaining so small. There had been rented rooms in a rundown neighborhood as substitute for a home. There had been no children. Yet it had not been actual conditions that had crushed. Conditions might not have mattered if there had been dreams to go with them. But the dreams had died. The fairy prince had vanished with the drying of the ink on the flower decorated wedding certificate.

"Well, you can stick around here if you want to," yawned Ed, rising from the porch step. "I'll be back before long."

He came back far after midnight. He stumbled back into the stuffy rooms.

"You'll feel a lot like going to work in the morning," she greeted sarcastically. For the first time there was a nag in her tone. Indifference could not go on forever.

"Ain't going to work in the morning," he mumbled. "It's never been my kind of a job anyhow. Boss always gave his friends the good jobs. Just let 'em try once to see how it goes without me."

They got along without him. Ed did get other jobs, as he gave assurance he would, but they were short lived, poorly paid affairs. Responsibility fell more and more upon Bess.

Her folks asked her why she didn't leave him and come home. He had never been any good anyhow, they contended. They had not approved of her marriage. But she stuck. There was always the memory of that wonderful moment when the stars had seemed so close and the kiss he had given her had had the approval of earth and heaven. She stuck when he came home, abusive. She stuck until the time—until the time when he did not come home at all.

Then Bess quit her old job and went to work for a new firm. At the new place she was looked upon as a woman unattached. There were new men friends who would have wooed if she had not warned them away. Her folks said she was better off than when she had had Ed on her hands. They wondered why she was not happier because of the change. She assured herself that it was not Ed's absence that made her heart ache—not Ed as she had known him the most of those four years. Yet the ache was there and Ed had to do with that ache—Ed and the night when the stars had looked down and she had been thrilled by his protective kiss.

Her new employers did not consider her sentimental. She did her work well. She had a faculty of appearing flippantly practical. She was not a girl to harp on her troubles, especially at a time when all the world was full of trouble. She did not confide even in Mrs. Chastain, with whom she boarded. And Mrs. Chastain was pretty much of a chum as well as landlady.

"I'd like to have you take a trip with me tonight," she said to Mrs. Chastain one noon when she came home to lunch. "I want to take a car and go out to the Junction and I don't want to go alone."

"Go with you, sure," agreed Mrs. Chastain. "I've said right along you ought to get out more. You're too white and too thin. Any one would think you were running a boarding house and had to keep square with the government and the boarders, too, on this food regulation stuff. Of course I'll go with you."

"Do I look too white, Mrs. Chastain?"

"You look like a ghost. And you don't smile. I've never seen you smile. What you going to do out to the Junction?"

"I'd rather not tell you now. We won't talk about why at all, but I want to go, and I want you to go along."

It was a long car ride to the Junction. There was a crowd on the depot platform waiting for the train to pull in, and when the train from Texas finally arrived the two women suddenly lost track of each other.

Bess McLaren recognized him as he got off the train with the other men, even though they were all dressed so much alike. He was coming along the depot platform and his head was up. She noticed that first—his head was up!

Then he recognized her. He came toward her, alert, sure of himself, a proud eagerness in his averted chin. He took both of her hands in his two strong ones and they stood looking each other over. Her eyes dropped.

"You've got thin, Bess."

"And, O, Ed, you've got so big and strong."

"You got my letter?"

"Both of them—the one a few days ago on the Y. M. C. A. stationery, and the one yesterday saying that you would be going through."

"I guess maybe they don't envy me, all of these fellows that haven't anybody here."

"And you're going right across?"

"Right away, Bess. Isn't it wonderful! I'm a sergeant, Bess. That's what those stripes mean. We've only ten minutes here."

He turned back toward his men. His doing so gave her a chance to study him again, to study him with his head up—his head up and the old protective powerful look in his clear eyes. Then he turned back.

"Your letter from the Y. M. C. A.—it was beautiful, Ed. I suppose you felt the way you wrote, knowing where you were going and what you were going to do and what it all meant and what might happen to you. And you must have been drilling and getting to bed early and have been outdoors for months and months to look so brown and strong. You must have——"

But he had caught her in his arms. He was kissing her. And as her lips met his she could look beyond—beyond to the stars.

The rear lights of the troop train dimmed, were lost in a turn of the track. But the stars still shone. And there was the kiss that he had given her still on her lips.

Mrs. Chastain was shaking her.

"Bess," gasped Mrs. Chastain, "I suppose you've forgotten that I'd ever come along. Who did you say he was? Your husband! And he's on his way to fight in France? Well, you act mighty funny about it. You wouldn't think you had lost him at all. You look ten years younger, and I never saw a smile like that on your face before."

As It Happened by Mabel McElliott

He Liked Being a Hero—for a While.

HE didn't know what to say to her—she was so pretty and clever. Her voice had the delicate inflections he associated vaguely with the sort of women who used to "call up the store" occasionally about their belated orders of groceries; women who ordinarily had no need to bother about the bread and butter things of daily life, but who, in the absence of the cook, descended to earth for a brief moment to discourse of caviar and artichoke and white grapes.

All this was ever so vaguely formulated in his none too quick brain. And he was astounded at himself for what his mother would have termed his "cheek." He, Ray Beekman, dawdling about at midday, at a laden luncheon table, listening to the pretty talk of this pretty girl. Before the war, before the fateful day when he betook himself down to the recruiting station at Twelfth and Ash streets, he had never even dreamed that so elegant and fastidious a creature would address him—and on terms of sincere equality.

He had to drag his thoughts back to her. She was asking him about the trenches, quoting a bit of poetry that had become famous with the advent of our men into the war, supposing, of course, he had read it. And, somehow, he was answering, making "yes" and "no" do for everything. They had had a fair crossing—yes. O, of course, he knew Lambert Beekman—good old Bert! (That was the way he managed to "get by" when they pinned him down about their friends in the regiment.) It seemed to please every one to have him say that. He noticed how the mothers bridled and the girls flushed, and how they went on eagerly to ask him how Chuck or Louis or Franklin was. He was well—and happy? To all of these he had his unfailing affirmative, "Good old Frank—he's a fine soldier!" and that sufficed.

It wasn't that he had done anything to make people believe he was what he wasn't. They had simply taken things very much for granted. When he was invalided home, for what the doctor termed a very bad lung indeed; when he arrived in Stapleton without any blare of trumpets, with the tin hat and the stick he had acquired in his journeyings, somehow the thing had happened. The "Sisters of the Regiment" had heard of his arrival; invited him to their midweek meeting, and, because he was vague and absent minded with them, they had whispered about that it was shell shock, and the thing was done. He was a made man! Every one wanted him to dinner; every one wanted to talk to him and about him. Even now the lovely creature beside him was asking him to be their—the Warreners'—guest at the theater the following evening. She looked ridiculously triumphant when he said he would be able to come.

What use to tell every one that he had never been on the firing line—never even "back of the lines"? Actually, he had not left port, but had been shipped back home to a base hospital, where he had been ever since December.

But there was one girl who watched him amusedly from her place far down the long table. She remembered only too well her brother's laughing comments on "the boob of the regiment" when they had been stationed near home. She had her private opinion about shell shock as it concerned Private Berkman, but it must be said that she kept it to herself, in an entirely unfeminine fashion. Herbert had said that he used to march solemnly up and down before the barracks, issuing muttered commands to himself, "Right about face!" She smiled to herself at the memory of it. "Why, the kid isn't there!" Herb had said more than once. "He's light, I'm telling you!"

It was really too bad—every one's making a lion of him. He must be horribly shy with all these women. Nevertheless she determined to ask him for news of her brother, if she had a chance to edge through the handshaking crowd after luncheon.

As Celia Warrener continued to chatter he was absorbing the fine details of her costume; the expensive simplicity of it, her finely groomed hands and shining waved hair. Somehow his slow perception sensed the quality—the breeding of her. If any one so dull may be said to marvel, he marveled at himself, grasping the tiny coffee cup against a mishap. It was very, very small—"darned queer," he told himself. His mother's huge cups were more to his liking.

All at once it was over. Terrified, he realized that they were asking him to "say a few words," and stumbled on heroically, trying to remember where "was" belonged, and "were" did not. And failing. But they liked it! Smiling eyes approved him through raised glasses and slender palms applauded. He was a man uplifted.

He walked, in a pleasant daze, down the avenue with Miss Warrener, trying to adjust his lumbering step to hers. People turned to stare at him openly, murmuring "veteran" as he passed. The girl thought, "How deep and silent and modest he is!" Aloud she said: "Mother said you expected to be called back at any minute. I should've thought they'd let you stay here. Surely you've done your bit; you've done a great deal——"

He interrupted her with rather a grand gesture. He was anxious to get back with the men, he said. "Fellers" was the word he used. Then he was making a clumsy to-do about lifting his hat and saying good-by.

A letter was waiting him at home. His mother, watching concernedly, noticed his bemused look. Whether to read in it relief or chagrin she could not tell.

"It's orders, ma," he said. "I'm going—" and stopped suddenly. Bethought himself: "If any one calls, tell 'em I've gone back."

The next night Celia, at the theater, discussed his departure with Herbert Lane's sister. "Poor boy!" she remarked, with real feeling. "He's so brave and fine he really wanted to go, but it's a shame to send him overseas again."

At the moment Berkman's train was pounding its impatient way westward, bound for the sanitarium at H——. Tilted back, his boots against the cushions, he was conscious of a hazy sensation of having escaped from something. He was going to have his "bum lung fixed up," the doc had said. He was glad all that pink tea-ing and speechifying was over, but—

"It sure was great while it lasted," he announced to the startled conducter who reached for his ticket. And with an unprecedented spurt of originality, added, for the benefit of the car at large, "O, boy!"

RUTH of the U.S.A

SYNOPSIS.

Ruth Alden, a stenographer, wants to go to France to work, but her mother and younger sisters are dependent on her, so she cannot. She is much interested in the arrival in Chicago of Gerry Hull, a famous young aviator, and happens to see him one afternoon as his motor is halted in the crowd. She asks him what she ought to do, and he tells her she may be trusted to find that out. Later she buys a box of pencils from a beggar, and on opening it finds money and a passport. She decides to take advantage of the opportunity and go to France. The passport belongs to one Cynthia Gail, and Ruth learns, from some papers in the package, that she has been killed in an accident. She takes possession of Cynthia's room at a fashionable hotel, and goes to a reception with Hubert Lennon, who easily accepts her as Miss Gail. Here she meets Gerry Hull again. They are mutually attracted—Ruth and this young airman. When Gerry begins to speak at the reception his eyes seek hers. He rails at America for not having been in the war long before. Ruth does not agree with him. She argues with him, and some of her remarks hurt him cruelly.

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

ABOARD SHIP.

EXCEPT for the chocolate and little cakes served at Mrs. Corliss' she had eaten nothing since breakfast, but she scarcely thought to be hungry or considered her weariness now. What a day had been given to her, and how frightfully she had bungled it. She had met Gerry Hull and he had found interest in her and she had taken advantage of his interest only to offend and insult him and turn him away!

The Germans, upon whose support she must depend in all her plans, had given her a first definite order, and she had completely disregarded it—forgotten it, in fact, in her absorption in offending Gerry Hull. At any moment therefore they might take action against her—either direct action of their own or give information which would expose her to the American authorities and bring about her arrest and disgrace.

A miserable end, now, not only to her great resolves of that morning, but to any possible rehabilitation with Gerry Hull! For if that morning she had dreamed of meeting him, now this night a thousand times intensified she thought of him again and again—constantly, it seemed. And yet she would not have taken back a word of those which had angered him and turned him away.

She got up at last and went down alone to dinner, and, when nothing more happened, she returned to her own room where, after again and more carefully going over all Cynthia Gail's things, she took plain paper and an envelope and wrote a short note to Sam Hilton informing him that most important personal matters suddenly had come up which forced her at once to give up her position with him; she wrote the landlady at her boarding house that she suddenly had been called home and would either return or send for her trunk later. She mailed these herself and went to bed.

The next morning she bought a small typewriter, of the sort which one can carry traveling, and took up Cynthia Gail's correspondence. Neither the mail of that day nor the telephone presented to her any difficult problem, and she had no new callers. Indeed, except for Hubert Lennon, who "looked by"—as he spoke of it—just before noon, she encountered no one who had anything to say to her until, walking out early in the afternoon, she met upon the street the woman in gray who had given her the order about Capt. Forraker on yesterday afternoon.

Ruth went a little weak with fright when the woman caught step beside her, but the woman by her tone at once surprised her with reassurance.

"Gerry Hull returns to France from here," the woman informed her, abruptly. "He will be transferred to the American air service there; he will sail from New York probably on the Ribot next week. That is a passenger vessel; carrying cargo, of course, but not yet used for troop shipments. Passengers proceed as individuals. You will probably be allowed a certain amount of choice in selecting your ship. So you shall report at New York and endeavor to secure passage upon the Ribot. Understand?"

"Perfectly," Ruth said.

"You did right in taking no risk in regard to Capt. Forraker yesterday," the woman continued. "Your friendship with Gerry Hull may be invaluable in France. Do nothing to jeopardize it! You have done, with him, well! But you are in too much danger here; so east tonight; wait there."

The woman went away. How much did she know about what had passed with Gerry Hull, Ruth wondered. She had seen, probably, that Ruth was with him again in the conservatory after his speech and that they had stayed there a long time together. She had done, with him, well! She smiled woefully to herself; at least it seemed to have aided her that the German thought so.

It would have puzzled her more, certainly, if she had known that after the time when Gerry Hull and she forgot to whisper and forgot, indeed, every one but themselves, the woman had heard almost every word which was said, and that the woman's opinion of the girl who was playing the part of Cynthia Gail was that she was a most satisfactory clever one to know enough and dare enough to take single and violent opposition to Gerry Hull. For the Germans, in preparation for this war, had made a most elaborate and detailed study of psychology of individuals and of nations. That study of nations has not shown conspicuously successful results, but their determination of factors which will influence individuals is said to have fared far better.

Their instructions to a woman—or a girl—who is commanded to make an impression upon a man inform that a girl in dealing with a weak character progresses most certainly and fastest by agreeing and complying, but when one has to do with a man of strong character, opposition, and challenge to him bring the surest result.

Of course, that is not an exclusively German discovery, and to act in accordance with it one is not obliged to be truly a German spy and to know it from the tutorings of a German psychologist. Indeed, one does not have to know it at all; one need merely be a young girl, thoughtful and honest, as well as impulsive, and of quick but deep passions, who admires and cares so very much for a young man who has talked serious things with her, that she cannot just say yes to his yes and no to his no, but must try at once to work out the difference between them.

Not to know it is hard on that girl, particularly when she is setting out upon an adventure which at once cuts her off from every one whom she has known and could talk things over with.

Ruth had no one at all. She had to write to her own mother in Onarga, of course, and, after buying with cash an order for $2,000, she sent it to her mother with a letter saying that she had succeeded in getting a most wonderful sort of work which was taking her abroad. She was not yet free to discuss the details, but her mother must trust her and knew that she was doing a right and wise thing, and her mother must say nothing about it to any one at all. It might keep her away for two years or more, so the people who were paying her expenses had forwarded her this money for home. Ruth wished her mother to send for her clothes and her trunk from the boarding house and have them sent home; Ruth would not need them. And if any inquiry came for Ruth from Hilton Brothers or elsewhere, Ruth had gone east to take a position. There was no use writing her at the old addresses; she would send an address later.

She knew her mother, and she knew that her mother was sure enough of her so that she would do as asked and not worry too much.

So upon that same afternoon Ruth packed up Cynthia Gail's things, and she wrote to Cynthia Gail's parents and to Second Lieutenant George Byrne at Camp Grant, signing the name below the typewriting as Cynthia Gail had signed it upon her passport.

That passport was ceasing to be a mere possession and was soon to be put to use, so Ruth practiced long in signing the name. The description of Cynthia Gail as checked on the passport was faultless for herself; height, 5 feet 6½ inches; weight, 118 pounds; face, oval; eyes, blue; hair, yellow, and so with all the rest. The photograph of Cynthia Gail was pasted upon the passport and upon it was stamped the seal of the United States as well as a red ink stamping which went over the edge of the photograph upon the paper of the passport.

It was very possible, Ruth thought, that the German girl for whom this passport was intended would have removed that picture of Cynthia Gail and substituted one of herself; to do that required an embossed seal of the United States, besides the rubber stamp of the red ink. Ruth did not doubt that the German possessed replicas of these and also the skill to forge the substitution. But she possessed neither.

Moreover, the photograph of Cynthia Gail seemed to Ruth even more like herself than it had at first. Ruth did not believe that any one who knew Cynthia Gail recently could mistake her for Cynthia, but certainly one who saw only this picture of Cynthia Gail easily could believe it was Ruth. The difference was really more in expression than in the features themselves, and Ruth, consciously or unconsciously, had become more like that girl in the picture. She had also the identical dress in which the picture was taken. She determined to wear that when she presented the passport and risk the outcome. Her advantage so far had been that no one had particular reason to suspect her; she had fitted herself into the relations already arranged to take Cynthia Gail to France and they seemed capable, of their own momentum, to carry her on.

Hubert Lennon looked by again later in the afternoon and she asked him to tell his aunt that she was going away. He was much concerned and insistent upon doing what he could to aid her.

"Do you know when you'll be sailing?" he asked.

"I hope next week," she said.

"Could you possibly go on the Ribot?"

"Why on the Ribot?"

"Gerry Hull's just got word that he's to join again on the other side," Hubert said, "so he'll be going back next week on the Ribot, he thinks."

Ruth checked just in time a "Yes, I know."

"I'm going to try to get across with him," Hubert added. Ruth felt liking again for this young man who always put his friend before himself.

"That's good. I hope surely I can get on the Ribot."

"Aunt Emelie knows people in New York who'll help arrange it for you, if I ask 'em. You'll let me?"

"Please!" Ruth accepted eagerly. She wanted exceedingly to know one other thing, but she delayed asking and then made the query as casual as she could.

"Lady Agnes Ertyle stays in Chicago a while?"

Hubert colored as this question ended for him his pretense with himself that she wanted to be on the Ribot because of him.

"No, she's going when Gerry goes. She plans to be on the Ribot, too. They always intended to return at the same time."

"Of course," Ruth said. What wild fancies she followed!

Hubert went off, but returned to take her to the train. He brought with him letters from his aunt—credentials of Ruth as Cynthia Gail to powerful people whom Cynthia Gail did not know and who were asked to further her desires in every way.

Thus, at the end of seven days, Ruth Alden sailed for the first time away from her native land upon the Ribot for Bordeaux to become—in the reports of the American authorities who approved and passed her on—a worker in the devastated districts of France; to become, in whatever report the agents of Hohenzollernism in America made to their superiors, a dependable and resourceful spy for Germany; to become—in the resolution she reswore to herself and to the soul of Cynthia Gail and the prayers she prayed—an emissary, for her cause and her country into the land of the enemy who would know no mercy to such as herself.

There is a thrill upon awaking on your first morning on board a ship at sea which all the German U-boats under the ocean can scarcely increase and from which they certainly cannot detract. You may imagine all you please what it may be and it will amaze you with something more. Ruth Alden imagined, and her first forenoon on shipboard was simply crammed with surprises.

She had gone aboard from the New York quay at 9 the evening before, as she had been warned to do; she had looked into her cabin—a small, square, w[illegible] compartment, with two bunks, upper and lower, an unupholstered seat, a washbowl with a looking-glass beside the porthole, and with a sort of built-in bureau, with four drawers, above which was posted conspicuously the rules to be observed in emergencies. These were printed in French and English and [illegible] trated by drawings of exactly how to [illegible] the life preservers to be found [illegible] berths.

She was standing there at the rail, [illegible] up at the marvelous city, when Hubert [illegible] non found her. He merely wanted [illegible] sure she was aboard. Gerry Hull [illegible] Lescault—he was the French officer [illegible] spoken at Mrs. Corliss'—and Capt. [illegible] were aboard now. Lady Agnes [illegible] the English women with whom [illegible] also were aboard, Hubert said.

He was glad to find that Cynthia [illegible] right; but he said that a nasty [illegible] ning outside; the Ribot might go [illegible] time now. Hubert thought Cynthia [illegible] ter go to bed and get all the sleep [illegible] now.

Ruth went below, not with any [illegible] sleeping, but to avoid meeting [illegible] just yet. Ruth had been brought up, as a good American, to believe her country the greatest in the world, and implicitly she believed it. She recognized that sons and daughters of other nations likewise were reared to believe their native land the best and their people the noblest, but she had never been able to quite believe that they really could think so. They must make an exception, down deep in their own consciousness, for America, she was sure. However loyal they might be to their own institutions and to their own fellows, they must admire more the American ideals of freedom and democracy, and they must consider that the people who lived by and for those ideals were potentially at least the greatest.

It was a decidedly momentous experience, therefore, to hear her country discussed—not unfriendly at all, or even with prejudice, but by open minded foreigners trying to inform one another of the facts about America as they had found them. America was a huge but quite untried quantity. Its institutions and ideals seemed to them interesting, but on the whole not nearly so good as their own. Certainly there was no suggestion of their endowing Americans with superior battle abilities therfor. The nation indeed—that nation founded more than a hundred and forty years ago, and which was to Ruth the basis of all being—was to them simply an experiment yet of which no one could tell the outcome.

They did not say that, of course. They said nothing at all to which she could take the slightest exception. They simply brought to her the brevity and unconclusiveness of a century of independent existence in the perspective of a thousand; their national thought started not with 1776, but with the conquest, or even earlier, when the Roman legions abandoned Britain and King Arthur reigned.

When they spoke of their homes, as they did once, and Ruth found opportunity to inquire of one of them how long he had had his home in Sussex, he told her: "The present house goes back to 1582."

It rather made her gasp. No wonder that a man of a family which had occupied the "present" house since before the Pilgrims sailed looked upon America yet as an unproved venture.

"They're in it to the end now, I consider," this man commented later to his companion when they returned to the discussion of America and the war.

"Quite so, probably," the other said. "The south went to absolute exhaustion in their civil war."

"Absolutely," the Sussex man agreed. "North probably would have, too, if necessary."

They were estimating American will and endurance, not by pretty faiths and protestations, but by what Americans in their short history had actually shown.

"But this is a foreign war, of course," the colonel qualified the judgment dubiously.

The man whose "present" house went back to 1582 nodded thoughtfully.

Ruth received all this eagerly. It could not in the least shake her own confidence in her people, but it could help to make clear to her how Gerry Hull, having been brought up since he was a boy among such men and among such attitudes, had got the ideas that he had. And this morning, when she was certain to meet him, she wanted—O, she wanted to an incredible degree—to understand him more fully than before. He and Lady Agnes, she learned from a remark of Capt. Forraker's, had breakfasted earlier and had gone out on deck. Ruth had intended going on deck after breakfast, but now she changed her mind, and she went to the saloon, only to meet there immediately Gerry Hull and Lady Agnes as they came in from the cold.

They were laughing at something as they entered together. They plainly had been having an excellent time. Ruth saw them before either of them saw her, and her heart halted in the excitement of expectancy during the second before Gerry Hull's glance about the saloon saw her and recognized her. He nodded to her and looked at once to Lady Agnes, and Ruth got the feeling, as they both came toward her, that they had agreed together what to do when they happened upon her. Lady Agnes greeted her first cordially and with perfect recollection of her having been at Mrs. Corliss'. Upon this French ship bound for Europe the English girl was at home now as the Englishmen at the breakfast table had been; she felt herself, therefore, in a sense a hostess of Ruth.

"Only a little, last night," Ruth said.

"Come out on deck, then," he invited her. "Done for just now, Agnes?" he asked.

"Just right now," Agnes said. "But I know you're not. Go on!" she bid, smiling at him intimately as his eyes came to hers for an instant. Ruth saw it as she started to her cabin for her great coat. There had been some concern—not much, but some—in Agnes Ertyle's look that first time she found Gerry Hull and Ruth together; there was no suggestion of it now as she sent them out on deck.

"Hub's sick, poor chap," Gerry Hull told Ruth when she came out, and they set off side by side up the promenade deck against the cold, winter wind. "He wanted me to say that's why he couldn't look you up this morning."

Had Hub—her loyal, self-derogatory Hub—therefore asked his friend to give her this attention, Ruth wondered. Not that Gerry Hull gave himself in that fashion; he was altogether too much of a man for that. He got her to lock arms with him, bracing her against the gusts which sometimes almost threatened to sweep them from their feet. He laughed merrily with her when the spray overswept them, and he talked to her whenever they got in the lee of some shelter and stood gazing out at the sea. But all he talked about—all he cared now to talk about to her—was of the guns forward and aft which they had explored together; of the destroyer which they passed on watch upon the "lane" in which they were running; of the cruiser which kept abreast them for quite a while, and of other things like that. Quite a good deal, perhaps, and quite vital things for Gerry Hull to talk about with a shipmate whom he had met only once before; but on that time before they had talked of quite different matters!

Ruth could not force herself to try to bring him back to those closer matters which he had laid before her and upon which she had offended him. If she did not care about him she might have made herself do so, and have succeeded in explaining things better to him somehow. But she was caring too much for Gerry Hull—altogether too much, she warned herself each night and each morning as day followed day with her almost every hour in some sort of association with him, beginning usually at the breakfast table; then a score of encounters on the decks, in the lounge or in the writing rooms, during the morning; luncheon at the same table; then the afternoon, as the morning, would be made up of hours when she would be sitting in the warm, bright saloon with her French war study book before her and she would be carefully rehearsing "masque respirateur—respirator; lunettes—goggles; nauge de gaz—gas fumes; linge du réseau des armées—railway lines within the operation zone," when she would hear his quick, impulsive step or his clear, pleasant voice speaking to some one, and Ruth would get "combat animé" and "combat decousu" hopelessly mixed up.

She would go out to walk the deck again with Hubert, who was apologetically up and about when the seas were smoother, or with Capt. Lescault or Capt. Forraker, or with "1582" (as she called to herself the Sussex officer, and once almost called him that aloud) when she would come around the corner of a cabin and almost run into Agnes Ertyle and Gerry Hull going about the deck in the other direction; or she would pass them, seated close together, and with Lady Agnes all bundled up in steamer rugs, and Ruth would see them suddenly stop talking when she and her escort came close and they would look away at the sea as though they had been just looking at the water all the time.

Or—and these delights were the most difficult of all—he would come into the lounge and, when she heard his voice, he would not be speaking to some one else, but to her and he would sit down beside her and talk. But they wouldn't say anything; or he would take her out around and around the deck and she'd never get tired with him holding her steady against the wind—that is, she'd walk glowing, exhilarating, spray splattered miles with him and not know she was tired at all until she'd get back to her cabin, where she'd lie down all limp and realise that she'd shared again with him just the wind and weather.

O, there was nothing to that! And, with each throb of those ceaseless engines thrusting them ever nearer and nearer to France, the moment when she had attracted him—that moment when the enigma of his country and his effort to understand his own people had brought him so quickly close to her—was passing. Her place in his real thoughts was becoming smaller, as was the importance of her people, while the land to which he was returning and those other peoples with whom he had labored and fought there loomed larger and larger. Each day that they drew nearer to his duty there altered him to Ruth; he did not become consciously more serious as Ruth felt herself becoming as now they approached the zone of constant danger. He became, indeed, livelier and lighter hearted when at the table or in the saloon with a group of people, but he spent a greater part of the rest of his time with Agnes Ertyle or by himself.

One afternoon the wireless, happening to be tuned to catch the wave length of messages sweeping over the seas from some powerful sending station in Germany, picked up the enemy's boasts for the day, and among them was the announcement that the famous American "ace," Sergeant Pilot Paul Crosby, had been shot down and killed by a German flier on the Lorraine front. It chanced that Gerry Hull and Agnes Ertyle were in the main saloon near where Ruth also was when some busybody, who had heard this news, brought it to Gerry Hull and asked him if he had known Paul Crosby.

Ruth knew that Gerry Hull and Paul Crosby had joined the French flying forces together; they had flown in the same escadrille for more than a year. She did not turn about, as others were doing, to watch Gerry Hull when he got this news, but she could not help hearing his simple and quiet reply, which brought tears to her eyes as no sob or protestation of grief could; and she could not help seeing him as he passed before her on his way out alone to the deck.

She dreamed that night about being torpedoed; in the dream, the boat was the Ribot, and upon the vessel there were—as almost always there are in dreams—a perfectly impossible company. Besides those who actually were on board, there was Sam Hilton and Lieut. George Byrne and "Aunt Emilie" and Aunt Cynthia Gifford Grange and the woman in gray and a great many others—so many, indeed, that there were not boats enough on the Ribot to take off all the company as the ship sank. So Gerry Hull, after putting Lady Agnes Ertyle in a boat and kissing her good-by, himself stepped back to go down with the ship, and so, when all the boats were gone, he found Ruth beside him, for she had known that he would not try to save himself and she had hidden to stay with him. His arms were about her as the water rose to them and—she awoke.

Their U-boat really came; but with results disconcertingly different. January, 1918—if you can remember clearly back to days so strange and distant—was a month when America was sending across men by tens rather than by hundreds of thousands and convoying them very, very carefully; there were not so many destroyers as soon there were; the U-boats had not yet raided far out into the Atlantic—so fast and well armed ships like the Ribot, which were not transports, were allowed to proceed a certain part of the way across unconvoyed, keeping merely to certain "lanes" on courses prescribed by wireless.

The Ribot, Ruth knew, was on one of these lanes and pretty soon would probably be "picked up" by the destroyers and shepherded by them into a convoy for passage through the zone of greatest danger. In fact, Ruth and Milicent Wetherell, who also had awakened early upon this particular morning, were looking out of their port over a gray and misty sea to discover whether they might have been picked up during the night and now were in a convoy. But they saw no sign of any other vessel, though the mist, which was patchy and floating low, let them look a mile or more away. There was no smoke in sight—nothing but gray clouds and the frayed fog and the sea swelling oilily up and slipping down against the side of the ship.

Then, about a hundred yards away from the side and rather far forward, a spout of spray squirted suddenly straight up into the air. It showered over toward the ship and splashed down.

"That's a shot," Ruth said, "at us."

The SPLENDID CHANCE

CONCLUSION.

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT.

MAC NARE saw that the girl Katherine was gone. It was a woman, steady eyed and quiet lipped, that smiled at him, and his heart ached for that gay lost creature with her eyes of joy. If only he could see her face light again in the old way, see her lips pucker in their saucy young laughter! But the world was replete with the destruction of precious things, and this girl's lightness of heart had gone with the rest.

It was one thing more out of his life, that was all—and the last. The first flush of his youth had been squandered on a waster. Then he had shut himself away from love, and a child had taken the place in his life of all that affection might mean to other men. But love was not a matter of decision. It had taken him by surprise, invaded him like a rush of spring. He had had his brief dream—a dream of folly. His heart still knew the pang of that moment when he had glimpsed Katherine on the brow of the hill, her arm in Jeffrey's.

So had gone love, with the dumb show of friendship remaining. Then had gone the child, torn out of his life in a bloody nightmare of horror. Now the last use of friendship was nearly over.

"And in France?" he heard himself asking.

"Work again., Nursing. Yes, and I want to paint again, strong things, terrible things even, that people may see and know. That may be my way of helping."

After a silence she added, "And you?"

"I have some work, too," he said slowly. "One last thing to do—also that people may see and understand. That will occupy me for some little time."

Mme. Bonnet was back in the building with Marie and her baby and the two children. Jean was a prisoner, and Marie was alternately depressed and thankful that he was not in the trenches. Henri was yet safe. That was the news.

Whatever astonishment the good madame experienced at beholding her two lodgers return together she did not express. MacNare she comprehended and regarded with dumb headshakings and pitying eyes; Katherine she studied wonderingly in the days which followed.

"She is a brave girl," she ventured to observe to MacNare one morning, presenting herself upon some excuse in the studio, where he was now eternally engrossed in a huge lump of clay. "Look, now, what she is doing—every other day to the hospitals to relieve the regular nurses, cleaning, bathing, bandaging—such work as no young girl should have to do!—and between times at her easel, or trudging from hospital to refugees to find the picture that she must paint—O, she is a brave, a noble girl, monsieur!"

"She is helping herself in helping others," said MacNare shortly.

"It is not for that that she does it!"

"You mistake me. I comprehend her motives. It is their very disinterestedness that is helping her."

Madame was silent, dusting the ashes from a chair as an excuse for lingering. She gave MacNare a stealthily appraising look.

It was to Katherine that the good woman offered her next remarks. Entering the kitchen in her own quarters one noon some few days later, she chanced to find her young lodger there talking with Marie and the baby, and she promptly sent Marie on an errand and addressed herself to some understanding of this strange American.

"Marie needs the air," she remarked to her. "You will not mind holding the baby, mademoiselle, while I complete this soup? It is for monsieur. If I did not bring him a hot dish he would forget to eat, that poor man."

Katherine was cuddling the tiny girl. There being an American rocking chair in the kitchen, she rocked blissfully, the little body warm against her, the fuzzy head on her arm. It gave her a tender feeling to hold the baby, and yet it hurt—cruelly. For there would be no little children of her own to hold, no little sons with Jeffrey's eyes, no little daughters. She bowed her head over the baby, swinging slowly to and fro.

"Mademoiselle, that man should not be so much alone," said madame thoughtfully, nodding her head to indicate the sculptor in the front of the house. "I do what I can—but it is not much. And you, of course, are busy. I am troubled for him."

"I know," Katherine sighed. "But he is working hard, and isn't that the best thing for him?"

"Do you imagine that he forgets? I do not know what he is making in there, but sometimes his face is the face of ten devils. Remember that she was all he had—and they blew her head off her body!"

"He must not be so alone," madame was repeating insistently.

"I don't mean to leave him alone," Katherine returned. "I want to do everything I can—he was so good to me in England, you don't know how good! But I don't think he cares for much companionship now. I felt I mustn't intrude upon him."

"For you that would be an impossibility."

Katherine looked doubtful. "I presume much now upon our friendship——"

"It is more than as a friend that he regards you, my child."

Over the baby's head Katherine raised warning eyes to her. "You must not say such things, dear madame."

"Not say them? Is a true devotion, then, only accepted—but never acknowledged?"

A faint color found its way into the girl's cheeks. "You must not mistake the great kindness of Monsieur MacNare."

"Kind he is, with a heart of gold—but it is not I who misunderstand," said madame calmly. "Monsieur worships the very ground upon which you walk. You brought spring when you came to this house—and I saw that Monsieur MacNare remembered that he was young, and I was glad for him. For I thought that when mademoiselle knew him—and she was so friendly with him that I dreamed. And then, fool that I was! I sent him to Les Buissons."

"You sent him?"

"I told him that you were there, that you did not regard him as a grandfather with a wooden leg! He was young and a man of genius. He had means. Why not? I did not know then that mademoiselle had met her man. And monsieur went off like a boy to make a little holiday with you, perhaps to let you look into his heart."

Eying her changing face, "St. Anne of Miracles, but she did not know!" thought madame amazedly. "He has never let her see—not even in England. He is mad, that young man! And she—did not her poor young Englishman—God rest his soul!—teach her what stuff men's hearts are made of?"

"I am so sorry," said a sober little voice over the baby's head. "I would not have hurt him for anything."

"It was not you, mademoiselle; it was destiny."

Katherine's perceptions, at last aroused, were running on swiftly. If this was true—why, this, then, was the secret of his gentleness to her, his patient tenderness in her grief. She remembered the night of her desolate return to the studio. She remembered the gray crossing to England. She remembered the long days at the Cotswolds.

"Mademoiselle must not regret that I have mentioned this," said the older woman a little anxiously. "I but spoke of it to show that it would be impossible for you to presume, as you said, upon his feeling for you. There is nothing that you can do that would be displeasing to him. And now that he is alone and fairly ill with grief, you can do much for him."

"I will do everything I can," said the girl with a simple readiness that managed to depress poor madame's hopes. "If my companionship can help I am only too glad to give it. He is my dear friend. And whatever he thought in the beginning, madame, and that Sunday at Les Buissons, that is now long past."

She looked up at the Frenchwoman with a faint, wistful smile. "We are two different creatures now, he and I, and it is our sorrow that is a bond between us. I think that no two people could be so empty of desire."

That was the pity of it, thought madame, incurable builder that she was.

There was nothing now to be said. Her two dear mad Americans had their own arrangement of affairs.

But the conversation had touched Katherine's heart to a deepened understanding of that strange friend of hers. She thought it pitiful that after his first tragedy and his odd, hermit years he should have found fresh hope again, only to be disappointed. But it was all very far away now. And the Katherine that he had desired was left back there in the woods at Les Buissons. For this sadder Katherine who h[illegible]aken her place he had infinite compassion and friendliness—but of course no desire. And grief for a murdered child does not leave a man's heart space for the love of women.

So the girl thought, quite innocently pigeonholing MacNare's sorry romance among the things that were, and permitting it only a tender memory in her thoughts. But for compunction at her past blindness and the pain that she had unconsciously caused him to suffer in the days of her own happiness she redoubled the frank friendliness of her ways to him, and in the long evening hours that art could not fill for him, and the emptiness of the dinner time, she tried to make him forget that little figure that had trotted so quietly about the studio, the little face with its great dark eyes that had watched him across so many dinner tables.

She felt that it was good that he was working hard at that new model of his. She herself had begun to understand now something of the uses of her creative power. She was filling canvas after canvas with those wan faces at the hospitals, with the dazed horrors of the Belgian refugees, the piteous faces of wives whose husbands had been bayoneted before them, of mothers whose daughters had been torn from them, whose sons had been shot. If only her power of painting could keep some sort of pace with her passionate sorrow for these people—if only she could do them the poor service of winning one jot of the world's compassion!

Christmas came with a sober pealing of bells, with music and candles and high masses in the cathedrals, where the women prayed, with flowers and fruit for the hospitals and many, many gifts for the trenches, so many of them pathetically undelivered.

Next day there came a leter from Dick Conrad, grumbling at her lack of communicativeness and at his weakness in writing her again.

"Somehow I can't picture you," he wrote, "going about in a uniform distributing beef tea and pale pink pills. Do you wear a cap? Your mother says you are just substituting now. Does that mean reading aloud to handsome convalescents?"

The jocoseness grated upon her sympathies, so freshly vibrating from the day's demands. Then she smiled. Good old Dick! That was his way of putting things, of hiding his feelings under a display of humor. She read on:

"We are all fed up on the war over here, and the governor is something fierce about it, let me tell you! No 'ma patrie' and 'dear old England' here. The Conrads are strong for the fatherland, believe me.

"However, the country is doing something else besides knit and read the headlines. There are some quite entertaining new steps, and you had better come home and learn them. The debutantes have got us all trotting till dawn. Never saw such a set of lively youngsters; always up to the day ahead of tomorrow stuff. If you get this far you might sit down and write an old friend a line, just to say that you haven't eloped with any parlez-vous or vodka gentleman to date. Is the painting all off? Or do you still thirst for fame? As ever, DICK."

"And the moral of that," murmured Katherine as she laid the letter down, "is that absence makes the heart grow fonder, and he hasn't quite decided on his debutante yet, and will give his old love another chance."

It did not seem to her quite possible that once she had seriously considered Dick Conrad. With all their background of environment they were as far apart as the poles. What different roads they had traveled! She wondered, letting the dusk gain upon her as she sat there with her thoughts, if she could wish herself never to have taken that steamer, never to have met Jeffrey, never to have lived those awful days.

But she could not wish that time unlived. Her memories were priceless.

Her own grief, that had been so strange at first, had grown an intimate. It seemed natural now for that secret heaviness to lie upon her heart—the wonder was she had ever been different! Now she never looked or planned one week or month ahead. Everything that was dear was behind her; the present was a desperate effort to lose herself in work.

And though in the busy days she seemed more and more like her old self, though she was gallantly cheerful, quick of smile and speech, she never closed her eyes of nights without remembering those other eyes that would never open again—the strange, cold waxen lids her fingers had touched so unbelievingly. And those cold lips. That still heart that she had felt leap and quiver against her own in their young hour of love. Those were the memories that kept her company in the desolate, wakeful hours and dogged even her sleep with dreams.

But when Dick Conrad's letter slipped from her fingers and she sat there musing, she began, for the first time, to face something of the future. What was before her?

She shivered as she looked at those years ahead. Her painting, of course—but that was only a small part of life. Since the day of her betrothal she had known how small a part. And some spring of incentive was broken in her.

Definitely she had decided not to tell her family. Since Jeffrey's mother did not know, her own mother need not be saddened. Confidence would not help, for they had not known Jeffrey, had not come with her all this way. It would be easier to go on with life at home if no one knew and no worried eyes were watching her, saying, "Now, she must not brood," or "Now she is getting over it." No, she would never tell them. But what was she to do with her life?

Very slowly she folded Dick Conrad's letter and put it away. That way was not possible for her. She had put it behind her long ago, when she took the steamer for France. Then, Jeffrey had first seen her in Dick's arms. And now Dick was going on, dancing and making love, and Jeffrey was under the trees at Les Buissons.

Since the marble had come she had scarcely seen him. Sometimes he came out to eat, sometimes he sat through a dinner with her, but he sat silent and abstracted, his mind back in that studio, cutting and chiseling. Even a glimpse of his model he had refused her. She must wait for the finished thing, he said, pale as that would be to the thought that was trying to shape its likeness.

The glow of creation was upon him and he toiled like a giant upon his rock, spending his strength furiously, draining his already gaunt and haggard body. His worn appearance was troubling Katherine, and when she found that note under her door, asking to see her, her first thought was that he was ill. She listened and could hear no sound from below, where for so many, many evenings had come the march of his restless steps.

She was late that night, for she had stayed at the hospital at the deathbed of a man who held her for his wife and whispered his dying words into her ears, and she was sick and shaken, for the long months had worn her resistance to the snapping point. December, January, February—day by day each had passed. And so slowly that battle line was pressing the invader back from France, so slowly, foot by foot and yard by yard—and so many new faces in these beds—so many hobbling out, hurt and maimed!

Tonight she was in the grip of horror. And as she ran down the stairs again, her hat and coat untouched, she dreaded—what she might find in that room below.

There was no answer to her first knocking, and her fear sprang into clearer form. She remembered that casual revolver. Suppose that he had waited only to finish that work of his——?

Again she struck the door. Now there were sudden steps and the noise of a chair pushed back. The lock was turned, the door opened, and in the dim hall light she saw him standing there in his sculptor's blouse, his hair disheveled, his face flushed.

"I must have been asleep. I didn't hear you come in, though I'd been listening."

He snapped on the electricity and she stumbled into the room, a little weak in the reaction of her tired nerves.

"You're ill," he said, sharply, staring at her and blinking his heavy eyes owlishly in the sudden light. "You look like a ghost. Where have you been all this time?"

"At the hospital. A man was dying—he thought I was his wife and he kept clinging to me. O, it was too pitiful!" Suddenly she put her hands up to her face to hide its quivering, but the long strain had been too much and the big tears welled between her screening fingers. "I didn't mean—to act like this," she stammered, "but I can't stand any more—I can't—I can't!"

And then she flung back her head with a defiance characteristic of her old challenging

By Mary Hastings Bradley

[illegible] "D-don't m-mind me, please. If [illegible] I guess that I c-can help. I'll [illegible]"

He gave her a long look, then walked away with a glance at his great covered marble, standing where last summer the marble for the unfinished "Fountain of Life" had stood, and began puttering with his tools.

"You said you—wanted to see me," she reminded him.

"You're too tired. Another time."

"No, I couldn't sleep. I'd rather hear what it was."

A fire in the room had made it warm and she slipped out of her jacket, which weighed upon her, and lifted the hat from her tired head, running her ruffling fingers through the soft, light hair.

"I wish you wouldn't wear black," he told her, abruptly.

Over her shoulder she cast him a faint smile. "I shan't—any more. But you didn't send for me to tell me that? Are you ill?"

"Ill? Why, no. But I—I wanted to show you something. I wanted you to see—the first. But you are tired out now. It can wait."

"O, your work! I'm not too tired for that. It would rest me, Rob." For months now she had accepted his curt request to use his first name as he used hers, but she had shortened it to Rob in ever sensitive fear of reminding him of Peggy's "Robert."

"I'm not sure about that," he said, frowningly. "It's not very—restful."

But she saw that he was boyishly eager to show her, and she was touched. He looked as if he had been working for days and nights, snatching sleep when his driving energy would let him; he was unshaven, untidy, tousled. She made up her mind to make him come out for a walk with her next day. He was killing himself—and she had neglected him. But she had thought him happier at work.

"Come over here." He indicated the place. "There. Then shut your eyes. Now."

Excitement stirred in his voice. She shut her eyes, wishing she had more vitality that moment to meet the demand of his impatience for her first impression, then at his permission she opened her eyes again upon the finished work. The thing was like a shock. She did not need to summon strength to feign an interest; it took hold upon her with rude force.

Out from the great block of marble rose the triumphant war figure, conquering, imposing, a Mars of blood with a rhythm of lances, a rank of soldierly forms, of massy cannon in the rock behind him. Under him were the crushed creatures, the half guessed, shattered figures, the prostrate women, the dead men. He trod on upturned, sightless faces. Beneath one foot, clearly indicated from the rough mass of agony, lay the broken tender figure of a child.

Katherine looked and looked, and all that was artist and all that was woman in her felt the power of that conception—the brute force of the oncoming aggression, the poignancy of that slaughtered child. A lump came into her throat and her mouth worked.

"The Invader," said MacNare, grimly, behind her.

A rush of tears blinded her. They were tears for the man himself, for the artist whose individual agony had scourged his genius to this thing. She could not look at him just yet. She continued to face that figure of callous conquest.

And then she turned on him a look shining through her tears. "You've carved it there—for the world to see. O, if there are 'sermons in stones'——"

"You—you feel it?" He motioned toward the great marble, and there was the eager flush of achievement in his face.

"Too much," said Katherine, her wide eyes on it again, a surge of memories rising within her. "Too much," she echoed under her breath.

Abruptly he snapped off the lights, leaving them in darkness but for the waning firelight and the pale, wide squares of windows, and began fumbling on a littered table for candles and matches. "That's enough—you don't need any more horrors today. But I wanted you to see."

Her eyes followed him wistfully. "You're a great man, Mr. Surly Man. It must be a great feeling to make such thoughts come alive."

He shook his tousled head at the looming white mass. "That's not true to my thought. But I've done enough on it. I can't do more. And now that's done——"

He sat down and picked up a pipe, and she sank into a chair opposite him and surveyed him half whimsically, half worriedly.

"Have you lived on anything but coffee and tobacco?"

"Eh? I don't know—I dare say not. Good old [illegible] is always slipping around with some mess or other. I find them at the door when I don't let her in." He smiled faintly.

"She's a dear."

"Yes, yes—a brave woman."

A pause followed, full of brooding for her. She could not shake off the distress of the day and the culminating shock that his marble had made upon her. She asked: "What are you going to do now—with that?"

"O, that? Not much now. I'm leaving it with some old artist friends, and by and by I want it placed publicly—I'm making a gift of it to France."

"Leaving it—but why?"

He said, brusquely: "I'm going away."

"Away? Where?"

Somehow she had thought of him as fixture in his cavelike studio. Quick disquiet edged her gaze on him.

"To the front. Where else?"

"Enlist?"

"Naturally."

So he had intended this always. And he had accepted every day because he meant this in the end. But his genius had intervened, had held him for one last message to the world.

She said, her voice shaking unaccountably: "You know that you aren't in condition—You aren't half strong enough. Those trenches——"

"It is not to be a contest of physique," he remarked, with his old crispness. Under his dark brows his burning eyes turned sharply on her. "Don't worry. I'm not going to shake out with ague in a trench. I'll get to them before that, and when I do—God help them!"

Sudden, savage exultation leaped in his grim face. A shocked impression went through her; she shivered and raised a hand in startled protest. "Don't! It's——"

"Well?"

"It's too terrible," she finished, weakly. His smile was sardonic. She knew what he was remembering now. That dead child in the room above. And this was what he meant to do about it—what he had always meant. His clenched hand was tightening till the knuckles whitened as if he had his strong fingers curling about some enemy's throat—those subtle, sensitive fingers of his which could make clay a living thing and chisel beauty from the bare rock.

She flashed at him: "You mean not to come back!"

"Naturally," he said, coolly, "but when I go I'll take a few of them along with me—remember that!"

"It's terrible!" she said again, with gathering spirit. "For you deliberately to plan to die—and die killing——"

"You must live, I tell you!"

"Why?"

Fixed and brightly dark, his haggard eyes held hers in irony.

"For—your future—your works—your friends. What you are planning is suicide."

"Live? For my work? My friends?" He leaned forward, his hands knotted, his face upturned to hers. "Let me tell you. Have you any idea what my life is that you are asking me to go on with? Listen. You remember that I spoke to you once of my marriage. But you have no idea—you have no idea what I went through. I married a beauty. I worshiped beauty. I knew nothing of women. I had been a sort of hermit in my young enthusiasm for work, even here in my student days in Paris. I was full of the most blinded idealisms. In my infatuation with that woman I took for granted that beauty of form meant beauty of feeling—I took every refinement, every sincerity, every delicacy as innate. In six months I was sickened to the core. And I did not know then—I did not even comprehend that it was possible for her to betray me. That came later."

He waited a moment, his eyes unwavering upon the girl's shocked face. "You thought there was another man, perhaps? There were half a dozen. Now perhaps you can imagine. But Peg was mine, and when I saw the child would not keep her clean I divorced her. The last man married her. He knew of no former rivals—perhaps he has kept himself from later ones. They prosper, I believe. You need not flinch—it means nothing to me, nothing, except bitterness for my folly, for the other waste."

His head dropped lower, his black brows drew together as if he were contemplating the ghost of those old years. Katherine stood motionless, her hand upon the back of her chair, her eyes on his dark head.

He resumed, "You can imagine that after that I did not care for women! No, nor for any one much. There were some few men here, but I did not care to see them often. Peg and I got along very well. I—I adored the little thing. But a child cannot be a man's life. Perhaps it can a woman's—I do not know."

He raised his head suddenly and flung her a questioning glance, then his head dropped. "I used to feel starved—and hungry—hungry. I did not know for what. But I went out of my way to avoid a pretty girl. And then you came. And from the first I dreaded you. You were another to avoid. But that night that you saved Peg—I had to go to you—and afterwards you were so gay and so friendly I could not keep away—and then——"

He gave a queer little sound that was like a sick man's groan. "What a blind fool I was! You do not know what I hoped! After Les Buissons—I stayed away till I could face you like a man."

"O, I am sorry——"

He brushed away her little whispering cry as if it teased him.

"You need not be—I am not—not now. But I want you to understand. I want you to know what my love for you meant—hopeless as it was. I gave you everything, everything that I was or could be. I made myself your friend. You went to Les Buissons, and that bomb fell. It destroyed the only thing in the world that was my own. I went mad that night. I go mad when I think of it now. At the last I remember standing with my gun at my forehead—then I thought of you. I wanted to wait to hear that you were safe. After that I would—not kill myself, but sell my life—sell it dearly. But it was long waiting. At last I heard your poor, limping steps on the stairs."

His tone involuntarily softened, and he paused, as if thinking of that night. She was thinking of it, too, of his silent tenderness, of the kind hand to which she had clung in her whispered outpourings.

In a low voice he said, "I forgot myself in my pity for you. You do not know how gladly I would have died—have died in torture—to give you back your heart's desire. And yet I was almost happy that I could take care of you. It was bitter to take you to London, to his mother. I—I knew that you would feed all your youth to her, if you could, and I wanted you to begin again—to go on—not back. That was why I was not sorry that you did not tell her and I took you to the Cotswolds, away from the sights of war. It is always good to feel the earth again underfoot and the free heavens above. One gets to know oneself."

"O, you were good, you were so good!" she cried in a rush of memory.

"Good? My dear, I was adoring you. I was utterly happy. We seemed alone in the world. But I was not a fool of hope. I had no dreams. I lived in the present. Then you found yourself, and found yourself strong to go on. We came back, and I had one thing more to do. Now that is done. And in all my life there is not one thing to hold me. I have finished. And I tell you all this that you may understand completely and spare yourself any pity of compassion or the rest."

"Not—one—thing?" she said, slowly.

He looked very steadily at her and in his eyes she saw the man's long acquaintance with denial. She saw there, too, the softening tenderness for her that was like the look in those other eyes. She flinched at the stab of memory and cried a little wildly, "But you mustn't go, you mustn't! Think how I should feel, should wait for a word of you! O, it would be too cruel! And if anything happened—as you mean it to happen——"

"I tell you you are not to be sorry. What should I go on for?" His words were curt, his tone hard. "Do not think," he added, quickly, "that I've told you this to hurt you or to beg of you! I am not such a fool! I beg your pardon, my dear," he added, a little huskily, "but you—you mustn't expect me—to go on—forever. I—really think I—can be spared—better than anyone else I know."

His head dropped forward on his hands; his big shoulders, hunched and sagging, had the look in the dusk of some crouched and wounded thing.

She took a quick step toward him, one trembling hand outstretched as if she would touch him, her lips trying to form some words of [illegible]. But she could not speak, so much now hung upon each word. Pity was hot in her, urging her to fling herself at his side, to comfort, to murmur kind things. But of what use was such weak kindness? A sop to her feelings—a drain upon his! Always she had taken from him, taken, taken unwittingly hurting and tantalizing, blind utterly to his deep and secret hungers.

But what now could she give him?

Something cold seemed to pass through her very heart. Her eyes, dark and dilated with dread started over his bowed head, seeing their old vision of Jeffrey, erect and soldierly, that smile in his blue eyes. She could feel his dead face against her breast. She was his. How could she tear herself from those memories, even in the urge of divinest pity for another?

In that moment of intense luminous perception the possibilities of life flashed before her. She had begun to know herself; in the very agony of her suffering had been revealed her own poignant capacities for life. From this very passion for life, this longing for the height and depth of human experience, had sprung the bitterest of her pangs of denial. The world before her would be one war of cross purposes. Would she grow disheartened and tired of her lonely ways? Would she yield to some lesser impulse——

In all her life there did not seem to her anything so worthy the doing as to help—to heal. To this the war had brought her. And there was no one so needing her healing as this solitary man before her, whom life had hurt so cruelly. But could she do it? Could she go to him?

Tonight, perhaps, it would not be hard, with this surge of compassion strong in her, but tomorrow—and all the morrows? He knew her sorrow, but where she had drawn comfort from him before now she must hide the need of it. She must give much—or her compassion would be useless. There must be silence and courage. In all the world, perhaps, there was no one to whom she could come so close to loving—but it was not a bridal gladness that filled her brooding eyes and touched her tender heart.

These thoughts streamed through her as one thought, and she lived the years in the moments in which she stood motionless, her arm half raised, her lips parted over the words that did not come.

As if he had heard he raised his head suddenly and saw her there, poised in the firelight, emotion brimming her eyes, quivering her lips. A flicker of pain twisted across his set face. He knew a sudden savage impulse to jump up and crush her to him, to feel her soft weight in his arms, her face against his lips. It seemed to him that every frustration that his life had known was in the denial of that wild longing.

Unsteadily, he smiled and shook his head at her. "Not your pity, my dear—not your pity. It's no use. I want—so much more than you can ever give."

As if that refusal were the spring that could stir her, she flashed across the firelight to the shadows at his side and knelt beside him, her hands clasping his.

"You don't know—how much I want to give. How much there is to give," she whispered, chokingly. "Of all people in the world I—I could begin again with you."

She felt a heavy hand, like a vise, upon her shoulders. She heard the sharply indrawn breath stir the heavy chest. "Do you—do you know—what you are—meaning?"

"I do—indeed I do! I want to make it up to you—for all that life has done. I want you to make up to me. I couldn't lose you now. We've borne enough of hurts. But don't go out to fight with that hate in your heart! Not—not yet—not till they need you! Not until you are strong again. We'll help, we'll spend our lives in helping, but let it be now for the little children, the homeless ones — for Peggy's sake. O, you'll stay? You'll stay with me for a while?"

The man's hand on her shoulder trembled. His heart was beating as if it would break. Incredulous of happiness, his dark eyes, so wistful, so hungry, searched her upturned face.

"With—you?" he said, huskily, and then with a little broken sound that was half a sob he bent and drew her close to him, her face against his breast, his cheek on her bright hair.

THE END.

THE TEENIE WEENIES.

THE DUNCE PULLS A TOOTH.

BY WM. DONAHEY.

"OH, whillikers! Jimminie fishooks, ouch!" yelled the Dunce as he ran into the sitting room of the shoe house.

"Now what's the matter?" asked the General.

"I-I-I-I've got the t-t-t-toothache!" wailed the Dunce, holding his hand over his jaw and dancing about on one foot.

"Well, find the Doctor and get attended to," said the General.

The Dunce found the Doctor, and after he had carefully examined the aching tooth he told the Dunce it would have to be pulled.

"What!" shouted the Dunce. "Jimminie Christmas! I-I-I-I'd rather have the t-t-t-toothache."

"All right, just as you like," said the Doctor.

"Can't you put something on it to make it quit aching?" asked the Dunce.

"That tooth is in very bad condition," said the Doctor, "and the only way to stop it for once and all is to pull it."

"All right, s-s-s-sir," groaned the Dunce, p-p-p-pull it out."

The Doctor got out a tiny pair of forceps and a glass of water. He then had the Dunce sit in one of the easy chairs and told him to open his mouth.

"S-s-s-say, Doc," stuttered the frightened Dunce, "i-i-i-is it gonna hurt m-m-m-much?"

"Yes, it will hurt a little."

"S-s-s-say, Doc, c-c-c-couldn't I pull it myself?"

"I suppose you could," answered the Doctor. "You could tie a thread to it with the other end fixed to a stone and then get up on something high and drop the stone That would certainly pull it out."

"That's w-w-w-what I'm gonna do," and the Dunce jumped out of the chair and disappeared through the doorway.

The Dunce hunted up Gogo and asked that little fellow's advice about pulling the aching tooth.

"Dere's a fine place over the hill just back of the house," said the little black Teenie Weenie. "Dere's a berry basket and you can done climb up on dat, tie on de stone, and out comes dat toof like a cork out of a bottle."

The two little fellows secured a piece of strong silk thread and, followed by a number of the Teenie Weenies, they hurried to the basket back of the house.

The Dunce and Gogo chose a peach seed for the weight to tie on to the end of the thread and after boosting it up onto the basket they climbed up themselves. The thread was fixed tightly to the peach seed and the other end was tied to the offending tooth

"Now, all you got to do is to give dat peach seed a kick and out comes dat toof," said Gogo.

"C-c-c-crickets!" moaned the Dunce. "I-I-I-I got a kind of sick feelin' in my s-s-s-stomach I think I'll wait awhile."

For full half an hour the Dunce stood trembling on the edge of the basket, while Gogo and the Doctor argued with the foolish fellow to kick off the seed and have it all over.

While the Dunce was talking to the Doctor, Gogo suddenly kicked the seed off the basket and the tooth was jerked out of the Dunce's mouth before he really knew what happened.

"Oh, whillikers! Jimminie crickets! Hallelujah!" shouted the Dunce, dancing up and down with joy, when he realized that the tooth was out. "It's out, it's out!" Hallelujah, hallelujah!"

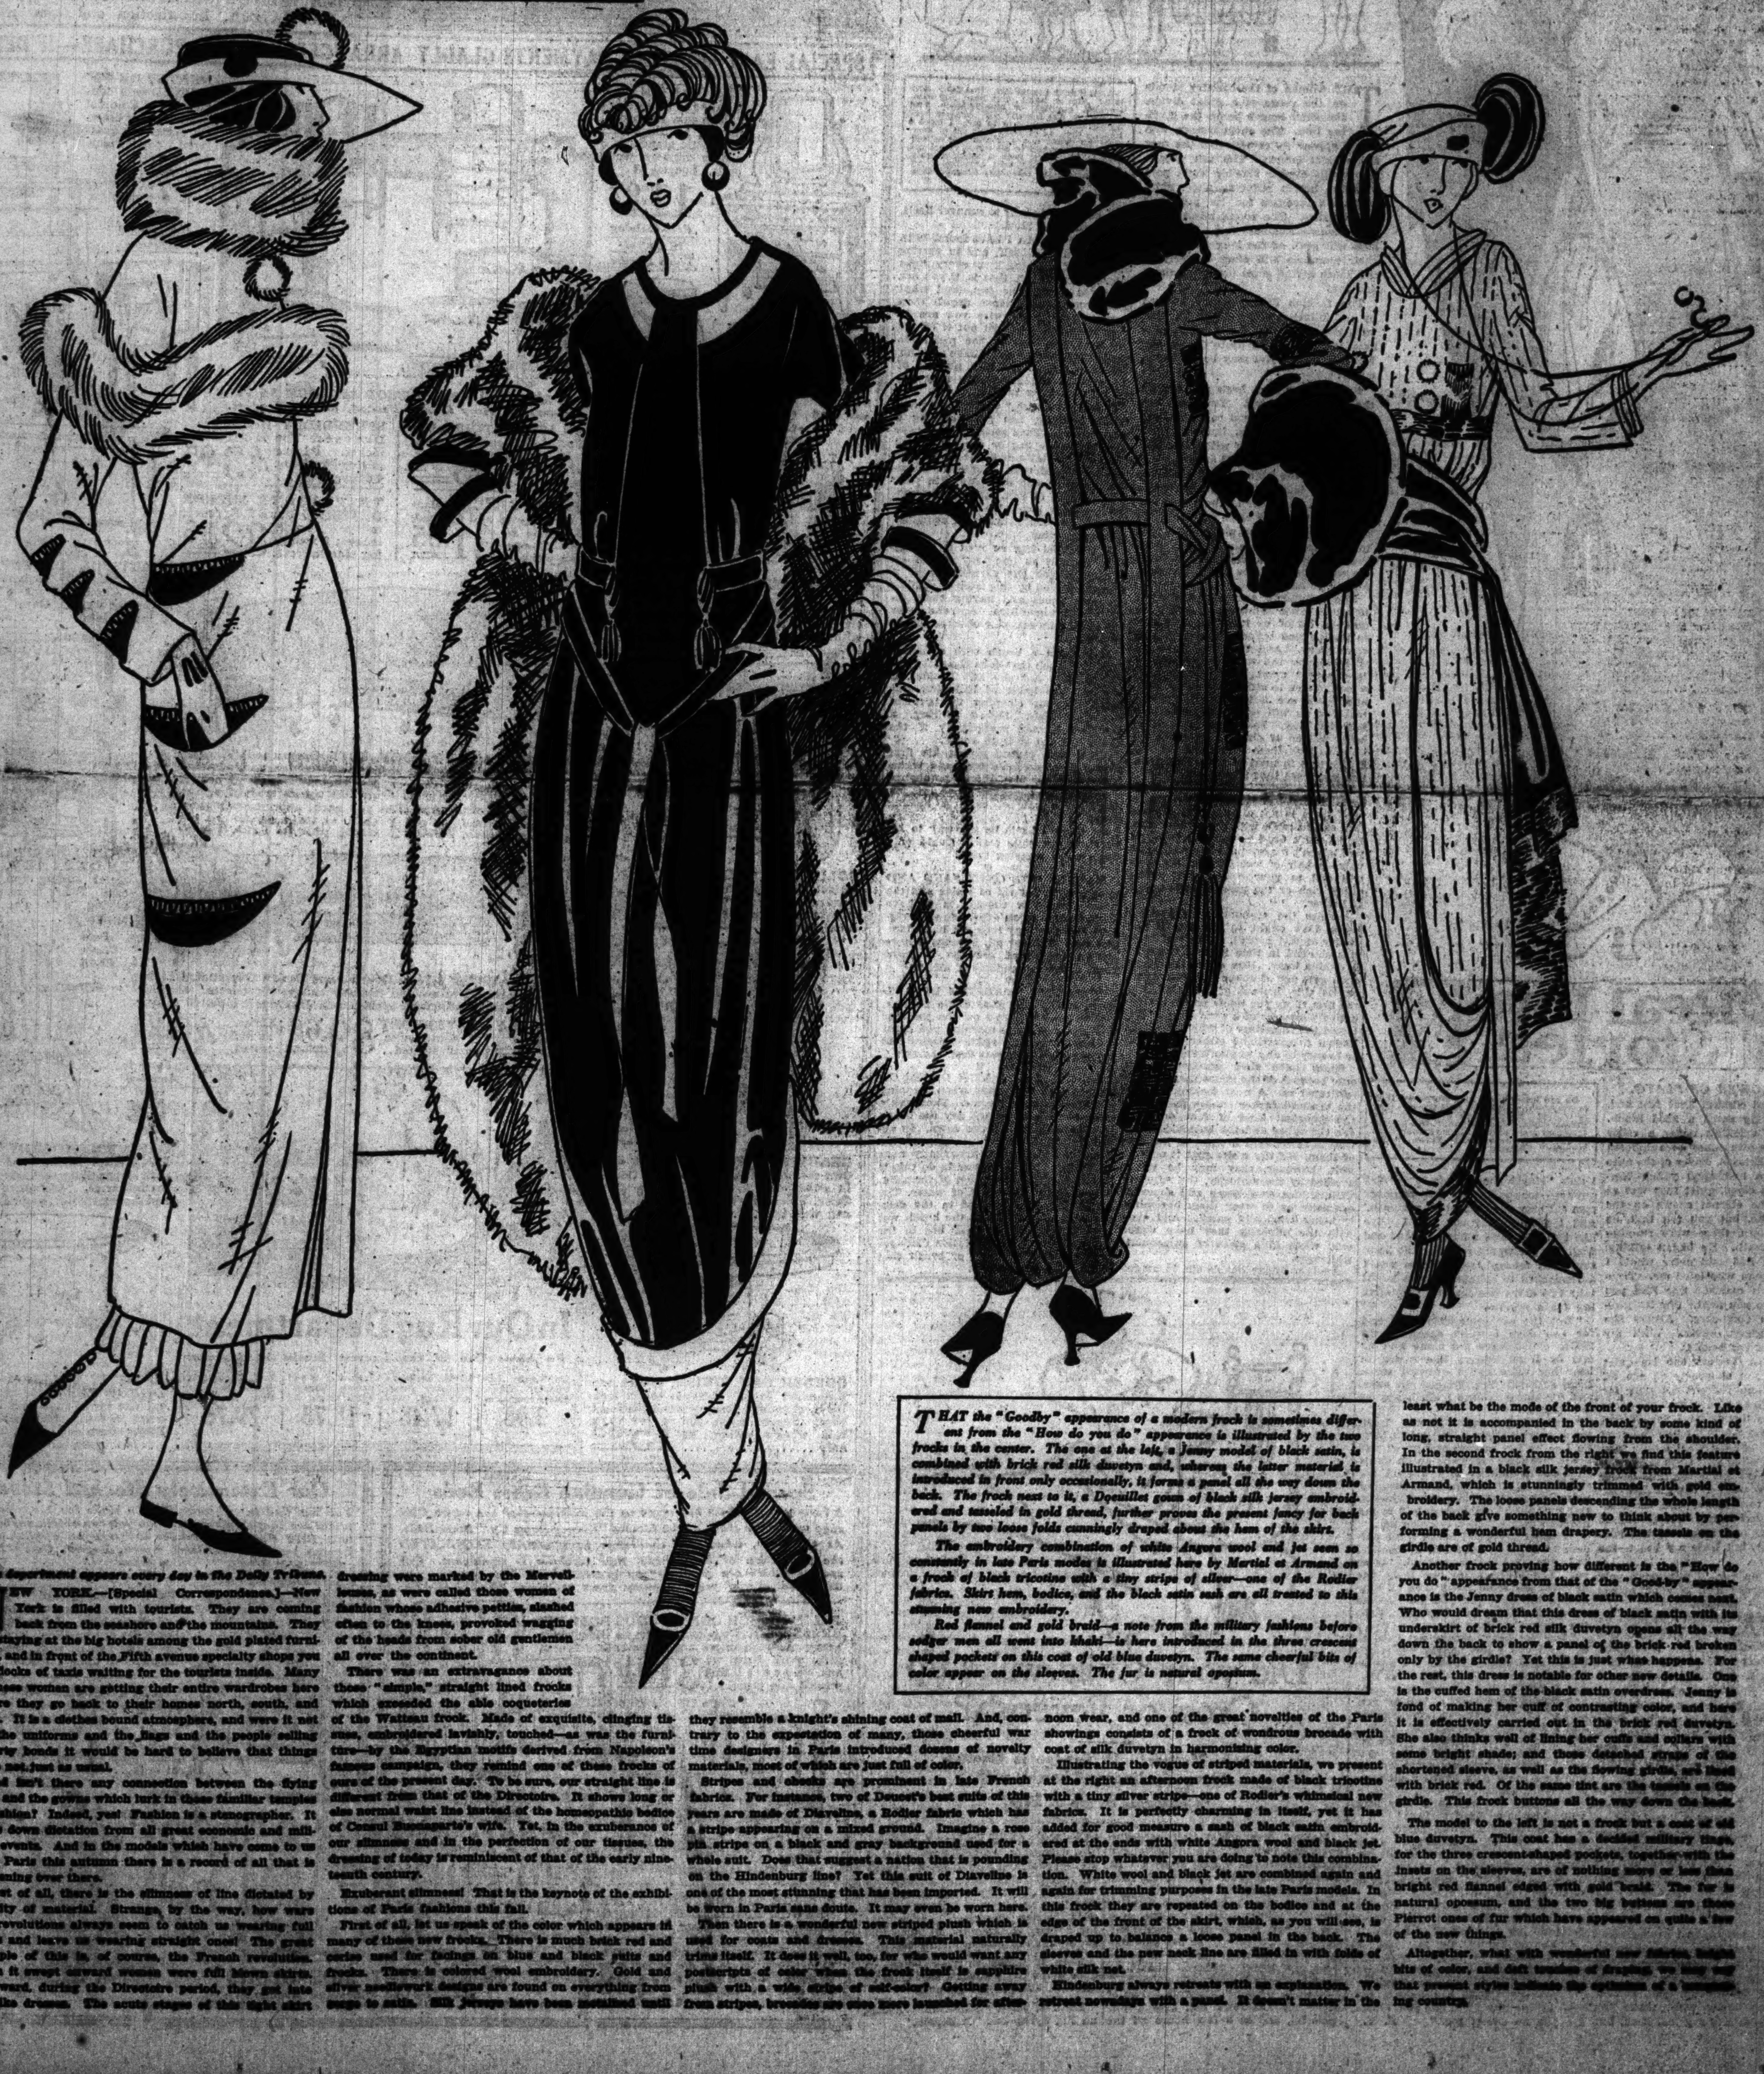
Cheerful Slimness the Note of Paris Fashions

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

by Corinne Lowe



THAT the "Goodby" appearance of a modern frock is sometimes different from the "How do you do" appearance is illustrated by the two frocks in the center. The one at the left, a Jenny model of black satin, is combined with brick red silk duvetyn and, whereas the latter material is introduced in front only occasionally, it forms a panel all the way down the back. The frock next to it, a Doeuillet gown of black silk jersey embroidered and tasseled in gold thread, further proves the present fancy for back panels by two loose folds cunningly draped about the hem of the skirt.

The embroidery combination of white Angora wool and jet seen so constantly in late Paris modes is illustrated here by Martial et Armand on a frock of black tricotine with a tiny stripe of silver—one of the Rodier fabrics. Skirt hem, bodice, and the black satin sash are all treated to this stunning new embroidery.

Red flannel and gold braid—a note from the military fashions before sodger men all went into khaki—is here introduced in the three crescent shaped pockets on this coat of old blue duvetyn. The same cheerful bits of color appear on the sleeves. The fur is natural opossum.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—New York is filled with tourists. They are coming back from the seashore and the mountains. They are staying at the big hotels among the gold plated furniture, and in front of the Fifth avenue specialty shops you see flocks of taxis waiting for the tourists inside. Many of these women are getting their entire wardrobes here before they go back to their homes north, south, and west. It is a clothes bound atmosphere, and were it not for the uniforms and the flags and the people selling Liberty bonds it would be hard to believe that things were not just as usual.

And isn't there any connection between the flying flags and the gowns which lurk in these familiar temples of fashion? Indeed, yes! Fashion is a stenographer. It takes down dictation from all great economic and military events. And in the models which have come to us from Paris this autumn there is a record of all that is happening over there.

First of all, there is the slimness of line dictated by scarcity of material. Strange, by the way, how wars and revolutions always seem to catch us wearing full skirts and leave us wearing straight ones! The great example of this is, of course, the French revolution. When it swept onward women wore full blown skirts. Afterward, during the Directoire period, they got into sheathlike dresses. The acute stages of this tight skirt dressing were marked by the Merveilleuses, as were called those women of fashion whose adhesive petties, slashed often to the knees, provoked wagging of the heads from sober old gentlemen all over the continent.

There was an extravagance about those "simple," straight lined frocks which exceeded the able coqueteries of the Watteau frock. Made of exquisite, clinging tissues, embroidered lavishly, touched—as was the furniture—by the Egyptian motifs derived from Napoleon's famous campaign, they remind one of these frocks of ours of the present day. To be sure, our straight line is different from that of the Directoire. It shows long or else normal waist line instead of the homeopathic bodice of Consul Buonaparte's wife. Yet, in the exuberance of our slimness and in the perfection of our tissues, the dressing of today is reminiscent of that of the early nineteenth century.

Exuberant slimness! That is the keynote of the exhibitions of Paris fashions this fall.

First of all, let us speak of the color which appears in many of these new frocks. There is much brick red and cerise used for facings on blue and black suits and frocks. There is colored wool embroidery. Gold and silver needlework designs are found on everything from serge to satin. Silk jerseys have been metallized until they resemble a knight's shining coat of mail. And, contrary to the expectation of many, those cheerful war time designers in Paris introduced dozens of novelty materials, most of which are just full of color.

Stripes and checks are prominent in late French fabrics. For instance, two of Doucet's best suits of this years are made of Diaveline, a Rodier fabric which has a stripe appearing on a mixed ground. Imagine a rose pin stripe on a black and gray background used for a whole suit. Does that suggest a nation that is pounding on the Hindenburg line? Yet this suit of Diaveline is one of the most stunning that has been imported. It will be worn in Paris sans doute. It may even be worn here.

Then there is a wonderful new striped plush which is used for coats and dresses. This material naturally trims itself. It does it well, too, for who would want any postscripts of color when the frock itself is sapphire plush with a wide stripe of self-color? Getting away from stripes, brocades are once more launched for afternoon wear, and one of the great novelties of the Paris showings consists of a frock of wondrous brocade with coat of silk duvetyn in harmonizing color.

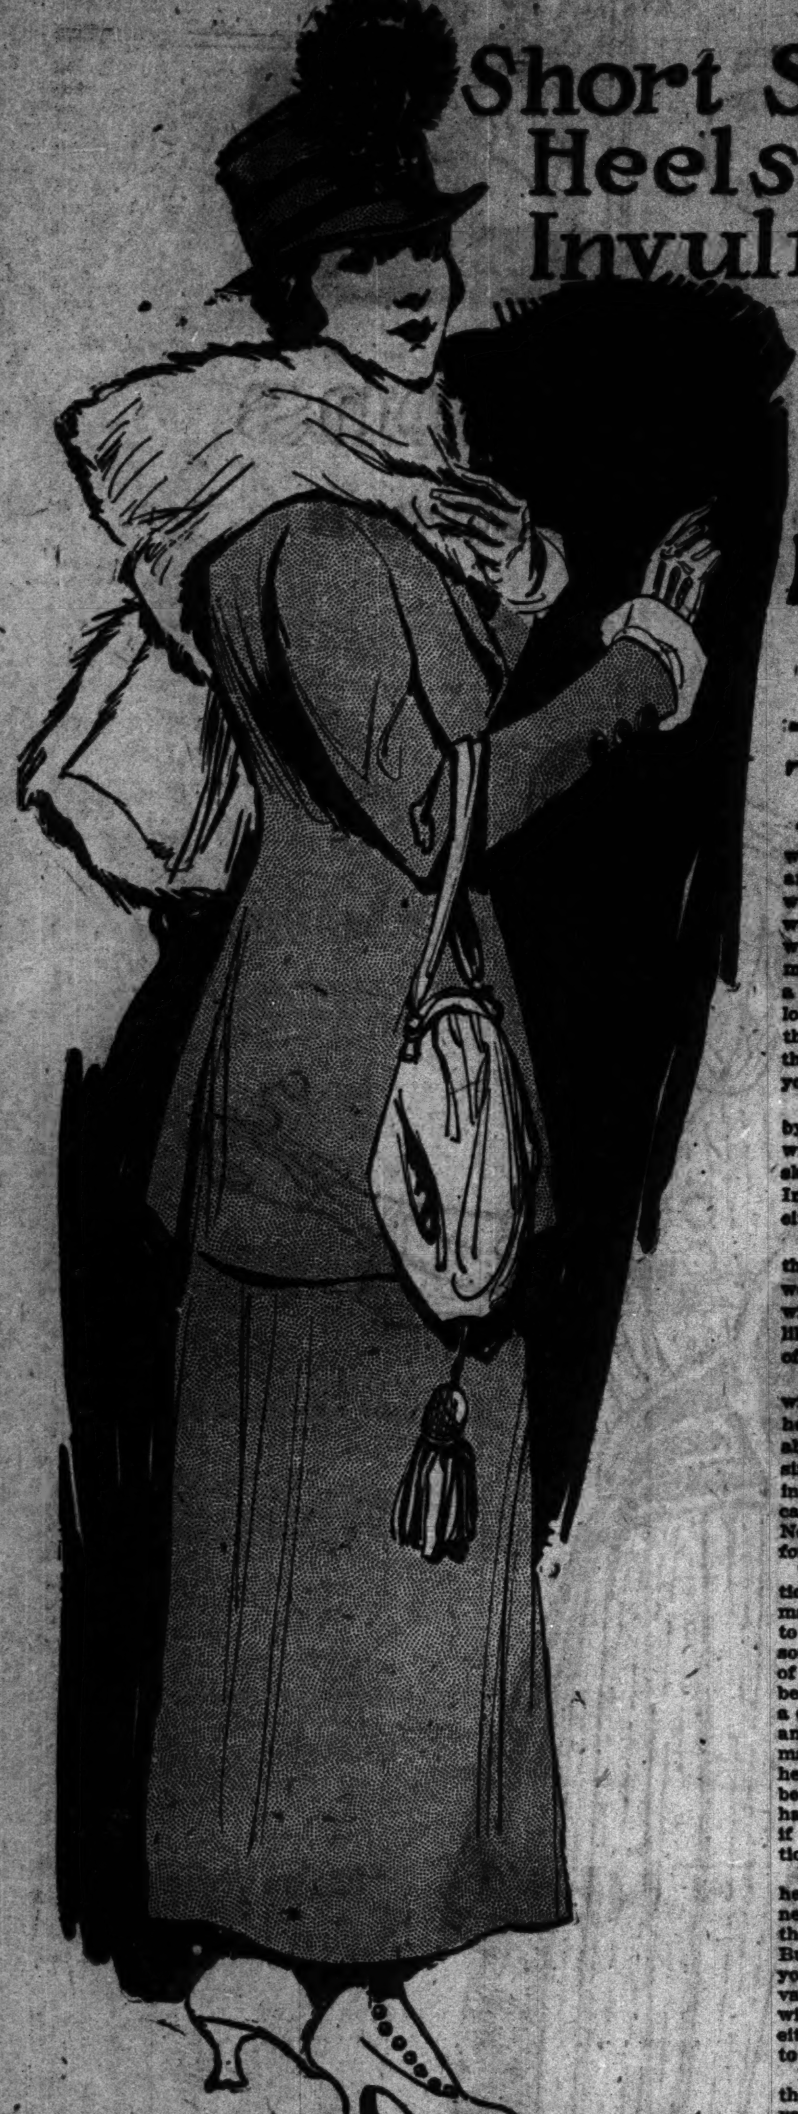
Illustrating the vogue of striped materials, we present at the right an afternoon frock made of black tricotine with a tiny silver stripe—one of Rodier's whimsical new fabrics. It is perfectly charming in itself, yet it has added for good measure a sash of black satin embroidered at the ends with white Angora wool and black jet. Please stop whatever you are doing to note this combination. White wool and black jet are combined again and again for trimming purposes in the late Paris models. In this frock they are repeated on the bodice and at the edge of the front of the skirt, which, as you will see, is draped up to balance a loose panel in the back. The sleeves and the new neck line are filled in with folds of white silk net.

Hindenburg always retreats with an explanation. We retreat nowadays with a panel. It doesn't matter in the least what be the mode of the front of your frock. Like as not it is accompanied in the back by some kind of long, straight panel effect flowing from the shoulder. In the second frock from the right we find this feature illustrated in a black silk jersey frock from Martial et Armand, which is stunningly trimmed with gold embroidery. The loose panels descending the whole length of the back give something new to think about by performing a wonderful hem drapery. The tassels on the girdle are of gold thread.

Another frock proving how different is the "How do you do" appearance from that of the "Good-by" appearance is the Jenny dress of black satin which comes next. Who would dream that this dress of black satin with its underskirt of brick red silk duvetyn opens all the way down the back to show a panel of the brick red broken only by the girdle? Yet this is just what happens. For the rest, this dress is notable for other new details. One is the cuffed hem of the black satin overdress. Jenny is fond of making her cuff of contrasting color, and here it is effectively carried out in the brick red duvetyn. She also thinks well of lining her cuffs and collars with some bright shade; and those detached straps of the shortened sleeve, as well as the flowing girdle, are lined with brick red. Of the same tint are the tassels on the girdle. This frock buttons all the way down the back.

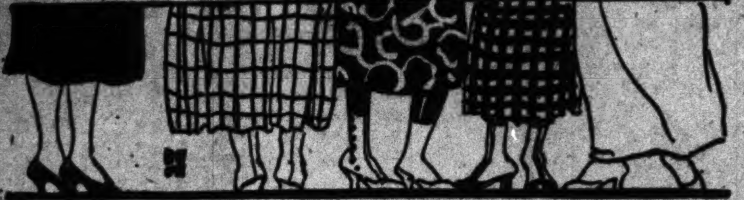
The model to the left is not a frock but a coat of old blue duvetyn. This coat has a decided military tinge, for the three crescent-shaped pockets, together with the insets on the sleeves, are of nothing more or less than bright red flannel edged with gold braid. The fur is natural opossum, and the two big buttons are those Pierrot ones of fur which have appeared on quite a few of the new things.

Altogether, what with wonderful new fabrics, bright bits of color, and deft touches of draping, we may say that present styles indicate the optimism of a conquering country.



Short Skirts Or Long—Heels Must Be Invulnerable

says Antoinette Donnelly



THE woman of the country stands on the verge of a great divide, the skirt length being the dividing line. The short women who would appear taller welcome the new ankle skirt length. The tall women who would appear shorter won't part with the height reducing short skirt without a struggle for its perpetual maintenance. The young misses with a passionate fondness for a grownup look will grab at the long skirt while their mammas will cling tenderly to the youth giving short ones! So there you are!

> What's your beauty ill? Too fat! Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Or, what is your beauty ill? Write it in to me. I have a tonic, a diet, an exercise, or a set of exercises for what ails you and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply, send stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, Chicago Tribune.

The fashion designers are swayed by one influence and then by another, with the result that the question of a skirt length is rather up to the wearer. In other words, you may be stylish in either!

But short or long, heels still remain the important thing. You can look well without frills; you can look well without big hat bills; but you look like nothing whatever without a pair of trim looking heels and ankles.

Not even the high cost of shodding will grant immunity to a down-at-the heeler. A bad heel is the unpardonable sin. Two bad heels just twice as sinful! An exemption plea may be put in now and then for a bad ankle because in itself it is physically disabled. No such plea may be plead, however, for a bad heel.

The forbidding aspect of the price ticket in shoe windows is going to make a lot of us turn affectionately to pumps and oxfords of a past season's glory. And that's where a lot of falling by the wayside is going to be reported upon. Not that it isn't a capital idea to utilize leftovers. It is, and spats are a blessing for which many of us will send up thanks in a heartfelt way. But if we want it to be a matter of general rejoicing we have to look them over carefully and if they are in need of any reconstruction work see that they get it.

It costs about 35 cents now to have heels straightened and if you're in need there is not a better investment that can be made with that many cents. But I don't need to tell you this. If you haven't experienced the additional value a pair of straightened up heels will add to your self-respect you're either rich or too poor in self-respect to bother.

Besides the economy of the thing these days ought to get you if the vanity appeal doesn't. A pair of heels straightened in time insures absolutely double wear. Run down, the whole shoe gets out of shape and you travel on its side, instead of its sole. And the first thing you know you're the unhappy possessor of a corn crop or distorted joints, neither of which has been known to contribute either happiness or beauty to any woman's makeup.

Spats have their maligners, but only because of the abuse they've been subjected to. A neat looking spat in the tan and darker shades may make the smartest kind of foot dressing. It's the soiled and the buttonless kind that have brought ill fame to the race of them. Of the white spat it may be writ, however, they may be safely avoided by the majority, the minority with ankles so delicate and shoes so exquisite as to wear them becomingly being tragically small. And even with the minority they have virtue only when in a state of immaculate whiteness.

Another unpardonable sin, in magnitude, comparable only to runover heels, is the unshined shoe.

The best remedy, I have found, is in doing them one's self, and in getting the habit of brushing them every night before going to bed, that is, if you are employed during the day, (and what good woman isn't these days?) then they're done. Otherwise you are so busy tomorrow you will put it off till the next day, and in the meantime spoil everything else you have on. Our days now are so full of a number of things that the details we may put off till tomorrow are put.

If you get a "kit," which costs practically nothing, one good shining a week will do. Then each night go over them with the rag or the brush and clean off the day's dust. It won't take two minutes all told. And in the morning you may step off airily with your feet in front of you, instead of treading furtively along looking for something to get behind when an acquaintance approaches.

A girl who has as neat a looking shoe turnout as one may see in an avenue parade has earned herself a nice reputation by this trick of shining her own shoes and having them always in that condition. And she never has more than one pair of street shoes at a time.

If you get a brush with a handle on it it is a job that even the most fastidious need not shy at. Besides, if you get the habit of including this detail in your cleaning up preparations at night before retiring, it wouldn't matter particularly if the hands did get a little soiled.

Since man ceased giving his first glance to a woman's face and transferred it to her feet, there's no chance of getting his approval, much less his heart, in a pair of careless looking shoes.

So, if good heels be the way to his heart, let us page Daniel Cupid only when we're wearing them!

MABEL: THE ONLY SAFE AND sure way to get rid of moles and the hairs that grow thereon is to have them treated by an expert on electrolysis. Don't let any inexpert hand tamper with them at all, because I have known malignant growths to grow from ignorant handling of moles.

ELEANOR: WALKING UP AND down stairs is a good ankle reducer. Rising up and down on the toes for five or ten minutes morning and night also exercises the ankle muscles and helps get rid of excess flesh thereon.

JANET: PUT A FEW DROPS OF ammonia in the water when washing your combs and brushes. Thoroughly rinse in pure water and dry the brush quickly with the bristles down. In addition to the weekly washing of the comb and brush they frequently need sterilizing. The best way to do this is to wet them in a solution of formalin, a teaspoonful to a pint of water. The comb may be immersed in the solution and the bristles of the brush wet several times up to their bed in the same solution. This solution damages nothing about a comb or brush that water does not damage.

Real Love Stories

WE had climbed 3,000 feet and, having eaten a good lunch, sat smoking under a cedar that overlooked a magnificent view. John Ericson, driver of the auto stage, was a handsome young Norwegian. His clean, quiet face was as restful as the eternal snows on the rocks opposite, but you felt that, as with the snows, there were running currents beneath. He began talking:

"Alvays I had said nefer would I marry a woman who lofed me. Trouble, trouble it makes. She kiss you now; she bite you next. She iss yealous; she iss don't-care. Alvays she make you guess, guess. With my brother Ole I haf seen it.

"But Hulda Yonson she iss quiet and steady, but so pretty as one off dese little blue flowers. Alvays for men she pay no attentions—cares nothings for them. So I say—I will marry Hulda. She will make one good vife. And I tells her what I tink. 'You are good, sensible girl; I vill make you good man—but none off dose lofing business for us.' I don't know for what I can to you eggsplain, Mr. Marshall, but I haf in me some feeling, it iss like I say to a woman—I like you, you are nice, but leafe my heart—me myself—alone.

"And Hulda say, 'I unnerstan you, Yonny,' and she look way off across dose smoky, blue hills.

"So we wass married and liffed on the hill and I am one happy man. Ole, I tink, is one fool to marry dose lofing womans. And Hulda, her pretty face iss sweet and quiet like the sky and sometimes I chust sit and look at her and wonder what iss back off dat sky—like I used to ven I wass a boy. Once I say, 'What you tink off, Hulda?'

"A pink cloud come over her sky face and she say, 'Nuttings, Yonny, nuttings to disturb a man.'

"'Maybe he don't mind so much to be disturbed,' I say, and I don't know what make me say such a fool ting.

"Den I bring her presents from town for half a mont's pay, and she smile easy and say, 'Tank you, Yonny,' but ven I bring her nuttings she smile chust as easy. Her house she keep sweet and clean and cook she can like her mutter.

"But yet pretty soon I can't sit and look at Hulda no more. I come in and sit down and get up and go out. But she nefer mind me. It iss, 'Yes, Yonny,' and 'No, I don't ceder, Yonny.' And I don't know what make the thoughts come into my fool head, but I tink, 'Maybe she did lofe somebodys anyway—maybe one off dose engineer men dat stay at her mutter's a month.' And I get into my car and I drive like hell over dose mountain road and wish the car would roll ofer the bank seventeen tousan' feet. Maybe ven I am smashed to splinters Hulda might take two extra breaths and stop smiling for a minute.

"But the car come safe back and for two days I won't speak words. Hulda chust leave me alone and by and by I get hungry like a dog to hear her voice and I growled somethings at her. 'Yes, Yonny,' she says, and for half a minute I am happy as one angel.

"Den I haf a notion in me. I am too easy with Hulda. She need a boss. So I order her around and growl and break two dish. But she go on chust so quiet as before—only when I try some cussin' at her she went into her room and shut the door and locked it. Dat hurt me like a cannon ball in my heart to hear dat lock between her.

"I tear out—first I speak some pardons at her door—and run up the hill and trow myself on the ground. 'It iss you, Yon Ericsen, iss one fool. Ole he must haf some many time off happiness, but you, ven you get used to thiss, vill be like one dead man valking around.'

"But my heart cannot get used to it. And ven I tink maybe yet Hulda wants dose engineer like I want—so I goes in to her: 'Now, it iss done, Hulda,' I say. 'Dis I can no more stan', and maybe it iss chust so bad for you. So I go avay—seventeen tousan' miles, and nefer more I bother you.'

"Her pretty face get white like dat snow. Den she looked in my eyes and I guess she see my great trouble, and I see some little, gentle smile come round her mouth.

"'Yonny,' she say in a very little voice, 'iss it so hard to say?'

"'Say what?' I growl, fierce, but I knew. 'But yes, I can say it. I lofe you. I lofe you. I lofe you, Hulda, my vife? But for what good ven your heart iss cold like mountain spring water?'

"Den she come close to me and put her two little hands on my shoulders and her face iss all ofer rosy.

"And ven I hold her tight I say: 'For all my lifes I vill lofe you, Hulda, dat you so deceef me.'" P. V.

Did your Child wake up Cross or Feverish?

Look, Mother! If Tongue is Coated, cleanse the liver and bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if the tongue is coated; this is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels need attention at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, "stuffy" with cold, throat sore; when the child has tainted breath and doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, or has stomach-ache or diarrhea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the waste-matter, sour bile and fermenting food clogged in the bowels pass out of the system, and you have a healthy and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

EDITED BY JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market prices and are indorsed by her.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

THE COST OF A LAMB CHOP.

Is the cost of meat what you pay for it? No; this is merely its face value, and it is subject to many additions through loss and waste. The actual cost of meat is often incredibly, even sensationally, high. Note that while you pay 60 cents a pound for the highest grade of lamb chops, the actual cost of the part you eat may be $3 a pound. The only way you can lessen that cost is by eating every gram of fat on it and [illegible] the bone.

We have all seen people who refused all but the little eye of lean in a rib lamb chop. It is by such waste and by some others that rib lamb chops may actually cost a prohibitive price. And yet women whose husbands work for comparatively small salaries buy lamb chops. It seems to be an easy way to get up a meal—too easy.

Until the housewife realizes the difference between the original cost of such meats as lamb chops and the actual cost she will never understand how necessary it is to utilize the waste. If she will have chops without a wasted taste she must learn how to use every bit of fat, trimming it off if she knows her family will not eat it when broiled with the lean, all in case of rib chops, etc.

What is lost in the cooking, what is discarded in the kitchen first and then what is rejected at the table go to make the totals that reduce the original weight four-fifths and multiply the cost proportionately.

The teachers of home economics published in November, 1917, in the Teachers' College Record (New York) a study called "Experiments Comparing the Cost of Meat as Purchased and Eaten." They proved that when untrimmed rib chops were sold at 28 cents a pound the price of the edible part after all losses were deducted, was somewhere between $1.08 and $1.44 a pound. It is easy, then, to see why at today's costs the edible part of the highest grade chops would be over $3 a pound. If the eater rejects every bit of fat on a chop the high grade chop is incredibly expensive, the edible part perhaps costing nearly $4 a pound.

May B. Van Arsdale and Day Monroe were the teachers who experimented with different cuts of meat to find the relation between the face value and actual cost of different meats, or between the cost on the block and the cost on the plate. They realized that the amount of material eaten and discarded by individuals varies to such an extent that reliable figures are difficult to obtain, but they chose to compare the examples of the variations which might be expected to occur in a week's marketing by the same individual.

For one study they took six different untrimmed rib lamb chops. When the results of their work were tabulated there was shown the weight of the chops as purchased; the weight of the trimmings that were non-utilizable, and what percentage of the whole these were; the weight of the trimmings utilizable, and what percentage of the whole these constituted; the weight lost in cooking, largely by evaporation, and the percentage of loss and also the percentage of loss in the pan—the chops were pan broiled; the weight of the bone and uneaten portion and the percentage of loss by this means; and the weight of the edible portion and the percentage, with, finally, the cost as purchased and the actual cost.

The highest percentage of edible meat any one of the six chops gave was 25.9 per cent, and the lowest was 16.42 per cent, which shows a range from one-fourth to about one-sixth. The highest per cent of non-utilizable trimmings was over 30, and of utilizable, 33.5. The highest percentage lost in cooking was 12.2, and of juices in pan 9.4, but for most of the chops it was less than 4 per cent.

Chops are not cheaper than steak, but are as expensive as chicken, although shoulder chops, which today and of first grade cost 45 cents, are cheaper by a good deal, when we come to the actual cost, than are rib or loin chops.

Just what was counted non-utilizible waste I do not know, but I do know that nothing but the skin and leeched bones need be non-utilizable. When to this are added losses from cooking we should still have a high percentage of edible meat if we would eat the fat. These authors in their summary say:

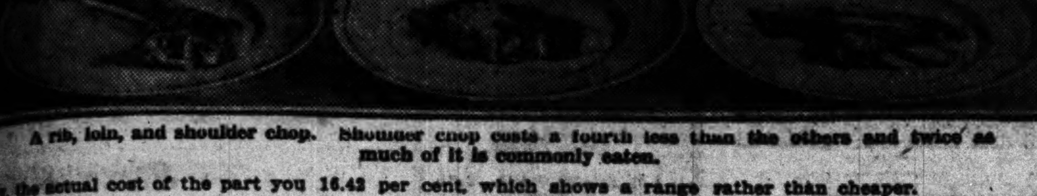
"After all, the tables show that the cost is more largely a matter of waste than the original amount paid the butcher. This question of waste is one of the big problem of cookery today. There are two kinds of waste, the utilizable and the non-utilizable. The housewife must learn to distinguish between them."

One of the ways of utilizing waste is to get the trimmings of meat that the butcher takes off. And these authors ask how many women have the knowledge of how to utilize them when they take them home. They ask if the interest of the housewife on reducing the high cost of living is merely hysterical or is it serious enough to involve study. It is certainly much more serious than wnen they asked the question. They say: "If a lamb chop were trimmed before being served, so that the bone and other portions discarded at the table might be utilized in stock or in stews, the chop would lose tis identity, but there would be a material saving."

In this latter statement they are overlooking the fact that great chefs have always trimmed chops. So trimmed, they are as recognizable as any other way if you know trimmed chops.

In this study is a discussion of the cheap cuts, which for obvious reasons we no longer mention—there are only cheaper now. These authors found that there was a misconception about these being cheap. For instance, although brisket cost but 15 cents a pound as purchased, when cooked and trimmed and fixed up with an appetizing sauce the edible portion really cost 68 cents a pound.

Pot roasts are included in bulletins on cheaper cuts of meat and steaks are not, yet when eaten it seems that a steak actually costs less than the pot roast. "It must always be remembered that to make a cheap cut palatable requires the expenditure of fuel, seasoning, time, and energy, and the cost of all of these must be added to the original cost for a fair estimate of relative costs." The actual cost of brisket at 15 cents a pound when seasoned and cooked and served with a sauce was in one case over 87 cents and in another over 74 cents. After experiments with "typical cheaper cuts" accepted as such on their face value it was concluded that these better be termed less expensive rather than cheaper.



A rib, loin, and shoulder chop. Shoulder chop costs a fourth less than the others and twice as much of it is commonly eaten.

The edible portion of a loin lamb chop costs only about half what that of a rib chop costs. The shoulder chop costs less yet, since something over 40 per cent of it is edible.

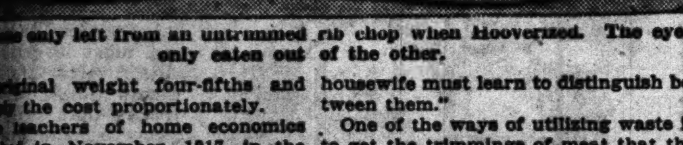
Even when a chicken is stewed, bought at 25 cents a pound and not drawn, the finished product may cost $1.61 a pound, although the gizzard and heart are included in the edible portion and there is a stock for other use.

We know that the retailer is credited with adding 33 per cent or more to what he pays; that the wholesaler gets 10 per cent or so for what he does, that commission men get something, and the producer wants enough to pay him for his work; but when we get right down to figuring the costs of meat, we must see, if we are in earnest and sincere, that we as cooks can multiply its cost by waste so much as to make these other elements of cost seem in the highest degree reasonable. And yet what is the cost the housewife complains of because she cannot see the beam in her own eye? Is it not the face or market value every time?

From the trimmings of the chops pictured, a rib, loin, and shoulder, each weighing one-fourth pound, I made a stew quite enough for from four to five people by cutting the fat fine, frying it a little, then adding the bones of the three chops, an onion, the white leaves on four inches or more of stem of a bunch of celery, a quart of water, and when the stew was half cooked a half cup of rice. There was enough fat in this so that we might have added considerable more vegetable or starchy food, perhaps some carrots or tomatoes.

Untrimmed rib chops are awkward things to serve, but if served every bit of fat should be eaten, fairly gnawed from them. It is patriotic. To be sure that it was easily possible I did it, and I am not much of a meat eater, and not until I knew food values did I eat fat meat at all, to my great loss as one with a need for a great store of energy.

Mr. Hoover says we must "cut food half a pound a week." We can spare our ounce and one-seventh a day if we do not waste the ounce or more of fat on the lamb chop we buy, if we can afford to buy it. And what is true as regards this one piece of meat is more or less typical of all meats.



one only left from an untrimmed rib chop when Hooverized. The eye only eaten out of the other.

Better Housekeeping

MACHINE AND HAND WASHING

THE preliminaries of washing by machine are the same as when the clothes are to be done by hand. The soap, either chips bought by the box or bar soap shaved fine—must be dissolved before it goes in the machine. If naphtha soap is used it must be dissolved cold and the entire washing done with cold water. Other soaps may be boiled to hurry the dissolving process. A pound of soap goes to five gallons of water.

The clothes, previously soaked, are put into the machine in hot suds and the power turned on. After ten minutes rocking, or squeezing and sucking, as the case may be, this water is drained off and fresh hot water let in. Five minutes the machine agitates this hot water. Then follow five minutes of the cold rinse and then bluing in the ordinary tub.

The classic order of the clothes through the tubs is the same as for hand washing—first, table linen, because it quickly gives up its soil and can be hustled out to the drying yard; then sheets and pillow cases, to get the bulky pieces dry before the lines are needed for the small things that are slow to handle one by one, then body linen and towels, then colored clothes, and, lastly, the flannels.

The oldtime washerwoman gauged her work by the vigorous sound of her rub-scrubbing on the corrugated board. Fine and coarse, the tender old and the stoutly new, the half soiled, or the merely rumpled—all went through the same mill. It must be confessed there are a good many oldtimers left. But the woman who uses her brain at the [illegible] models herself nowadays on the washing machine, squeezing and sucking to force the suds through the clothes instead of trying to wear dirt off the surface by the grinding effect of friction. Some things she merely souses and squeezes; some she rubs gently between her hands. Only [illegible] must does she rub-scrub [illegible] washing on both sides. [illegible] are the better for a rinse and a wring before they go into the boiler, to take as much as possible of the loosened dirt. (If naphtha soap is used, of course there's no question of [illegible]

The boiler goes on full of cold water and plenty of soap solution. The washed clothes, not too many at a time, are dropped in, brought to a boil, and allowed to boil hard for five minutes.

Some women use a device made to order by the tinsmith that looks like a huge wire frying basket, which fits into the boiler, so that the whole mass of clothes may be lifted out together and supported on sticks laid across the top of the boiler to drain.

After boiling comes the cold rinse, a shake to open up the folds of each garment before it goes into the bluing, and two or three souses in the blue tub. Wrung out of that, the white clothes are ready for starching or for the line.

The strength of the bluing water may be tried on a bit of cotton cloth, or tested by dipping up a glassful. It should be quite a light blue. Especially in using aniline blue, it is easy to make the color too strong. The clothes should be dipped a few at a time, not left soaking in the blue tub. Garments accidentally blued too deep should be soaked in boiling water or if necessary boiled. Keep the bluing water well stirred so that the clothes shall color evenly.

Table linen, being absorbent, should be but lightly blued, and it must never be run through the wringer with the rolls screwed down tight or it will be full of wrinkles exceedingly difficult to iron out.

Colored clothes should have the color set unless it is already known to be fast. Salt is the natural resource for most colors, or alum, four ounces to a tub of water. Colored things must be washed quickly in warm, not hot, water, with soap in solution, and rinsed in several waters. Garments of different colors should not be washed in the same water. Starch for colored stuffs must be only warm. The garments are hung wrong side out and in the shade.

If a color seems particularly delicate wash the goods altogether in this starch water. Dilute thick starch (made by pouring on a half cup of starch, mixed with cold water, two quarts of boiling water,) with four quarts of water, and strain. Wash the fabric in this as if it were suds. Add four quarts more water and wash again. Then rinse in plenty of clear, cold water to take out as much starch as possible. This is particularly good for sheer lawns and organdies. The color is not touched.

Freddy's tricycle was old and worn, so his aunt, for a birthday gift, presented him with a fine $10 automobile, which he received with keen delight. She was therefore amazed a few moments later to find him calmly riding up and down the sidewalk on his unpopular tricycle.

"There you are, riding on your old tricycle!" cheerfully reminded aunty. "Why don't you use your lovely new automobile?"

For a couple of seconds Freddy gazed at her in silent reproach, then in a voice pitched high with indignation he stingingly broke loose: "I certainly is s'prised at you, aunty. Doesn't you know this is gasless Sunday?"

WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO WIN THE WAR?

NEED ONLY TACT AND BRAINS.

AN intelligent and charming woman was heard to remark recently that she would like to give her talents to war service, but unfortunately she had none. "I never was trained to specialize in any kind of work or play," she said, "and now have nothing that I can turn to account for my country."

This woman was one of those who thought that in order to help win the war it was necessary to have something more than ordinary intelligence and high ideals. What she did not know was that there are certain branches of war work where, although some training is required, the prime requisites are tact of the highest order, infinite patience, and, above all, ideals. In one of these branches, which is being carried forward quietly but effectively, are many Chicago women, and more women are needed.

It is the protective work among girls at present organized as a branch of the local war camp community service, but possibly to be financed in the near future by congressional appropriation. It is carried on not only as a war measure, but as a step toward the reconstruction period after the war, which demands from its workers an efficiency of a type vastly different from any other war work. It protects the girls who are brought under its wings, and it protects the soldier and sailor through its effect upon the ideals of young womanhood.

There are two kinds of women workers in the protective bureau; patrol women and visitors. The patrol women are stationed in depots and in other public places which soldiers and sailors frequent, and their business is the welfare of the girls who may be found in those places or who may make indiscriminate acquaintance with the men in uniform, also girls who are found loitering in the parks or railroad stations at night.

The girls are not reproached by the patrol women or by the visitors, who sometimes later enter the home and talk with the parents. They are only made to understand that their conduct is not in accordance with the unselfish and patriotic support that the girls of today are expected to give the men in the army and navy. In most cases the girls are more than ready to help when they understand, but their understanding rests entirely upon the manner in which they are approached, and that is where the tact and personality of the worker is invaluable.

One worker in her report at a recent meeting told of a foreign mother whom she visited who complained bitterly in broken English that her daughter would not stay at home and would not listen to her. "She all American—that is the trouble—too much American," said the mother; "in Europe she not do this way." Then the worker patiently explained to her that her daughter's conduct was not the American ideal and that she was there to correct all that with the mother's help. When the mother understood she became a most enthusiastic aid and is now quite satisfied with her "all American" daughter.

Have you ideas on food, dress, and health conservation to pass along, or ideas on money saving and money raising? This department is an exchange for the women who are helping to win the war. For every letter published "The Tribune" will pay $1. Do you need advice on questions pertaining to this important work of helping win the war. This department will advise you gladly. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Address letters on this subject to Antoinette Donnelley, Chicago Tribune.

According to Mrs. Adena Miller Rich, who is in charge of the girls' protective bureau, it is recreation more than anything else that the girls need, and when that is taken care of in a wholesome way a large part of the problem is solved. The department needs definite things. It needs the coöperation of mothers; it needs (and has to a great extent) the coöperation of other organizations and public interest, and most of all it needs women workers with seriousness of purpose and ideals.

Three Girls at the Front.

Neysa McMein, whose beautiful girls on magazine covers are familiar, wrote the following interesting extract in a letter to a Chicago friend:

I have been working quite hard on art for the Y. and have done posters for every organization on the continent—but I am so happy—so crazy about the work. We spent one week in Paris and the rest of the time at the front, and up to date I sing (God save the word), dance, draw, run a movie, act a movie with the boys out of the audience, play the piano and mandolin, and will probably be doing a couple of handsprings before long.

There are no entertainers here, and up at the advanced positions in many places the boys haven't seen a woman in five months. We have been from Verdun and Chateau Thierry down to Nancy, and I can put on a gas mask now in seven seconds. Many times we aren't allowed to take them off from around our necks, and they certainly get in the way.

Many of our audiences are enormous (last night 2,100), except when we go out in the dugouts, and on Sundays we play in hospitals. They are so eager to talk to you and so grateful and enthusiastic that it just makes me sick that we haven't more to offer. We usually are billeted in the center of one division and then we travel (in motors) from camp to camp, messing with from ten to forty officers each night.

You would go insane about our present billet. It's a tenth century chateau, in the heart of a beautiful forest with enormous gardens and a wonderful old moat. Richelieu captured it later on and added a bit, and we are so thrilled about the dungeon and the old stone stairs, etc. There are three of us girls and we are such good friends that it makes it all wonderful.

Needless to say we are having exciting times. We're bombed pretty nearly every night and shelled during the day. A week ago they blew out the house next to us. Up at the front the other night they turned a machine gun on us and pretty nearly every performance we give they turn out the light on account of boche planes overhead. It is rather queer to sit in the darkness with 400 or 1,000 men and wonder if a bomb is going to blow you up in the next minute or so. Usually I fly to the piano and play as loudly as I can. Then I don't hear the plane and

DIGGING, STORING POTATOES.

AS long as the ground is not frozen potatoes remaining undug are amply protected. However, they make no further growth now, in this climate, and may be harvested any time that the ground is dry and the temperature is above 32 degrees F. if it has not already been done. The main crop is ready for digging when the tubers are full grown and separate from the dead stem without effort.

In hand digging, a potato hook, spading fork, or spade may be used. A quarter acre is a good average day's work for an experienced man. In large operations they are plowed up with a common walking plow or with a mechanical digger. Any method which does not bruise the tubers and which shakes off the soil, leaving them exposed for drying, is satisfactory.

The first care should be to select seed potatoes for next year, for only in that way can we build up a healthy strain, adapted to soil and environment, and yielding increased returns from year to year. If the field was visited by disease of any kind select the seed potatoes only from hills which resisted it. Select with utmost care the hills containing the largest number of uniformly developed, clean, healthy tubers of medium size, with few and shallow eyes. Pointed ends, numerous eyes, and the presence of small, undeveloped tubers all indicate a degree of degeneracy.

The seed potato reproduces not itself but the hill from which it came, with a tendency to deteriorate. Hence, the hills containing any but perfect tubers should be avoided, as far as possible, in selecting seed. The selected seed potatoes should be kept separately in baskets, apple barrels, or bins, in a dark, ventilated, cool frost-free part of the basement or cellar.

The seed selected, the remainder of the potatoes should be picked at once, kept dry, and, if possible, cooled before storing. To avoid bruising or cutting, a special wooden potato scoop is desirable.

Ideal potato storage requires a temperature of 33 degrees F., good ventilation, and complete darkness. As freezing is fatal both to seed potatoes and to ordinary stored or market potatoes, it is safer to keep the temperature between 35 and 40. Above 40, potatoes, like other root crops, should, for storage extended beyond the holidays, be packed in dry sand.

If only a heated basement is available, a cool, dark ventilated portion should be partitioned off with siding and building paper on both sides of the studding. It would be well to have a similar dead air space in the door as well. Provide a reliable thermometer and a hinged panel in a window for the regulation of temperature and humidity. At low temperatures, it may be necessary to open the door sufficiently to prevent freezing. In such a room separate bins may be provided for all root crops to be stored as well as shelves for cabbage. Squash would preferably be kept somewhat warmer.

If indoor storage is not available potatoes may be stored in the field or garden by piling them on the ground in long heaps shaped like an inverted V, a two inch layer of [illegible] below and several alternate layers of straw and earth packed over the heap, each layer of straw two inches and each layer of earth six inches. A hooded four inch flue every six or eight feet will provide necessary ventilation. A ditch around the pile, below the level of the lowest potatoes, with an outlet to lower ground, will drain off rain and snow. Such storage piles cannot be opened before spring.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Q.—1. When and how should sweet potatoes be dug? 2. The frost nipped the leaves of mine, but not the vines. They are still green, so that the milk shows plainly when the tubers are broken from the vines. Will they keep? 3. How should they be sweated, cured, and stored? 4. Will any harm result from the washing of Irish potatoes at the time they are dug? 5. When should winter radishes be pulled and how should they be kept?—F. B. P.

A.—1. Mow off the tops when there is danger of frost, as frozen tops cause storage rot. Dig the tubers on a dry day before killing frost; that is, actual freezing, or 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Dig or plow them up without bruising and let them lie on the ground a couple of hours till the skin is dry before storing. 2. Not long in this case, as the tops were frosted before separation from the tubers.

3. Discard the bruised or cut and store the rest gently in bins in a fairly dark, well aired basement or cellar, heated to about 90 degrees Fahrenheit, until the sweating process is over, a matter of ten to twenty days. Then gradually reduce the temperature until it reaches about 55 degrees in four weeks or a month, when the curing is complete; maintain approximately that temperature till the tubers are used. The ventilation, too, must be reduced while cooling and increased again only in case sweating resumes. Do not move a potato once in the bin until required for use or shipment. Use them as soon as possible after removal.

4. Not particularly if not bruised in washing, provided the skins were perfectly dried before storing. But why wash? Any adhering soil drops off if the potatoes are gathered dry.

5. Pull when actual freezing is predicted. Cut off the tops at the crown and store in a cool cellar or pit. If stored in a heated basement pack them in nearly dry sand. Use them before January, as they become pithy after that.

Q.—My five egg plants, almost ready to harvest, suddenly wilted and collapsed about three weeks ago. There were no indications of disease or borers, nor could they have been frosted. No other plants were attacked. What was the cause?—G. A. H.

A.—Probably bacillus solanacearum, a bacterial wilt which may attack many of the different plant families. It is spread by insects from infected plants. Destroy the plants with fire at the first sign of infection. Destroy the weeds in the neighborhood and rotate crops. The fruits of the fallen plants are usable.

LEARN A LITTLE AND SAVE A LITTLE EVERY DAY

By Elizabeth O. Hiller

All measurements are made level in these recipes. A teaspoon of regulation size holds sixty drops. Three level teaspoons equal one level tablespoon. Sixteen level tablespoons equal one cup (one-half pint). The half-pint measuring cup is the standard measuring cup used in modern cookery.

MADE WITH KING OF FRUITS.

"EAT an apple a day and all the year physicians may play." The apple was long ago christened the "king of fruits."

Fruits are classified as flavor fruits and nutritive fruits. The apple comes under both of these heads. It possesses medicinal properties that are of value, especially if it is eaten at the beginning of a meal or between meals.

From a dietetic standpoint, the most important function of the apple is that of furnishing mineral salts and organic acids. It has a nutritive value as well, furnished by the carbohydrates present. As the apple ripens, the starch changes to sugar.

The edible portion of apples contains 84.6 per cent of water. Of protein, 4 per cent; of fat, 5 per cent; of carbohydrates, 14.2 per cent. Fuel value, 290 calories per pound.

Apples are more easily digested when cooked; they are, however, not difficult of digestion if eaten raw and well masticated.

The variation of flavor and texture of apples is great; they are often marketed before they mature, and in consequence the cooking and keeping qualities are seriously impaired. Insipid, soft apples are not suitable for canning, preserving, or for jelly making; the tart, sound, juicy apples are the best for such purposes. Fine grained, tart apples are best for sauce. The coarse grained varieties are best for butter or for use with the pulp of other fruits in making marmalade.

In the fall and early winter, apples are at their best, and it is then they should be found on the table daily. The list following gives varieties that are best for use in making sauce, pies, dumplings, and marmalade and for baking, and those that will make good cider: Alexander, Baldwin, Duchess of Oldenberg, Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Golden Russet, Gano, Hubbardston, Jonathan, King, Maiden Blush, McMahan's White, Yellow Bellflower, Red Astracan, Rome Beauty, Rhode Island, Greening, Rambow, Spitzenberg, Twenty Ounce Pippin, Wealthy, and Yellow Transparent. The Baldwin, Buckingham, Dyer Sweet, English Russet, Gravenstein, Golden Sweet, Imperial Rambow, Maiden Blush, Newton Pippin, and Seek No Further are good cider apples.

All apples will not make good cider. The more astringent apples are supposed to make the best cider, but this is not always true. The astringency in the apple is due to tannin, which is essential to good cider; it contributes help in the clearing and adds greatly to the keeping qualities of cider. Sweet apples contain more juice than sour apples, but cider made from these apples is tasteless and flat and has poor keeping qualities. A bitter apple contains a large percentage of tannin and makes little cider. It has, however, a rich, pleasant flavor and good keeping qualities. As the sugar is converted into alcohol, the sugar content is important.

Apples should be sound, mature, and free from pests and vermin. Decayed, overripe and bruised fruit has lost its perfume, some of its water, and a large percentage of the sugar. The juice of such apples is difficult to clarify and turns rapidly to vinegar. Even a small amount of decayed fruit renders the cider unpalatable and seriously injures its keeping qualities.

There are more than 200 ways in which apples may be prepared for table service, a few recipes for which are given:

Apple Sauce.

Wipe, pare, core, and slice the desired number of tart, juicy apples into a saucepan and add sufficient hot water to prevent them from scorching. Cover and place on range, bring to boiling point, cook quickly. When apples are soft, pass them through a ricer or sieve. Add a sprinkle of salt and sugar to sweeten them. Return to range and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. If sauce is served hot, add one tablespoon of butter. Turn into serving dish and sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg. If served cold, omit butter.

Spiced Apple Sauce.

Wipe, pare, and core six or eight tart apples. Place them in saucepan, add just enough water to prevent burning; add three or four cloves and half a dozen Cassia buds. Cook to a mush. Pass through a sieve; return to saucepan, add three-fourths cup of sugar, and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Cool and serve.

Baked Apples.

Wipe and core eight tart apples; arrange them in a granite dripping pan. Fill cavities with sugar and drop one-fourth teaspoon of butter on top of each, sprinkle with cinnamon, sprinkle round one-half cup of sugar, and pour on two cups of cold water. Bake in a slow oven until soft, basting often with sirup in pan. Dispose on serving dish and sprinkle with coarse granulated sugar.

Baked Apples with a Band.

Wipe six large, select Jonathan apples. Make two circular incisions through the skin only around each apple, half way between the stem and blossom ends, leaving a band of red an inch wide on each apple. Carefully core and arrange them in an earthen baking dish. Fill cavities (made by removing cores) with sugar and sprinkle one-third cup of sugar around apples (one-half cup may be used when sugar is plentiful). Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Add cold water to cover bottom of dish to the depth of one inch. Bake in a moderate oven until soft, but not broken, basting every six minutes with sirup in pan. Remove to a shallow serving dish and strain sirup over them. Serve either hot or cold.

Lady Marlborough Pie.

Wipe, pare, core, and steam three tart apples; when soft rub through a sieve, then add one-third cup of butter, one-half cup of sugar, three eggs slightly beaten, the grated rind of one-half a lemon, two tablespoons of lemon juice, two tablespoons of sherry wine, and a few grains salt. Line a pie pan with pastry, place an extra strip of pastry one inch wide around edge of pie. Turn in the mixture, flute the edge with fingers and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Garnish top with a meringue forced through a pastry bag and rose tube; pipe a border around edge of pie and brown delicately in the oven. Just before serving garnish with tiny cubes of apple jelly.

Meringue for Pie—Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff. Add gradually one-fourth cup of powdered sugar; beat rapidly one minute, then fold in three and one-half tablespoons of powdered sugar, add one-half teaspoon of lemon extract, and use as directed.

Apple Pie and Cheese.

[Eugene Field style.]

Pare, core, and cut five large tart apples in eighths. Put them in an earthen baking dish, add enough boiling water to prevent burning, cover closely, and bake three and one-half hours in a moderate oven. Apples will become a dark red color. Cool and sweeten to taste, sprinkle with one-quarter teaspoon of nutmeg and one-eighth teaspoon of salt, dot over with one tablespoon of butter. Add one-half tablespoon of lemon juice and a grating of the rind. Bake between two crusts and serve hot with American cream cheese.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to "The Tribune," but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

For Her Baby.

"Will you please ask if any one has a high chair to give away; also some clothing for a 6 months' old baby? My husband is out of work and I have no money to buy these things.

"H. G."

I am sure there is a high chair occupying space in some one's attic, and baby clothes, half worn perhaps, in the depths of a trunk, that would gladden the heart of Mrs. H. G.

Club for Girls.

"We have organized a club for girls, called the Liberty Girls' club. We have only five so far who have joined and we wish about ten to fifteen more from the ages of 13 to 15. Would you please put this in your Sunday column and see if any one would like to join? Please send them my name and address and tell them to write to me?

"L. L. P."

If any young girls are interested in this club, I shall be happy to send them the address of its secretary.

An Old Heater Wanted.

"I am writing to ask if any one has an old heater they no longer need. I have six nice basement rooms, but cannot depend entirely on my cook stove to heat the rooms we will need this winter. We are a family of five small children. My husband enlisted in June. We have just moved into this nice flat and I am trying to fix it up as nice as I can, without going in debt. If any one has any discarded furniture I would be glad to pay express on any I could get. By the time I figure my rent, coal, gas, and shoes for five children, I won't have much to spare out of my allotment from the government. My husband enlisted voluntarily, and I am happy and contented to know he is serving his country.

"A. R."

It's a privilege to be of service to a soldier's family, isn't it? In these days of steam heat and furnace, I have not a doubt more than one basement harbors a stove in excellent condition. By passing it along you will be lightening this woman's cheerfully borne burden, and thereby doing a bit to win the war.

Rogers' 1847 Silverware

At Half Price

A short time ago we purchased all the remaining stock of the 1847 Rogers Bros. discontinued patterns of Charter Oak and Sharon. At that time they delivered us a large shipment, which we then placed on sale; we are now offering the balance of the wonderful purchase and have marked the articles offered at one-half the regular price. No silverware is perhaps so well known and so great a favorite as 1847 Rogers Bros. "Seventy Year Plate," which since 1847 has ranked as a supreme achievement of the silver plater's art. This probably will be the last time in many years you will have the opportunity to buy 1847 Rogers Bros. silverware AT ½ PRICE.

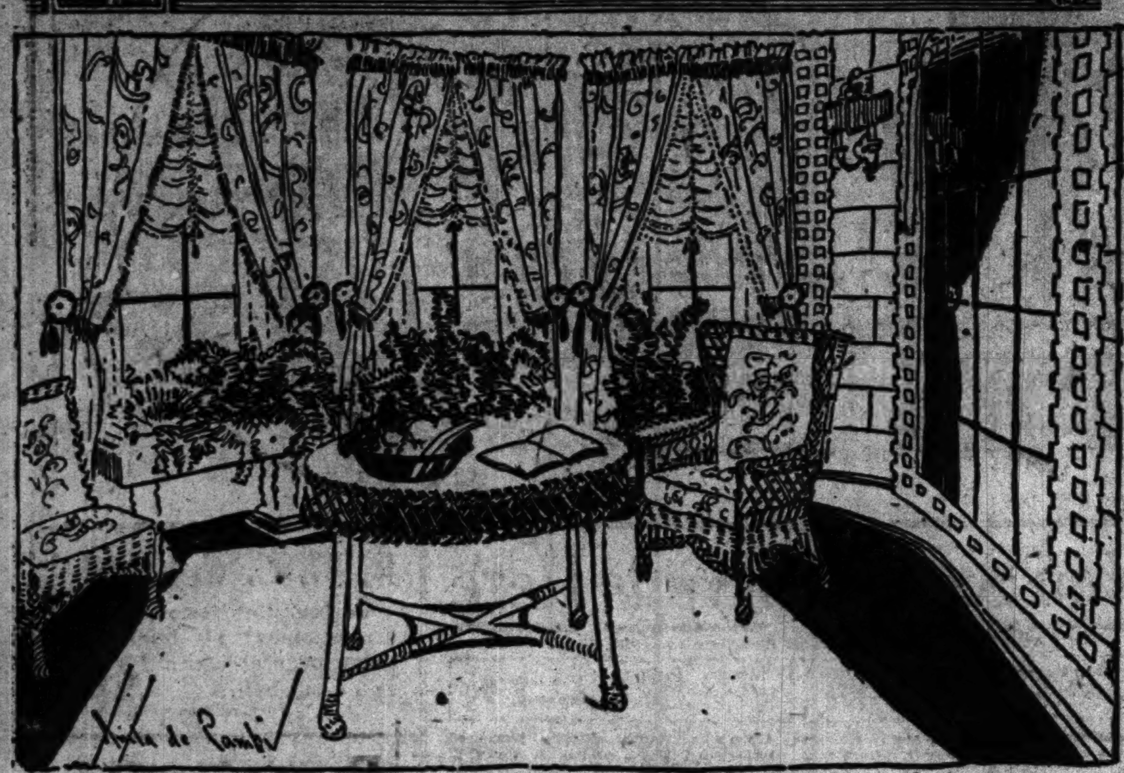
The HOME HARMONIOUS

by Anita de Campi



The Sun-room is well glassed in.

Miss de Campi will be glad to assist the home maker in any problems pertaining to interior decorations. Address your letter to Miss Anita de Campi, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago. Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

So seldom do we hear nowadays of the lavish expenditure of money that the fact of any person spending thousands of dollars upon the furnishing of a new home affords us a thrill of excitement. If we do not talk about it in whispers, as though it were a new peculiar species of scandal, we hail it as a sign—a sort of herald of returning prosperity.

At any rate the new home in question is a marvel of beauty and the patriotic owner has invested the equivalent of its price in Liberty bonds. It is well worth minute description, as it has been designed and executed by a corps of splendid artists who have devoted months of untiring study in working it all out to its final glorious competition.

A notable feature is the contrasts that are afforded between the different rooms by a complete variance of styles. To commingle opposite styles and yet blend them into a harmonious whole requires the most consummate skill. The manner in which this has been done will serve as an excellent guide to aspiring homemakers, who, less affluent perhaps, are stacking up Liberty bonds to cut loose with when the war is over.

The reception hall is carried out in Italian renaissance, the door is flanked by a pair of torcheres, four branch candlesticks with gold standards covered half way up the stem with garnet velvet. The candle shades are of painted parchment. They are peculiarly shaped. The top of each shade is much in the shape of a four leaf clover. The sides are quite perpendicular, following this outline, so that each candle has almost a complete shade, but the four shades so formed are joined into one piece by narrow little inset panels. The lighting is supplemented by a center lantern and side lights of Venetian glass, in gold frames.

On the center table is a runner of real filet lace trimmed at the ends with heavy tassels. Nothing is on the runner but a Venetian glass vase filled with a few flowers. Smuggled into a rounded corner of the hall is a kidney shaped sofa, upholstered in Italian red damask. Two great arm chairs are copies of originals from St. Paul's cathedral. They have seat cushions of pigeon blood velvet.

French doors separate the reception hall from the living room, which is informally furnished with judicious commingling of eighteenth century English period pieces.

The pair of sofas are striking. They are high at one end and low at the other. These flank the fireplaces vis-a-vis. The covering is of the most practical material calculated to stand hard wear. It is a golden fawn striped mohair velvet with inset cushions and bolsters. The ends and boxing are of fawn colored silk rep. The wing chair is of soft brown grospoint flowered in dull colors.

Antique imperial Chinese embroidery on an amethyst background is used for the wonderful table cover.

One pair of parchment lamp shades is ornamented with silhouettes in classic Greek figures, simply done in black. There is also a Chinese lacquered lamp, and tiny blue lacquered table.

The rest of the furniture is an informal assortment. There is a walnut sofa upholstered in damask at one side wall, and against the same wall is a pair of tall backed Italian chairs. An Empire desk is by the window. There are three other tables, an Empire wall table and an early Georgian card table, while a gate leg table and the good wing chair, covered with cross stitch worsted embroidery, hold the center of the room. Several wheel back Adam chairs with loose brocade cushions complete the seating arrangement.

An expression of the owner's personal good taste is indicated in the selection of framed paintings, which are not only good in scale, but well placed in the paneled walls, being hung on short cords and tassels not extending as high as ordinary picture moldings, but touch the upper inside edge only of the wall panels, thus keeping their places within the panels.

The dining room is the one room in the house that is furnished with strict formality. Every detail conforms to the Adam period. All of the hardware is of silver—silver candle side brackets, etc. Exception is made in favoring of one wall mirror which is framed in gold, Adam design. The inside draperies are of faint robin's egg brocaded in a lighter tint, in festoon and urn, in Adam design. The center light is of carved alabaster set in a heavy band of silver, suspended from the molded ceiling by silver chains. The furniture is made after special Adam design and is of walnut. The chair seats are upholstered in blue brocade.

The sun room, opening from the living room, is treated in outdoor garden effect. The walls are done in Caën stone and the floor is of stone mosaic. Over the stone of the side wall is a good trelliage ornamented with cut out birds and flowers of flat wood, delicately painted. The curtains are of mustard colored linen, hand blocked in big breezy patterns, showing baskets of fruit and flowers. At each side is an immense mirror framed in trelliage. These, together with the front windows and the French doors, make the room completely glassed in. The furniture is of old ivory enameled wicker, with the braided wicker borders painted mustard yellow and blue to match the color motifs in the linen. The curtain knobs are also painted in color.

The master's bedroom is furnished in jade green, golden powdered lacquer, with day covers of flame colored silk trimmed with black quilling and black and flame colored brocatelle window draperies. The mistress' bedroom is a delicately tinted Louis XVI. affair, with pastel shades of taffeta trimmings to the well shaped old ivory enameled furniture.

F. S.: No special preparations were made. The calcimine [old ivory] was simply painted on the wood work and washed off at the expiration of the lease. It stayed on and looked well.

PATRIOTIC and PRACTICAL NEEDLEWORK

by Clotilde

THE SWEATER.

The Red Cross always is glad to get well knitted sweaters, but particularly at this time of year. It gives two different direction sheets, one for light weight and one for heavy weight wool. It is essential to note the difference in the make of the two. The following are important suggestions which will prove valuable in the making of both.

Casting on and binding off must be loose.

When knitting with two needles always slip first stitch.

To measure a garment, lay it on a level surface, and measure with a dependable measure (wood, metal, or celluloid, not a tape line).

Terms used (applying to plain knitting with two needles): A "row" means once across; a "ridge" or "rib" means once across and back.

The directions for the lightweight wool follow: Quantity of wool required, about three-quarter pound of 4-10 yarn. One pair of Red Cross needles No. 3.

Cast on 78 stitches. Knit 2, purl 2, for 4 inches. Knit plain 17 inches. (A.) Knit 28 stitches; knit 2, purl 2, for 22 stitches; then knit 28. (B.) Knit 28 stitches; purl 2, knit 2, for 22 stitches then knit 28. Repeat (A) and (B) for 12 rows (2 inches). Knit 28 stitches bind off 22 stitches (opening for neck) knit 28.

First shoulder: Knit 2, purl 2, for 28 stitches; then knit 2, purl 2, back over the 28 stitches. Continue to knit and purl back and forth in this way 15 times, which leaves wool at inner edge. Break off wool and tie it on at neck opening for the second shoulder: Purl 2, knit 2, for 28 stitches; then purl 2, knit 2, back over the 28 stitches. Continue to knit and purl back and forth in this way 15 times, which leaves the wool at the outer edge. Knit plain 28 stitches; cast on 22 stitches, and knit plain across the 28 stitches of first shoulder. [C] Knit 28 stitches, purl 2, knit 2, for 22 stitches, then knit 28. [D] Knit 28 stitches, knit 2, purl 2, for 22 stitches; then knit 28. Repeat [C] and [D] for 12 rows (2 inches). Knit plain 17 inches. Knit 2, purl 2, for 4 inches. Bind off loosely. Sew up sides, leaving 9 inches for armholes. Single crochet one row around neck and armholes.

Measurements: Neck (when stretched) 11½ to 12½ inches. Across chest (not stretched) 17 to 20 inches.

The directions for the heavyweight wool follow:

Quantity of wool required, about one pound, or four hanks of four-fifths yarn; one pair Red Cross needles No. 3.

Cast on seventy-two stitches; knit two, purl two, for three inches; knit across and purl back for ten inches; knit one row; [a] knit six, purl across, and knit last six stitches; [b] knit all the way across; repeat [a] and [b] for eight inches; knit across and back eight times [making four ridges]; knit six, then purl one, knit one, for eleven stitches, knit six; bind off twenty-six stitches for neck.

First shoulder—Knit six, then purl one, knit one, for eleven stitches, knit six; knit seven, then purl one, knit one, for ten stitches, knit six. Continue to knit and purl back and forth in this way fourteen times, which leaves the wool at inner edge. Break off wool and tie it on at neck opening for the second shoulder. Knit seven, then purl one, knit one, for ten stitches, knit six; knit six, then purl one, knit one, for eleven stitches, knit six. Continue to knit and purl back and forth in this way fourteen times, which leaves the wool at inner edge. Cast on twenty-six stitches, knit six, then purl one, knit one, for eleven stitches, knit six; knit across and back eight times [making four ridges]; [c] knit all the way across; [d] knit six, purl across, and knit last six stitches; repeat [c] and [d] for eight inches. Knit across and purl back for ten inches. Purl two, knit two, for three inches. Bind off loosely. Sew up sides, leaving nine inches for armholes. Single crochet one row around neck and armholes.

Measurements: Neck [when stretched], eleven and one-half to twelve and one-half inches; across chest [not stretched], seventeen to twenty inches.

"BUSINESS AS USUAL."

FROM the time we went into the war up to the present day the men who have been called into the service of the government have been replaced, as far as possible, by women workers. At the beginning of the war, at the time when the conscription bill was passed, a great many people expressed the opinion that the business of the country would "go to the dogs" because of the number of men who would be drawn from the business field for military service. After nearly a year and a half no great calamity has happened to business. It is going on to a great extent as usual.

Now, however, after the new draft will have given its quota of men to the military ranks, the lack of men needed to carry on the industries and commerce of the country will undoubtedly be keenly felt, for a while, at any rate, and it is up to the women of the country to fill in the gaps wherever possible and to make a valiant effort toward keeping business in a normal condition. It will mean that the working woman will have to work harder than she has ever done before, and that she is willing to do work that hitherto she considered exclusively a man's job. As the women in England and France have done it, so will we do it here. Factory conditions throughout England have been adjusted in order to suit the women workers and already changes are being made in some of our great plants.

In talking to an employer the other day about the changes in working conditions brought about by the war he told me that where his institution, which is a high class commercial house, had employed about fifty girls last year, they now had 133, against 128 men at the present time. Their normal amount of men employés is 170. When I asked him how the business was getting along he said: "A great deal better than we expected last year. We were almost in despair when our men gradually left us, as we thought some of the positions in the house could never be filled by women, but, much to our surprise, the women throughout our establishment are succeeding wonderfully, not only in the routine clerical jobs but in the more responsible positions where we never had a woman before. Now two of our department heads are women, and they are holding down their jobs with as much tact and efficiency as the men before them."

The above, I think, is a splendid tribute to women workers and indicates how completely they adjusted themselves to the new conditions and helped the commercial world to live up to the slogan—"Business as usual."

ETIQUETTE

by ELIZABETH VAN RENSSELAER

Any question on etiquette will be answered if you write to Elizabeth Van Rensselaer, "Chicago Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

PLAINT OF A WAR WORKER.

NONE of us has ever known times equal to the present. Our young men are fighting, or preparing to, almost all our women are engaged in some kind of work, there is a feeling of tension, of physical and mental strain.

And what are we of the feminine sex doing to relieve this surcharged atmosphere? Some of us—praise be!—realize the danger of the situation as well as its intense and pleasurable excitement, but there are all too many who have not done so.

Only the other day a young friend of mine came to me in tears, and said that the older woman to whom she had offered her services with no thought of financial recompense continually scolded and nagged at her until her days, which she had patriotically wished to devote to her country's needs, were becoming hours of torture. "It isn't that my work is so awful," continued the poor girl, "but she is so nervous that everything displeases her, good, bad or indifferent."

Let us hope this is an unusual case, but the mere fact of its existence throws a light on our path of duty. Any of us who are fortunate enough—or unlucky enough, as one worn out "born leader" puts it—to be in a position of authority, must watch our step more vigilantly than ever before, lest we make some one of our helpers as wretched as did this doubtless well meaning but misguided woman.

Another friend in much the same situation, but with the saving grace of a never failing sense of humor, said to me in mock despair, albeit with a foundation of seriousness observable only to the initiate, "If only the powers that be would throw a bone of commendation now and then, instead of criticism, how happy we poor underdogs would be!"

But throw more than that, ye who sit in judgment—although no one has time to sit nowadays—it will pay in the long run. We are all human, and it is a human trait to take an added interest in work that is liked and appreciated. I do not mean by that no corrections are to be made. There is, without doubt, a good deal of remodeling necessary, but cannot this be done in a kindly, constructive spirit?

War work is plentiful, and true Americans are responding wonderfully. Let us all help them to do well by first being well bred women and then well or better trained leaders. A friendly word of praise will often do more good than a harsh admonition, and if correction is needed, see that it is offered in a courteous though firm way.

E. M. S.: Until a man in the United States army is commissioned, he should be introduced as plain Mr. So-and-So." Even after he receives a commisson he ought not, in strict military etiquette, to be addressed by it until he reaches the rank of first lieutenant. Shaking hands with a friend is like giving him whole-heartedly the hospitality of your house. When a young man comes to call, you will make no social error by offering him your hand. It is the courteous way to greet a caller. It is not necessary to take your guest's hat; just show him where he can put it for the extent of his call.

E. Z. Z.: Why not wait the customary year before declaring your love to the other girl? In the meantime, you can be winning her friendship. You will be far more likely to succeed by not giving her a chance, along with your other friends and family, to criticize your precipitateness. No girl can fall in love with a man whom she cannot trust, and with whom it seems a clear case of "out of sight, out of mind." Mourning must go deeper than the mere outer signs, you know, and if you seem disrespectfully hasty, no one will admire you or believe in your sincerity.

Doris Blake Says

Have you a perplexing love affair in which you need the counsel of a friend? Write Doris Blake, care "The Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply send stamped, addressed envelope.

If you were born this week you are Conscientious.

IF you were born the week beginning today you are still under the influence of the sign Libra (Sept. 22-Oct. 22). You have a high order of mechanical ability and if you are a journeyman carpenter the finer work of finishing falls to you.

You see the weak points, the imperfections, the limitation of what others construct and always find a ready method of removing imperfections and completing what others have left unfinished. You are a natural adjuster of incomplete or imperfect work and never at a loss to supply just what is needed to make up a deficiency.

You are no dollar a day man. If you are a woman, you don't go out washing by the day for a living. You will be found in the best establishment in the city, and likely in charge of the most artistic department. But you are apt to break down through your close attention to business. Take more rest and quiet recreation. Learn to "loaf" and invite your soul to join you. You will not overdo it. And when you go home at night leave the shop behind and relax and rest. You will not cheat any one.

Your intuitional and psychic powers are marked. You can live in a world of ideality and are loving and true. No one need doubt your genuineness. You wear no mask, but show yourself as you are. People learn to place implicit confidence in your judgment and rectitude.

Positive and combative as you are, you attract the same sort of people and you have many warm friends among Scorpio people. You have much originality and know how to keep your own counsel. You never give any reason for what you think or do. It is sufficient for you that you have a reason, but that is your own affair. If you are a teacher, you are thorough and painstaking, with the faculty of making your pupils see the point you are driving at.

You have not many intimates, but those whom you do admit to your friendship you take close. You are thorough in everything, true and loyal to your friends, and conscientious in your dealings. You love deeply, are fond of refined and good society, like to dress well, and are a dear lover of nature, especially in her solitary aspects.

A marriage with Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) is a sympathetic one, as well as a marriage with Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19). But perhaps the happiest union of all would be with Aries (March 20-April 19). In fact, all Libra people have a large choice when compared with other signs, but in spite of this they are prone to make themselves unhappy by a marriage with Pisces. This is said to make the worst kind of a combination because Libra people act from intuition and Pisces are ruled by reason and logic.

Camp Stories Contest.

Your son, your brother, your husband, or your sweetheart in the service undoubtedly has told you some amusing incident that has occurred in his camp. Undoubtedly, too, there are ever so many stories originating in camp that are still untold. This contest is especially open to the soldier himself if he has a good camp story to tell. It is open also to every one who has been told a good camp story of actual happening. The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Warmly Greeted.

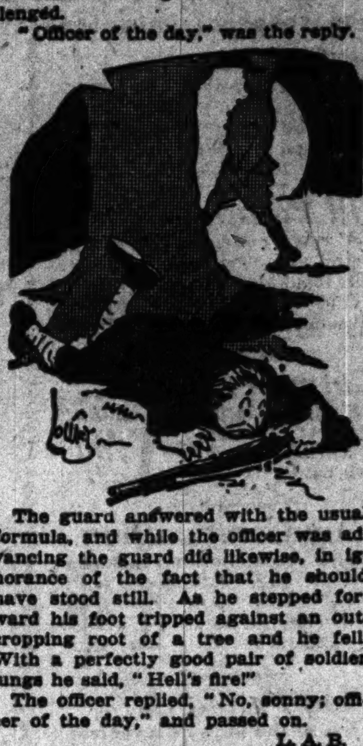
A rookie was placed on guard on a post between the officers' quarters and the camp, in the midst of a clump of large trees. He was beating his post quietly when he heard footsteps.

"Halt! Who goes there?" he challenged.

"Officer of the day," was the reply.



The guard answered with the usual formula, and while the officer was advancing the guard did likewise, in ignorance of the fact that he should have stood still. As he stepped forward his foot tripped against an outcropping root of a tree and he fell. With a perfectly good pair of soldier lungs he said, "Hell's fire!"

The officer replied, "No, sonny; officer of the day," and passed on.

He Saw the Point.

A private in the coast artillery writes that another boy spent a half hour hunting for a bayonet for the twelve inch gun. He adds that if another soldier hadn't told him to "get wise" he might still be looking.

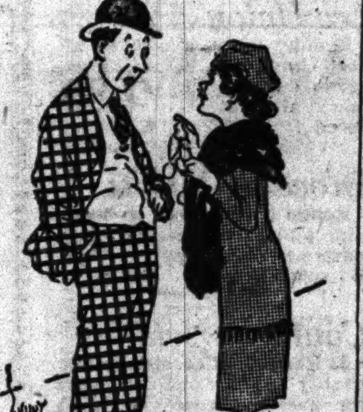
His Wife Had Tagged Him.

The fact that it was to be a tag day I completely overlooked when I gave my wife all the money I possessed before leaving home. At the first business corner a fair maid of my acquaintance approached me, armed with a bunch of tags and a cash box. She came up smiling and I responded likewise. I slipped my hand in my pocket while she fixed a tag on my coat lapel.



Then it suddenly dawned on me. Ye gods, I felt embarrassed! I remained so for about two minutes, the girl's smile gradually dying away and my countenance losing its satisfied air the more I searched. Every pocket I investigated, but nothing doing. I hadn't the semblance of a sou. Then, just as I mentally cursed the kaiser and wondered what on earth I could do, my deliverer arrived. He came in the shape of a friend, who grubstaked me to the extent of a welcome two bits.

Mother's Pet Needs a Cascaret

Baby is mad! Doesn't want the favorite dolly, or the horn, or the picture books—but don't scold!

Look at the tongue! Then hurry! Give candy Cascarets to work the nasty bile, souring food and constipation poison from the little liver and bowels.

MOTHERS! Clean the clogged-up places. Do away with the bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison which is keeping your little one cross, feverish and sick. Children love Cascarets, because to them it is like eating candy. Cascarets act better than castor oil, calomel or pills on the tender stomach, liver and bowels. Cascarets never gripe, never injure, and do not disappoint the worried mother. Give harmless Cascarets to children one year old and upwards. Each ten cent box contains full directions.

A Car Load of Fine Felt Mattresses Are Here at ⅓ Off

Ninth Floor

With the prevailing high prices for cotton, this is the most remarkable purchase of fine felt mattresses we have ever consummated, and brings an opportunity to economize of such proportions which we know Chicago will grasp eagerly indeed.

This carload of mattresses was made for a leading St. Louis concern and countermanded only after mattresses had been loaded.

To avoid the constant rehandling necessary the manufacturers decided to slash the price deeply if we would haul them direct from the freight yards, and you save accordingly. You'll quickly recognize them as one of America's best known brands—a brand that spells dependability—which makes these economies all the more tempting.

The More Bonds You Buy
The Fewer Boys Will Die!

AMONG US MORTALS
WITH THE HOME GUARD

By W. E. HILL

"Mabel, child! What is the matter? You've been crying!" "Oh, it's all on account of those terrible questionnaires. I filled out part of Will's for him and sent it in, and I answered 'Yes' where I should have put 'No'; now he's classified as criminally insane. And now they'll think he's trying to get out of the draft—and he wasn't even going to claim exemption."

The Civil Service examination. "I've been studying my synonymes all week, and, my dear, there's woids and woids I never even knew there was before."

If the war hasn't done anything else it has silenced the man who used to camp out in the Pullman smoker and ramble on for hours about travel abroad, and how there wasn't one place along the Mediterranean where you could get a good order of pork chops and fried potatoes of a Sunday morning, and not a taxi to be had—forced to go home in a street-car.

A little gathering at the Press Club. "Why, as far back as a year ago last May I said to Creel. 'Now, look here, if you want to make a success of this thing.' "——

"You might ask him, if it's not too much trouble, when they get into Germany to send your Aunt Addie a bottle of water from the Rhine. She's set her heart on something like that for her new cabinet."

Mr. Opp, who has explained at length many times in the past year that he felt he could do more good here at home tending to his job and buying Liberty bonds. Here he is shown just inside a doorway till the Liberty Loan canvasser is out of the way.

Derided—and by the Shuberts

By Percy Hammond.

WITH reference to recent dramatic works of the Hattons and Mr. Lait of Chicago, the general manager for the Messrs. Shubert is interviewed as follows in the New York Evening World:

"Chicago playwrights ought to come to New York and live a while before they try to write plays for Broadway. They ought to absorb some of the atmosphere of internationalism this city has. They don't know how to write for Broadway. Their work is provincial. Let them come here and learn New York before they write plays intended for New York consumption. And, incidentally, let them bring some of the Chicago dramatic critics along. There's a lot to be learned here."

The Shubert executive's solicitude for the welfare of the Broadway drama is in line with his firm's aspirations. No company of producers has been more eager in welldoing for the American theater than the Messrs. Shubert. In fact, they have put it where it is. When melancholy guides the critic's pen and bids him write of nothing but despair all he has to do is to visit a Winter Garden show and there renew his waning faith. Many a gloomy misanthrope, despondent of the drama, has, in visiting "Seven Days' Leave," for example, been heartened by its superiorities, and gone home cheerful in the hope of the dramatic renaissance it promises. No one has more right to speak frankly and honestly of the theater faults of others than these Messrs. Shubert.

But in justice to Mr. and Mrs. Hatton and Mr. Lait it ought to be said that, while of outland birth and breeding, they have spent considerable time inhaling the atmosphere of "internationalism" (sic) available in Broadway. Mr. Hatton is a native of Mount Pleasant, Ia., and Chicago boasts of itself that Mrs. Hatton was born here under brilliant aposrodc auspices. Mr. Lait is a son of levantine New England, but a resident of the cosmos, and I'll wager that he knows more Broadway head waiters by their first names than do all the members of the Shubert entourage. The Hattons since their inland geneses, have motored through many foreign parts, and existence in New York to them is no complex problem. Their bright, frontier eyes penetrate its atmosphere of "internationalism," enabling them to record such gases, salubrious and otherwise, as it may contain.

So I should say that the Hattons and Mr. Lait are pungent examples of absorbent Chicagoans who have breathed the magic, international ether of Broadway, and have been thereby improved. What salient provincialisms they may have inherited from the humble preface to their careers is now hid beneath a cloak of cosmopolitan aplomb. They have learned to enter the salons of the Biltmore, threading their ways through the "buyers" without increased respirations; and if they should chance to lunch at the Claridge adjacent to a Shubert, a Dillingham, or a Klaw & Erlanger, they would retain a commendable composure. These Chicago dramatists, Messrs. Shubert, have already gone through the school you suggest for them. Abandoning for the Drama's sake the fresh waters of the Great Lakes, they have drunk deep of the wild cow's milk. They know Life, because they have lived in and around Broadway and Forty-second street. And they put a pail of pet goldfish in the living room of one of their swell New York plays!

As to the Chicago editors the Shuberts are right. All of us should each season go to New York and take a course in Al Jolson and the Howard Bros., Willie and Eugene. There is, as the derisive Shuberts say, a lot to be learned on Broadway, most of it from the Shuberts.

Importuned by an irritated reader to write once in a while a puff about an actor, I select offhand and without the deliberation due so momentous a function, the merry labors of Harry Fox in "Oh, Look!"

You may ask, "Why Harry Fox," when in our midst are such celebrities as Cyril Scott, the Tschekow Cats, William Hodge, Leonard Ide, Reeves-Smith, Billy V. Van, and the Princess Panhoi and her Six Hawaiians? I don't know, except that Mr. Fox pleases me and many others by his quiet, smiling ways, his target singing, and his smart undercurrent of sophisticated wit in a musical play which needs that element to help out its undeveloped humor.

Much in William Collier's fashion does Mr. Fox go about his impersonation, save that he seems more friendly than Mr. Collier, being younger and less disillusioned. One may puff him because he can sing a song, he can dance a dance, he can make a joke, and he can act an act with a minimum of fuss. He likes to slink up on you and take you by surprise, which, of course, he may not often do, since you are so alert. I felt sorry for him the other night, however, when, as the hero of "Oh, Look," with only two-bits in his pocket, he was invited by his sweetheart to taxi-cab her into Town. The situation seemed to be humorous enough, but the new audience didn't get it until Mr. Fox walked down into the footlights and exhibited his ultimate twenty-five cents, explaining again in words of one syllable the comedy of his predicament.

Mr. Reeves-Smith also adds to the current comforts of the theater. He is an adept in portraits of the quizzical sophistication of solvent New Yorkers aged 50; and in "Polly With a Past" his masculinity is no less than a benison. How welcome is he when in the last act he steps into the rather pink and falsetto picture! The wise, half-grin, the grace, and assurance of his presence, the suavity and ease with which he achieves the points of his rôle are both good and popular. There isn't in Chicago just now any better impersonation than Mr. Reeves-Smith's except in "A Cure for Curables," where a lot of comparative unknowns show you the difference between impersonation and characterization, being too honest to be prominent.

The Follies, banished from Boston by the epidemic, in the midst of its run at the Colonial theater there, finds haven in New York, where it will begin an engagement at the Globe tomorrow.

Miss Peggy Cameron, who played at Powers' with Miss May Robson in "A Little Bit Old Fashioned," died last week in Boston of pneumonia. She acted the "ingenue's" rôle. She was 22.

Guy Bates Post has returned from Australia where he was prosperous in "The Masquerader" and "The Nigger," with Miss Thais Lawton as his leading woman.

Miss Maude Fulton, who used to sing and dance with William Rock, has bought a big theater in Oakland, Cal., changed its name from the Bishop to the Fulton, and is acting in it in a play written by herself and called "Mary, a String of Beads."

Thomas W. Wise, having come a cropper in "Mr. Barnum," has returned to "General Post" and is traveling in Canada. William Courtenay, his co-star in that play, and in "Pals First," is now the leading hero in "The Maid of the Mountain," a Comstock-Elliott-Gest musical comedy.

Mr. Zeigfeld has hired Miss Martha Hedman to play the principal rôle in his English importation, "By Pigeon Post," a comedy by Austin Strong. Conway Tearle is her accessory.

Of "Tea for Three," in which Arthur Byron is playing, Miss Baird Leonard writes in the New York Telegraph that "it is the best play I've seen—I can't believe that Roi Cooper Megrue wrote it. It sounds about as much like him as Fannie Hurst sounds like Joseph Addison."

Joseph Santley has begun to rehearse "Oh, Yes," the latest of Comstock, Elliott, and Gest's "Oh" series. With him are Miss Ivy Sawyer, Miss Juliette Day, Miss Georgia Caine, Miss Miriam Collins, Miss Marjorie Bentley, Roy Atwell, James Bradbury, and others.

Messrs. McIntyre and Heath are writing a new play for themselves treating of two comic darkies and the draft. One act will be in the south, another in a cantonment, and the other two overseas. Walter Kingsley, writing in the Dramatic Mirror, recalls Joseph Jefferson's statement that McIntyre and Heath were among the greatest American actors, which, of course, they still are.

Chauncey Olcott has a new play, "The Voice of McConnell," written for him by George M. Cohan.

"In the Saving Grace" Cyril Maude plays Blinn Corbett, a genial, irresponsible "waster," who in London at the beginning of the war finds himself fallen upon very evil days. The play tells why and how his fortunes change. C. Haddon Chambers, author of "Passersby" and "The Tyranny of Tears," wrote it, and Miss Laura Hope Crews, Miss Cathleen Nesbit, Miss Charlotte Granville, and William Devereux help to play it.

Miss Maude Adams began a tour of the south at Lynchburg, Va., last week, playing Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella."

Miss Barrymore will begin her wanderings next week in R. C. Carton's "The Off Chance," with Atlantic City as her jumping off place. Her rôle is that of a witty, capable woman of the world, who has been divorced from one husband and has married another. Her daughter, by her first husband, now grown up, has, with the assistance of her stodgy father and her meddlesome stepmother, made a mess of her married life with an irresponsible young duke and the mother arrives just in time to arrange a desperate scheme—the "off chance" of the title—to set matters right again.

"Eyes of Youth" seems to be not quite right for London, and Miss Gertrude Elliott is having it taken apart and put together again. The rewriters have added a scene to the third act to make it more romantic.

Miss Margaret Mayo of the Over There Theater league writes from France:

"Do urge upon the profession the necessity of this work, and tell them of the great joy it brings to the people who are doing it. It is worth all the struggle to get here and see how the boys relax as the show goes on, and how much freer and happier they seem when we leave them. The conditions under which we play vary so much that there's no chance of monotony. For instance, we jumped from a 25,000 audience in the Tuileries Gardens, Paris, to a handful of tired men many miles away working on a barge canal, and finishing a temporary platform for us when we arrived.

"The need of entertainment is great—beyond imagination. The boys read in the Stars and Stripes that entertainers are here or are coming, and if they get left out—as most of them must—they feel hurt and neglected. There are two kinds over here—those who have seen Elsie Janis and the ones who have not. The ones who have are happy and feel favored, and the ones who haven't feel disappointed and grouchy.

"She's done all that we heard she had done and a lot more besides. Any one else who is willing to try to follow in her footsteps will never be sorry."

Changes in the Chicago theaters include the arrival of "Three Faces East" at the Olympic next Sunday, "Rock-a-bye Baby," at the Garrick, Oct. 20; "The Rotters" at the Playhouse, Oct. 21, and "Business Before Pleasure" Oct. 20, at the Woods.

News and Comment of the Theater

Miss Elsie Janis, having left the war in France, to go to London, writes thus to the boys she left behind her:

"My Dear Boys: Each and every one, 'hello' and au revoir for the present. I am in London about to make some money. You all know how difficult money is to find over there, and I have not found any for seven months. I shall be thinking about you and pulling for you.

"To those that I have met and had the honor of singing for I say, keep the pep that you had when I saw you. To those I did not see I say I'm sorry, but I will get you yet.

"Don't forget me. Good luck to you all. Get a Hun for me, and if you want anything that I can get for you, write to me, Palace theater, London. You see, I shall not be very far away from you all and the big show.

"Always your friend,

"Elsie Janis.

"P. S.—Love from mother."

In Mr. George Kaufman's column in this morning's New York Times is to be found the following news of the theaters:

The thick silence from the William Harris offices regarding the immediate future of Fay Bainter was penetrated during the week by a hardy scout, who reported that Mr. Harris is preparing, with much secrecy, to present Miss Bainter in a dramatization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's stories, "The Sub-Deb." The time, the place and the author of the play continue to be secrets. The stories, which enjoyed a considerable vogue in Saturday Evening Post form, came forth in the movies about a year ago with Marguerite Clark as their heroine.

Bertha Kalich is preparing to enter New York with "The Riddle Woman," her destination being the Harris theater some time next week. The supporting cast is of the variety known as formidable, with A. E. Anson and Robert Edeson at the head of it. "Some Night," now at the Harris, will presumably move on toward Chicago.

Miss Inez Buck in "Lombardi Ltd."—Cort

The late "Dolly of the Follies," a farce which A. H. Woods put through several preliminary canters during the summer, is no more, and Hazel Dawn and one or two others of its cast are now rehearsing a little thing entitled "Go Easy, Mabel," also a Woods bit and the work of Wilson Collison. In addition to Miss Dawn those in the cast include John Mason and Walter Jones, and there is some talk of also snaring Enid Markey, a movie actress.

The announcement that Mr. Jolson and "Sinbad" will enter upon their last week at the Century tomorrow probably means that the house will be the home of "Freedom," the patriotic spectacle which Julie Opp and others are sponsoring.

"Information, Please," which opened the Selwyn on Wednesday, completes the trio of plays which the Misses Cowl and Murfin swore to write together. The first was "Daybreak" and the second "Lilac Time." While it is early to offer predictions in the case of the new piece, the indications are that the authors have won success, or some measure of it, with each of the three. The first, "Daybreak," did not long endure the glare of the Broadway lights, but, inasmuch as it took to the provinces, it can hardly be classed as a failure. "Lilac Time" was profitable both here and on the road—hugely so in Chicago.

"The Very Idea," unlike most risque farces, is finding the road highly profitable and a fourth company is now being organized. It will have none other than William H. Crane in the rôle played here by Richard Bennett, and it will be seen in the Pacific coast region.

The natural desire of A. H. Woods to realize promptly on his war plays, in view of the news from the other side, may lead to the release of "Friendly Enemies" for the films while it is still enjoying prosperity at the Hudson and elsewhere—a highly unusual proceeding, by the way. One film concern is said to have offered 50 per cent of the profits with an additional payment of $50,000 in advance, for the celluloid rights.

Winthrop Ames, taking a moment here and there from his activities in behalf of the Over There Theater league is preparing Maeterlinck's sequel to "The Bluebird" for metropolitan consumption and the chances are that it will be produced at the Little theater before the month is over. The piece is entitled "The Betrothal," and reintroduces many characters of the earlier piece. Tyltyl, grown to 17, is the play's hero.

Fannie Brice having tried the "legitimate" is on her way back to vaudeville. Another who will soon reappear in the varieties is Frank Tinney. Mr. Tinney, if the matter can be arranged, will have James J. Corbett as his conversational partner, but at a late hour Friday the latter was insisting upon an equal share of the spoils, and the canny Tinney was not inclined to look upon the proposition with favor.

"The Crowded Hour" was to have opened in Washington tonight, but the closing of the theaters in that city on Friday left the play dangling. Channing Pollock probably will be represented in New York by a pair of plays this season, for his "Roads of Destiny," a drama based upon the idea in O. Henry's story of the same name, will go into rehearsal in another week. A. H. Woods is the impresario in the case and Florence Reed the star.

"Der vos no charge. He did it for nothing."

"No, no. I mean how did dey come to arrest you?"

"In a patrol waggon."

"Did you haf der money to pay der fine vid?"

"No. So I asked for a little time."

"Und did dere chudge gif it to you?"

"O, yes; he gif me thirty days."

"You ain't get der edumacation"

"Don't say dot. Ven I vent to school I vos der third highest in der class."

"How many scholars were dere in your class?"

"Three."

"How did you efer come to get married?"

"Vell, you see, I meet a girl who was hunting for a flat."

"Vell, she certainly found a flat ven she landed you."

"I don't drink near as much I used to."

"Vy not? Isn't your digestion as good as it vas?"

"O, yes; but my credit ain't."

"I'll see if you know anything about arifmetic."

"Help yourself."

"If steak is 40 cents a pound, how much vould four pounds come to?"

"They wouldn't come to our house at that price."

"Vhy did you call your baby Bill?"

"Because he came on the first of the month."

O'Neil and Walmsley:

"Remember, there's one lady at this party that I especially want you to meet. She's got all kinds of money."

"Dat don't do me no good."

"Ain't you ambitious to die rich?"

"I ain't ambitious to die under any sukumanstances."

"But this lady is anxious to meet you."

"Did she ask for me by name?"

"Well, not exactly; in fact, she doesn't even know your name."

"Well, then, how do you know she wants to meet me?"

"Because she said to me not an hour ago, 'I want you to look all over town and bring back with you the homeliest man you can find.'"

"Say, are you trying to make a monkey out of me?"

"No, indeed; you look funnier than a monkey."

"I wants you to understand dat mah faddah considers me de bes lookin' of all his sons."

"Indeed, and how many sons has your father got?"

"As many as he can count on the fingers of his two hands."

"O, ten sons."

"No, sah—seven sons."

"But didn't you just tell me he's got as many sons as he can count on the fingers of his two hands?"

"Yes, sah, but he's got three fingers missing."

"Just one minute. Before we start I'd like to ask how are you on dinner etiquette?"

"I nebbah ate a cat for dinner in all ma life."

"No, no; you don't understand. Suppose you were at a banquet and serving the chicken, would you give me the biggest piece and take the smallest piece for yourself?"

"I'd give yah the smallest piece."

"That's not what I should do. I should give you the biggest piece and take the smallest piece myself."

"Then you'd have the smallest piece anyhow, wouldn't you? So what are you grumbling about?"

Private Farrell

"Lend the Way They Fight."

BY GUY F. LEE.

Private Edward J. Farrell of New York died in action recently. His will said: "To the United States I give my life willingly, for she is the GRANDEST, GREATEST, and FREEST country in the world.

Orators vaunt and poets lilt
 America's sweet thrall:
Here with his life and three short words
 A soldier tells it all.

Fain would I sound this hero's praise,
 His sacrifice extol;
But pen of mine could never write
 The beauty of his soul.

Needless to limn his memory
 In song or shibboleth,
For he will live forever through
 The glory of his death!

HE'S FOR THE OPERA

Giorgio Polacco

Mr. Polacco is one of the new conductors engaged for the Chicago Opera; and he is, by repute, the most important brought in under Campanini since the start of the enterprise, in 1910. He had a career in Europe and South America before he went to the Metropolitan, in 1912, and he succeeded Toscanini there in 1915, withdrawing after two years. Campanini has said that he will conduct but infrequently in the coming season, and to Polacco will fall the bulk of the work. He is a Venetian, 43 years old.

SHREDS AND PATCHES

By Frederick Donaghey.

CHICAGO'S year of "hospitable musics"—a locution from fiction in the most prevalent of the weeklies—starts with Friday's concert by the Orchestra. An editorial in THE TRIBUNE early last month contained this paragraph, which was apposite to the context, and is, perhaps, to the new season:

> There is a large war raging, to be sure; but there will be a particularly large "war after the war," and it will last a long time; and now the chance is at hand to develop the elements of success in it. Meanwhile, when the general tendency of things is toward a more-or-less perceptible coarsening of life, especial need is apparent for promoting whatever tends toward its refinement.

This season less than ever before is it unlikely that anybody will be sent to the box-office by pious importunities as to the doing of one's duty in the item of musical art: it is the year of the great and the sufficient alibi for all who are bored by the sonata form or who suffer in contemplation of opera. The trustees of the Orchestra, too, have a great and a sufficient alibi for taking the concerts out of this season's calendar; and they have not used it. Mr. McCormick, similarly, could reasonably abandon the Opera for duration; and Mr. Campanini's prospectus suggests the maximum expenditure for any year thus far.

Letters come in about the episode of Mr. Stock—sane, cerebral, and literate, most of them. His letter to the trustees, printed in Wednesday's issue, said it all, doubtless: it is just reasonable to think that he and they knew what they were doing; and he, I should say, would care least for pursuit of the theme beyond what he wrote and what the trustees said in reply. While he languishes in Blighty, it is well to keep in mind that he has made for Chicago the First Orchestra; that the result of his work is today the city's principal æsthetic asset; that his has been, so far as an activity in kind may be, a self-less labor; and that he has never chucked his weight about.

Mr. Stock's vizier is, no doubt, so admirable a man for the especial situation that nobody else available could be better, if so good. Among my reasons for thinking so is that so many nice, suave, talky musicians—you know the kind: the inner-circle boys—were surprised when Mr. DeLamarter was named. He knows so much more about his business than they do that, being human and nasty, they were of the hope, if not the belief, that nobody with a bank-account would ever find it out. This is not at all by way of saying that he will put himself, in the period of deputyship, into the first line of living conductors: he may not. But, were the Chicago Symphony my orchestra, and were I in the posture into which the trustees and Mr. Stock were compelled, I should take my chances with Eric DeLamarter rather than with any other man of like aims now at large in the ample U. S. A.

What he is called upon to do is not to play one of those games that come in boxes, like clock-golf: conducting is not a decorative variant of the Delsarte thing. Mr. Wessels once told me that Theodore Thomas, when he required a coadjutor, picked Mr. Stock from the ensemble without regard for any quality save the latter's knowledge of how to write and prepare music for a major orchestra. That is, he knew his medium. DeLamarter, too, knows it; and it is improbable that he will qualify as a casualty.

The most stimulating and musical emisson of vocal sound now to be heard anywhere comes from Bishop Quayle, who doesn't. What he says from day to day is a vital chant of defiance, of hope, and of faith; and none of the pro-forma minstrels is in successful rivalry when this clean and candid Wesleyan puts what he feels into he-tone. He is a psalmist of and for the hour; and he knows and uses the right idiom. Like the Colonel, himself, and like John Grier Hibben when he was permitted to be heard, the Bishop appeals in this especial day like an incarnation of Kipling's imagined Man with the Words, whose chore it was to give form to the ideals of his primeval tribe. No other singing like his is in the ear; and what he says and makes clear is that vengeance is a holy emotion and attribute of any nation deserving to be known as God's.

Claudia Muzio, who did more than a bit in making the summer memorable in Ravinia Park, is to sing in Chicago before the opening of her season in the Metropolitan: she is engaged as soloist in the annual "festival" of the Civic Music Association, Nov. 5, in Orchestra Hall. The association errs in stating that it will be her first appearance in the city: she sang twice, and sang well, one night back in the spring for the especial purposes of a government movie, "Pershing's Crusaders."

The United Hebrew Trades are of the belief that their clientèle will be better off if provided with good music, they say; and they announce a recital on Oct. 20 by Sophie Braslau and Efram Zimbalist, two somebodies. The hall is the Ashland Auditorium, at Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street. If this venture be a success, they add, others will be made.

The first program for the opening of the twenty-eighth season of the Orchestra, Friday afternoon and Saturday night, is made up of "The Star-Spangled Banner," the overture to Berlioz's "Benvenuto Cellini," César Franck's symphony, Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture-fantasia, Glière's symphonic poem of "The Sirens," and Victor Herbert's Irish Rhapsody.

Five dollars is the price of a main-floor seat for Caruso's concert, Oct. 27, in the Auditorium.

Blanche Slocum, the last of Mary Garden's protégées to leave Germany, is the first to give a recital this season in Chicago. She is to sing on Tuesday night in Orchestra Hall. Other incidents of the week are the opening this afternoon of the dime concerts in Fullerton Hall, Art Institute, with performances of the program at 3 and 4:15 o'clock, and the first of the season's monthly concerts by the Edison Symphony Orchestra on Thursday night in Orchestra Hall.

Right off the Reel

NOT JEALOUS; IT'S THIS WAY.

By Mae Tinée.

"WHEN A WOMAN SINS."

Produced by Fox Film.
Directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

The cast:

Lillian Marchard	Theda Bara
Mortimer West	Joseph Swickard
Michael West	Albert Rascoe
Dr. Stone	Ogden Crane
Augustus Van Brooks	Alfred Fremont
Reggie West	Jack Rollens
Mrs. West	Genevieve Blinn

"GEE, Mae," some ardent Bara fan always writes in after I have reviewed a Theda Bara picture, "what did Theda ever do to you? You may think you're smart, but you ain't and you're probably jealous of her shape."

Considering the way I'm landed on, I think I'm a brave woman to venture criticism on a Bara picture. Being a brave woman intent on doing my duty, I have been to see "When a Woman Sins," and I think it's just as punk as most of the photoplays in which I have been so unfortunate as to witness Miss Bara.

Now, I reiterate that the lady has never done anything to me. I have been told by people who know her that, when she is unprofessional, she is charming. I believe she gives considerable money to charities and I know she has been doing work in the interest of the Liberty loan. I bet you $9.48 she is good to her family. But——

She doesn't seem to learn anything about acting. She can't seem to get through her head the fact that the makeup she adopts—black ringed eyes, ghastly face, and wide, messy mouth—only succeeds in making her resemble some weird animal in a zoo that I have seen but can't at the present moment remember the name of. Somebody who loves her truly and whom she believes to be a person of honesty and taste—providing he or she is a person of honesty and taste—should certainly go to Theda and say:

"Look here, kid, you're all wrong, you know! Cut out the raspberry jam and shoe blacking and for the love of Mike get yourself up like a real human being!"

The plot of her present picture is not extraordinary by any means. We see her first as a trained nurse with gypsy blood in her veins—a good girl but a reckless one. Her recklessness causes her to become compromised, though she has really done no wrong. Scorned by the minister she has learned to love and barred from practicing her profession, she accepts the offer of a sinful old theatrical manager and becomes in a day, as t'wa, "the Flaming Poppy," a famous and also infamous actress at whose feet youth commits suicide and age cavorts grotesquely for a smile.

At heart she's good, though, and is finally reclaimed, and we leave her grimacing at her preacher over armfuls of pure white lilies. "The Flaming Poppy" is no mo'.

The supporting cast is not an especially notable one, though Albert Rascoe as the minister and Joseph Swickard as his wicked old dad give splendid characterizations. In a Bara picture, however, it must all be Bara. You can see that everybody in the cast understands that and they slink furtively on the edges of the limelight voicing their meaows and woof-woofs apologetically.

P. S. She never did nothing to me and I'm not jealous of her shape!

When word comes to the soldiers "over there" that a "Charlot"—meaning a Charles Chaplin film—is to be shown, they tell me that Yankees and Poilus and Tommies hit the trail for the dugout where the screen is put up, all eager for the big laugh that is sure to be theirs.

Louise Huff, that "different" young star who made such a hit in her work with Jack Pickford, has just finished her fourth picture for World. The name of it is "The Crook of Dreams."

Seena Owen, who retired from pictures several years ago, but who continued to live in Hollywood, has found the lure of the screen too much and will appear as leading woman with Mr. Hart in his picture to follow "The Border Wireless."

In Metro's coming patriotic picture, "Wilson or the Kaiser," Margaret Aston will take the part of Edith Cavell, the martyred nurse. They tell me she bears a striking resemblance to the woman who was sacrificed to German blood lust.

"This latest theatrical venture of the Balaban & Katz Company (The Riviera), which opened last night officially to the public is metropolitan in its magnificence, if anything ever was. It overshadows the town's other motion picture theaters and draws comparisons with New York's pets."—Says Kitty Kelly in the Examiner.
Choose the RIVIERA for Your Cinema Entertainment
Here stage craftsmanship clasps the hand of screen craftsmanship and raises the silent drama above its familiar plane on the wings of synchronizing symphony.

Rothschild's

Chicago's greatest bargain event is ready! Our months of preparation make this a sale without parallel in its importance to thrifty people. A gigantic gathering under one broad roof of the merchandise that men and women and children need right now and throughout the winter. Positively we cannot supply dealers. This merchandise is for the public only.

☞ This is the only office of the U. S. Fuel Administration for domestic consumers in Cook county

The Domestic Consumers' Department of the United States Fuel Administration for Cook County is now located on the seventh floor of Rothschild & Company. Hard coal (anthracite) consumers who cannot get dealers to take their orders, or who cannot find what dealers supplied the house they now are living in during the period from April 1, 1916, to March 31, 1917, or who bought of dealers now out of business, must file their orders, properly certified, at the above office from 9 to 5 daily. Information cannot be given by phone.

RAYMOND E. DURHAM, Federal Fuel Administrator for Illinois.

Servant Problem Returns with the Opening of Homes

By Mme. X.

WITH the annual return of the native at its height returns also that problem as old as the first family. Although it is not recorded in history, it is a safe guess that after Adam and Eve had to leave that wonderful garden where everything was ready made, ready to wear, and ready to use, it was not for the lost steam heat, hot and cold water, gas stove, and electric light that Eve sighed. When she allowed herself to think of Eden it is more than probable that she said to herself: "At least there was no servant problem there."

This year more piercing and high pitched than ever is the cry of the housekeeper against high wages and incompetent service.

Looked at without prejudice and with entire candor, aren't the cooks, housemaids, laundresses, et al. doing exactly what we should do in their places; raising prices on a tightening market? The supply of help is diminishing, while the demand remains steady, if it be not increasing. The result is just what it would be in a similar situation with any other commodity—for household labor is a commodity—prices go up.

More Simple Living One Solution.

The only way to meet the situation is not by acrimonious complaint but by accepting it with good humor and adjusting daily living to it. You can, madam housekeeper, simplify your manner of living by having fewer servants, or taking untrained maids at lower wages and training them, or by changing your whole menage.

Abandon a house for a flat, put away all unessential ornaments and furniture, do some of your own housework yourself (a most wholesome and beautifying form of exercise) and after you get adjusted to the new order of things you may even find it better than the old. You will not be "so bound on the wheel of things," as the Dalai Lama in Kipling's "Kim" would put it. Your spirit, so freed, will be a far pleasanter companion for yourself and others.

But, whatever else you do, make this your great resolve for the autumnal settling down: "I won't talk of high wages and incompetent servants!"

It is a pity that a better class of labor doesn't enter domestic service. It is a healthy kind of work in spite of its long hours. The worker is insured good and nourishing food and has the opportunity at the end of a year of enjoying the satisfaction of having saved more money than any other women workers in proportion to the year's earnings.

Where Troubles Are Real.

In any case, domestic problems of the well to do are what the guide of my youth used to call "fat troubles." The best cure for those housekeepers so afflicted would be a sojourn in France where war's fierce glare is reflected from the walls of every home.

How insignificant would seem that dollar a week raise in wages to the now complaining house mother had she been in Nancy one night a few weeks ago with Mrs. Arthur Ryerson when fifteen gothas hovered over that ancient little city and dropped nearly one hundred bombs on the homes, hospitals, and asylums that make up the greater part of the buildings there.

The raid was a bad one, twelve people killed and thirty wounded, which, as the town is already all shot to pieces and is a small community, means a heavy toll. Of the raid itself Mrs. Ryerson wrote in a recent letter:

"It was pandemonium let loose, with the 'archies' (anti-aircraft guns) booming away on all sides like large angry dogs, and the crash of the shells falling, and the zipping noise of the mitrailleuse, and the search lights sweeping the skies in all directions trying to concentrate on the night bombers."

Continuing, she writes: "But we forget it all very easily. It is strange, is it not, how quickly that impression of dread passes?"

Cares for Refugee Children.

Mrs. Ryerson, who went to France last spring, has established in Nancy a home for half a hundred ailing refugee children, which she has financed, organized, and set running so that it will go on after she comes back to Chicago, which will be soon.

Her French protegés are housed in a perfectly charming pavilion, beautifully situated, overlooking the rolling green hills of Lorraine to the distant blue Vosges mountains. Pink ivy geraniums climb over it, while the interior is gay with flowered cretonnes, and the little invalids on their long chairs are kept warm by the many colored knitted blankets which have been made and sent to the children of France by the public school children of America. Gentle faced sisters of charity move quietly about among their young charges, and the whole atmosphere is one of peaceful serenity. What a contrast to the scenes through which those stricken youngsters have passed.

Mrs. Ryerson gave a party there lately, to which the famous prefect of that district, M. Mirman, and all the great French generals and officials of that part of France came. There were speeches wherein the French orators dwelt on the debt that France, "beaten to her knees, but still valiant," owed to her brave allies from America, "who gave new hope and courage and whose wonderful youth rushed to battle as to a feast."

The children's shrill little voices chanted a weird French version of "The Star-Spangled Banner," after which the company was served with cocoa and—that greatest treat in Europe—real, white, American bread from the United States commissariat.

"Poilu" and "Boche."

While on French matters it will interest many to know from an authoritative source, a well known French official, the origin of two familiar French terms—"poilu" and "boche."

The former has come down from the time of the first Napoleon, when, during the retreat from Russia, Gen. Eblé, commanding the pontoon builders' brigade, was ordered to construct a pontoon crossing over the Beresina. He selected for this task the bravest, strongest men in his command, men who wore long beards and whose bodies were for the most part covered with hair. For twenty-four hours these men worked, naked in the icy waters of the river, and threw the pontoons across so that the flying armies of France could escape from the perils of Russia. Henceforth these pontoon builders were known as the poilus (or hairy ones) of Gen. Eblé, and the name poilu was later bestowed on any French soldiers who achieved especial renown for daring and power.

When the war burst on France in 1914 the French front line troops were for months at a stretch in the primitive trenches of that era, and experienced every possible privation, hardship, and danger. They had no time or opportunity for such amenities as shaving, and by December their beards had grown to an amazing condition of bushiness. They gave themselves the old and almost forgotten term poilu, which was soon applied to all French soldiers.

Boche comes from the slang of the stockyards at Vilette, just outside of Paris. There the terminations oche and uche indicated contempt. After the war of 1870, when everything German was execrated, the denizens of the Vilette stockyards dubbed the Germans "Allemoche," from Allemand (French for German) and oche. This became corrupted into Alboche and then into boche, which, applied to anything, expressed the extreme of contempt. To say of any one, "He's a boche," was to condemn him utterly.

The term returned to its original application when the Huns descended "like the wolf on the fold, their cohorts all gleaming in purple and gold," and is now the expression in common use all over France. Not so fierce as our term, "Hun," it expresses a more profound contempt.

Good Place to Eat.

That Food for France Shop at 65 East Adams street is a most attractive and successful enterprise. You get good food for a reasonable price and have the satisfaction of feeling that the more you eat the more the French will have to eat—a most illogical proposition. Pretty girls wait on you. Well known women smile at you from behind the counters and look after your welfare.

All the food and service is donated, so that the returns are devoted a hundred per cent to the object of the enterprise. Men as well as women are welcome at this chic little restaurant. To encourage patronage from the stern but timid sex the guiding forces of the shop recently placed all their men patrons at tables in the windows, whereupon many more masculines strolled in.

The waitresses, among whom are some of the most popular girls in Chicago's once gay world, wear becoming French blue aprons, while the colors of the allies face their neat white caps. They take in daily between $250 and $300, which, by the end of the week, adds up to a tidy sum.

The old veteran of the war of 1870 who stands outside the front door, in his faded uniform, and solicits contributions for the French hungry is a picturesque feature of the establishment. What, in life, so touches the heart as an old soldier in an old uniform? Both are emblems of passions and hopes long dead, and even the flames of today cannot prevent a premonitory shiver in the onlooker. Will this intense and vivid present also become pathetic and wistful?

Music Festival in the Berkshires.

People in the east, especially in the popular and fashionable Berkshire country in western Massachusetts, are all agog with the musical enterprise of a well known Chicago woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, who for many years has made her home in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mrs. Coolidge has built high up on the slope of old South mountain a temple of music and in September held there her first music festival. She offered a prize of $1,000 for the best quartet for stringed instruments, a prize won this year by Tadeusz Iarecki (a most unpronounceable name).

For three days all the wealth and fashion of that region and all the music lovers from an even wider area, climbed the mountain and listened to the various chamber music makers—the Longwy club, the Elshuco trio, the Letz quartet, and Mrs. Coolidge's own Berkshire string quartet. Fifty of the best known musicians of the country were her guests at the Maplewood hotel for the three days of the festival, for Mrs. Coolidge has a rather royal style with her in organizing a festival.

Among the Chicagoans who faithfully attended the morning and afternoon sessions of the festival were Mesdames John Spoor, Watson Blair, F. S. Eames, E. S. Worthington, and E. P. Beach and Miss Frances Keep.

Royal Visitor Here.

A conspicuous visitor in Chicago last week was Prince Axel of Denmark, son of Prince Waldemar and that much beloved Orleans princess, Princess Marie, daughter of the late Duc de Chartres. Prince Axel is first cousin of the present Danish king and, like all the Danish royal family, is noted for his simple, democratic, pleasant manners.

He found here an old and intimate friend in the acting Danish consul, Mr. De Treschow, who escorted him about in his inspection of our institutions and industries.

One of the bright aspects of war is the extremely attractive representatives of our allies who come to Chicago for one thing or another. Whatever direction their activities may take they have a—perhaps unrecognized—responsibility behind their ostensible missions, and that is to foster, encourage, and cement the friendship and good feeling between their nation and ours.

Two men better qualified for their dual tasks couldn't have been selected by his British majesty's government than Col. Reginald Chaplin and Maj. Slingsby. They are in the remount division and spend their days at the stockyards selecting or rejecting horses for the British army. They know their business so amazingly well that our western stockmen all take off their hats to them.

When not examining horses they are busy cementing friendly relations between old England and young America, and are as thorough in this as in their other job, though I really think they know not that they are doing it.

They are now established in a housekeeping partnership in Sydney Bonnar's apartment at 200 East Pearson street, where with a Jap factotum they will probably play quite an actively social rôle. But, hist! don't let the British war office know it, for there's nothing a war office likes so much to do as to interfere with this work of cementing international friendships and better understandings, and we don't want to lose these two cavaliers. In their smart khaki uniforms with that incomparable British air of good grooming the colonel armed with a smile, the major equipped with that most invincible armament, a monocle, they are a great addition to our social landscape.

Liberty Loan Worker and Girl Yeoman Whose Engagements Are Announced.

Miss Josephine Palmer — Miss Mary Buchanan Davison

The engagement of Miss Josephine Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Francis Palmer of 2634 Lake View avenue, to Tracy Stebbins Voorhees, son of Mrs. John Voorhees of New Brunswick, N. J., was a recent and interesting announcement. Miss Palmer is one of the young women who take an active part in all war relief work and is a prominent worker in the present Liberty loan drive. Mr. Voorhees is trade expert in the bureau of imports of the war trade board in Washington. The wedding will take place during the first part of December.

Mrs. Carolyn S. Davison of 1627 Hyde Park boulevard announced the engagement of her daughter, Mary Buchanan, to Commander Frank R. McCrary, U. S. N., last week. Miss Davison is serving as chief yeoman in the navy and is now stationed at naval aviation headquarters in Paris. She has been there for the last six months, and for the six months previous to that she served with the Red Cross in France. She was the first American girl yeoman in foreign service, and at present there is only one other, who is stationed in southern France. Miss Davison comes of a fighting family, for her father and grandfather were both officers in the United States army, and she has three brothers in the regular army. One, Maj. Paul Root Davison, is in the cavalry in France; another, Maj. Donald Angus Davison, with the engineers, is in Washington; and the third, Capt. McKenzie Davison, is with the Seventeenth field artillery in France. Commander McCrary is also in foreign service. No date for the wedding has been announced.

You Gave Your Baby Life

Now give him health.

Little Mother, perhaps you can't nurse him. Of course, you would if you could—but even love can't always make mother's milk agree with that delicate little stomach.

But don't worry.

There is a food so like Mother's milk that your baby will grow rosy cheeked and content when you give it to him and it begins to give him health and strength.

This food is really milk. Always remember that. Purer, cleaner milk than you ever get in bottles, changed a little so it is easier for your baby to digest. And with it is cereal—just enough—and just enough sugar—so that for all of fifty years, babies have been eagerly reaching for it, thriving on it, making their Mothers' hearts light with happiness as they grew in health.

THIS is Nestlé's Food.

It comes to you a fluffy, pure powder to which you just add fresh water and boil—and then you are sure of your baby's health.

So simple—so sure—so easy—and so good for that dimpled little body, that fast-growing brain, those clutching fingers, those bright little eyes! If you send the coupon or a postcard, enough Nestlé's Food for 12 feedings will be sent you free, with a 96-page book on babies care, by specialists.

Give him Nestlé's Food today, little Mother.

You gave your baby life.

NEWS OF THE CHICAGO WOMEN'S CLUBS

Tips for Talkers Who Would Help Block Hun Peace

By Virginia Chandler.

"UNCLE SAM is taking wonderful care of his soldiers—thanks to you at home!" came in a letter recently from one of our boys in France. That "thanks to you at home" is a stirring challenge to us, isn't it? It is the type of thing that makes us buy more Liberty bonds than we expected to, because it is searching, and we do not want to fall short of what they expect of us "home folks." It makes us want to be square and true right through in every way we can.

We need the driving force of such inspiration! The war information department of educational propaganda of the woman's committee, State Council of Defense, has dozens of hands reaching out to gather such stories of our men overseas, facts we ought to know about the war and women's part in it, and figures that fascinate. There are 400 centers in the state through which we send them out.

There is no doubt that we must "carry on" this winter harder than ever before, along the lines laid down by the Red Cross, the food administration, Liberty loan, Council of Defense, and other war agencies. But with the news of allied victories comes a new menace, and one which we at home must grow strong to fight—the German peace drive! This is a menace that is at once subtle, cunning, hard to strike, and powerful. It is a weapon which, in the hands of a desperate opponent, will be used desperately; it would rob us of a victory for which a great price has already been paid, and leave us with a peace that would prove ephemeral. To defeat it, we must make ourselves strong by a clear appreciation of the danger, with facts to combat it—and then talk! act! talk!

We can never tell when something we may say will influence the person or persons who hear. As individuals we are needed in the home guard of those who speak thoughtfully and forcefully. A teacher, a lecturer, a preacher, has extended powers, and this obligation is increasingly great.

The war information department has all manner of useful war pamphlets, telling poems, excerpts from letters to the front, and even form speeches which are given away for the asking and using. If you have letters and poems that you think will help others, send them to us. There is also a mass of rich reference material, containing many foreign publications, which will be gladly loaned. In fact, the little office high up and far back in the State Council building at 120 West Adams street is a veritable wonder bag of potential power—but use alone can make it truly powerful.

"Uncle Sam is taking wonderful care of his soldiers, thanks to you at home," and we at home must be equal to that faith and grow strong because of that trust, so that the men who are offering their lives may not be stabbed in the back and that those who have given them may not have paid so great a price for so poor a thing as a victory that has not vanquished and a peace that does not mean security.

Miss Virginia Chandler is chairman of the war information department of educational propaganda, woman's committee, State Council of Defense. Her department is furnishing material for Liberty loan speakers during the drive.

Miss Eleanor Holden is one of the Junior league girls who, as a special service squad for the Liberty loan, are receiving subscriptions after the noonday patriotic talks.

WOMEN IN WARTIME.

The Junior league girls have organized into a special service squad during the fourth Liberty loan campaign. At every noon meeting during the last week they have been present with a captain in charge of each team of five girls to receive subscriptions offered at the close of the stirring patriotic talks which have packed the theaters. Under the leadership of Miss Josephine Palmer they are arranging much of the detail for the women's part in the Liberty loan parade on Saturday. More than a thousand club women and active women Liberty loan workers are expected to march, headed by the gold star mothers. An effort will be made this week to coöperate in securing Chicago's quota so that Saturday's parade may be a celebration of the completion of the $252,000,000 allotment by all the workers.

The food conservation bureau, 28 South Wabash avenue, has added a fourth feature to its organization. There is to be a reading and study corner, furnished with housekeeping magazines, dietaries, the newest books on the newest ways of using our valuable food supply. The program for this week has a number of interesting features. The suggestions for the use of green tomatoes and grapes will be especially timely. Following is the calendar for the week: Tomorrow at 11 a. m., "Canning—Peaches, Beets, Green Tomatoes," and at 2 p. m., "Sugarless Marmalades," by Miss Winifred Philleo; Tuesday at 11 a. m., "Sugarless Cakes," by Mrs. Duff, and at 2 p. m., "Cheese Dishes, Tomato Rarebit, Cheese and Lima Bean Roll," by Miss Margaret Campbell; Wednesday at 11 a. m., "Hash Browned Codfish, Baked Fish Chops," and at 2 p. m., "Use of Left Over Meat and Vegetables," by Miss Mildred Taber; Thursday at 11 a. m., "Boston Roast and Bean and Nut Chowder," and at 2 p. m., "Nutted Vegetable Loaf, Carrot and Nut Loaf," by Mrs. Layer; Friday at 11 a. m., "Cornmeal Soufflé, Apricot Roll, Hard Sauce," and at 2 p. m., "Raisin Graham Bread, Popovers with Fruit Sauce," by Mrs. Helen Ruggles; Saturday all day a baker will demonstrate the making of rolls, coffee cake, yeast bread, sugarless cake, and cookies and pies.

This is the last week of the Red Cross drive for clothing for the Belgians. Old clothing, sheets, blankets, etc., are acceptable. Goods may be left at any Red Cross auxiliary station.

A training course of ten lessons in child health will be given to those who wish to take it, under the joint auspices of the child welfare department of the woman's committee of the State Council of Defense and the American Red Cross. The classes will be held on Monday and Thursday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock on the fifth floor at 6 North Michigan avenue. The lectures will be given by Mrs. M. F. Mehlig, dietitian of the American Red Cross; Dr. Caroline Hedger, medical adviser of the child welfare department of the woman's committee, and Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurses' association. A fee of $3 will be charged to cover the expenses of the work. The course is to be taken as a whole and the obligation of giving service later is urged upon all the members of the class. Those desiring to enroll may write the child welfare department, 6 North Michigan avenue.

An entertainment for the benefit of its war service fund will be given on Saturday evening at 632 North Dearborn avenue by the Kappa Alpha Theta. Mrs. Mary Mann will speak.

Classes in milk testing and in other creamery and dairy work are soon to be given at the Libertyville farm of the Woman's Land Army of America, in answer to the demand through neighboring states for milk testers. Miss Alinson Ransford will be the teacher and the course will continue for three months. All interested may apply to room 614, 112 West Adams street, Chicago.

On Tuesday the United States Marine league will meet at 2 o'clock at the Hotel La Salle. All mothers of marines or next of kin are welcome.

A rally of the Girls' Patriotic Service league will be held tomorrow evening at Gads Hill center, 1919 West Twentieth street. Mrs. B. F. Langworthy will speak.

Regular Saturday evening dances for the soldiers and sailors are to be given by the Political Equality league at the Insurance Exchange building.

Permanent day chairmen for the Food for France shop at 65 East Adams street have been appointed as follows: Monday, Miss Lolita Armour; Tuesday, Mrs. Philip Wrigley; Wednesday, Miss Alice Silverthorn; Thursday, Mrs. William M. Dandy; Friday, Mrs. Mortimer H. Singer; Saturday, Mrs. A. J. Lichstern. Miss Armour, Mrs. Joe M. Harris, and Mrs. Milton C. Kaufman are co-chairmen of the shop.

Women telegraphers to take the places of men called to military service are needed and are asked to apply to the United States civil service board.

The Red Cross salvage bureau's latest form of endeavor is a drive on the stenographers and typewriters. They will be asked to save the tin spools on which typewriter ribbons are wound, and also the tin and pasteboard boxes in which the ribbons are packed. A committee in charge of this work will collect from the factories and business houses and will dispose of them among the dealers who are coöperating with the plan. It is estimated that a substantial sum will be realized by this means for the dependent families of Chicago soldiers and sailors.

There will be a meeting of the mothers of aviators on Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the rooms of the Fortnightly club in the Fine Arts building.

Recent developments in France make it necessary that thousands of young women should be sent over immediately for hospital hut service. The first call for this service was for 300, but now a call for 2,000 has come from Washington to the Red Cross at 180 North Wabash avenue, and these 2,000 must be supplied before Nov. 1.

Members of the Italian relief auxiliary of the Red Cross will have a program on Friday and close the workrooms in the Garland building on Saturday in honor of Christopher Columbus.

Mrs. Josephine Herrman of 4564 Ellis avenue is German born, but she has no use for anything made in Germany. In proof of this she brought to the South Shore Country club's melting pot all her silverware which was made in Germany. There was also a gold ring which had been in the family seventy-five years, a gold coin with the kaiser's head on it, and a gold medal won in Germany by a member of Mrs. Herrman's family. Liberty bonds were given in exchange for the German metal, which will be melted. Mrs. Herrman has just parted from her only son, 25 years old, who has left for France as first lieutenant in the medical corps.

Are you a social service worker, a stenographer, or typist, and if so, are you doing your utmost to help end the war by donating a few hours' service each week? Mrs. Katherine Briggs, director of the home service department, connected with Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, is in need of workers. Applications will be received at room 409 Garland building, 58 East Washington street.

The engagement is announced of Miss Marjorie Michaelis, daughter of Mrs. William F. Michaelis, to Charles Grosvenor Parker, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker of 6820 Perry avenue. Mr. Parker is at the officers' training camp at Camp Taylor, Ky.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Grace A. Plane to Ellwood S. Tower of Washington.

FUTURE EVENTS

The allied arts hostess committee, the members of which have worked so faithfully for a number of months to provide enjoyable recreation for soldiers and sailors, is planning to give a big benefit bridge party to raise money to continue its recreational work. The party will be given on Saturady, Oct. 26, at the Virginia hotel, and both men and women are invited to attend. A. R. Metcalfe, the whist expert, will direct the game. Mrs. Heaton Owsley is chairman of the committee, Mrs. Edward Martin vice chairman, and Le Grand Smith treasurer. Tables may be secured from Mrs. Joseph B. Long, 48 Banks street, telephone Superior 2949.

Mrs. Charles Garfield King of 1450 Astor street, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of 1415 Astor street, and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick of 631 Rush street, are in charge of an exhibition of Serbian war pictures which opens tomorrow at the Art institute with a reception. Sampson Schernoff, the artist, is a soldier in the small but wonderfully brave Serbian army, and is in Chicago with the exhibit. Miss Malvina Hoffman, the noted sculptress, who is greatly interested in Serbian relief work, is also here. At the reception tomorrow there will be a musical program by two Serbians in their native costumes. The exhibition will continue for two weeks.

The first of the Sunday afternoon concerts at the Casino will be given this afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Walter E. Blaufuss trio.

The Great Lakes quintette, composed of John Doane, pianist; Walter Braur, cellist; Herman Felber, first violinist; Carl Fasshauer, second violinist; and Robert Dolejsi, viola, will give a concert in the ballroom of the South Shore Country club this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Next Saturday night there will be the first military ball of the season at the club, and in the afternoon the dancing classes for children, under the direction of Miss Jane Dabney, will start. The club's I. R. M. company will drill on Tuesday night and there will be the usual Thursday evening informal dance.

The Art institute has sent out invitations for the opening reception of the seventeenth annual exhibition of applied arts, which will be given on Tuesday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock. At the same time the annual exhibition of the Chicago Ceramic Art association and an exhibition of small bronzes by the National Sculpture society will be opened.

Among those who have taken boxes or blocks of seats for the recital by Miss Blanche Slocum, to be held on Tuesday evening at Orchestra hall, are Mr. and Mrs. Heyliger A. de Windt of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Fahrney, Mrs. Sherman T. Edwards, Mrs. C. C. Hubbard, Mrs. Clarence S. Funk, Mrs. F. S. Updike, and Mrs. H. L. Simmons.

A card party will be given by the Canterbury club on Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Harry L. Cavanagh, 4834 Sheridan road.

The Englewood Woman's club will hold a meeting in the English room of the Blackstone on Thursday, Oct. 17. The meeting will be followed by a reception.

Conforming with the president's proclamation the Birchwood Country club will hold a liberty pageant and harvest home festival next Saturday.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Medill McCormick have taken the residence of Mrs. Richard Townsend, 22 Jackson place, in Washington, for the winter. They occupied a house at 1706 New Hampshire avenue last winter.

Miss Marion Moseley of Highland Park has returned to an eastern college for her senior year. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Moseley, returned recently from a short stay at Lake Geneva.

Mrs. Robert W. Carr and family left last week for Washington to spend the winter with Maj. Carr.

Mrs. James Gordon Murdock of Indianapolis, formerly Celeste Murphy, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John B. Murphy, who recently moved in from Winnetka, where she spent the summer, to an apartment at 1205 Madison park. Mrs. Murphy has closed her residence at 3305 Michigan avenue. Mrs. Julius T. Benedict, formerly Cecille Murphy, has taken an apartment in the same building with her mother. Her husband and Lieut. Edward N. Hurley Jr., the husband of the former Mildred Murphy, expect to leave for France within a short time. Lieut. and Mrs. Hurley are at French Lick Springs for a short visit; the latter will spend the winter with her mother.

Mrs. John E. May and daughter Harriet returned last week from York Harbor, Me., where they had been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Kenly of 1511 Astor street returned yesterday from California, where they went the first of September, after leaving the Onwentsia, where they spent the summer. Mrs. Kenly's daughter, Miss Rebecca McDoel Hickman, returned to an eastern college last Tuesday.

Mrs. William B. Storey of 1330 North State parkway returned last week from California, where she had been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and family, who were in Lake Forest all summer, have opened their residence at 1524 Astor street for the winter. Their daughter, Mrs. John Andrews King, and her infant son are living with Mr. and Mrs. Hinde. Lieut. King is a prisoner in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Friedlander, who occupied the Rutter residence in Winnetka during the summer, have taken a house in Blackthorne road, Winnetka, for the winter.

Miss Edith Reynolds of 6517 Woodlawn avenue has recently returned from a three months' trip through the great lakes to Buffalo and then to Toronto, Canada. She also visited in New York and Washington. Mrs. Charles W. Reynolds accompanied her daughter on part of the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schutz, formerly of 601 Wellington avenue, are spending the winter at the Plaza hotel.

Vogue's Advance Autumn Patterns

are ready now

A complete showing of new pattern designs, charming hand-colored sketches of every design, the favored materials for Autumn, are now on exhibition at the Vogue Pattern Room.

Many of these new designs are cut to save wool or secure warmth without using wool at all, by new suit materials such as wool-back satin with a waistcoat of fur; heavy bands of flat furs; adjustable collars that, flying free, make adorable capes, or, buttoned up, cover the very tops of one's ears.

Vogue patterns are easy to follow. Every difficulty of cutting, fitting, and combining is forestalled. Every piece is marked in plain English with full directions. Every seam is indicated with a perforated line. Lining, goods, and trimming are cut in paper of three different colors. There is no endless changing and trying on and refitting. Just follow directions and the result is a success.

Thousands of women bridge the gap between a limited and an unlimited allowance by the use of Vogue Patterns. By using Vogue Patterns you halve your dress expense and double your dress distinction.

© Vogue

No. 4467-1468. Just designed for one's autumn suit, this model combines smartness and conservation of material. The straight silhouette is especially correct this season, and the warmth-giving waistcoat and undercuffs of fur are particularly new. Price $1

Youth Craft
FOR THE HAIR AND SCALP

Beautiful, Luxuriant Hair

YOUTH CRAFT means freedom from dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. It invigorates the scalp and gives your hair that fluffy, luxuriant sheen that is the natural condition of healthy hair. In many cases it restores gray hair to its natural color.

YOUTH CRAFT contains no oils, no fats, no dyes, only 1% alcohol, and is odorless.

You owe it to your friends to tell them what Youth Craft did for YOUR hair.

A Hair Grows Like an Onion

Keep your onion patch free from weeds—and you will grow a good crop of onions. Keep your scalp free from dandruff and you will grow a good crop of hair.

Wildroot goes right to the root of your hair trouble. Instead of glueing down the dandruff, Wildroot digs it out—loosens the crust and scales—and leaves your scalp clean and soft and healthy, giving nature a chance to grow the sort of hair you long for.

ASTRONOMY

THE GREAT DIPPER.

DISTANCE between objects in the sky cannot be measured by terrestrial units. Two bodies cannot be said to appear a rod apart unless it is expressly stated how far away the rod stick is considered. To avoid all confusion, celestial measurement is made in degrees.

There are 360 degrees in a circle, or 90 degrees in the space between the point directly overhead and the horizon line. For small distances, this zenith measurement is inconveniently large. The great dipper furnishes another. The space between the first two stars of the bowl, or pointers, is exactly 5 degrees. By bearing this in mind, the dipper may be used as a sort of celestial yardstick, to measure degrees in the sky.

The dipper also serves to identify the true place of the north pole of the sky. The pointers are directed toward the north star, but Polaris, we find, does not lie exactly at the pole. To locate it, trace a line from the star at the bend of the handle to Polaris, and then measure back 1½ degrees. The north pole, of course, is a purely mathematical point. It stands directly over the north pole of the earth, and is used by navigators to determine their latitude.

The star in the bend of the handle is named Mizar. It has a small companion called Alcor, which in Arabic means "The Test." Mizar and Alcor are an interesting pair, with an opera glass. Mizar itself is a double star. Not only this, but the brighter of the two is also a binary, each component whirling around the other in a period of four hours. The whole system is slowly revolving, but so gradually that it would require centuries for it to become apparent.

VAUDEVILLE WIT

McVICKER'S.

Frank Bush: I didn't sleep very much last night; in fact, I am a very light sleeper. That is, I'm a person who is easily awakened and is a long time getting to sleep. Well, anyhow, last night I slept in a hotel, and such a hotel it is. Why, I couldn't get to sleep at all. I tossed about that bed for about two hours. Then I finally succeeded in getting into a sound sleep. I was asleep for about fifteen minutes when I heard a loud knock at the door, so I yelled out, "What you want?" I said just like that.

"Package for you downstairs," came back my answer.

"Well, let it stay down there until morning," I shouted back.

The boy shuffled down the corridor and after a long time I fell into a sound sleep again. I was asleep about twenty minutes this time when another knock came on the door. So I yelled out again, "What do you want now?"

Then came back a slow reply: "That package." "Yes," says I. "Well, it ain't for you," shouted back the bellhop.

POET AND PEASANT DYING POET

The World's Best Music, 10c!

POET and Peasant—whether you pay 10c or 60c for the sheet music—is still the same Poet and Peasant—why pay more than 10c, the Century Price?

Century Edition includes the world-famous music—the historic masterpieces, certified and guaranteed to be authentic and correct, printed on the best of paper, with beautiful title pages. You couldn't buy better music at any price—and Century is only 10c a copy.

Why this wonderfully low price? Because when you buy Century you are not asked to pay for the fame of the selection or the renown of the composer. You buy paper. You buy notes printed thereon. And Century prints these notes in the most economical, time-saving, labor-saving, money-saving way. Century buys paper by the car-load—and sells millions where others sell thousands, content with a small profit.

2000 Masterpieces in Century Catalog

That is why you pay but 10c for such great masterpieces as the twenty-two selections illustrated, Anvil Chorus, Barcarolle, Con Amore, Rigoletto, Humoresque, La Fontaine, La Paloma, Air de Ballet, Miserere, Sextette from Lucia, Shepherd's Dream, and such popular pieces as Alpine Flower, Album Leaf, Angel's Serenade, Awakening of the Lion, Carmen, Convent Bells, The Flatterer, Fra Diavolo, etc.—all authentic, certified interpretations of the masters who wrote them.

Think of it—any ten of these beautiful selections for one dollar! Only a tithe of what another edition, no better and most times inferior, would cost! For perfect music and perfect economy, insist upon Century at your dealer's.

If your dealer hasn't Century, send us his name and get complete catalog, free.

Music Teachers: Century Certified Music is sold only through stores. The low price at which it is retailed does not permit us to sell to you teachers for less than ten cents a copy. While there is nothing in it for you to sell Century, your pupils are greatly benefited because they can afford to buy and learn many more pieces. Thousands of successful teachers use Century Certified Music exclusively because they know parents appreciate the saving and realize that it identifies them as having the pupil's interest conscientiously at heart.—The Publisher.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

THE TRIBUNE PLATFORM.

For the welfare and prosperity of Chicago and the state of Illinois—

We urge our readers to vote, on Nov. 5, for:

1. The convention to revise the constitution of the state.

2. The $60,000,000 good roads bond issue.

3. The traction ordinance, providing an adequate system of rapid transit for Chicago.

4. The bill putting all banks under state supervision.

AT THE PEACE TABLE.

One of the most significant assertions of the president's Liberty loan address is: "The common will of man has been substituted for the particular purposes of states."

That is a tremendous assertion. If there has been evolved from this war a "common will of man," so definite that concrete terms of international accommodation can be predicated upon it, we have taken a very long step toward that "parliament of man," that "federation of the world," of which poets and philosophers have dreamed.

Our hope is that such a "common will" has been evoked, though we are not as confident as the president's phraseology, probably for rhetorical purposes more emphatic than his own belief, would seem to imply. But we can at least be sure that there has been a real shift of control since the war began and a real approach to agreement in the thought of the belligerent peoples.

By a shift of control we mean that popular opinion in the various nations must be more definitely regarded by their governments and by their representatives at the peace table than it would have been in an international conference before the war. Statesmen always have had to regard popular opinion in greater degree than excited democratic theorists would have us believe. There is a great deal of exaggerated rhetoric about the control of international relations by malevolent or adventurous diplomats. But the diplomats and the autocrats have always had to take account of the will of the people even when they did so, as in the case of the Ems telegram, only to deceive them. So, as long as nations have to act through representatives—and they must always do so—their representatives, being human, always will be tempted to manipulate opinion in favor of their own aims or convictions. This is by no means always an evil. Sometimes, and perhaps in the greater number of cases, it has been a positive good. But in any case it is inevitable. There is, however, an increase of control over diplomatic mechanism, and this process, a phase of the growth of popular control of government, has been accelerated even in comparatively backward countries by this war.

We may expect then that in the degree that there has been evolved a "common will of man" it will be given a more adequate expression at the peace table than at any other international convention of the past.

To what extent has a common will of man been created?

The president doubtless was thinking of the profound, or, at any rate, widespread protest against war. Whatever there is left in Germany of the doctrine of the will to might, of expansion, and self-realization by force, among the other belligerents there is an earnest and even passionate desire to find some security against the recurrence of war. On that we are safe in saying there is, at least in Europe and America, and, so far as the peoples are concerned, a common will.

But once we have passed this point we are inclined to believe that while the will remains the commonness tends to fade away. At the peace table there will be a vast current of will, but a good deal of it will still be running in deep channels of national sentiment and purpose. Mr. Wilson notes that the issues of this war were not made by statesmen. We agree with him. They were made by the inherent forces of human nature and by the historic conditions of the several peoples. The purposes which the statesmen must bend to in many of the most critical and difficult adjustments are popular purposes. In other cases doubtless class interests or party aims, or even dynastic claims, will shape the position taken, but these will be as nothing in force and stubbornness compared to the claims backed by the will of a people.

The "impartial justice, no matter whose interest is crossed," which Mr. Wilson declares is the price of peace is not only in private life but in domestic policy and international relations an ideal as difficult to attain as it is lofty. It is well for us to strive for it, to keep it before us as a guide, but in the practical affairs of men and nations our conception of it, when applied to particular cases, is inextricably entangled with considerations of self. In our detachment and comparative disinterestedness we may think we see "impartial justice" in a settlement which, to the minds of those concerned, threatens their safety or infringes interests or sentiments dearer than life. "Impartial justice" will be no more an assurance of peace than any other ideal principle as long as men cannot agree upon what is impartial justice when applied to facts. In all cases where the will of vital peoples is infringed the adjudication of a common international will must be enforced, and when we concede this we have arrived back upon the plane on which international relations are now adjusted, a human complex of ideals and interests, of material considerations and moral, a vast resultant of forces constantly grouping and regrouping, expanding and contracting, changing in combination and direction. Just as "impartial justice" does not protect the sensitive, educated Negro in the south from the humiliation of the Jim Crow car, nor from the virtual disfranchisement which the white sense of security forces upon him in politics, so "impartial justice," as Mr. Wilson may conceive it, is not going to be accepted by any nation whose safety or whose deeply cherished aims or interests it does not satisfy.

We think it is wise for America to ponder upon these obvious considerations of human nature and experience, and that our representatives at the peace table be governed by them as well as by a passion for "impartial justice." As guardians of the welfare of a hundred and ten million Americans, we feel that they will have a duty to protect the interests of America and increase her security rather than to seek to establish any academic theory of "impartial justice." We do not achieve this at home. We cannot realize it in the much more difficult and complicated entanglements of international affairs. Our efforts in terms of practical statesmanship must be towards the establishment of relationships with such of the nations as have aims and interests compatible with ours, to protect their essential safety and strength, and to combine with them for our common safety and welfare. We may be confident that such an effort will be for the general conservation of peace, for the strengthening of moderate and humane policies, for the advancement of the ideal of justice among men. But it must be guided by common sense and a realistic conception of what the actual forces of life are in nations as in men.

OUR FOUR LOCAL ISSUES.

When enthusiasm is all in the Liberty loan and interest all in France it may be difficult to suggest to Illinois citizens that they develop enthusiasm for the constitutional convention, for good roads, and the amended banking law, and to Chicago citizens a development of enthusiasm for the traction ordinances.

But if the men for whose support money is being raised by the floating of loans and in whose deeds the interest lies are to find completely the nation for which they are fighting the nation it ought to be, the various states will have to make such changes in structure as they alone can make.

Washington cannot make Illinois over in a fashion which will give it intelligent and effective government. That must be done at Springfield and what is to be done there must have an authorization from the voters and it must have later an indorsement by the voters.

Illinois will not be a competent part of a competent nation until it has a new constitution. It can have one if the voters will indorse the proposition submitted to them in the November election. That proposition asks for their consent for the calling of a constitutional convention. The convention will draft a new constitution. In this constitution will be grants of power and removal of liabilities and restrictions. By such grants and removals we can erect in this state a government intelligently founded upon the choice of citizens and competent to do the work which a modern state government must do.

By the decision of the citizens of the state we may get a banking law which will protect the substance and subsistence of the people by protecting the methods by which the care of the people's money is intrusted to others.

By the good roads legislation we may remove the obstacles which interfere with the progress of ideas, the interchange of commodities and the free movement of life in and between communities. The removal of such obstacles is necessary in the development of a state trying to meet its opportunities and the demands made upon it.

And in Chicago. If the people of this city ever realized how their community life is strangled by the clutch of an inefficient street car system—if they ever realized that they are offered the most intelligent solution which the best talent of the city can contrive—they would accept the proposed traction settlement without hesitation.

Here have been outlined four issues of state and city importance. They cannot be allowed to drift to futility because attention and interest are attracted elsewhere. Our advice to Illinois citizens is to look around at home for at least a moment of careful attention.

A CONFUSION OF HONORS.

Confusion is apt to result from the passage of a bill recently referred to the house committee on naval affairs, authorizing congress to strike a series of medals to be bestowed for heroic action in the navy. Chiefly annoying, it would seem, may be the fact that the army and navy medals, under the arrangement proposed, will conflict in the measure of recognition intended.

As army awards there are now three decorations. They are the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service cross, and the Distinguished Service medal. These are bestowed for heroic services in the order named, according as the deed merits. The highest, the Congressional Medal of Honor, is for heroic action "outside the line of duty," and thus is most greatly to be prized. This medal, under the naval bill, will also be bestowed for heroic action among our sailors. With this medal the equality of recognition ceases.

There are two lower orders. In the army, as mentioned, there are the Distinguished Service cross and the Distinguished Service medal. The navy bill proposes to reverse this and bestow upon sailors the Distinguished Service medal as the second highest award and the Navy cross as the third. Thus the sailor of third award will wear a cross which, upon the breast of a soldier, distinguishes him as meriting a higher recognition, and vice versa.

It is perhaps an oversight in the drafting of the bill, but it should be worthy of correction as having a direct effect upon the men who are to earn and wear the decorations.

WHERE THE NAVY LAGS.

[From the Boston Evening Transcript.]

At a time when the army is sparing no effort to attract to its ranks men of education and ability who need only intensified training to qualify for commissions, the navy adheres to its refusal to commission any man under 21 years of age. It is hard to understand persistency in such a policy when we know how short the navy is of officers today, short because the department failed to make timely provision for their training. At Harvard, Yale, and other colleges announcement has been made of the organization of naval units for the training of officers, but few students will make the mistake of joining them in preference to the army training corps, where youth is not a barrier to a commission.

HE STARTED TOO LATE.

[From the Louisville Courier-Journal.]

The kaiser tells the Germans he has made every effort to stop the war. The fellow who yoked himself to the steer made every effort to stop the steer after the steer got under way.

THE REFUGEES.

BY CHARLES N. WHEELER.

[Special Correspondence of The Tribune.]

PARIS, Sept. 20.—It was a pathetic group of refugees, ranging from stooped and feeble grandmothers to little girls. They were working silently, repairing soldiers' socks. These had been worn by American fighting men in France and when it was explained to them that many of the fine wool socks had been knitted by the mothers back in the states they seemed to take a new interest in their work.

For each pair they darned and smoothed out tenderly and mentally blessed they received from the United States war department in France about 4 cents. By close application to their labor even the little children were able to make 2 and 3 francs a day and the older women oftentimes earned as high as 6 and 8 francs. This kept soul and body together comfortably with other aid given them by the Red Cross, under whose direction the little workroom was opened. The Red Cross has many such workrooms now in France and no more interesting or appreciated work is done by this organization in the war swept countries.

This group flocked together quite by accident, like little pools of driftwood that gather in eddies on a broad current—and it was a swollen current of the war sufferers that swept on toward Paris as the Germans battered again at the doors of the French capital at the second crossing of the Marne a few weeks ago. "Big Bertha" was dropping her murderous explosives in the environs of Paris from seventy miles away. The roar of the battle was just behind them always. The muck of war was about them.

They had come from many little villages the Huns had plowed up and then obliterated almost from the landscape. But they had somehow drifted together early on the long and terrible walk toward Paris. They were still together when the capital was reached and they were picked up by the Red Cross representatives.

The stories they told shocked even those used to terrible accounts of what the Hun had done for months and months. One little girl said two old people—husband and wife—could not keep up and they fell by the roadside. Two Germans came along in a few minutes and shot them dead with their revolvers as they rode past.

The husbands, fathers, and brothers of the white faced women and children in this group either were dead or still in the army. Their homes had been blown off the earth. All they had was a little bundle tied up in a pillow case, handkerchief or piece of a table cloth. Some wore wooden shoes. All were bareheaded. Except for a small piece of black bread and a pinch of very hard cheese that had been carefully partitioned out among the group they had had nothing to eat for days.

They slept on the roadside when resting for an hour or two—slept there in that din of a splitting world, with the roar of the roadway vying with the thunder of great guns as the constant stream of heavy camions tore toward the battlefield loaded with boys in khaki and the constant stream of ambulances roared past toward Paris. But they slept for an hour.

There was no time to think of refugees then. It was an anxious hour—a very anxious hour for France and for Paris. The defenders going up and the mutiles coming back engrossed all the attention of those who, under other conditions, would have stopped and given them succor. They simply didn't count in the tremendous hour.

They halted at a roadside ditch or a little pool of water that had not yet seeped away from the thunderstorm of the night before and quenched their thirst.

On the morning of the last day they saw the sun shining on a familiar tower in Paris. They had seen the picture of it on their postcards sent them by friends who had visited the "capital of the world."

They reached the barrier, passed through the gate that leads to the Arc de Triomph—and were rescued by the Red Cross agents. They first were fed, then given medical attention and a change of linen.

Through the coöperation of the American army S. O. S. organization the Red Cross has been able to do an immense amount of splendid work with the women refugees who are able to work. In connection with the big salvage works, where the clothing picked up on the battlefields is renovated, repaired, and sent back for further wear and tear, the Red Cross rescue forces are given a large number of socks to repair. This has enabled them to open workrooms in many places. Other kinds of useful war service labor is performed by the refugees, but this particular group was fitted only for darning socks, it was decided.

The Paris workshops were filled and they were sent on into one of the provinces. Here I saw them one afternoon recently, working away silently, without a word of conversation, all bent over their darning table—remaking the precious socks the mothers of the doughboys had knitted with love after the United States took up humanity's burden along with the allies.

This workroom was a famous spot in France some centuries ago. Balzac described it in "The Curate of Tours." It is a part of the cloister that nestles under the great towers of the ancient cathedral. The venerable age is round about everywhere, and in the high tower the bells are tolling almost incessantly, either the time of day or for vespers or matins.

As I entered the workroom through the cloister the whole group stood up and bowed. My correspondent's uniform marked me as an American. Most of them had recovered their self-possession but several were yet suffering from the terrors they had passed through. There was one young woman who seemed to be not of the peasant class, although she was happy at her darning. She had a beautiful face, an intelligent face, and the needle seemed to flash faster under her deft fingers. She looked up and smiled. The others did not smile, but mingled with the pain on their faces was a soulful outpouring of gratitude.

The woman who smiled, dressed in the plain black garb of the knitting woman, was Marie Eloise Van Steene, the brilliant musician. She had taken the first prize as a violinist at the Conservatoire de Lille. She and her aged father lived in a little village that was swept with the Hun's big guns and spitefully bombarded at night by the Gothas. By one of those strange workings of providence in the turmoil and terror of such times as these in the war zone her aged father, now very feeble from the experiences he went through, was restored to her. Their beautiful home is a dust heap up in the battlefield. They are penniless. But she is supporting him by darning Yankee soldiers' ragged socks—and is happy, apparently.

Many women who lived in luxury and whose families were looked up to by the countryside before the Hun came Paris way with his murdering and rapine can now be found in these workrooms. They are glad to get the work, for all they had in this world is gone and just plain food is the pressing necessity. Because there are so many of these refugees there is no opportunity to make exceptions in any case—and, for that matter, none is asking it be done. All are grateful from the bottom of their hearts to work for their daily bread—and France—and America.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

APPROACHING HEALTH CONGRESS.

SOMEWHERE about 5 per cent of our population has been absorbed into the army, navy, marine, and other services in direct support of these. Ninety-five per cent remain behind to carry on the work of the community, an important part of which is furnishing support for the 5 per cent who protect them.

The 5 per cent represents the cream of the population. In the main they are men between 21 and 31 years of age, chosen as the result of a searching physical examination. Left in the 95 per cent are the women, the old men and the immature youths, the children of both sexes, the lame, crippled, halt, diseased, and afflicted. The quality of the 5 per cent is so high that instead of an expected disease death rate of 6.8 we read of death rates as low as 2.8 for weeks in succession.

To make it possible for the diminished labor supply to produce to meet the increased requirements, it is necessary that sickness rates be decreased and that the workers get into something like the fitness that all soldiers are now in. Probably there are not more than 125,000 physicians in active practice in the country in normal times; 30,000 of the best of these have gone to war; several thousands more will be leaving shortly. The something like 90,000 left behind must take better care of the 95 per cent of the population than the 125,000 did of all the population.

The surgeon general thinks that 5 per cent of the population now made into soldiers needs the services of 25 per cent of the doctors, and whatever the surgeon general thinks the army needs this country is going to supply. But the 75 per cent of the physicians, those left behind, are expected to keep the 95 per cent of the population, those left behind, in better health and physically more trim than was the case before the war. This means that more work must be done in hospitals and less in homes than before. But then hospital staffs are badly crippled. Internes and nurses are scarce, and the cream of the attending and consulting staffs has gone away. More work and better must be done by health departments. No epidemics must be allowed to run unchecked. Somehow we must get out of this influenza epidemic less harmed than we were by that of 1890-'91. But health departments are crippled. Many of their best workers have gone to war. Places are being filled by substitutes. The task set us must be accomplished. How to do it will require consultation by the best and most experienced, the laying of plans, and a thorough understanding of the plans by all those concerned.

The American Public Health association meets in Chicago Oct. 14, 15, 16, and 17 to consider the problems of the health of the civilian population in war time and as a war measure.

One of the subjects discussed will be a plan proposed by Surgeon General Blue of the public health service. This very elaborate plan, comprising some seventeen different activities, proposes to bring the backward communities up to standard.

Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins university will discuss some public health problems and opportunities created by the war. Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of the University of Michigan will talk on the preservation of the health of the civilian population during the war.

Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller foundation, will have as his theme "Team Play for Public Health." The war time importance of narcotic drug addiction will be discussed by Dr. Bishop of New York university. The section on vital statistics will hear a report on "Nine Months of Infant Mortality in the United States During War" by Mr. Crum of the Prudential Life. This and a paper in the section on public health administration, written by Dr. Josephine Baker of the New York City health department, will especially interest those whose problem is keeping the children healthy during the great struggle. A plan for a reduction of the degenerative diseases by Mr. E. B. Fink will appeal especially to the life insurance companies, to say nothing of the middle aged men and women who want to get into the Borrowed Time club.

Housing is to be discussed by Mr. Meeker of the United States labor department, and "Women in Industry" by Dr. Bricker of Harrisburg, Pa. The question of wages in relation to health is to be debated by Assistant Surgeon General Warren, Miss Julia Lathrop, and Mr. Holder, who represents labor. How to get more out of hospitals and dispensaries comes in for discussion by Dr. Davis of Boston, Dr. Mock, formerly of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and now of the United States army, and Dr. Bolt of Cleveland.

The livest subject in public health just now is venereal diseases. Congress has just voted $1,000,000 to be expended in combating these diseases. This is to be spent through state and local boards of health. The various officials want to get counsel as to the best way to spend the newly donated money. Venereal disease will be discussed by Dr. John Dill Robertson, Dr. W. F. Snow, Dr. S. J. Crumbine, and, besides this, a committee on the subject will report.

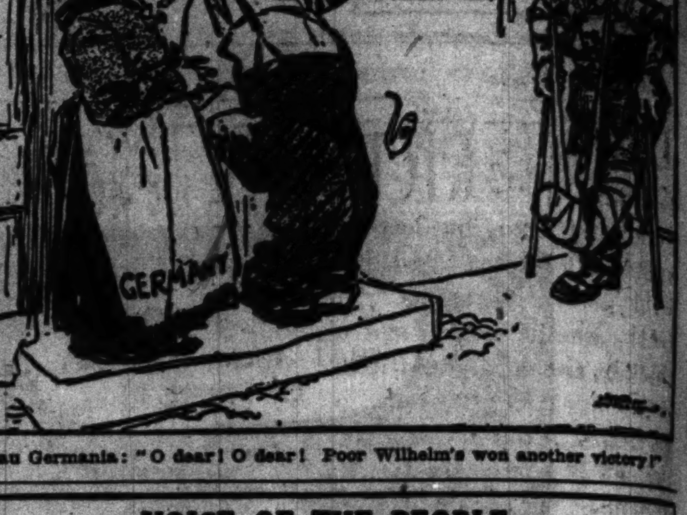
The food and drug sections will discuss the civilians' food one day and the soldiers' food the next. Milk is to be discussed at one session and the price, control of foods, and the shortage of drugs at another. The committee on sanitary engineering will occupy its time by discussing committee reports on street cleaning, refuse collection, water and milk supplies, and sewage disposal.

Coincident with the meeting, the milk standards commission, a body national in that its members are appointed from the various sections of the country; the American Sanitary Engineers, the International Association of Milk and Dairy Inspectors, and perhaps other organizations, are meeting in Chicago. In fact, the meeting is a health congress.

THE CONQUERING HERO

[From London Opinion.]



Frau Germania: "O dear! O dear! Poor Wilhelm's won another victory!"

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

"WHEN WILL THE WAR END?"

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I am not a prophet, neither am I the son of a prophet, but I want to give you and the readers of THE TRIBUNE three predictions that I have made since 1914.

Along about Aug. 1, 1914, when at the Hamilton club, Mr. Benjamin F. Methven came and sat down beside me and asked me what I thought of the war. My reply was that it would be the most inhuman and cruel war that was ever known, but it would result in the greatest good that ever came to man. I told him that the Germans would be defeated, that there would be an international tribunal and an international police force, and last, but not least, general disarmament. My friend Mr. Methven had the politeness to tell me that I was crazy, and within six months from this time the London Times and many papers in our own country published almost word for word my predictions of what settlement would be around the table.

On or about last April 10, when Gen. Haig made his broad statement that the enemy had his back to the wall, a very dear friend of mine made the statement at the Union League club, in the presence of myself and others, that he would not be surprised if the Germans captured Calais, came over to London, took the English navy, came to this country and made us pay $100,000,000,000 indemnity. At that time I felt like taking my friend across my check apron, and I then made the remark that within ninety days we would have the Huns on the run and capture or destroy a quarter of a million of them.

My last prophecy was made about two weeks ago, and it is that Germany will ask for terms from the United States government and will be willing to accept any terms the allies demand. This I predict will be on or before Christmas of this year.

All of these predictions can be verified by members of the Hamilton and Union League clubs of Chicago.

JOHN T. COWLES.

COULD NOT STOP A SHOT.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—On July 28, 1914, the Roman Catholic emperor of Austria-Hungary at Vienna declared war without cause against Serbia and this action was approved by his 50,000,000 Roman Catholic subjects.

On Aug. 4, 1914, at Berlin, the Protestant emperor of Germany invaded Belgium without cause and in this action he was applauded and supported by his 75,000,000 Protestant subjects.

We all know the result, a world war that has lasted more than 1,500 long, weary, sorrow burdened days and nights. And does it not impel men and women who think for themselves to ask why in history so much that was good as left to us by Jesus of Nazareth was changed into so much that is bad by his followers?

Some bitter and unwelcome truths are here set down, but what follows is still more humiliating. More than a million of millions of hostile shots have been fired up to the present time in the word war and all the Roman Catholics in the universe combined with all the Protestants in the universe, well intentioned and well meaning though they are, have not had enough influence to prevent the firing of one shot.

JOHN PURCELL FITZGERALD.

CONVERTS OF THE DEVIL.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The German military leaders and the university professors must be forced to take the same punishment which they have forced on Belgium, Russia, and France, and still intend to force upon the rest of the world.

God fill us with hate for the kaiser and the diabolical German form of government, which is nothing but an institution of hell founded by the devil, the German people being his deluded converts. The perfidious German government must be destroyed, the treacherous German generals must be hanged, and the deceitful German professors must be made slaves for life.

AT QUANTICO WITH "THOSE MARINES": A DOXOLOGY

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

HAVING learned, from Mr. Floyd Gibbons and similarly reliable authorities, that the United State Marines had been of some slight assistance in saving Paris, and had performed other recent feats of civilization, I went to Quantico not long ago to see them in the making.

You may not know that Quantico is an odd Virginia village hard by Washington, something like a frontier mining camp with Old Dominion trimmings and a martial background. Yet, so it is. It nestles, more or less, between a shore of the lower Potomac and some graceful, wooded hills; and there are two or three thousand low-voiced inhabitants who sell soft drinks and tobacco to the members of the U. S. M. C. There is little interesting about the place save its history—of which I know nothing—and the fact that it is a kennel of the Devil Dogs.

To Quantico they send the Marines to be finished, after a period of instruction at Paris Island, S. C., or Mare Island, Cal. They make soldiers of them at these training camps, and then give them a post-graduate course at Quantico to make them supersoldiers. For the Marines have a tradition that it is up to them to win all the wars, and they feel that it is no more than right that they should know how to do so with skill and with celerity.

You have visited an army cantonment, no doubt, and have noted that there are few round shoulders, few crooked legs, few spectacles, few paunches. Almost every item, you may have observed, is physical perfection. You say to yourself, "Here is American manhood in one of its brawniest aspects." Well, when you look the Marines over at Quantico, the "few" is changed to none at all, and you see nothing but slim, bronzed, sinewy, lithe, and alert youth, with "candles back of their eyes," 8,000 or more fighting boys, picked by proud recruiters from the best there is in the land. My family Marine, regarded hitherto as rather a large and nifty lad, I found to be about the average, allowing for a natural prejudice.

I watched them at Quantico from bugle to bugle, marching, charging, bayonetting all the day long and apparently having the time of their young lives. There is a sanguinary chorus of "Thrust! Long point! Short point! In! Out!" proceeding from 4:50 a. m. to 4:50 p. m., the same being the gory outcries uttered by young Marines as they learn to festoon their bayonets with Teutonic intestines. Always there are bands playing, and the noise of heavy artillery, air craft, and rifle and machine gun ranges. For the Marines are "soldiers of the sea, earth, and sky." The spirit visible at the post is similar to that of a college, and the proceedings reminded one of a big university at play. In the squads at bayonet practice were scores of men wearing upon their sweaters the initial symbolic of athletic prestige at school. I recognized among them just a few as they passed—Eddie Mahan and "Torch" Parkman of Harvard, "Red" Jackson of Chicago, Hunter of Yale, Liversedge of California, "Bill" Steers of Oregon; and there were Michigan, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Carlisle, Wisconsin, Cornell, and many other university athletes to be seen.

Here was a son of Grover Cleveland eviscerating with his bayonet the stuffed effigy of a Hun, and there a son of Admiral Cowles and a nephew of Col. Roosevelt. The son of the secretary of the navy is a Marine, and if names counted anything in the corps it might well be termed the patriciate of the service, being small and exclusive. The quiet sergeant who has fought with the Marines from the "pest hole of Cavite to the ditch at Panama," will tell you of Poe of Princeton, who got it early in the war, and of "Johnny" Overton of Yale, who fell at Chateau Thierry, and he will speak of them with as much pride as he will of Sergt. "Bobbie" Burns, who, with both legs gone, at Belleau wood, lamented, as they carried him back, that his one-stepping days were over. "Few die well who die in battle" was not writ of the United States Marines. One of the poetic traditions of the Corps is that a wounded veteran, whether or not he "rates" a salute from his comrades, will be given it, as a tribute to his valor.

Here and there at Quantico are posted startling inscriptions admonishing the Marines to "Kill or Be Killed!" or suggesting that "If You Don't Know, They'll Kill You!" At night they gather in the post "gym," Gen. Doyen and his family in the front row, to sing he-songs under the baton of Gilbert Wilson, a well known operatic baritone. Always they sing the haughty "Hymn of the Marines," with words by Gen. Doyen, and containing the amiable boast that

"If the Army and the Navy
Ever look on Heaven's scenes,
They will find the streets are guarded
By United States Marines!"

While dining at the Y. W. C. A. hospice the other night I witnessed a minor incident which helped me to understand the fine spirit of the Marines. In a corner of the room sat an elderly man and woman who had just said good-by to the infant leatherneck who was their son. They had spent but a few minutes with him, for the young Marines are busy and have little leisure for parents; and the old folks, waiting for their train, looked none too cheerful. The fact that it was dusk diminished their obvious depression not a bit. They were merely two insignificant figures in the pitiable backwater of the war. I was feeling sorry for them when a lady approached them and introduced herself vaguely. "My daughter," I heard her say, "has her car outside, and there isn't any one to ride with her. Wouldn't you like to drive around the camp?" It was a helpful invitation, and it made me happier to see how eagerly it was accepted. I asked a while later the identity of the gracious ladies, and I was told that they were the wife and the daughter of the commanding general.

In "The Man of Destiny" Bernard Shaw quizzically notes the paradox that soldiers are examined for everything save courage. A half truth at all times, the epigram is no truth whatsoever in the case of the Marines. A volunteer outfit of which in history it is said that "it never has retreated," its tradition is that it fights to the finish. Capt. Denby, who after being thrice a congressman from Michigan, enlisted in the Marines as a private soldier, and he wrote for them a great Bible. Sinai's tablets have nothing on this Denby brochure for moral ordinances, and no warrior's oration from Wallace to Napoleon ever contained more manly punch. In it the Marines are told in the vernacular of the he-man that cleanliness and godliness are akin, and that the Marines are chosen by God to be the first to fight for righteousness, and the last. "It can't be done" is one of his suggestions, "so why not do it?"

Therefore the man who enlists in this corps d'elite automatically passes an examination in valor. He knows that he has to be above par. He knows that the Marines are bred in the deep purple. It is impressed upon him that his unit has a glorious history and that "no man within its ranks," to quote Col. McLemore, "has ever tarnished its golden record." He must be brave to be a Marine. When the 8,000 Marines at Quantico were asked to designate the service they most desired 8,000 of them wrote "Overseas." Eight of the sergeants of a regiment which "went out" from Quantico last week resigned commissions in the army to go with the Marines. You can't beat that.

The color of war having become obsolete, the Marine carries war's glamour as far as it can be carried without impeding the ultimate wallop. Imagine the camp at Quantico at 2 o'clock of a moonlit morning and a regiment getting ready to "go out." Reveille stirs the silent valley and soon the regimental streets are full of marching men, with bands playing, flags unfurled, and the regimental hymn sung by thousands of Marines. You may not believe it, but I heard a regiment of departing leathernecks give voice to "Onward, Christian Soldier!" their official hymn, as they marched across the parade ground to their trains. "Boys," said their colonel, "I want you to put two stars on my shoulders, or a shroud." May he have better luck than that ancient prince whose words he paraphrased. He will, since 95 per cent of his men qualify as marksmen or better.

We do not know enough about the Marines. You have heard of the simple lady who wondered why Sainte-Beuve was canonized, and who admitted that there were things in Gulliver's Travels that she could not believe. This community is full of similarly naive men and women who suspect that a Marine is something ornamental upon a ship. He is at times ornamental, and he is, when he is told to be, something upon a ship. His genesis was in England in 1664, when an order in council "forthwith rayzed an admiral's regiment to be in readinesse to fight." "To be in readiness to fight"—that is the gospel of the Marines. The Duke of Marlborough learned war as a subaltern of Marines. In America they began before the revolution, and with John Paul Jones upon the Bonhomme Richard they shed much of their own and British blood. At Derne, in 1805, they first planted the American flag on a fortress of the old world, for which exploit "Tripoli" is inscribed upon their colors. There are now, or soon will be, 75,000 of them, all picked with care. They have fought and died in all of our tiny wars—the proud Cinderella of battle, sitting among the ashes of neglect while their stepsisters, the army and navy, flirted with the fairy prince of fame. It is different now, thanks to fate, courage, an appreciative army and navy, and Floyd Gibbons of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Floyd Gibbons helped to put the Marines where they belong in the war's history, for he was with them in their early exploits and fell in one of their battles. Six thousand out of 8,000 engaged was their toll. They fought with the French through Belleau wood, heartening the brave, tired, discouraged poilus, and after they came out upon the other side the name of the battlefield was changed to the "Wood of the American Marines." Mr. Gibbons says that when Marshal Foch began his great offensive, which in cosmic importance is second only to Creation, he selected the units in which he had most faith. These units were chosen not because they were braver, nor more sacrificial, but because they [illegible]. They were the Foreign Legion of France, two divisions of American regulars, and the United States Marines. Marines, it seems, can write as well as fight. Outside the casualty lists, the literature of the war contains no such simple, graphic narrative as that which Maj. Evans wrote to Gen. Barnett about the Marines at the Marne. A great war document it is, with the Marines' motto, "Always Faithful," writ strong between its lines.

The TRIBUNE'S WEEKLY ALMANACK

OCTOBER

Vale.

LEAVES have fallen from the shag bark hickory, but snap dragons are still yellow on sunny banks; the sumac is a flame of red, but wild asters blossom, still fresh, at the edge of the thicket; the wild goose goes overhead at night, but the garden still has its dahlias; the oak is a burnished mass of bronze, but the helianthus still stands yellow at the roadway.

Goldenrod and the song of the chickadee; vesper sparrows in the fields and the hermit thrush in the brush; the imminence but not the fact of frost; warblers in the viburnum; seed bearing bush a-flutter with migration.

The fullness of life touches the decay of it; the day, which is soft and warm in the life of a southering sun, needs in its night the genial fire of logs; the colors which have been resplendent in the summer live but to fringe the more golden colors of the decay.

Air turns to wine; zest comes with loss; beauty with change. Life knows that the period is rounded out and in that knowledge is vibrant.

SLAMS OF LIFE.

By J. P. McEvoy.

A WASHINGTON, D. C., TRAGEDY.

It was a private soldier
In Washington, D. C.,
Who, dying on the avenue,
This story told to me,
This sad and woeful story,
This narrative of gloom,
That touched upon the circumstance
What led him to his doom.

"I am a simple private,"
He murmured unto me,
"And I am the only private
In Washington, D. C.
The rest are first lieutenants,
With spurs and riding boots,
And all day long they hounded me
To give them some salutes.

"I did the best I could, sir
From early morn till night.
I worked my tired and trusty arm
For every 'lieut' in sight.
But 'lieuts' came fast and faster,
And more and more and more,
But nary another private came
To help me with my chore.

"And now, alas! I'm dying,
I could not stand the pace,
But I must die with one regret:
There's none to take my place——"
His voice grew faint and fainter—
"O God! My arm is sore!
Tell mother—Andrew's done—his—bit
To help win the war."

ART by Eleanor Jewett

Grace and Beauty in Sevres Group by Albert Lefeuvre

By the side of the road they sit,
Raggedy men of brown,
Tanned by the wind and weather,
Grayed by the dust of town.

By the side of the road they sit,
Blowing the pipes that Pan
Blew when he played to the rushes
Before the coming of man.

By the side of the road they sit,
Arab musicians they,
And their music an Arab chorus
In the sun of an Arab day.

THERE is about this group of dark skinned street players an effect of atmosphere nearly as pungent as the reality of a desert mirage. Neither the one nor the other is real. Neither is tangible. A step, a word, too keen a glance, and the fragile shell of clay, with which the imagination has clothed the spirit which the eye acknowledges, is broken. No more is left than a group of china figures, unlovely, unkempt, drab, and dull with the dead dullness of a monotone in brown.

Yet before the spell breaks this statuette in Sevres china brings into the heart of modern things the life that is found over the seas far from the bugles of war, where gracious palms lift their green fronds to a cloudless sky, and date trees overhang the blue spring that bubbles through the yellow sands of the desert. Araby with its spices and its scents lies open.

The group is one of the several beautiful pieces of Sevres china which have recently been given to the Art institute by the government of France. Formerly they made part of the French exhibit at the San Francisco exhibition. That they should be given to the institute is in part, M. Barthelemy, the French consul, says, in recognition of the welcome extended Joffre on his visit here.

The most remarkable in execution is the group by Albert Lefeuvre. China is a difficult medium to work in. Yet the artist has in this case succeeded in portraying gracefully a scene that the element of grace alone saves from the commonplace. A young girl is shown standing relaxed with one hand resting on a sturdy bough cut from a forest tree by the youth who kneels at her feet. On her other arm swings a ribboned garden hat. The man stoops to the cool of a stream and cups the rippling water in the hollow of his hand. So delicate are the lines, so gracious the pose of the figures, that the work is a bit of delight, beautiful in conception and execution, and radiant where the sun strikes against its marble whiteness.

There are various other pieces in the collection. There is one large vase and several smaller ones. There is a coffee set in dark blue and gold. There is a bonbonnière, and a stunning plaque decorated with the green and red coloring of the flaming birds that the tropics alone can boast. The collection is a remarkable gift, and when it is placed on exhibition at the institute none in Chicago should fail to see it.

The unveiling, a little time ago, of the statue of Alexander Hamilton in Grant park marks another step in the progress of the city beautiful plan for Chicago. The statue is one of the last executed by the sculptor, Bela Lyon Pratt, and is a striking example of portraiture in stone. The monument was presented to the city by the trustees of the B. F. Furguson monument fund.

This week promises to be rich in the opening of new exhibits at the Art institute. Five are promised for Tuesday. In a gallery of the new wing hangs now a group of the French war pictures which were purchased at the recent exhibition. There is some little expectation that these will be presented to the institute. It is well that a roof which covers so much of beauty and of undying interest should house, too, these paintings of the greatest struggle the world has ever seen.

A comprehensive account of the life and work of one of our great American artists has come to us. The book is "Frank Duveneck," by Norbert Heermann (Houghton-Mifflin company). In speaking of this painter John Singer Sargent said: "After all is said, Frank Duveneck is the greatest talent of the brush of this generation." The illustrations which accompany the text of his life bear out this praise. Mr. Heermann has given in his account a generous appreciation to the powers and characteristics of the painter. The story of Duveneck's life is told, and the man himself revealed, in the recital of numerous homely anecdotes.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

The Patience of Most Women is Beyond Understanding

A WOMAN will fight the furnace all day in cold weather without being able to get the thermometer near 68, worry because the kiddies all have colds owing to the drafty floors—and yet, worn out in body and in mind, greet friend husband with a cheery smile when he comes home from work.

It isn't fair—even if women don't complain—when every house can be made comfortable with

"Storm Windows and Storm Doors"

Houses protected by storm windows and storm doors require from one-third to one-half less coal. In these days when everyone wants to save the coal needed to win the war, that's a big consideration. If every house were fitted with storm windows and storm doors the fifty million tons that must be saved would not be missed. The saving of coal alone pays for them in one or two seasons.

But more important still—they increase the comfort and healthfulness of your house by eliminating cold floor drafts, by making it possible to keep the house warm in the severest winter weather, and by permitting perfect ventilation at all temperatures.

Your local lumber dealer or building material dealer can give you complete information. See him now and get your house ready for the winter.

The Relation of Your Home to an Extended Account

To mention the enjoyment, comfort and pride in having a beautiful home is needless. We know it is a possession that never loses in value; rather, it increases in sentiment as from year to year we associate our happiness with it. Regardless of its furnishings; whether they are unpretentious or elaborate — it is our home. But constantly the pride we have in our home creates our desire to make it more beautiful. The old rug is replaced by a new one. The ungainly chair in the living room is replaced by one of attractive design, and so changes are made throughout the house until it is more comfortable—more enjoyable. To improve your home does not call for a sacrifice. It can be so arranged by means of an Extended Account that you can pay for your purchase in monthly remittances covering any period that is convenient. No interest is charged, and whatever Spiegel's sell they guarantee. Spiegel's merchandise is good and their price is as low as possible consistent with such quality.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Pulpits to Sound the Clarion Note, Buy Liberty Bonds

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

LIBERTY LOAN Sunday has arrived. Today every pulpit is expected to sound a clarion note in behalf of an immediate, adequate and sacrificial subscription to the one imperative and unescapable obligation resting on all citizens of America, whatever their church, political party, or attitude on other questions of public policy.

Ecclesiastical leaders, Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish, have sent out their indorsement. Coöperating societies and the government have asked for help. The soldiers and sailors have expressed their desires in cartoons and letters and especially by their valor in fighting. Today the question is directly up to the pastors and churches. It is Liberty Loan Sunday by every authority the state and church can give.

Richmond P. Hobson will speak at 8 p. m. at the Englewood Sunday Evening club, Sixty-fourth street and Yale avenue, on "America in War."

The Rev. Dr. James Alexander Jenkins

Dr. Jenkins, pastor of the Warren Avenue Congregational church for the last five years, has decided to remain in his present position notwithstanding an invitation to go to the pastorate of the First Congregational church at Portland, Ore., at an increased salary and with an unusual church equipment offered him.

In order to hold him in Chicago the council of the Warren Avenue church, numbering twenty-six, each signed a statement requesting him to remain. This was read last Sunday morning by the Rev. C. A. Osborne. Col. J. M. Stewart of the Eleventh regiment, I. N. G., of which Dr. Jenkins is chaplain, moved the congregation concur.

Dr. Jenkins is dean of the Union Theological college, 20 North Ashland avenue.

The north district meeting of the Congregational churches will be held Tuesday in the Ravenswood Congregational church, and the south district in the Washington Park Congregational church.

The Eleventh Presbyterian church, Washtenaw avenue and Crystal street, has disbanded, and the building has been taken over by the Emmanuel Hall Hebrew Christian church, of which the Rev. Frank Solin is pastor. It keeps its official connection with the Chicago presbytery. The former members have gone or will go largely to the Bethel Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. W. J. Ohan, who was pastor of the Eleventh street church for over seven years, is pastor. The church fixtures will be given to the Albany Park Presbyterian church, which was organized by the Rev. Mr. Ohan.

Dr. Harry F. Ward, social service secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and professor of sociology in Union Theological seminary, New York, will speak at 2:30 o'clock today at Temple hall, eighteenth floor, Masonic temple, State and Randolph streets, on the subject "Labor and the Social Reconstruction."

Archbishop G. W. Mundelein's appointments for the next three months, as announced by the chancery office of the archdiocese, includes three dedications, a golden jubilee and many confirmation services. On Oct. 27 the golden jubilee of St. Mary's church, Joliet, will be held. On Nov. 10 the school at St. Mel's church, Chicago, will be dedicated. On Nov. 17 St. Raymond's church, and on Dec. 8 St. Patrick's church, both of them in Joliet, will be dedicated.

Bishop W. A. Quayle will speak at 9:30 a. m. today at the Sunday school of the Auburn Park Swedish Methodist Episcopal church, Seventy-eighth street and South Racine avenue. He will preach at 10:30 in the Sheridan Road church, Sunnyside and Hazel avenues, and at 3 o'clock, in the Sheridan Road church, he will speak and ordain deacons and elders.

Hooray for Banana Peel "Gets-It"

Only Real Way to Get Rid of Corns

Which do you prefer—a corn that pulls or a corn that peels? Butchery or blessedness? Only "Gets-It" can get rid of your corn the peel-off way, the blessed way. You don't need a pull. Why hump yourself up on the floor and with your jaws set and eyes popping from pain, jerk and gouge and cut your corns? Why irritate your toes with some salve or wrap your toe into a big painful bundle with some sticky tape or plaster? Life is too short. Use "Gets-It"—it takes a few seconds to apply and there's no fussing. Corn-pains go. Wear new shoes if you want. Peel off the corn with your fingers—the whole thing, root and all, clear and clean, and it's gone! Only "Gets-It" can do this. Take no chances.

"Corns Never Trouble Me, I Use 'Gets-It'"!

"Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

SO EASY TO HEAL YOUR SKIN WITH POSLAM

Don't let those eruptions remain to blemish and annoy any longer than it takes Poslam to heal them. And Poslam is best equipped to do the work because its healing powers are concentrated. Relieves itching at once.

Apply Poslam at night—and leave it on in the daytime, too, when convenient. It acts quickly. You can soon see benefits. Poslam is harmless.

News and Comment of MOTORDOM — Conducted by SHEPPARD BUTLER

Still Folks Argue About Good Roads

THAT there should be opposition to the $60,000,000 bond issue for paved roads in Illinois is incomprehensible to those who understood the measure, and naturally so. One doesn't build a railway by laying a mile of track here and a mile of track there, with a swamp between; nor does one go about erecting a house by putting up the frames of two windows and leaving the matter of a door to an indeterminate future.

Yet that is precisely how we have been building roads in the state—here and there, hit or miss, beginning and ending nowhere. Now we are offered a chance to spend our good roads money according to an intelligent plan. Some one has suggested that we think before we pay, instead of paying first and thinking afterward.

To achieve this measure of common sense, it happens to be necessary, under the laws of Illinois, that the people take the trouble to go to the polls and say "Go ahead." That is precisely all the vote on the $60,000,000 bond issue amounts to. It's like getting possession of a legacy. The lawyer is perfectly willing to turn it over, but you must go to his office and sign the papers.

Enter the Crepe Hanger.

So the good roads men have found it a bit disconcerting to discover, in some parts of the state, a well defined feeling of doubt. Curiously enough, it has turned up here and there among automobile owners—the very ones who get the first benefits of paved highways.

"The government," they have been heard to say, "may tax motor vehicles so heavily that a lot of us will have to stop using them. If that happens, how are you going to be sure that there'll be automobile fees enough to retire all these bonds?"

Of course, the answer is perfectly plain. There is not the remotest connection between federal taxes and the $60,000,000 bond issue.

Whatever the government has done, or may do, to motoring is for war purposes and for the duration of the war only. And the pledge of the state has been given by Gov. Lowden that not a single road bond will be issued, nor any of the work begun, until after peace is declared.

There are enough automobiles in Illinois right now to retire a $60,000,000 bond issue under the plan provided. After the war the number will increase by leaps and bounds. Every one is agreed to that. Even British and French manufacturers are preparing for the greatest trade boom in their history.

The point seems to be that there still remain some voters to whom the bond issue has not been fully explained. The good roads campaigners must keep busy.

Postoffice Money for Roads?

Speaking of highways, the fourth assistant postmaster general has made a remarkable proposal to congress.

Under his direction, motor truck routes for the transportation of mail between cities is going forward rapidly east of the Mississippi, and already a huge territory has been covered. This is not a wartime measure, but part of the permanent policy of the department.

Now congress is asked to authorize the expenditure of half the trucks' gross earnings for the construction and maintenance of the roads used by the service. That would open up an entirely new source of road building revenue.

Mr. Blacklee estimates that each truck can be counted on to earn an average of at least $40,000 a year, and that 1,000 of them would yield approximately $30,000,000 annually to such a road fund. It is planned to build permanent highways of concrete or brick at a cost of about $20,000 a mile.

Incidentally the department offers the same argument for its proposal as is urged by proponents of the $60,000,000 bond issue in Illinois—that it will be extremely valuable as a national policy for the employment of thousands of returning soldiers, who will thoroughly appreciate the value of permanent highways as exemplified in France, and who can understand the military value of such roads as it is planned to construct.

More Motor Freight.

Another interurban motor freight line has been launched in the Chicago territory—this time under the guidance of George N. Lamb, formerly superintendent of highways in Kane county, who will officiate as general manager.

Regular service, leaving Chicago twice a day, has been inaugurated to Elmhurst, Villa Park, Lombard, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Winfield and West Chicago. Later on there will be deliveries to Batavia, Aurora and other points within a 100 mile radius of Chicago.

Motor truck freight service also has been established between Milwaukee and Chicago. Four trucks, each of three ton capacity, are being operated over the ninety mile route. During the first few days of the operation of the new service no difficulty has been encountered in getting capacity loads, going and returning.

Canada, Too.

Canada has been emulating the United States to a considerable extent in the matter of observing gasolineless Sundays. Shortly after the request went out on this side of the border, the Automobile Club of Canada issued a general appeal to motorists to observe the spirit of the idea and asked garages, service stations, etc., to close, even though they were not compelled to.

Filling stations throughout Canada owned by the Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., have been closed every Sunday as part of the plan to discourage Sunday driving.

Horrors of War.

It's to be a bad winter, mates. The war industries board has ordered that no more of these electrical contraptions be manufactured while we're at war:

Carburetor heaters, hand wheel heaters, intake heaters, manifold heaters, primer heaters, cigar lighters, varnish sprayers, and automobile foot warmers.

IT'S 20,000 MILES FROM BOSTON TO CHICAGO; THEY CAN PROVE IT

Miss Mabel L. Bishop — Miss Florence M. Pettee

IF you have any lingering doubts as to the ability of women to go touring and take care of themselves and the car consider the case of Miss Florence M. Pettee and Miss Mabel L. Bishop. The two are finishing up a little jaunt about the United States in the course of which they have covered thus far some 20,000 miles of roads, good, bad, and indifferent. They arrived in Chicago last week on the last leg—beg pardon, limb—of their return trip to their home near Boston.

Having seen Europe in somewhat the same fashion before the war, Miss Pettee and Miss Bishop started out sixteen months ago to see what their own country had to offer. From Boston they drove diagonally across the continent to Los Angeles, stopping on the way to investigate Colorado and visit the Mexican border. Then up the coast to Seattle, back and forth among all the national parks—they were the first women permitted to drive in Mount Rainier park—and back through the northern states to Chicago.

They drive a diminutive Overland roadster and pride themselves on looking as little like long distance tourists as possible. All their baggage, including a typewriter, goes into the compartment at the back, out of sight. On the running board they have a complete workshop, contained in a box no larger than that which frequently houses one's battery.

"We followed the National Old Trails route for the most part going west," said Miss Pettee. "That is by far the best of our transcontinental highways. The second best—and you may be surprised to hear this—is the National Parks highway, the northern route from the coast to Chicago. People don't travel it as much as the Lincoln highway, but the road conditions are much more dependable.

"The coast route from Los Angeles up to Seattle was poor, but it's going to be greatly improved.

"The parks were an adventure. We approached Yellowstone over corduroy roads that they've let get out of repair. Here and there you just drop. Inside the park the hotels have not been open this year and they have taken the soldiers away. The bears can't get the food they are accustomed to at the hotels and are cross. The result has been some bad experiences.

"For sheer, stupendous wonder I think Mount Rainier park surpasses anything here or abroad. And there's the grand new Paradise camp for motorists at the foot of the glacier, where you can hire a tent, a camp stove, and almost anything you want. It's most satisfactory, and everything is very reasonable.

"O, yes, I'm going to write a book—maybe several. And I've had a good many articles published already in the motoring magazines. The only record we have tried to make is that of doing the thing thoroughly. We think we know something about touring now, but I don't know. One can always learn something. For instance, what's the best way to get to Detroit?"

The Experts Say---

HERE is a simple recipe for obviating the obscuring of the windshield glass by moisture in the fall days that are upon us. Rub the glass all over with strong soapsuds made from automobile soap and permit the suds to dry. This prevents the formation of the small globules that hinder clear vision through the glass in rain or mist.

Commutator Lubrication.

Grease never should be used for commutator or timer lubrication. Cylinder oil is the proper lubricant for this part and it should be used only sparingly. This applies to all commutators or ignition distributors. When grease is used here it frequently serves to prevent the commutator arm from making contact.

For the Emergency.

A self-contained electric hand lamp of the kind that is commonly carried by watchmen is invaluable in emergencies about the motor car. If the lighting system fails entirely when the car is on the road at night, trouble lamp and all else are gone together. Unless there is a light with a separate source of supply on the car the driver must work in the dark or by matches. Long distance motorists make a practice of carrying an oil lantern for just this reason.

Rubber Mallets.

The car owner who does much work around his vehicle should certainly have one of the rubber mallets that are designated to permit hammering of polished surfaces without ruining the finish. For smoothing out dents in the fenders or similar disfigurements these mallets are invaluable. In an emergency the head of an ordinary hammer may be covered with several thicknesses of old rubber to serve this purpose.

Motor Matters Here and There

A SORT of peripatetic discussion, or series of discussions, on the problems of motor truck operation is being conducted by the body organized recently as the truck owners' conference, with headquarters in Chicago. Members of the executive staff are touring the country, pausing here and there in the larger cities to call the truck owners together—bringing conventions to them, as it were, instead of inviting them to a single convention.

Detroit had the first gathering the other day, with addresses by Mayor Marx, William Metzger, chairman of the Michigan highways transport committee; Lieut. Col. Barrett Andrews of the United States motor transport division, and other notables. Buffalo is next on the list, with a conference scheduled for this week, and seventeen more meetings have been arranged in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and other cities.

To whom it may concern, if it concerns anybody, the information is vouchsafed that Miss Margery Maxwell of the Chicago Opera company is helping Mr. McAdoo by staying off the trains and driving from place to place in a National to fill her Chautauqua dates. Miss Anita King of the movies, bound from Los Angeles to Washington to help the Liberty loan, is likewise traveling by motor, with the name of a tire firm blazoned on her car. Such are the uses of publicity.

The Reo factory at Lansing, Mich., is equipping and preparing a schoolroom and workshop for an apprentice course which has been a winter event at the plant for several years. Thus far there have been twenty-six applicants. The apprentices sign up for three years and are given a thorough training in the manufacture of cars and trucks.

Women drivers of the Red Cross motor corps at Newark, N. J., are attending a series of twelve lectures on automobile construction and operation in the building of the local Dodge Bros. distributors. A Dodge stripped chassis is used and a certificate of ability is issued at the end of the course.

C. P. Kimball, president of the automobile body and coach building concern which bears his name, has become identified with the affairs of the Great Lakes Tire Service, Inc. He will serve as president and a director of the company.

Fifty tire salesmen of the Firestone Chicago branch have been sent out as "truck conservers," instructed to carry on a deliberate campaign among truck owners in the matter of saving tires so they won't have to buy so many new ones. Seventy per cent of the Firestone manufacturing facilities are now being devoted to truck tires in an effort to meet the enormously increased demand.

90 Per Cent Wasted.

The unmined supply of petroleum now available in the United States is only about seventy barrels for each person, a bulletin issued by the Smithsonian institution points out in urging the necessity for conservation in the use of oil and gasoline. The bulletin is based on an exhaustive survey of the oil resources of the nation and says that under present conditions of mining a notoriously high percentage of waste is involved, amounting, according to conservative estimates, to nearly 90 per cent of the total resource value.

Did You Ever Notice—

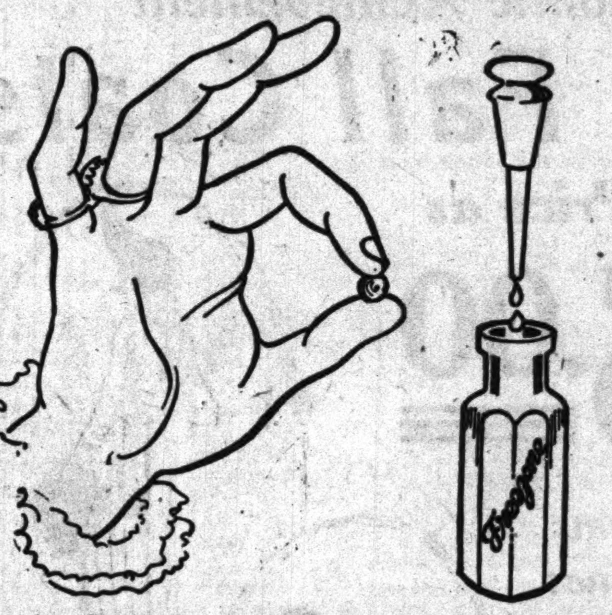
The man who gets by with his infraction of the traffic rules and thinks it's a good joke? Well, some day he will run into a tight squeeze and the insurance company will have to investigate.

The lady driver who removes her hands from the wheel to powder her nose; car moving at a good clip at that? In case of an accident who had the right of way? There is one only who knows all things.

The fellow who runs over the white line at the cross walks, and while waiting for the traffic officer's signal delights in scaring women and children by gradually crawling up on them? Some day some bold, bad man will land on his jaw, regardless of law and order.—Detroit Motor News.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

With the fingers! No pain at all! Drop a little "Freezone" on a sore, tender corn or a callus. Instantly that corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without pain, soreness or irritation. Yes, magic!



Why wait! Costs only a few cents! Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes and painful calluses on bottom of feet just loosen and fall off. Truly! You feel no pain when applying Freezone or afterward.

THE WHITE COMPANY
Announces
A Double Reduction Gear Drive
In Its Heavy Duty Trucks

Having all the flexibility and leverage of chain drive at its best. The superior leverage of a chain and sprocket, in applying power near the wheel rim by a rolling contact, is obtained in the Double Reduction axle by gears enclosed in the wheels and running in oil.

This is not an Internal Gear Drive with two axles. It is a Centre Gear Drive with power transmitted through gears on each end of a single axle. The entire load is borne by a compact housing. The axle shafts are carried in sleeves within the housing and are free to propel the truck without supporting any weight.

The twisting and jolting of uneven roads cannot cramp the driving mechanism. Wedging of gears is impossible.

THE DOUBLE REDUCTION PRINCIPLE

has been a large factor in the efficiency of White 1½—2-ton trucks, so widely used in both commercial and military service. It has long been an engineering problem to adapt it to shaft-driven, heavy-duty trucks. This has now been accomplished without adding a single pound to the unsprung weight.

The chassis is clean cut. The rear axle housing is so compact it affords practically the road clearance of a straight axle. The tread is narrower. All parts are easily accessible. Moving parts are so simple and so rugged, dust protected and immersed in oil, that they are proof against rough usage. So frictionless is the whole driving system that the truck's coasting radius has been greatly extended.

White performance has been raised to a new level of efficiency. White operating cost has been lowered to a new level of economy, by a driving system which requires no adjusting whatever and will outwear the truck itself.

The new trucks have been in active service for several months. Deliveries will be made as soon as production in the factory overtakes urgent military needs.

No Compliments Here for Illinois

IF anybody should ask you which state has the best roads, what would your answer be? According to R. A. Woodall of the Automobile Blue Book, Massachusetts is in the lead with the finest system of highways in the United States, which is quite a distinction nowadays when roads are generally deteriorating and war requirements will not permit of their reconstruction.

Mr. Woodall has compiled his table after an exhaustive study of state highway reports and data furnished by Blue Book scouts, who in gathering matter for the touring books are in a pretty fair position to know whereof they speak. The first ten states picked by Mr. Woodall are Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maryland, California, Colorado, and Ohio. Indiana, which has the best roads in this section of the country, comes eleventh, while Illinois is placed twentieth.

1—Massachusetts.
2—New York.
3—Connecticut.
4—Vermont.
5—Rhode Island.
6—New Hampshire.
7—Maryland.
8—California.
9—Colorado.
10—Ohio.
11—Indiana.
12—Pennsylvania.
13—Delaware.
14—New Jersey.
15—Wisconsin.
16—Minnesota.
17—Michigan.
18—Maine.
19—Kentucky.
20—Illinois.
21—Iowa.
22—Florida.
23—North Carolina.
24—Virginia.
25 Alabama.
26—Oregon.
27—Washington.
28—Missouri.
29—Georgia.
30—South Carolina.

The placing of Indiana in eleventh position may cause some surprise in view of the fact that in January, 1917, government highway statistics showed the Hoosier state to be in second place. However, the selections made by the Blue Book man have been based on the comfort to be derived by motor tourists in driving over the roads, regardless of the type of road construction. The government report referred to was based on surfaced roads.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS by HIGH SPEED

Please publish in the department of questions and answers as soon as possible the most advisable route to follow in driving a car from Chicago to Tampa, Fla. Is the route well marked, and will I have a fine road all the way to my destination? Is there any guide book that contains complete directions?

TOURIST, Chicago.

The Dixie highway should be followed for the greater portion of the distance. First drive to Indianapolis by way of Hammond, Dyer, Brunswick, Lowell, Schneider, Morocco, Ade, Goodland, Wolcott, Lafayette, Frankfort, and Lebanon. Then pick up the Dixie highway and go through Seymour, Salem, Louisville, Cave City, Bowling Green, and Nashville to Murfreesboro. From here to Chattanooga the Dixie highway is in an almost impassable condition, therefore it will be necessary for you to detour. This may be done by taking one of two routes, with little to choose between them. One route goes through Murfreesboro, McMinnville, Spencer, Pikeville, and Dayton to Chattanooga, where the Dixie highway is again picked up and followed through Calhoun to Atlanta and thence on. The other route goes through Murfreesboro, Huntsville, Boaz, Gadsden, and Rome to Atlanta. From Atlanta the Dixie highway runs through Griffin, Macon, Perry, Tifton, Valdosta, Lake City, Gainesville, and Ocala to Tampa, a total distance of 1,360 miles. You will find the roads rough in many places, but the average is pretty fair. The route is poorly marked and it will be necessary for you to make frequent and careful inquiries along the way. You will find this route described in detail in volume 8, Automobile Blue book.

Will you kindly publish, naming the principal places passed through, the best route between Yorkville, Ill., and Columbus, O.; also the route from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va.?

T. H. ATHERTON, Yorkville, Ill.

Go through Plainfield to Joliet and then follow the Lincoln highway through Valparaiso, Laporte, South Bend, Elkhart, Goshen, Ligonier, Fort Wayne, Van Wert, and Lima to Marion, from which point go south through Delaware to Columbus. In going from Columbus on pass through Circleville, Chillicothe, Richmond, Dale, Jackson, Centerville, Gallipolis, Pliny, Buffalo, Plymouth, and Fry, to Charleston.

ACHES AND PAINS QUICKLY RELIEVED

You'll find Sloan's Liniment softens the severe rheumatic ache

Put it on freely. Don't rub it in. Just let it penetrate naturally. What a sense of soothing relief soon follows!

External aches, stiffness, soreness, cramped muscles, strained sinews, back "cricks"—those ailments can't fight off the relieving qualities of Sloan's Liniment. Clean, convenient, economical. Ask any druggist for it. 30c, 60c, $1.00.

Sloan's Liniment Kills Pain

How to Rid the Skin of Objectionable Hairs
(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered Delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real Delatone.—Advertisement.

WANTED—MALE HELP.
Employment Agencies.

SELECTING MEN
Is one of the biggest problems in the country today; we mean selecting the right men for the right jobs.

Thousands upon thousands of men are anxious to do their bit, but they want to do it where they can do it to the greatest advantage for Uncle Sam and at the same time not be marking time but be making some progress for themselves.

When you know that we have specialized in this direction and are thoroughly familiar with labor conditions all over the country, plus the fact that we make no charge for an interview, have experts in every department to guide you, make suggestions and recommendations, who are in touch with employers all over the United States, we cannot understand why you hesitate another minute.

Here are a few of the sample openings listed in our order box. We have hundreds of others too numerous to mention in the space allotted. Nevertheless we can fit you into the right groove.

Factory Manager	$8,000-$12,000
Merchandise Manager	$8,000-$12,000
Purchasing Agent	$5,000
Sales Manager	$6,000-$7,000
2 Office Managers and General Accountants	$5,000-$7,500
20 Bookkeepers	$1,200-$1,800
10 Cost Clerks	$1,000-$1,500
8 Shipping Clerks	$1,200-$1,300
7 Stenographers	$1,200-$1,500
20 Salesmen, Straight salary and expenses	$1,200-$2,000
2 Efficiency Engineers	$2,400
10 Chemists	$1,200-$1,800
3 Timestudy Men	$1,800-$2,400
General Works Manager	$7,500-$12,000
6 Foremen	$1,800-$2,100
Mill Room Superintendent	$6,000

400 other openings of all kinds imaginable for Auditors, Accountants, Bookkeepers, Credit Men, Cashiers, Salesmen, Miscellaneous Executives, General Clerical Help of all kinds and all kinds of Technical help.

We are getting calls from all over the country from essential lines, big industries, where the future is secondary; you can absolutely make good if you have the qualifications. There is no age limit, there is no bar anywhere. Just a question of your persistency, perseverance and if you are a go-getter. If you have any of these qualifications, report to us immediately and have a confidential chat with one of our placing men.

Canada.

FOR SALE—THE MOST REMARKABLE OPPORTUNITY IN ALL OF CANADA—
THE "GRAINLANDS LIMITED FARM."
IN THE PROVINCE OF SASKATCHEWAN.

There are 7½ sections, 4,761.30 acres, besides 183.90 acres of lakes, meadows, etc., to be used with the property. The land is practically in one block. It lies N. W. of Wilkie, from 2 to 7 miles, and near other villages, all on the Canadian Pacific R. R. and close to everything desired for carrying it on; 90% is level, and easily cultivated. There are extensive buildings of every description, including houses, shops, granaries, stables, etc., all in good repair, and well painted. There are two substantial lakes. The soil is chocolate loam. It is free from alkali; prairie grass grows 2 ft. high and cuts 2 tons per acre. There are 723 acres of small timber. There is every kind of farm machinery, including tractors, plows, drills, wagons, all in great number, pumps, tanks, forks and other tools. The water supply is excellent, several wells. The stock comprises 50 horses, averaging 1,400 lbs., 10 mares, 25 head of cattle, including milk cows, poultry, etc. There is an ample supply of seed grain and feed. The roads are good. There is a rural telephone. The taxes are low, 14.4 cents per acre, government hail insurance. The farm is not surpassed, and will produce 100,000 bushels grain per year. The price is $250,000, and suitable terms can be arranged. The farm is offered, if desired, without the grain supply. We have separate contracts on each quarter section. Will sell this property on liberal terms and might consider strictly A1 city income property in part payment.

Write for further details and full typewritten description, and arrange for interview, or to see it, to

THORPE BROS., LAND DEPARTMENT,

WHEAT!

This is the most favorable time to buy wheat land in the Northwest and the Davidson District is the most favorable place. The high price for wheat, oats, and barley is having its effect on land values, and when we market our 1918 crop, which promises to be a bumper, land prices are going to jump.

Our proposition is ideal for actual settlers, but nonresidents can own a farm under our plan and we will look after your farming interests. People of moderate means can get a start toward independence. You know that the farmer is getting high prices for everything, and you can increase your income materially by farming yourself.

Don't kick about high prices for food. Get busy and produce some yourself. A card will bring, by mail, full information with a book of fine views of farming in Western Canada.

Louisiana.

FOR SALE—I HAVE CAREFULLY SELECTed and platted, under expert advice, from the fine cutover lands along our lines in La. and Miss., a number of farms, large and small livestock ranches, ranches specially selected with reference to breeding, herding, and feeding grounds, farm lands, and pasturage, water and shipping facilities.

The lumber companies are loyally co-operating by concessions in low prices and long terms, payments distributed over long period, scarcely exceeding the interest on purchase and reasonable rental on the lands and yet title is given on completion of payments.

The U. S. Railroad Administration instructs us to give out dependable information to voluntary inquirers and if you desire the results of shipments of thousands of sheep and cattle from the West and Southwest into this green grass country and the report of the National Wool Growers' Assn. on these lands will furnish same on request. LIBERTY LANDS

BUYING LIBERTY BONDS safeguards our freedom and independence. The great fight for democracy is on and each must do his part.

AFTER THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN is raised, let us turn to "Liberty Lands." You can aid to win the war by helping to feed our great army, and reap profits as a food producer. High prices of food have made farming a very profitable part of our war industries, and as important as any because our soldiers, sailors and munition workers must depend upon the farmer.

40,000 ACRES OF "LIBERTY LANDS" in Antrim and Kalkaska counties, Michigan, have recently been cleared of big forests of sugar maple, beech, elm and hemlock. They will produce excellent crops of clover, alfalfa, potatoes, beans, rye, oats, wheat, corn, vegetables of all kinds, berries, fruit, etc., and are well adapted to stock and poultry. These lands are waiting for you to make them yield the much needed foodstuffs.

THE PLAN of purchase meets your circumstances, whether you have large capital or small. You have the privilege of buying 10, 20, 40, 60, 80 acres or more with a small down payment and long time on the balance. The lands are now selling for only $15 to $30 per acre. Many purchasers will move on their lands next spring, and a great many more as soon as peace comes.

MODERATED CLIMATE, purest water and bracing air make this one of the most healthful locations in America. Rivers, lakes, woods, brooks make it a fine place to live. The lands are near good towns, railroads, schools and churches, have good roads and are in good neighborhoods.

ASK US to mail you a large well illustrated book telling all about the lands, and then come with us on a week end excursion and see for yourself. Ask for rates and dates. Offices open every week day, Monday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Wisconsin.

Wisconsin

EXHIBIT.

October 6th to 18th inclusive. Every one interested in farm lands should see this fine exhibit from the rich loam clover belt of Wisconsin, where farm lands are still cheap and can be bought on easy terms.

A number of land owners will be present to explain their different plans, prices, and terms to settlers. Booklets, state soil maps, pictures, and county maps will be given free to callers. List will be furnished of improved farms and large sheep and cattle ranches, a number of them complete with stock and machinery. Also poultry farms and tiled garden land specially adapted to garden and truck farms. Lake and river front farms and summer resorts located on some of the most beautiful lakes in the state, sold at low prices and most reasonable terms. Business opportunities in new towns will be explained. A NEW MADE TO ORDER FARM PROPOSITION, no payment down for five years, will be explained. Also large tracts for colonization purposes. Exhibits will be opened day and night. If unable to call in person, address UPPER WISCONSIN EXHIBIT, Windsor Clifton Hotel, Chicago, for information. Phone Central 4500.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Wisconsin.

GO NOW

To see our farms in the fertile clover belt of north central Wisconsin. Pick out your farm for next spring. No interest charged until actual possession is taken.

Most critics agree that after the war is over and our boys "come home," there will be a tremendous increase in farm values. The increase will be greater in land now selling from $40 to $75 an acre than in higher priced land. These farms have productive soil, house and barn, on good roads, close to school, church and market, in thriving, substantial communities.

We give 10 years to pay. We have farms with and without stock. We sometimes accept desirable property in part payment. RAILROAD FARE REFUNDED TO BUYERS.

A RE-NEWED

CADILLAC "8"

GIVES YOU THE UTMOST STYLE, SERVICE, VALUE.

Many of the handsomest, quietest running Cadillacs you see on the street are Renewed Cadillacs. Note the perfect fitting Pantasote tops [factory standard], the beautiful gray, tan, blue and maroon color bodies, specially painted by us. You can't tell such cars from new. Every Renewed Cadillac has been taken apart, minutely inspected, worn parts replaced by new where necessary, reassembled, adjusted, tested, and proved as good as new. And we give service on a Renewed Cadillac. When you get such a car at several hundred dollars less than the original price you are getting a real bargain with which no "used" car can be compared.
